Employment News

By J. R. STAVELEY
Employment Relations Officer

The employment trend for the first three weeks of May of this year shows a much stronger demand for the male worker than for the female seeking employment. This distribution of the local labor demand is similar to the trend shown in May, 1965. Another significant fact is that no one local industry dominated the labor market demand. The employment vacancies covered a wide range of economic activities including the industrial plants, construction, agriculture and the services fields. However, the labor demand from the transportation field was particularly good.

At this time of the year, no doubt many of the community tourist resort operators and other businessmen concerned with the tourist trade are seriously thinking about the annual problem of obtaining the necessary suitable staff during the fast approaching season. Every year, more and more employers are finding that by listing their labor requirements with the National Employment Service, this problem of securing competent help can be greatly alleviated. Any resort operator or person in a business affected in a similar manner by the tourist trade who has such labor requirements can list coming staff requirements with the local National Employment Office, by a phone call, a visit, or in writing. The National Employment Office has qualified workers registered for the various jobs in resorts. In addition there are university and high school students seeking temporary or seasonal employment during their summer vacation.

The National Employment office will refer suitable applicants to the place of business for an interview, or, make arrangements for prospective employers to interview applicants in private, in the office boardroom.

JOBS OPEN

The following job opportunities are a few of those now listed at the local NES office.

In the female division local, pleasant work is available for women interested in retail sales on a part-time basis. Experience is preferred but is not essential in some cases.

Opportunities are available for qualified clerk-typists. There is an urgent requirement for personable, well-groomed women to be trained, if not experienced, as waitresses for licensed dining rooms. The applicants must be at least 21 years of age.

Similar openings are available as restaurant waitresses. Other, available local positions call for short order cooks, housekeepers, companions and baby sitters.

A few of the attractive outof-area employment opportunities are as follows: An experienced secretary of administrative calibre, with good shorthand and typing speed is required in British Columbia. In this case, the applicant must be bilingual in English and French. A starting monthly salary of $450 will be offered to the successful applicant. An experienced posting machine operator and also a qualified secretary are required by a well known mining company located in Northern Manitoba. In both cases, living facilities are provided free of charge. The wages offered are attractive, with other fringe benefits.

An architect in Northern Ontario requires an experienced drafting clerk. An hourly wage of $2 and up will be offered to the successful applicant.

JOBS FOR MEN

In the male division locally there is still required a qualified aircraft electrician. This is directed particularly to ex-RCAF men in the area, who may have been engaged in this trade during their service.

Openings exist in the accounting field and young men with high school and business college background are offered junior positions in which on-the-job training and experience are promised. The jobs cover auditing, cost and general accounting.

Banking houses have continuing interest in satisfying their demands for staff. Young men with drive, intelligence and the aptitude for the retail field.

Queen's Park Backs Cobourg Suspension

COBOURG (CP) — A spokesman for the education department Friday supported the decision of Charles A. Hagen, principal of the Cobourg district collegiate institute, in suspending a student for failing to eat his lunches at school.

W. G. Chatterton, assistant superintendent in the department's supervision division, said any student who opposes the school's authority may be suspended.

John West, 15, was suspended because he took a three-minute walk home to eat his lunch when the school demanded he remain on its premises.

Mr. Hagen says the boy may return to classes and write examinations as soon as he agrees to eat his lunches at school.

George West, the boy's father, said he will seek legal advice to see if he can force the school board to accept his son without having to comply with the eating regulation.

Public School Attendance Increases by 90

NAPANEE—At the May meeting of the Napanee Public School Board, Principal Gordon Fresque reported that on the last school day in April attendance at the Prince Charles School had been 880 and at Eastview School, 58, a total of 910. Last year the figures were 750 for Prince Charles and 61 for Eastview, a total of 820. Increase for the year is 90.

The management committee reported that Russell H. Gormley had resigned, and that Miss Lewis will take his place in September.

Cecil Baker, chairman of the property committee, reported that floodlights had been installed outside Prince Charles School to discourage vagrants. Crushed stone had been spread at the back of the school in the yard because of the mud.

Principal Fresque told the Board that school photographs had been taken the previous week, and that registration for kindergarten pupils was now under way.

Each year grade eight pupils spend a day in Ottawa, transported by bus. The visit this year has been arranged for June 2, Mr. Fresque stated.

The Board members accepted, with regret, the resignation of Dr. Myron Mills, who has left Napanee. A replacement will be appointed at the next meeting.

Chairman of the board is James Madden, with Cecil Baker as vice-chairman. The other members are John Munro, Harry Taylor and Forman Martin. Ralph Bell is secretary.

Horticultural Society Holds Plant Sale

NAPANEE — In spite of the bad weather Wednesday night, there was a surprising good attendance at the meeting of the Horticultural Society in the Memorial Building.

The plant sale may have increased the attendance, although the day had been rainy, members had managed to get out a nice variety to bring to the meeting, everything from boxed annuals and tomatoes, to Sweet William and rhubarb roots. Orders were taken and will be filled by members who have a surplus of the desired variety.

From its reorganization 13 years ago, the Napanee Horticultural Society has conducted its plant sales as a means of making town gardens more beautiful.

Two sets of slides were shown, with comment, by Lynn Crossman. One group of 50 explained lawn making and maintenance, and the second group dealt with the use of shrubs in landscaping. Pictures of actual homes and the planting were used as examples of shrubs suitable in the particular type of house.

The society is helping with the landscaping at the hospital, and Mr. Crossman brought the members up to date on the progress.

Jaycees Plan Victoria Day Celebrations

NAPANEE — Everything is arranged for the Jaycees' all-out celebration of Victoria Day Monday, complete with parade, entertainment at the fairground and fireworks. If the weather is favorable there will be an exhibition of sky diving between eight and nine that evening. President Ernest Leaver, and Jaycees' Jim Elliott and Wayne McLean are in Hamilton for the weekend convention of all units of Ontario of Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The next big event planned by the president's ball May 28. Word has just been received that the armory has been made available to the Jaycees for this event.

Rotarians Given Outline For Centennial

NAPANEE — The Rotarians last night accepted to be entertained by Miss Patricia Kaye at their luncheon meeting Tuesday and a number of wives had joined their husbands to enjoy the program.

However, Miss Kaye could not come, and Ronald Macpherson was called upon to describe what progress had been made in the Centennial plans. Mr. MacPherson is over-all chairman of the project. He gave a descriptive outline of some of the ideas that had been brought forward, emphasizing the fact that nothing was definite yet.

Final preparations were made for Ladies' Night, June 4. Widows of former members are being invited, and it is estimated that at least 100 will be present at the dinner at the Napanee Golf and Country Club. Entertainers will be there from Ottawa.

Report Given On Hospital Landscaping

NAPANEE — Landscaping of the hospital grounds is more or less marking time because of the delay in paving the driveways and parking lot. The construction company will move in next week and the actual work of landscaping can be carried out.

Plans made by Russell Greenlees, secretary of the Horticultural Society, are being used. Landscaping is the responsibility of the beautification committee, whose chairman is Col. H. L. Armstrong. Lynn Crossman, another member of that committee is also first vice-president of the Horticultural Society, and is enlisting the support of its members.

Part of the 17 acres of the hospital farm will be sodded, and the rest seeded. A number of trees are already in the ground and more are ready for planting.

Mr. Crossman made a full report of the progress and plans of the landscaping at the meeting of the Horticultural Society Wednesday evening.

Radioactivity Threatens Alaska Eskimos

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Natural fallout may be posing another health risk to Alaska Eskimos already subject to unusual radioactivity from nuclear bomb-test fallout, it was reported today.

Natural fallout consists of radioactive materials normally present in the atmosphere, notably radioactive lead and polonium.

Unusually high concentrations of these materials have been found in caribou on which many Alaskan natives depend for a large portion of their diet, said two scientists employed by a contractor of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission.

This radioactivity results, they indicated, from high concentrations of these same materials found in Alaska's lichen plants on which caribou and reindeer feed.

It's the same pattern of events previously reported concerning unusually high concentrations of radioactive cesium-137—one of the most-feared components of nuclear bomb-test fallout—found in the food and bodies of some of the Eskimos living on Alaska's west coast.

Researchers Thomas Beasley and Harvey Palmer of the Pacific Northwest Laboratory at Richland, Wash.,—operated for the AEC by the Battelle Memorial Institute — told about the new findings in a report in the technical journal Science.

Give New Hope

Canadian Soldiers in Cyprus Friends of Disabled Children

By DON LABLANC

Left paralysed from the waist down by polio, he is among some 30 patients in a Red Cross Hospital for Sick Children near this Greek-Cypriot town who have won the hearts of Canadian soldiers serving with the United Nations peace-keeping force on Cyprus.

Eight of the children have had polio and all 30 are disabled. Although in a Greek sector of the strife-torn island, five of the youngsters and half the hospital's 12-member staff is Turkish.

Men of the various battalions, reconnaissance squadrons and support groups who have served tours of duty with the Canadian contingent in the UN force during the last two years have given new life and hope to the hospital and its young patients. Several have visited the institution regularly, helping lavish children in their exercises.

Members of the 1st Battalion, the Canadian Guards, of Camp Petawawa, Ont., who returned home in April after six months on the island, donated paint and provided the manpower to give a new look to the two-storey brick structure, situated between the picturesque Kyrenia Mountains and the blue Mediterranean about 13 miles north of Nicosia.

A television set, playground equipment and 13 new hospital beds, including one donated by Gesner elementary school of Oromocto, N.B., are among Canadian contributions. The hospital also receives many parcels from the Vancouver area and will soon get a dozen new mattresses from the Guards.

"We haven't bought a single egg since," says Joyce Cholmeley, a British Red Cross nurse in charge of the institution. "Canadians have been so good to us and it is such a help. The Guards even put on a party for the children on Christmas Eve and Father Christmas came in a helicopter."

Miss Cholmeley says that despite the hostility between Greek- and Turkish-Cypriots on the island, there have been no problems with the hospital's staff and parents from both sides visit their children, although "some tend to forget."

"The children will miss the Guards," she says. "But they will soon make friends with the Black Watch."

The 2nd Battalion, the Black Watch, of Camp Gagetown, N.B., is replacing the Guards on Cyprus.

Wilson Can Use Force to Break Seamen's Strike

Summer Recess Planned

By RONALD LEBEL

OTTAWA (CP)—With tulips and tourists blossoming in Ottawa, the best is on in Parliament to step up the law-making pace and clear the way for a summer recess.

House leaders of the five parties were expected to continue discussions this week on the organization of the session from now until the recess, expected in mid-July.

The government is proposing an informal list of priority bills it wants to pass before the recess. In meetings last week, opposition representatives requested details. The Commons observed the May Day holiday Monday. The first item of business today was expected to be second-reading stage of the government reorganization bill, which juggles the responsibilities of six ministers.

DEBATES FOUR BILLS

Next, the House will debate four revised bills reorganizing the civil service and setting up collective bargaining machinery for civil servants. These will be sent to a special Commons-Senate committee for hearings.

The government spokesman and other bills on the pre-res cess must list include:

—Introduction of a revised Bank Act and sending it to a committee for extensive public hearings. Speculation is rife that the six-per-cent interest ceiling will be modified.

—The Canada Assistance plan, which would integrate and improve four existing welfare programs for needy mothers, the blind and disabled, unemployed workers whose insurance benefits have run out and needy persons over 65.

—A $200,000,000 fund to assist the construction and expansion of medical schools and teaching hospitals during the next 15 years.

BEGINS IN JULY

—The federal-provincial medical care insurance plan, scheduled to go into operation July 1, 1967. Individual provinces will set up their own plans along four basic principles and Ottawa will pay half the costs.

—Increasing the $40,000,000 fund for loans to university students.

—Creation of the Company of Young Canadians, a Crown corporation that would send young people to assist Indians, live into slums and depressed areas and emerging countries abroad.

All these priority items were promised by the Liberals in the campaign for the Nov. 8 election, or earlier.

Commons observers listed as significant legislation in the first three months of the session, but the pace has picked up steadily since Mr. Lamb got back after the Easter recess.

COUNCIL CREATED

Included of the last month included a $50,000,000 rural development fund, creation of a science council, of three senior councillors to the Northwest Territories Council, expansion of credit for farmers and fishermen, and approval of the free-trade area agreement with the United States.

Saigon Political Scrambling Backs Junta; Pacify Da Nang

By EDWIN Q. WHITE

SAIGON (AP) — South Viet Nam's military government pledged today to go ahead with plans for national elections and exhibited little concern over Buddhist dissidents still in control of the northern city of Hue.

Heartened by the rebels' surrender in Da Nang Monday, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's Roman junta assembled 1,000 civilian and army representatives for a political congress in Saigon to reaffirm its power. Buddhists boycotted the meeting.

With U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge in the audience, the military chief of state, Lieut.-Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, said once more that the regime would carry out its promise of elections this fall for a constitutional convention. He added that the 10-man junta is considering a proposal to ask five civilians to its membership.

CUT OFF CITY

The government appeared to be moving to cut off Hue from the rest of the country rather than move in troops as in Da Nang.

Some 300 students paraded around Saigon University with banners demanding national elections and withdrawal of Ky's troops from the northern provinces, where the Buddhists and military leaders opposed to Ky have been challenging his authority for two months. Police did not interfere with the orderly demonstrations.

The government released some 2,000 Buddhist followers who had been held inside the Buddhist pagoda in Hue during a wild seil - American outburst Monday. But the Buddhist leadership still opposed the government "march of peace" in Saigon Wednesday.

In Washington, state Secretary Dean Rusk said that with the government apparently in control of Da Nang he hoped it will then be able to work out a "political agreement" and resolve unity for the war against the Viet Cong.

In Da Nang an around-the-clock curfew ended this morning.

Government sources said the week's struggle cost 300 casualties, including 96 dead.

The Hue - Da Nang government force sen by Ky May 18 to crush the rebellion continued to advance, isolated snipers and weapons, but met no major opposition.

It said the government would compensate all civilians injured in the Da Nang fighting and the families of those killed.

At the huge American air base outside Da Nang, U.S. jet fighters and bombers were back in position after the evacuation of more than 40 aircraft when rebel mortar shells fell near a runway.

Uganda's Unity Is Threatened

NAIROBI (AP) — Uganda's unity was threatened today by a growing dispute between the kingdom of Buganda and the central government of President Milton Obote.

Kampala radio said Obote had declared a state of emergency in Buganda, largest and richest of the country's four regions, and imposed a dusk-to-dawn curfew after rioters clashed with police in Kampala, the country's federal capital which is in Buganda.

Reports reaching neighboring Kenya said five persons were killed and several wounded. Police used tear gas to disperse rioters who had blocked main roads to Kampala and torn down telephone and power lines.

Telephone and telephone lines to the capital went dead about 8 p.m. Monday.

Kampala radio said three regional chiefs had been arrested.

It charged that the kabaka (king) of Buganda, Sir Edward Mutesa — himself a Ugandan as sort of treason by trying to negotiate with an external power."

The broadcast did not give the whereabouts of the 41-year-old kabaka nor specify which foreign power he allegedly dealt with.

APPEALS TO UN

But in a letter released Monday, the kabaka reportedly asked the secretary-general U Thant to help avert trouble resulting from Obote's power grab last February, when as prime minister he suspended the 1962 constitution, ousted the kabaka from the presidency of Uganda and took over the post himself.

Kampala radio said police had received reports that certain persons intended to create chaos in the East African nation which gained its independence from Britain in 1962.

The broadcast accused the Buganda regional parliament of inciting violence by its demand last Friday that Obote remove the national government from Buganda soil by May 30.

In addition to the three regional chiefs arrested, government forces seized six Buganda deputies to the national parliament early today.

The six were expelled from parliament last week after refusing to swear allegiance to Obote's new constitution, which weakens Buganda regional authority.

PATIENTS ESCAPE

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. (CP) — All 27 patients escaped injury Sunday when fire hit Stanton Hospital burned to the ground. Its estimate of damage was available, but a spokesman said all equipment was saved. The patients were moved to private homes and to a nearby hall by firemen and volunteers.

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

LONDON (CP)—Union leaders and ship owners today appeared determined to sweat it out in the ninth day of a British seamen's strike, despite the proclamation of a state of emergency for the first time in Britain since 1955.

Although reaction was generally low, the government seemed preparing for a long conflict, even though it has promised to go ahead with an inquiry into seamen's conditions.

Neither side budged after Prime Minister Wilson announced the proclamation in Parliament Monday. Authorized earlier by the Queen, the measure went into effect at midnight Monday night, empowering the government to use naval and military forces if necessary to maintain essential supplies. The government can also control food prices.

While stressing that the effects of the strike weren't serious enough to put the emergency measure actively into operation, Wilson said:

"The government will not hesitate to make use of the powers, should this become necessary."

WILL USE TUGS

Sources said the first move may be the use of Royal Navy tugs to relieve port congestion, enabling the free arrival and unloading of foreign vessels. This may happen by the end of the week.

The prime minister appears to have gained considerable support for his move.

Newspapers note that Parliament is due to rise Friday for a four-day Whitsun holiday. The proclamation means the parliamentarians would not have to be recalled if the situation worsened.

Parliament must approve the move within seven days, however, if it is to remain valid. It was expected approval will be granted following a debate Thursday.

Including more than 30 provisions, the emergency powers are described as almost total in their scope and are based on powers taken by a coal strike in 1921, the general strike of 1926, dock strikes in 1948 and 1949, and a rail strike in 1955.

WIDENS POWERS

The government has widened the powers to enable ministers to bring in control of food prices. Agriculture Minister Fred Peart is authorized to make orders regulating maximum prices for specific foods.

"We are prepared to go back to work unless we can get a labour week now," said William Hogarth, president of the National Union of Seamen, after a meeting with Labor Minister Roy Jenkins.

Of the proclamation, Hogarth said: "I am not happy about it, but I don't think the government is responsible to the people to maintain the necessities of life . . . if many were brought in solely with the intention of

Three U.S. Attaches Expelled

By VINCENT BUIST

WARSAW (Reuters)—A brief, terse bulletin by the government was cited by Poland today as proof that expelled U.S. military attaches had been dabbling in espionage.

Announcements in Warsaw and Washington Monday that the United States and Poland each had expelled three of the other's military attaches was seen here as a deepening rift between the two nations.

Crammed with films and plans of towns and military objectives in the town of Grudziadz, 150 miles northwest of here, the bulletin said.

The agency said it was issuing a statement to correct American versions of the incident.

(The state department in Washington said Monday two of the Americans expelled from Poland were held illegally by Polish officials on the night of April 6.

Polish officials used physical force to remove the two officers from their embassy automobile, decided the officers permission to use the phone to get in touch with the American embassy, and took them against their will to a local police station," it said.)

P.A.P. said police stopped a speeding car April 6 but the occupants refused to present identity papers had terminated their car until the early hours of April 7.

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

At least 117 persons died accidentally across Canada during the three-day holiday weekend, the worst Victoria Day toll on record.

The total, in a Canadian Press survey, from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Monday, local times, also included 26 drownings, five deaths in two separate plane crashes, two fire deaths, three fatalities from exposure, a woman scalded to death, a boy crushed by a tree and an accidental poisoning.

The worst three-day holiday period since CP began recording accidental deaths in 1948 was the 1962 Dominion Day weekend when 172 persons died, 85 of them on traffic.

Previous high for Victoria Day was 100 accidental deaths in 1952. Last year 86 persons died, 49 in traffic.

The Quebec total this year was 44—30 in traffic, 12 drownings and two plane crash victims.

Ontario reported 35 fatalities, including 20 on the highways, four drownings, one person killed in a fire, three in a plane crash and a woman scalded when she fell into a bathtub of hot water.

British Columbia had nine traffic deaths and two drownings. Nova Scotia had six drownings, two traffic deaths and the accidental poisoning.

In Manitoba three persons died from exposure, one was drowned and another died in a fire.

There were three traffic fatalities in Prince Edward Island.

Two persons died on highways and a boy was crushed by a tree in Saskatchewan.

Alberta reported two highway fatalities.

Newfoundland had one traffic death and New Brunswick one drowning.

The survey does not include natural or industrial deaths, known suicides or slayings.

Longshoremen Likely to Turn Down Offers

MONTREAL (CP)—Six locals of the International Longshoremen's Association (CLC), involved in walkouts at Quebec City, Trois-Rivieres and Montreal, will vote on a new set of proposals today.

Phil Cutler, lawyer for the union, said the executives of the locals will recommend that their members turn down the proposals as they "fall far short of what the union is seeking."

One of the main points of disagreement is mediator Judge Rene Lippe's proposal for a one-year contract. The union wants a two-year contract.

The walkout began May 9. Shipping in the areas had become paralyzed and ships are being diverted to other ports on the Atlantic seaboard. The last working agreement between the union and the Shipping Federation of Canada expired in December.

The federation has declined to make any counter offers or comment on the union demands for pay increases, improved working conditions and shorter working hours.

Montreal Demonstrations, High Death Toll Mar the Holiday

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The worst Victoria Day weekend death toll on record and demonstrations in Montreal by 1,000, youths marked the three-day holiday in Canada.

More than 10 persons died in accidents by Monday midnight, compared with 100 for the three days in 1952.

The traffic death toll was more than 20 higher than the Canadian Highway Safety Council's prediction of 65 and the highest Victoria Day weekend toll since 1948 when The Canadian Press started keeping records.

Crowds marched through the east-central section of Montreal Monday, tying up traffic and damaging several cars. Police said no one was injured.

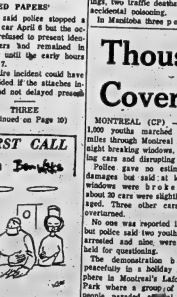
Police said the demonstrators were joined by 100 members of an "older, tougher, element who led the crowd onto the streets." During the afternoon several youths ripped down electric posters before police broke up the parade.

The weekend weather was the warmest most of Canada with clear skies and temperatures in the mid 70s Monday. But on the west coast clouds and showers interrupted some holiday celebrations.

Loading at six major British Columbia ports came to a standstill Monday when longshoremen stayed home despite a court injunction ordering them to work the holiday.



Docks in Vancouver, Victoria, Nanaimo, Port Alberni, Prince Rupert and New Westminster were deserted by the longshoremen who were ordered Thursday by the B.C. Supreme Court to work Victoria Day.

The B.C. government inaugurated a new ferry service Monday from northern Vancouver Island to Prince Rupert and an estimated 12,000 persons watched the new vessel depart.

Biggest holiday event on the west coast was the Chilliwack Rodeo which attracted about 20,000 fans. The Hyack Anvil Battery in New Westminster observed the birthdays of Queen Elizabeth and Queen Victoria with a traditional 21-gun salute.

On the Prairies, more than 4,000 persons attended a fireworks display in Winnipeg and

Thousand Youths in Montreal Cover Miles in Riotous March

MONTREAL (CP) — Some 1,000 youths marched several miles through Montreal Monday night breaking windows, damaging cars and disrupting traffic.

Police gave no estimates of damages but said: at least 30 windows were broken and about 20 cars were slightly damaged. Three other cars were overturned.

No one was reported injured, but police said two youths were arrested and nine were being held for questioning.

The demonstration began peacefully in a holiday atmosphere in Montreal's Lafontaine park where a group of young people paraded about, formed around an artificial lake. Canoists and picnickers soon joined the procession.

Some of the crowd who said they were members of Le Mouvement du 23 Mai distributed handbills protesting Canada's observance of Victoria Day. Others sang separatist songs and shouted: "The Queen to the gallows" and "Quebec pour une Quebecois." (Quebec for Quebeckers).

Trouble began when the crowd marched out of the park onto the street. Car windows and doors were damaged with side rocks and the youths climbed several second-storey balconies and ripped down election campaign posters.

Police wearing protective helmets disavowed some of the crowd but about 300 continued along Sherbrooke Street, Montreal's main east-west artery.

The parade was broken up as it neared the centre of the city. Police reported little trouble in other areas of the city, although afternoon extinguished several bonfires in the streets and answered "a great many" false alarms.

Members of La Societe St. Jean Baptiste, a French-Canadian patriotic society, gathered earlier in Lafontaine Park, before state of dollard des Ormeaux, scene of a 17th-century Skirmish.

Yves Groulx, president of the society, told the audience of about 200 that "the goal of the day is in honor of the proposed changes in Quebec's educational system.

He said that while the Parent royal commission on education recently recommended the establishment in Quebec of a system of education that is both bilingual and neutral," modern Quebecers aren't going to be under such a culture and religion.

Lawrence Hannigan, appearing for Montreal Mayor Jean Drapeau, laid a wreath at the base of the statue, commemorating Dollard des Ormeaux Day, which is held May 23.

Fragments of the statue were piled ngainst near the wreath. The statue was slightly damaged during the weekend when a home-made bomb exploded near its base, police said.

Albert College Graduates Attend Bridge St. Church For Baccalaureate Service

Rev. Harry M. Davis, Minister of Bridge Street United Church, and Rev. John Short, M.A., Ph.D., D.D., Baccalaureate Preacher, lead the academic procession into Bridge Street United Church Sunday morning, for the annual Albert College Baccalaureate Service. Following them were the members of the staff, the Board of Governors, the Class of 1966, and the other students of the college. The female members of the Graduating Class were attired in white floor length gowns while the gentlemen wore blazers.

The scripture reading was taken by Mr. W. Lorne McDougall, Chairman of the Board of Governors of the colleges and Mr. Robert Reid, the Church Choir Director, sang Mendelssohn's "He Thou Faithful Unto Death." Organist Mrs. Alec Gordon played Hollins' "Andante in D", Borodine's "An Crucrent," and Bach's "Fugue in Minor". Then the choir sang the "Te Deum" of Stanford.

Mr. Davis welcomed the students, their parents, and the staff to the church while principal H. B. Simpson, thanked Bridge Street United on behalf of the school. Mr. Simpson introduced Dr. Short, who retired from the active ministry in 1964, as "a man of unusual ability". He continued by stating that this was not Rev. Short's first visit to Bridge Street United Church and that he was much in demand as a speaker.

The subject of his sermon was 'A Time for Greatness" based on the text of the scripture reading. "The world in which we live is far from being a Christian one," Dr. Short said. "The winds of change are blowing everywhere and very few of the established institutions of our world are going to remain unchanged. Developments are changing this world but human nature remains the same.

CHALLENGING WORLD

"It's a challenging world; a very frightening world. Every man, woman and child is looking for justice and it is part of the work of the Christian Church to see that everyone gets justice." Rev. Short continued.

"You'll have to meet that kind of world when you graduate," he said to the students, "and it's a desperately needy world. There's poverty and hunger in India and China and elsewhere. Never has wealth been so plentiful and never has the entail of poverty been so great as it is now. It's a very needy confused world".

"The old absolute standards of our Victorian grandfathers have been swept away and permissiveness has come into its place. Permissiveness must mean that you can do what you like so long as no one gets hurt but how do you know no one gets hurt?" Dr. Short asked.

"It's a time for greatness and it's a difficult time to be alive. It is times such as these that great persons emerge, that great tasks are done. It's usually in the turbulent years that we have the opportunity to play a great part. The hopes of our great country rest on your shoulders," he told the graduates, "and there is no peace for Canada unless there is peace over the world. It's a time for great men."

"Democracy is being challenged by dictatorship. Never lose sight of the infinite value of the individual — this is the heart of Christianity and democracy but democracy hasn't achieved that yet. The goal is to seek the greatest well being of the greatest possible number in the shortest possible time. There's a great task there," Dr. Short told the students.

"On what do you pin your hopes?" he asked the congregation.

QUOTES FROM SERMON

"I pin mine on the people in public life who have the right spirit in them. The sermon on the Mount gave us a portrait of the kind of people who are going to change our time. The essence of Christ can be put in one sentence - Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy mind and soul and strength and thy neighbor as thyself. The most urgent task of our time", Dr. Short said, "is to spread Christianity throughout the world."

"If you want to have the kind of world in which you can live you must be animated by a great new passion for humanity. You must have a new vision of service. Those who have best served their fellow men have always answered a higher call. You must be animated by a spirit of boundless goodwill."

"Christ said to us - won't you try my way of life? Live like that". Dr. Short charged the students. "and you will make a wonderful world, young men and women."

Churchill Showed Marked Indifference to Former P.M. Says Doctor in His Book

LONDON (CP)—Lord Moran says that while Winston Churchill played up to President Roosevelt during the Second World War, he showed marked indifference towards Mackenzie King and took him "for granted."

Churchill was not really interested in Mackenzie King, says the eminent physician in his book Winston Churchill: The Struggle for Survival, published by Constable Monday.

"The man who treated the British writing leader for a quarter-century says he noted the sharp contrast immediately on arriving in Quebec in December, 1941, after Churchill had conferred with Roosevelt in Washington.

In Washington, Churchill was a model of restraint and self-discipline, says the writer to the American leader. In Ottawa, he showed no real interest in the prime minister.

Moran says he could almost see Churchill sniffing at a remark by King that "the great people in politics is to avoid mistakes."

"King had never been a man to take risks and his prudent outlook no doubt accounts for some lack of fervor on the Canadian leader's part. The two men are, of course, quite friendly but the PM is not much interested in Mackenzie King. He takes him for granted."

Two years later, when Churchill met Roosevelt at Quebec City, there was a proposal that Canada participate in a conference "but this came to nothing". Mackenzie King was host as a social occasion and it seemed to Moran that the Canadian leader was "rather like the host invited to a dinner party for a party."

The comments take hardly any notice of him but just before leaving they remember he is host and they say a few sort of things. I wonder if he (King) is as enamored of his role at Quebec as Churchill, or the PM (Churchill) imagines."

In a footnote, Moran quotes from Dr. Hall, head of cabinet, Churchill to his war cabinet in which he said "there is no doubt that Mackenzie King and the Canadian government are delighted and feel themselves strengthened by the visit."

On June 9, 1950, Mackenzie King, who had been Moran's patient, wrote to him saying:

"I am afraid my notes of the two Quebec conferences are not as more necessary to you than own. I was, as you recall, not much a participant in any of the discussions as a sort of general host whose task at the time was to look after the guests of the general manager of the Chateau Frontenac (Hotel in Quebec City)."

At the September, 1944, Quebec conference, Moran noted Mackenzie's overpowering personality on those around him. He says King told him Churchill "called" Clement Attlee, Labor leader in the British coalition government, and thanked the other members of the cabinet to a lot of schoolboys frightened by the headmaster."

Pre-sentence Report Asked By Magistrate

Brian William Irvin, R. R. 3 Belleville, was remanded in custody one week by Magistrate H. J. Wills today for a pre-sentence report on two charges of theft.

Irvin is charged with theft of cigarettes, a transistor radio and vending machine keys from a truck owned by Cook's Wholesale at 1.07 a.m. Sunday morning. He is also charged with the theft of an automobile owned by Everett Lott, R. R. 1 Belleville.

Police testified that at 1.07 a.m., a theft of merchandise from the truck was reported to police. The truck had been parked in front of the armories, and some persons coming out of the armories saw a car running from the truck. They gave chase, but the man got away.

Then at 1:35 a.m., Mr. Lott reported his car stolen. At 4:35 a.m., a policeman in his cruiser on Church St. observed a car swing onto Church from Dundas. The headlights of the car were shut off as soon as the turn was made and the car was driven to the curb. The policeman approached the car, driven by the accused, and asked him if he owned the car. He said he did but could not produce the ownership.

Making the most of the excellent weekend weather, 190 boy scouts from Belleville and district participated in the Sagonaska Camporee staged at Vanderwater Park, two miles east of Thomasburg. District Commissioner Arthur Foet of Belleville was camp chief. There were 25 leaders also taking part.

One of the busiest men at the camporee was Bruce Kirby, 3rd Belleville Scoutmaster. He put his St. John Ambulance training to good use, treating about 50 scouts for minor injuries. There were plenty of burns, cuts and bruises but all serious accidents marred the outing.

Scouts hiking to the camp sites Friday night had their first test before camporee events had started. They carried equipment about one - half mile in the rain and according to Mr. Foet, "They came through the big test very well."

The local group was joined by 50 boys from the 1st Stonecliff Group, Scarborough, for part of the program. The Scarborough scouts were in the vicinity on a canoe trip.

ARRIVED FRIDAY

Scouts arrived for the Camporee early Friday evening with the program getting under way at 8 p.m. Planned events continued Saturday, Sunday and Monday with the camp closing yesterday afternoon.

Projects included Sagonaska and campsite improvement, fire building, knotting, estimation and orienteering. Each patrol was allotted a campsite and each unit was given a number by which it was known during the camporee. At all times, scouts were scored for leadership qualities.

Special events included a canoe race won by Phil Grant and Brian Young of 17th A Belleville and a commando course in which the top team was 12th Belleville. Of the 36 patrols taking part in activities, 10 received A camp standard ratings and the others, B ratings.

May Lay Charge After Death of Little Girl

BRIGHTON — Investigating OPP, Corporal Ralph Tremills of Cobourg OPP detachment, said Monday that charges are being considered against the driver of the car which struck seven-year-old Vicki May Usher of Wicklow, seven miles west of Colborne on Highway 2, early Saturday evening.

The driver of the westbound car was identified by police at the scene as Richard Whaley, 21 of 7 Maplewood Drive, Cobourg. The child who was riding her bicycle west on Highway 2 and veered into the path of the westbound auto in front of her parents home was killed instantly.

A witness, Dan Dudley of Bowmanville, travelling east, told police he saw the bicycle fly into the air in his rear view mirror and that he had observed the girl as he approached, following a boy also on a bicycle. The child's brother, Kery Usher, 9 crossed the highway safely, seconds before his sister was fatally injured.

She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Usher.

Coroner Dr. F. N. Blackwell of Cobourg conducted an inquest into the child dead at the scene of the accident. Corporal Tremills said he will consult with County Crown Attorney Geoffrey Bonnycastle in regard to charging the man identified by police as the driver of the car which was in collision with the bicycle on which the child was riding.

The auditors report for 1965 was presented and accepted by Sidney Township Council at the May meeting.

The 1966 budget was presented and after some revisions was passed.

The estimated expenditures for Sidney Township for 1966 are $638,265.00. Slightly higher mill rates for Hastings County levies. Township general levy and high school levies with lower public school rates are the result of the estimated expenditures and revenue for 1966.

The total mill rate for the Township ratepayers living in the Bay of Quinte High School area is 71.3 mills, with 70.5 for those in the Stirling-Rawdon High School area for the year 1966.

Other local improvement rates are in addition to these rates, if applicable to ratepayers.

Separate School supporters in the Belleville and Trenton areas have approximately the same rates as last year, while others are slightly lower.

The Building Inspector reported 18 permits issued for the month of April for a value of $100,500.

A delegation interviewed council relative to the Hogles Cemetery and informed Council there has been vandalism and theft of tombstones and grave markers from the cemetery.

Several complaints were received regarding dogs running at large. There will be traffic measures taken in the future to control these violations.

DID HE PAY THE FARE?

KITAKYUSHU, Japan (AP)—Yoshio Fujimoto, 18, was daydreaming aboard the Sakuralima express train when he felt a tug at his feet. It was a baby alligator two feet long. The young man composedly wrapped it in newspaper and turned it over to the lost and found office at the next stop.

Soaring Population

Population growth is one of the most pressing problems of our time. As a map issued by Newspaper Enterprise Association illustrates all too clearly, it is a race between soaring populations and the ominous spectre of famine.

Already outdated, the map shows where the world population stood — and where it was heading—as of June 1965. Total world population then was 3,308 billion, or 65 million higher than 12 months previously.

In the period 1964-65, there were 125 million births and 60 million deaths, a ratio of births to deaths of about two to one. If the same trend continues, world population will be more than doubled by the end of the century.

The doubling rate for individual countries ranges from 16 years for Costa Rica, which records 5.5 births for every death, to 175 years for Hungary. The United States, with a doubling time of 44 years, occupies a position between the industrialized nations of Europe and the developing countries of Africa, Asia and Latin America.

The latter section currently leads the world in population increase, followed by Africa and Asia. These three continents hold two and one-third billion people. Only two countries, Ireland and East Germany, according to the NEA map, have declining populations.

Dr. Watson Kirkconnell, former president of Acadia University in Nova Scotia, put the whole issue in stark relief in a recent address. "Across whole continents today, as mushrooming populations steadily outstrip food supplies, the shadows of starvation and misery grow darker."

Boredom a Problem

How many are weighed down simply by the weight of a crushing sense of boredom? We posed this question in a recent editorial in connection with Mental Health Week.

Modern society is indeed boring (although it need not be) — with its emphasis on conformity and materialism, and its impersonality. John Donne, the poet of old, said that "no man is an island," but the way things are today, he is just that, neighborhood ties no longer one of the great virtues of our world. Oh sure, there is a clinical interest in people's welfare on-the part of government and community organizations, but other than that we all live in virtual isolation — each going his own way and thinking his own thoughts. Husbands, wives, children, teenagers are seeking greater rapport and love and not really finding it.

Ann Landers was talking along these lines the other day. Addressing a capacity audience in Hamilton's Palace Theatre, the columnist cited boredom as the main problem today.

Men, women and youngsters aged 10 and up filled the theatre. Miss Landers said men write her asking out if they are interested in business or their profession, "but their personal lives are a mess . . . they can do a beautiful job downtown, but at home at night they can't think of anything to say to their wives."

Modern concepts of morality, Miss Landers said the old guidelines "seem to have been lost in the shuffle." Parents wonder if kids are any worse than they were 30 years ago, and the answer, according to Miss Landers is "Yes." She blamed the automobile as the one thing that has done more to change teenage behavior than everything else combined.

The columnist is firmly opposed to teenagers being given an allowance "just for breathing." "Parents have not learned that all children get from gifts is the habit of receiving . . . we deny them the thrill of achieving, the joy of earning."

In her Hamilton talk, Miss Landers gave a simple piece of advice, which all may follow. Noting, without any suggestion of self-righteousness, that she neither smokes nor drinks, and in fact always felt pretty good without them, she added: "I am still the greatest unfinished project in my life. Striving to improve is an important part of living."

A Reticent People

Big cities are lonely places, and none more so than Toronto. Australian actress Robina Beard is not the first to have made this discovery, but her observations are typical.

Miss Beard, who also sings and dances, is a member of the cast of "Spring Thaw." In a recent interview she discussed the differences between Australian and Canadian theatre and television programming and added:

"Another difference which I first noticed in Toronto is the reticence Canadians have. At home, this is non-existent, we are relaxed and easy-going."

The weather has a lot to do with it, she believes. Australians never known the temperature to go below zero until she came to Canada. Strange how the weather affects people's outlook. The Swedes, who also inhabit a country with great extremes of climate, are reputed to be equally reticent.

Miss Beard has the inborn love of travel which all Australians have. Now 28, she has seen her own country by bus, and is currently covering much of Canada in the same way.

Women Plagued With Advice

Mary McGrath in Windsor Star

In the battle of the sexes, women are suffering from an escalation of advice and a proliferation of experts.

The "women's pages" whether they be in the newspapers, magazines or on radio or television, are loaded with words of wisdom, teaching women how to be women. They have become do-it-yourself tracts on how to live a "womanly" life in a mold designed by men. They teach them how to be happy in the bonds of matrimony and a success in the boudoir. In more than one case, they have advised on how to be happy without the narrow confines of the life they will allow her to lead.

These preachers of partial purdah have one small thing in common, however, that a peek at their personal lives makes readily apparent. They don't practice what they so prolifically preach.

While they are suggesting a wholesale retirement from the world for the women to whom they speak, they are competing for and find for their own place in the sun.

They have all lapped up as much book knowledge as their over-fully coiffed heads could carry at some of the best colleges; they have embarked on "careers" having nothing to do with any man's bed and board; if they have acquired a husband or two along the way, their married lives have had little or no influence on them.

They sing the praises of life around the old homestead, while, at the same time, they have escaped from it at breakneck speed. While telling other more gullible women that they should stay home with them, they are leading the double life and loving every hectic minute of it.

Actually, the lives they lead are more nearly normal than the ones they prescribe others. They are living up to their own potential as people while simultaneously, and subtly, advising other women to forego the same direct route to satisfaction.

However, the advisers are out there in the lines — writing books, plays, and magazine articles and designing clothes. Some of them are even advisers and consultants to kings and presidents. It is about as far from the kitchen as you can get.

Women are going to have to learn to think for themselves again, and not until is best for themselves as people.

Poverty Often Leads to War

Montreal Gazette

Most of the members of the American Society of Newspaper Editors gathered in the Queen Elizabeth Hotel to hear Defence secretary McNamara, probably expected him to deal with Vietnam. Instead, he dealt with the conditions that lie back not only of Vietnam but of most of the world's conflicts.

Security is not military hardware, nor is it military power, although it may involve it—nor traditional military activity — though it may encompass it, he said. "Security is development."

He illustrated this by pointing out that the World Bank divides nations, on the basis of per capita income, into four categories: rich, middle-income, poor and very poor. The rich nations are those with a per capita income of $700 per year or more; and there are 27 of these nations, possessing 75 per cent of the world's population.

"Since 1958, only one of these 27 nations has suffered a major internal upheaval on its own territory," he pointed out. "But observe what happens at the other end of the economic scale. Among the 38 very poor nations — those with a per capita income of under $100 a year — no less than 32 have suffered significant conflicts . . . the trend holds predictably constant in the case of the other two categories; the poor and the middle-income nations. Since 1958, 87 per cent of the very poor nations, 69 per cent of the middle-income nations, and 48 per cent of the middle-income nations have suffered violence."

Strictly Personal
Academy Awards Under Fire

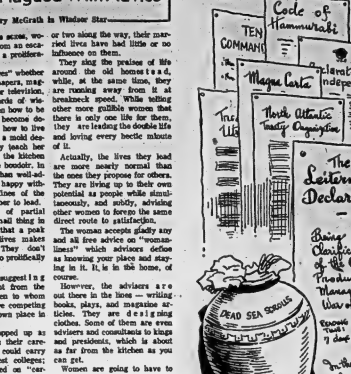
By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

My nine-year-old daughter has more sense than most of the grown men and women who voted for "The Sound of Music" as the best picture of the year Awards last month.

"But how can they give an Oscar to that picture?" she asked, as we were watching the televised program. "Of course, it's a good picture, but it's just for kids — nobody could take it seriously!"

Despite the almost infinite number of categories that were given Oscars, the most important division was not made, whether this year or any year in the past — and that is the distinction between a film that is merely diverting and one that is consequential.

In the field of photography, for instance, two separate awards were given, one for black-and-white and one for color. This is quite proper, for these require separate techniques, and it would be absurd to try and lump them together.



How much more essential is, therefore, to separate those movies made for children (of any age) and those made primarily for adults. In the latter category, my own nomination would have been unquestionably for "The Pawnbroker," which, of course, didn't stand a chance against the cozy contrivance of "The Sound of Music".

If the Academy Awards are to have any meaning, they must their obvious commercial value, then the films themselves must be sharply segregated, and the popularity will be rewarded in one group, and artistic excellence in another. To call "The Sound of Music" may have been well acted, well directed, well mounted and well photographed — but all these technical elements together add up to only wood acute plus desperately to have status in the arts, to have its film studies looked upon as a significant contribution to the culture of our times There can be no doubt that film-making has this great potential, so far almost totally unrealized by the major studios and their meek minions.

Courage, imagination and taste are the holy trinity in the arts; without these qualities, nothing but momentarily diverting trash can be produced. If the cinema is to become a compelling art-form as much as it has become an industry, it must grow up much faster than it has been able to do in the past. If we can't trust our children's or children's market, it will surely and inevitably lose out to television.

The fact that a nine-year-old girl can take "The Sound Of Music" Oscar seriously, then is a devastating comment on its failure to reevaluate its basis of awards and to make maturity at least one criterion for candidacy.

Love Is No Spring Fancy

Saskatoon Star-Phoenix

In the gay nineties, the world of the young took the poet at his word as an authority on love. Alfred, Lord Tennyson, wrote in this poem, Locksley Hall.

In the spring a young man's fancy

Lightly turns to thoughts of love.

That poetic declaration is not wholly accurate, if the British Medical Association is accepted as a reliable authority. At the eleventh edition of the paperback booklet, "Getting Married," the association disclosed that spring is not the only season when a swain turns towards a lass, lightly or otherwise.

Reporting on "lovemaking peaks," the BMA booklet reveals that reversals remarkable differences. In England, the spring is the favored time for lovemaking. Germany It's, Christmas, in France it is August, and in America it's autumn. America, presumably, includes Canada.

The BMA booklet notes with a touch of triumphant discovery, "But the Eskimos make love equally successful under the midnight sun, or on the dark eat days."

Not a word, alas, about the situation in Italy. Perhaps the British medical researchers will get around to that in their spring issue.

To Your Good Health
Cholesterol Essential Concern Is Excessive

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please mail me a diet for cholesterol. — C. N. C.

I won't send you any special cholesterol diet because I don't think it is either needed or helpful. Some very simple precautions will do everything for you that can be done about cholesterol, unless your condition is such that your doctor needs to give you special medication.

Cholesterol, a fatty material, is always present in the blood. It belongs there. If we ate foods which contained no cholesterol at all, our body would still create it. Even rabbits, existing entirely on vegetables have cholesterol.

The danger isn't in having cholesterol, but on what happens to it later. As our arteries harden, cholesterol is part of the conglomeration of material which attaches itself to the walls of the arteries, thickening them.

It has been suspected that if the amount of cholesterol in the blood could be lowered, maybe the arteries would stay healthy longer. This, however, is an assumption and not necessarily a fact. Experiments along this line show that some people with high cholesterol have good arteries, and some with low cholesterol have poor ones. This raises a question. Is some other fat, or some other condition, the really important key?

We know that people who are overweight have more troubles with their arteries and their coronaries therefore my belief is that the more practical approach is to take care of our weight and let the cholesterol take care of itself.

The obsessive interest in cholesterol and diet has reached the point that some people, learning that eggs contain cholesterol, are afraid to eat eggs, inoffensive one. Some of these same people eat as much of other things that they are very overweight and their cholesterol level suffers in equally high.

They are, in short, kidding themselves. They think that if they don't eat eggs, or take so many spoonfuls of safflower oil, or whatever notion they have about diet, they are protecting their health.

It's my feeling that they would do more for themselves just by controlling their weight. It's an extremely interesting observation that people who exercise regularly have much lower average cholesterol levels.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have been married for four years and have not been able to have children. My husband has a low, inactive sperm count. Could you recommend something? — Mrs. T. M.

Occasionally treatment with thyroid and hormones increases the sperm count. Every effort also should be made to improve general health: Good diet, ample rest, reduction of smoking and drinking. Doubtless your doctor already has advised this.

I suggest that you consider adoption of a child while you are still young and can give one a happy home and upbringing.

Dear Dr. Molner: Do coffee or tea increase high blood pressure? — Mrs. L. B.

Moderate use of coffee or tea won't increase blood pressure. Excessive use can, because of the stimulating qualities.

Note to Mrs. K.: Ice water or iced tea will not bother your arthritis.

Captain William Kidd, the English pirate, was hanged 265 years ago today—in 1701 — at Execution Dock, London, with several men of his crew. His known career began only five years before, when he was illcensed to seize pirate ships of those belonging to England's enemies. Within three years it became known he was slaughtering friendly ships as well and he was seized on a visit to Boston in 1699. His last ship, with a cargo worth £70,000, disappeared. At his trial Kidd was not allowed a lawyer and his licence to capture enemy ships was concealed by the British admiralty.

Aussie Birth Rate Falls

Kingston Whig-Standard

Taking the lighter view, there are undoubtedly any number of nations in the world which would give a great deal to know the secret of Australia's success in keeping the birth rate down. In Australia, of course, the steadily falling birth rate is causing grave concern about the nation's future. Here, over a 5-year peak of 23.5 for each thousand of population, Australia's birth rate has fallen steadily until in the last three months of last year it was 19.61 (as compared with Canada's 21.4).

Immigration has been keeping the population at a rate of increase approaching that which the Government seeks, but this source is beginning to dry up with the growing affluence in Europe, from whence most of the immigrants have come. Hence the Government's interest in the birth rate.

Some observers have blamed the introduction of "the pill" for the decline, but Hugh Stretton, of Social Services, Mr. Ian Sinclair, said he believes the oral contraceptive is the cause but not a primary cause. In his opinion, which is shared by many, Australia's growing affluence has had more bearing on the birth rate: "People are merrying later and there is more emphasis on material things and less on family life."

There have been suggestions that financial inducements be offered and family allowances increased, but Mr. Sinclair contends that experience of other countries suggests that such measures would have little effect. Others have appealed to "pride in race and family". But, of course, in the final analysis the number of babies that families have is a matter of personal decision and not subject to external pressures or inducements are likely to have much effect.

There was one rather interesting aside in the discussion over Australia's birth rate. Mr. Sinclair cited remote and isolated parts of Australia as places where the birth rate is extremely high. Family life in such areas is still the norm and there are very few pressures and influences from outside. But then the wives in the Yukon and in the Northwest Territories are also very, very long and there really isn't much to do outside.

Royal Links With America

London Sunday Times

Ever since the Pilgrim Fathers stepped ashore at Plymouth Rock the most fertile of the official relationships between Britain and America has been the web of family links spanning the Atlantic. Sometimes they are of more than academic importance.

Harold Macmillan, for example, is a direct descendant of President Kennedy. He was also an uncle by marriage towards the latter's mother was never too keen about publicizing the dynastic implications of the link.

The oddest link of all, however, is that between George Washington and the Royal Family. Recently, dedicated American genealogists have proved what had long been suspected — that the Queen and the first president of the United States are cousins.

To be precise, the Queen is also a cousin of 31 other people from Washington, thanks to a common ancestor, Augustine Warner, a 17th century Virginia landowner. The links may seem tenuous, but in fact, the descent is clearly established in closest living relatives.

In the middle of the 18th century, Washington's great-uncle, Mary, married an Englishman called Robert Portens. Their eldest son, Robert Townshend Portens. His granddaughter, another Mary, married the 12th Earl of Strathmore and Kinghorne in 1853. The marriage produced two sons and a granddaughter appeared — Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon, now Queen Elizabeth, the Queen Mother.

But now the family tree has sprouted the oldest branch of all. A full genealogical study reveals that the Earl of Strathmore was a genealogical link between Washington and Alice Liddell, the girl who inspired Lewis Carroll's "Alice in Wonderland." Alice's father, Charles Liddell, "was a cousin of the Earl of Strathmore," according to the manuscript.

Genealogically speaking, Queen Elizabeth II is related not only to America's first president, but her fourth cousin twice removed is Alice in Wonderland.

Superannuated Civil Servants To Form Assc.

Federal Superannuates of the Public Service of Canada are now given an opportunity to join their own National Association and to share as the Federal Superannuates National Association. The National Association was formed in October, 1965 at a Founding Convention held at Ottawa and the following officers were elected to carry on the business of the association: National President: A. Reg. Buckler, Annapolis Royal, N. S. 1st Vice-President: Herb. A. Clarke, Ottawa, Ont. National Sec-Treasurer: Fred W. Whitehouse, Victoria, B.C.

The aims and objects of the Association are: 1: to first organize all Superannuates across the country into a National Association so that they will be in a position to present their case as an organized body; 2: to press for an immediate adjustment in pensions commensurate with the present economy of the country; 3: to ask for a cyclical review of all pensions on a biennial basis similar to what Great Britain has established for its retired employees. 4: to press for an increase in widows' allowances to at least 75%, rather than 50% they now receive, of their husbands' pension; 5: to be in a position to offer assistance in the way of counselling, etc., to widows and all superannuates requiring same; 6: as a long-term objective, to establish holiday homes across the country where superannuates and their families could be accommodated at the lowest possible rate for their vacation or even for indefinite periods. This too has already been established in Great Britain and countries of the Continent.

The Association now has members from coast to coast as well as members in other countries of the world, retired Canadian Civil Servants now living abroad.

Membership is open to all superannuated Canadian federal Public Service, Armed Forces, Royal Canadian Mounted Police (R.C.M.P.) and widows of such superannuated employees who are annuates, and will be known as active members. Associate membership is also available and should be the spouse of an active member of the association, or the surviving widow or widower of one who was an active member or, if the active member has no spouse, one of his immediate household who is related to him by consanguinity, or any active employee of the Canadian Federal Public Service or a member of the Armed Forces or the R.C.M.P. Sixteen superannuated in Belleville have now signed up and have received the membership card, copy of the Constitution and by-laws etc. A local Branch of the P.S. N.A. will in all probability be formed in the next month or so and any interested superannuates wishing more information should contact Everett Liddle or L. G. (Roy) Madden.

Pollution Study Of Great Lakes Has Started

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Water Resources Commission vessels have begun a two-year pollution study of the Great Lakes, it was announced today.

The quantity and type of industrial, domestic and surface pollution from Ontario which reaches the bordering Great Lakes, and the effect these discharges have on the quality of the lakes is being examined.

A 65-ton vessel, with a crew of eight, is sampling on Lake Ontario, covering an area from the outlet of the Niagara River east to the Bay of Quinte.

A study of industrial waste discharges in the Detroit River also is being carried out, and a third vessel is on Lake Erie, including the Upper Niagara River and adjacent waters.

Samples collected undergo analysis both aboard ship and at a special Great Lakes laboratory, which has been set up in the OWRC's main laboratory building in Toronto.

Quiet Holiday For Fire Dept.

The Belleville Fire Department had a relatively quiet holiday weekend. On Saturday evening, a call was received from 99 Pinnacle Street where a mattress was discovered to be on fire. Yesterday calls were made to the 4th Concession of Ameliasburg for a house fire, to 292 East Moira where an outhouse was on fire, and to the Flats where a mailbox fire was extinguished. The cause of this last blaze is thought to have been firecrackers.

How come so many people come back to Metropolitan Life —time after time after time?

Only satisfied customers keep coming back for more.

And half of all the life policies we issue are bought by people who already have some Metropolitan Life insurance.

How come?

Mostly two things. The wide choice of policies we offer—and the help a Metropolitan adviser can give in choosing the right policies, and in working out a plan to meet specific, individual requirements.

He can do this because he's trained to give you the famous Metropolitan Family Security Check-Up. It's a complete, confidential analysis of your family's financial security picture that sometimes turns up assets you didn't even know you had, pinpoints gaps in your coverage—and finds economical ways to fill them.

The Metropolitan Family Security Check-Up is free. Ask your Metropolitan adviser.

Millions choose Metropolitan Life —more in Canada than any other company

LAMB STEW WITH VEGTABLES

When you cut right down to the bare bones there are very few ltr lamb shoulder and they are small. These slip out with ease if you boil the whole shoulder first.

My reason for bringing this to your attention is the difficulty in removing them when a shoulder of lamb is raw especially if you want to make lamb stew, which I did.

A two - to two-and-one-half pound shoulder of lamb makes a wonderfully economical lamb stew dinner for four or five people.

There is a good reason for each step I take so follow the recipe.

TUESDAY

Dinner Menu

by Mary Moore

Barbecued spareribs, parslyred whole potatoes, shredded quick-cooked new cabbage, relish tray: celery, carrot sticks, ripe olives, maple syrup tarts topped with lemon sherbet, coffee.

2 to 2½ pound lamb shoulder
1 bay leaf
6 peppercorns
3 cups cold water
3-medium onions quartered
3 small white onions
5 long slim carrots cut in four pieces crosswise
1½ teaspoons salt
1 chicken bouillon cube
½ cup flour
½ cup water

While the lamb is refrigerator-cold trim off all excess fat and discard it. Into deep pot put the trimmed lamb with the water and bay leaf and peppercorns. Bring to boil, reduce heat, cover and simmer 3½ hours or until bones may be easily separated from meat. Transfer to large platter and remove all bones and any hidden fat. Cut meat into approximately 2" pieces. Strain broth. Return broth to heat. Add vegetables and salt and bouillon cube to it, cover and cook 20 minutes or until vegetables are just tender. Vegetables should all retain their shape. Skim out vegetables and arrange them around edge of preheated large platter and keep hot. Make a smooth paste of the flour and ½ cup cold water and stir into broth until thick. Return meat to thickened broth and heat through. Turn into centre of platter. Garnish with tiny new sprigs of mint or parsley or watercress.

Notes: 1) If desired potatoes may be omitted and dumplings may be cooked on the broth after the vegetables are removed and before it is thickened: 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour 3 teaspoons staple-acting baking powder, about 1 cup milk (room temperature),
1 teaspoon salt

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Stir in the milk - enough to make of the consistency to drop from spoon without spreading when dough hits the boiling broth. Drop by tablespoonfuls onto top of boiling broth, not touching, put on lid at once, and boil gently 12 to 15 minutes. But do not lift cover for peek until they have cooked 12 minutes. Then you may test one to see if it is cooked through. Time depends on size of dumplings.

2) If you cook dumplings on top of unthickened broth, after you remove them...to the bit thicken thicken flour mixture above but reduce amount of flour to 1-3 cup then return meat to broth to heat it through.

Ann Landers

Kissing Game Popular At Suburban Parties

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have always said your column does more harm than good. Now I have proof. Remember the woman who complained about the game that were being played in her social group? Someone had suggested that they play kids' kissing games just for the fun of it and when they graduated to more adult kissing games like, "Who Have I Got?"

ANN LANDERS

She described "Who Have I Got?" as a game played under a bed. The fellow is under the bed, blindfolded, and the girl crawls under the bed with him and kisses him. He is supposed to guess who she is.

Well, nobody in our crowd had ever heard of the game until they read about it in your column. Now it's all the rage. And my crazy husband is just wild about it. I wonder how many other suburban parties have been pepped up by this new game Ann Landers has taught them. Would you like to hazard a guess? — HAD ENOUGH OF YOU.

DEAR HAD ENOUGH: No, I would not. It fairly boggles the imagination, Lady.

If it's true that readers respond to suggestions as easily as you seem to think, I'd like to suggest that all you suburban folks cut out the foolishness and get out from under those beds.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have become a bitter and mean person since our only son ran off and married a girl I cannot stand. Can you help me? — MRS. A.B.

DEAR MRS. A.B.: No, I cannot help you. But you can help yourself. Memorize these lines from Omar Khayyam and say them to yourself when you feel bitter and resentful:

"The Moving Finger writes: and, having writ,
Moves on: nor all your Piety nor Wit
Shall lure it back to cancel half a Line,
Nor all your Tears wash out a Word of it."

This means, of course, that what's done is done and there isn't one blamed thing you can do about it.

Those who refuse to accept that which they cannot change end up changing themselves. They become sour, disagreeable, unpleasant, humorless, surly — and sometimes ill.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am being married for the second time in a few months. My bride-to-be wants an elaborate church wedding and the cost will run well over $1,000. This is her first marriage and she says it's going to be a dream come true.

My problem is that my first wedding was also a dream come true — a spectacular affair, with all the trimmings. We received elegant wedding gifts from friends and family. Both sides.

I would like to invite many of the same people to this second wedding but I don't feel that they should buy a second gift. Should I drop them a note saying "No gift please." — SECOND TIME AROUND.

DEAR SECOND TIME: Gifts should not be mentioned, under any circumstances. Those who wish to send a gift will do so, regardless. And they may wish to do so since the bride is brand new even if the groom isn't.

HOLD IT!

Dear Susanna: There you are. You have already called everyone to Sunday dinner, and all you have to do is strain the gravy and carry it in with you to the table.

But, some villain has removed the strainer from its usual spot. Eeek, it might take minutes to find it. What to do in a spot like this?

Dear Su: To freshen up draperies between cleanings, put into dryer with a damp towel and spin for approximately 20 minutes — the dust is absorbed by the towel and the drapes do not need ironing. — Mrs. K. Dawson.

As books have a habit of getting themselves all caught up on the inside of dryers, be sure to remove them first, or always turn over the top and bottom of them in out of harm's way. — SUSANNA.

Many New Designs In Sleepwear Fashion

By MARGARET NESS

TORONTO (CP) — Sleepwear has taken on importance in the fashion world. Proof of this is that some of the most successful international couturiers now are designing nightdresses and pyjamas as a sideline.

Four top European designers even considered their new lounge and sleepwear sufficiently important to come to New York for the fashion press reception introducing their collection in celanese nylon.

The Queen's dressmaker, Norman Hartnell, included several applique lace-trimmed sleeveless peignoirs, worn over shirred-bodice gowns. Pedro Rodriguez took inspiration from his native Spain in poncho over pyjain and lavishly ruffled pyjamas.

Micol Fontana of Rome, one of the famous Fontana sisters, lined long nightgowns, trimmed in an asymmetrical line with embroidery or with a cowl-back insert. Jacques Heim gave a Parisienne look to oyster-embroidered tunics, ruffled like mail, and worn over baby doll bikini bra and pants.

Interesting, too, was the color in the celanese nylon fabrics, in an asymmetrical green, deep pink and deep blue.

But on this side of the Atlantic several top designers are also invading the field. Foremost is Rodi Gernreich with his first collection of sleepwear for L'Intrigue, a division of Exquisite Form. In view of the furore over his topless bathing suit, you'd expect semi-nudity or at least the new portholes. But Rod goes overly demure with almost complete cover-ups. He even uses opaque fabrics, mostly matte-cut synthetic material that looks and feels like crepe.

COLORS SUBDUED

Again, in contradiction to his wildly unorthodox use of color, he highlights pastel prints on white for his sleepwear. However, they're not the usual florals but checks, plaids, stripes and polka dots. He does use other colors, too, and even lets a red-and-white checked top fight it out against the charcoal-and-white horizontal stripes of the pyjama shorts. This hipster style he calls Jesse James and adds a holster belt in brilliant green satin.

He also introduced a "baseball" nightie of an extremely short skirt and a "clown" floor-length gown with ruffled collar and long loose sleeves.

Another nighttime collection with an unexpectedly different look is that of Fernando Sanchez for Warner's. Spanish Fernando has European credits that include designing ready-to-wear for Nina Ricci and lingerie for Christian Dior.

Now he presents his American collection with a Moorish theme, as floor-length caftans, or djelabahs as it's called in Morocco, with deep-moving folds. There also are multi-striped harem pyjamas in blues and reds, banded at the knees.

SELLS IN NEW YORK

In Canada, Claire Haddad is presenting internationally known for her sleepwear and lingerie. An American agent has currently sold several items in the spring collection of this Toronto designer to the exclusive Henri Bendel shop in New York and to Saks Fifth Avenue.

But even more indicative of her new status is that Women's Wear Daily has given editorial space several times recently to Mrs. Haddad and her designs. This newspaper is published in New York and regarded by the garment manufacturers as their bible.

Vogue magazine noted these days that a long nightgown is sketch and has asked to photograph the sketched folk-piece from Canada for a late June issue. Equally interesting is that the fabric, while nylon lace, is made in Canada. The set includes hipster sleep pants with ruffled edges and bra plus a matching full-line jacket and a head kerchief.

Mrs. Haddad was also asked to participate in a Flowers of Barbados promotion by the Canadian Cotton Council and sent several outfits to be photographed on the island. One of the sleep attire sets, in floral printed cotton sheer, comprises a back - dipping - to - floor poncho in wild vibrant colors over a shocking pink nightgown.

Mrs. Haddad comments that if you want to dip into comfortable sleepwear in the evenings, the matching jacket, or the poncho type cover-up, turns it into quite presentable informal at-home wear, if guests drop in unexpectedly.

Mother of Seven Prefers Canada to Homeland

During a visit to The Netherlands, Bob Dunlop, managing editor of the Chatham News, talked with a Toronto woman making a trip to her native land. In this story she tells why she prefers to live in Canada.

By BOB DUNLOP

AMSTERDAM (CP)—An emigrant from Holland to Canada reluctantly returns after seven months' stay and changes her mind. She finds Canada is much better, but at least one says it has no desire to return permanently.

Betty Diening, a mother of seven who lives in the Toronto suburb of Willowdale, says Canada may lack the personal touch that the average European has, but precludes but it still offers more freedom for the individual.

Mrs. Diening says she believes a "change for the better is coming" in The Netherlands and that "there seems to be more peace of mind for the individual" nowadays.

But she thinks the average Netherlander would still choose to remain in Canada if given the opportunity to return home and compare life in the two countries.

"Even if you wanted to work in Holland to make a success, you couldn't," Mrs. Diening said on returning to Amsterdam for a visit. "There is no incentive, with the present government control in Holland."

Mrs. Diening, now a writer for a Dutch-language weekly in Toronto, says she was in Holland four years ago for a visit and adds that although life for better are coming, the country has not changed politically "one inch."

One of a family of eight, Betty grew up in Utrecht where her father was an industrialist. She was married 13 years before coming to Canada. Her husband had been a lawyer for 12 years and then settled as editor of a periodical daily in Holland from 1957 to 1960.

The family chose Canada as a place to emigrate to rather than some other country such as Australia, because they believed there were more opportunities for their children in Canada. They settled in Toronto because they had a friend living there.

Mr. Diening couldn't work as a lawyer without returning to university and his first job was as a fund-raiser in campaigns to build Roman Catholic churches and schools. He later worked for a photo film company but said he bought the Dutch Canadian Weekly.

The Dienings are proud that one son now is attending Royal Military College in Kingston, Ont., and Mrs. Diening is pleased with the future outlook for female children.

Mrs. Diening notes that Holland is still plagued by overpopulation and that it may take as long as 10 to 15 years to get a place to live. And then the accommodation would be far from what is considered normal in North America.

"You need much more, supermarkets, more buildings which provide living space for a two-income person. There are more automatic washers and dryers in homes and there are laundromats.

"There are still many houses which haven't refrigerators and what they have are much smaller and haven't the capacity for good storage of those in Canada."

Successful Living

Thought He Was Nice Now Not Quite Sure

DEAR DORIS: This is my second marriage to a real nice guy and now I'm wondering if he is nice.

I have educated five children without any of his help, as their dad passed away when they were young.

He hasn't given me one cent since we have been married. I pay three or four bills plus groceries. If I am off work sick and he gives me money he expects me to pay him back, and I always fight down to the last penny.

I just had some money left to me and now he expects me to help him out with payments on our home. He isn't very nice to the girls' boy friends when they come to the house. He won't take me out any place. I would like to quit work as I am nearing 60 but am afraid to have to depend on him for money.—BORED TO TEARS.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR BORED: Sounds more like a parasite than a Real Nice Guy. Hasn't even got a nice disposition to make him worth supporting. Hit high lime for the worm to turn.

What have you got to lose?

DEAR DORIS: I am being married for the second time and having quite a time deciding on a guest list. Is there any set number of people one can invite? Our two families plus ministers and wives bring it up to 50.

I feel I am pulled between being correct and keeping friends happy. If we planned then a/l it would run into hundreds. I have remained very close to my first husband's family and they also would like to attend this wedding. This would add another 25, or so I am told by another and father and add on two?

Could I give house parties after the honeymoon for those I can't invite?—PULLED BOTH WAYS.

DEAR PULLED: Keep the list under one hundred. Better classify the previous in-laws as friends rather than family, and decide just how many come according to how close they are as friends.

House parties after are a highly satisfactory solution to this business of how many and whom to leave off the list.

DEAR DORIS: Thanks to you for now I have the art of making friends.

But my problems come one after another. I am 13. My parents allowed me to go to the school dance. When I got home my mother asked me how it was and I told her I had a ball. I also told her that two of the boys were drunk.

So my mother called a meeting and discussed the situation. All the mothers were in favor of these dances and my mother was voted down. But she is not the kind who gives up easy and said that if they wanted dances so bad they should be all girl ones. However, the story went around town that my mother said "the girls should dance in one room and the boys in the next."

At the next meeting the kids at school voted that I couldn't get into the classroom where the dance is held. What should I do? I don't want to argue or start fights.—WALLFLOWER.

DEAR WALLFLOWER: If your mother has been misquoted, why not tell her? She could straighten out the rumor and explain herself. She might also consider bowing to the will of the majority—which is good democracy.

Since the ten-cent leaflet "Don't Be Shy" provided you with the art of making friends, don't lose them for want of explaining yourself.

DEAR DORIS: My neighbors are noisy and bug me. I am 14 and when my friends come down, they complain that we make too much noise. They go so far as peeking in the windows, and phoning my mother at work.

The reason is because I don't invite their ten-year-old daughter. None of my friends like her and she is too young for us. — N.N.

DEAR N.N.: What says Mother? She's still the boss, even though it is by remote control — unless, indeed, the rumpus your pals make is jarring the neighborhood out of its wits.

Could you invite half as many, and cut down the din? I agree that the ten-year-old is a little too young, even though she thinks she isn't — but if you are acting like responsible older girls you ought to practise putting the lid on your exuberance.

(Doris can help you with that puzzling decision. Write to her, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.)

Idyllic Childhood Pastime Converted Into Big Job

VANCOUVER (CP) — Bessie Kann is one of those fortunate individuals who have been able to convert an idyllic childhood pastime into a high-paying and personally-rewarding career.

Miss Kann started sketching people and clothes as a child in her native Denmark and now is one of the leading fashion illustrators on the West Coast.

She spends most of her working time at fashion shows—pencil and sketchbook in hand—watching an endless parade of stylishly-clad models.

Success didn't come overnight.

Miss Kann started work in the fashion section of a Danish department store. She spent three years learning the intricacies of merchandising and sales technique before her artistic abilities were noticed.

She took an intensive course at Denmark's Bonnes Academy of Arts where she coupled her natural ability in fashion designing and portrayal with rigorous training in sketching the human anatomy.

"You can't portray fashion unless you can express the lines of the human body well," she says.

WON DESIGN AWARD

Her first big break came when she won a designing award from the Wool Bureau of Scandinavia.

The award, she said, gave her confidence after she moved to Canada to approach Toronto clothing manufacturer Lou Larry for a job. He added her to his staff and she rapidly rose from showroom model to become Mr. Larry's supervising production assistant.

"I sometimes complained in those days," said Miss Kann. "I used to look at the models just sitting there between appointments and feel as though I were doing more than my share of the work.

"Mr. Larry always told me that I was luckier than they because I was furthering my career.

"He was right."

Illness in the family later forced Miss Kann to move to Vancouver where she came in contact with Mr. Larry's local representative, Alan Frome.

He encouraged her not to give up her career and introduced her to Vancouver's major fashion buyers.

Soon Miss Kann was leading the field in professional fashion illustration—a position she holds today.

By ROD CURRIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ever since Robert S. McNamara quit the $200,000-a-year post as president of Ford Motor Co. in 1961 to become defence secretary at $25,000 a year, he has been the tough guy of the U.S. cabinet.

Many consider him a sort of super - efficient man - machine with a computer brain. More volatile critics say he is short, harsh, sometimes truculent and even autocratic. They call him "Supermac" and one congressman of the U.S. House of Representatives likened him to a Caesar.

But no matter how persistent the opposition, what's mounted notably in recent U.S. Senate hearings on Viet Nam, McNamara never flinches. Staring directly at his adversaries through steel - rimmed spectacles, he rarely smiles or frowns. He practically never makes a joke. He has all his facts and figures at his fingertips, never strains for an answer.

But, to the amazement of many, he has shown in two speeches in the last week a side rarely seen in public.

APPEAL TO YOUTH

Addressing the American Society of Newspaper Editors in Montreal last Wednesday, he spoke in a somewhat idealistic and philosophic vein, expounding the belief that military strength alone cannot assure security. This from the man who usually devotes himself to the claim that the U.S. has enough atomic weapons power to blast both Russia and China.

He also told the editors he proposed asking every young person in the U.S. to give two years of service, either in the military, the peace corps or some voluntary program to better mankind.

But those who jumped to the conclusion that he was advocating public service as a substitute for military service were disappointed. Aides said he was simply was seeking to point up a moral obligation to serve, not any legal obligation based in legislation.

COLLEGE SPEECH

Then Sunday, addressing the graduating class at Chatham College in Pittsburgh, Mr. Namara appeared as a defender of "freedom to dissent" — emphasizing the right of campus protestors to demonstrate against the Viet Nam war even though, he said, it is clear their actions give comfort to the enemy.

Of course any other sources, neither speech would be considered particularly startling. But McNamara, a man not given to making statements until he has calculated their possible consequences, the words caused a considerable stir among political observers.

His Montreal statement that the U.S. should seek a more "realistic relationship" with Red China and Russia drew particular attention.

Could it be that McNamara, after all these years in the storm centre of U.S. politics, has gone soft?

Not likely. But it is considered possible he does finally feel a need for a softening of his public image, particularly among youthful college protest-defender of most actively opposed to the firm Viet Nam policy for which he stands.

Veterans observers, after they had time to digest his meaning, also were inclined to agree that although McNamara may appear more conciliatory he has not really changed his role as defender of his military policies in the U.S. prosecution of the war in Viet Nam.

Your Car

Wheel Woes Cause Poor Gas Mileage

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

When your car starts rolling up some heavy gas bills, and tune-ups don't seem to help . . . think tires! Are they wearing right? Are they getting threadbare? Do they have bald patches, scuff marks, bulgy or sagging sidewalls, egg-like bumps?

You may never have given it a thought, but sad gas and tire mileage often go hand in hand. And many car owners have only themselves to blame.

When they don't see that tires are kept properly inflated, that wheels are balanced and alignment is true, that springs, shocks, and wheel bearings stay in good health . . . then they're asking for skyhigh gas and tire upkeep.

Driving practices are another factor. You've got to have money to burn — and little interest in living — if shotgun starts, panic stops, engine-shrinking turns and careless overloading is your modus operandi.

R. B. asks: "What will cause the starter to make a buzzing noise when turned on and sometimes fail to start the engine?"

A weak battery or a gummy starter drive shaft.

Usually because that particular one hasn't been tightly inserted into the socket. This means the spark must jump an air gap . . . which will eventually cause corrosion to develop.

W. S. writes: "There's a heavy thumping noise in the engine when my '61 is first started, but it quiets down when the engine warms up. Would this be a piston knock?"

Sounds more like a worn main bearing. Better have it checked out.

S. H. asks: "For several mornings, my engine backfired right after starting. But just as mysteriously as this began, it disappeared. What is your theory about this?"

Either a valve which was a bit sticky — dirt or water in the gas — or a sticking choke.

Russian Well Liked in West Will Head Visitors to Canada

By JOHN BEST

MOSCOW (CP)—One of the Kremlin's top men, Dmitry Stepanovich Polyansky, will visit Canada early this summer as leader of a Soviet parliamentary delegation.

Polyansky, 48, is regarded as a leading candidate for the future leadership of Russia's government. Many Western observers are puzzling for him because he has impressed them as an approachable, pragmatic man with whom Western leaders would find it possible to deal on a reasonable basis.

The visit of Polyansky's delegation will return a visit a Canadian parliamentary group made to the Soviet Union last summer. It will begin June 27 and probably last about two weeks.

It will be Polyansky's first visit to a Western country since he was named a first deputy premier last Nov. 2.

He is one of two first deputy premiers, who stand just below Premier Alexei Kosygin in the Soviet government hierarchy. The other is Kirill Mazurov, 47, named to the post a few months before Polyansky.

NEXT TO BREZHNEV

With Alexander Shelepin, also 47, they form a troika of Kremlin career men—assistants to the Soviet leadership — who never lived under Russia's old, pre-revolutionary regime.

Shelepin was relieved of a deputy premier's job last December to concentrate on Communist Party work. He is believed to have the eyes trained on the job of party boss Leonid Brezhnev, to whom he now is reported to be No. 2.

However, all three are members of the party's ruling presidium — high government and party jobs tend to become soon what enmeshed in the Soviet hierarchy.

The party leadership has traditionally been the fount of highest power in the Soviet Union.

Polyansky was born Nov. 7, 1917, the day of the Bolshevik revolution, in a village in the industrial Donbass region of the Ukraine.

He graduated from an agricultural institute in 1939, and in the same year joined the Communist party. Since then he has had an impressive succession of party jobs.

FORMERLY PREMIER

In 1956 he was named to the party's central committee, and in May 1960 became a member of the presidium. He is a former premier of the Russian Federation—biggest of the 15 republics making up the U.S.S.R.—and became a deputy premier of the Soviet Union in 1962.

In 1959, while premier of the Russian Federation, he headed a Soviet delegation that toured the eastern United States.

In Charleston, W. Va., he gave an interview in which he showed respect for the accomplishments of U.S. industry but not the slightest doubt of the superiority of communism.

He championed peaceful coexistence.

His manner generally was credited with having created the U.S. tour, in contrast to the the stiffness that characterizes many Soviet leaders. He is said to possess a quiet sense of humor.

Throughout his career Polyansky has kept up his interest in agriculture, and today is credited with considerable knowledge of Russia's agriculture and its problems.

Churchill's Doctor Faces Public Storm Over Details of Death

By HAROLD MORRISON

LONDON (CP) — A public storm has broken around the head of Lord Moran following publication of his report outlining in clinical detail the crumbling physical and mental strength of Winston Churchill, struggling to hold on to power in his declining years.

Should the eminent, 83-year-old doctor, who served the British wartime leader for a quarter-century, disclose what physicians normally keep secret about their patients? And should he have published now when some of Churchill's close relatives, including his widow, still live and suffer the humiliation?

"It may hurt Churchill's family but this is the stuff of history," says the Conservative Daily Mail. But the Earl of Birkenhead, in the equally Conservative Daily Telegraph, calls Moran "ruthless and selfish."

More heated are the charges of two leading newspapers which accuse Churchill's cabinet colleagues of fraud and false pretence in hiding the truth in 1953 when the prime minister suffered a major stroke.

In his book Winston Churchill, the Struggle for Survival, Moran said he wanted to issue a medical bulletin saying Churchill had suffered "a disturbance of the cerebral circulation." He claimed Lord Salisbury and R. A. Butler—now Lord Butler—deleted the sentence, saying only that the prime minister needed a complete rest from arduous duties. They persuaded Churchill to agree to the changed wording.

Though Moran's report, based on his diaries, show Churchill struggling against ailments, age and enemies to hold on to power, it also portrays the grandeur of a spirit struggling against physical decay to spread the alarm of the post-war Stalin menace; still capable of delivering enthralling speeches when his body and mind yearned for rest.

Churchill, who at last yielded the premiership in 1955, died in 1965, of a stroke, at the age of 90.

Mr. Meltzer on Real Estate
"What's Your Problem"

By BERNARD C. MELTZER

Numerous communications have been received from readers complaining of charges being made by brokers to cover expenses when they are unsuccessful in their sales efforts. Not being versed in real estate practice, many readers have paid these charges.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: For more than six months, a real estate broker has tried to sell my house but has not succeeded. I admit he has tried very hard. He advertised extensively, made up elaborate signs, and even prepared a brochure. The problem is not price, but the layout and architecture. My husband (now deceased) was an avante-garde architect, and the house reflects his unusual taste.

The broker now has given up. He has sent me a bill for more than $600. He says this is to cover his out-of-pocket expenses. The only agreement I made was to pay him 5 percent of the sales price when the property was sold. I am ignorant about real estate matters. Is it customary to pay the broker's expense if he is unsuccessful in obtaining a buyer? — Widow

ANSWER: In real estate practice, a broker earns his commission when he secures a buyer ready, willing and able to purchase. The expenses of selling are assumed by the broker as his business risk. The only exception (and this is rare) is where a specific agreement is made to reimburse the broker for expenses if he is unable to secure a buyer.

Since the broker did not secure a purchaser, nor did you agree to reimburse him for expenses, it is my opinion that you are under no further financial obligation to the broker. If he persists in his claim, report the incident to your local board of realtors.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I have a $15,000 mortgage for 30 years at 6 percent interest. My monthly payments are $89.94. On the first of next month, my husband will receive a $10 per week raise. I have been thinking of applying all or part of the raise to the mortgage payments if it will represent a savings or substantially reduce the term of the mortgage. — Thrifty

ANSWER: Small additions to mortgage payments have a substantial effect on both the mortgage and interest savings. If you increase the mortgage payments by half of the rates per week the term will be reduced from 30 years to less than 19 years. If you apply the full $10 raise, the mortgage term will be reduced to somewhat over 12 years.

The savings in interest will be even more spectacular. If you apply $5 per week to mortgage payments, you will save about $7,000 in interest over the term of the mortgage. If you apply the full raise, you will save $11,000 in interest.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I have air-conditioned my home with window-type air conditioners. I had the wiring checked beforehand, and was told that it was adequate. Yet, sometimes when the units start, fuses will blow. When the units are running, however, I never have any trouble. I am getting tired of running to the basement and replacing fuses. Is there any solution short of a new house and new wiring?—Want to Save The Money

ANSWER: When air conditioner is started, it may draw up to three times as much current as it uses normally. The tremendous, though short, drain may burn out an ordinary fuse before the motor settles down to normal running load. A special time-delay fuse may be purchased at hardware stores. It will permit an overload for a short time, too short to allow the wires to get hot, but will take care of the initial overload caused by the starting of the motor.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I have a bulge in the linoleum of my kitchen floor. It is in the middle of the room so it not only spoils its appearance, but makes walking uncomfortable. Is there any way of straightening out the linoleum without ripping it up? — Tired of walking uphill

ANSWER: The best and simplest method of removing a bulge from linoleum is as follows: With a sharp knife or razor blade, make a four-inch cut in the middle of the bulge. Cut along the pattern where it will not be noticeable. Force linoleum cement into the opening. After the cement is spread, flatten the bulge with a weight, and let it remain in place for at least three days. From time to time, temporarily remove the weight and wipe away excess cement that may have oozed up through the crack.

Mr. Meltzer welcomes your letters and comments. Unfortunately he is unable to enter personal correspondence with readers, but will attempt to answer as many letters as possible through his column.

Tashkent Again Hit by Strong Earthquake

From AP-Reuters

MOSCOW (CP)—A strong new earthquake today gave Tashkent its worst shaking since a destructive tremor April 26 started a series of quakes.

Reports conflicted on today's damage.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, reported that medical help was sent to the hardest-hit parts of the Central Asian city, indicating casualties. A number of old buildings were damaged, Tass said.

But a spokesman for the main Tashkent newspaper, Pravda Vostoka (Truth of the East), said by telephone that there was no destruction, deaths or injuries.

"It was just a rubbing of our nerves," said the newspaper's deputy secretary, named Prigor.

Soviet policy has been to play down the situation in Tashkent, which is off limits to Western correspondents.

Tass said the tremor was nearly as strong as the one that did extensive damage to Tashkent April 26. It measured about seven points on the Soviet 12-point scale. Soviet seismologists after the first quake, Many of them now lived in tented towns.

Damage was believed to have been even greater than official reports indicated. Officials have said large areas of Tashkent will have to be rebuilt.

A nationwide relief fund has been launched and thousands of building workers and prefabricated homes have been sent to the city.

Reservation Indians Exempt From Sales Tax

TYENDINAGA — Residents of the Tyendinaga Mohawk Reserve are pleasantly surprised to learn they they are exempt from paying the Ontario sales tax, and chagrined to find that they have been paying it unnecessarily since it was first levied.

This came to light when the hereditary Sik Nations Chief wrote the retail sales tax bureau of the Ontario Department of Revenue to complain about Indians paying a sales' tax on tobacco, when the Indians had been the original growers and had introduced its use to non-Indians.

A letter from the office of the controller of revenue, signed by the director, S. Garland Finch: "Following the letter of January 25, 1966, you are advised that purchases made by Indians on Reservations are exempt from retail sales tax.

"Counterwise, anything purchased off the Reservation but delivered to the Reservation, would also be exempt. When purchases are made contrary to these conditions then the sales tax should apply."

This is taken to mean that only those Indians residing on a Reservation are exempt from the tax.

A second letter inquiring about goods purchased in stores and taken home by purchaser brought the reply that "it would be a very difficult task to advise everyone concerned in selling items to Indians to establish whether they were exempt or otherwise, having in mind that we have 140,000 registered vendors throughout the province." They were requested "to send names of merchants in your area so that they can be notified."

LETTERS CONFIRMED

Melville Hill who attended the meeting of the Indian Advisory Committee to the Department of Welfare, reports that Mr. Garland and two of his assistants attended the meeting and confirmed the letters received by the Six Nations Confederacy. They said "There is no argument about it. It is a fact." However it applies only to Reserve residents, he explained. It is simply a matter of getting a system working which will be satisfactory to everyone, Mr. Garland added.

Asked to conjecture as to the system, Mr. Hill stated that it would probably mean that each Indian resident of each reserve would be issued an identification card, somewhat similar to ours, by the local Indian office. This card when presented anywhere in Ontario when making a purchase would exempt the Indian from paying the sales tax. The big job now for each reservation is to send to the department the names of the merchants in that locality.

Ontario has 160 Reservations and four Indian settlements, Mr. Hill stated.

Police Report Weekend Accident-Free

NAPANEE — At six o'clock Monday evening no accidents had occurred in the Napanee area or in the town itself over the weekend. Both the local detachment of the O.P.P. and the town police were very happy.

INVESTIGATE BOMB

MONTREAL (CP) — Police are investigating a home-made bomb which rocked the garage of one of Quebec's agearly heros Sunday morning, shifting it several inches but causing little damage. City maintenance men used a crane to restore the statue of Dollard des Ormeaux to its original position.

Salt Water Well Brings Owner Fine

NAPANEE — A Napanee area man recently was fined $200 and costs following conviction on a charge of pollution laid under the Ontario Water Resources Commission Act.

R. J. Carter, a former owner of a restaurant and service station located on Highway 41, north of the Macdonald-Cartier Freeway, was charged after he refused to seal a salt well, and used its water for sanitary purposes.

The salt water, discharged to nearby tanks, ultimately contaminated area ground water, including neighboring wells.

Carter also was convicted and fined $20 and costs on each of two charges for breach of the plumbing regulations, which prohibit the piping of non-potable water into any place such as a kitchen where it might be accessible for human consumption or used in the preparation of food.

Passing sentence, Magistrate R. C. Jackson of Napanee said pollution of water in Ontario was a serious matter, and had to be strictly controlled.

A similar pollution charge against Norman F. Jackson of Napanee was withdrawn, after his salt well, which never had been used, was sealed along with the Carter well by the well driller in the presence of a representative from the OWRC. Jackson had first refused to allow his well to be sealed.

Church Groups

TRINITY U.C.W.

NAPANEE — "We shall have wings" was the theme of the May meeting of Trinity U.C.W. which was held in the church hall last week. Tennyson's prophecy that man would some day fly was elaborated on, and applied to the spirit which is uplifted through faith. Mrs. Cress MacLean was assisted by Miss Mabel Milling in conducting the devotional period. Mrs. H. B. Mills sang a solo.

Correspondence included acknowledgments from the United Church witness relief fund and from the Fred Victor Mission, for bales of clothing sent them. A letter was read from Michael, the Greek boy whom this organization is sponsoring.

A report from the membership mitee showed that renovations of the manse had been completed and were satisfactory.

Mrs. Powell announced that the Sunday school picnic would be held at Beaver Lake June 15, and asked for the co-operation of the U.C.W. Mrs. J. D. Mayhew told the ladies of the junior choir festival which is to be held next month in the form of Mr. William Aylesworth, organist and senior choir director, and Mr. Aylesworth, director of the junior choir.

ISN'T A CRIME

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court ruled Monday that a state cannot make it a crime for a newspaper editor to publish an editorial on election day urging readers to vote a certain way. Alabama thereby was barred from prosecuting James E. Mills of the Birmingham Post-Herald for a 1962 election day editorial urging for abolition of the city-commissioner form of municipal government.

Morven Church Burns Mortgage

NAPANEE — Sunday was a day to remember for the handful of families belonging to Morven United Church. It was the day they burned their mortgage.

Seven years ago, May 24, 1959, Morven White Church burned. For a time services were held in the Fourth Line Church with members debating what course to follow. Some d...ided to join one of the two large churches in Napanee, but others felt there was a real need of their community church.

In November the new building was started, and by the following spring was ready for services. May 22, 1960, the corner stone was laid, and the following Sunday the church was dedicated. A week later came the dedication of memorials and gifts to the church.

Last Sunday the church was crowded on the sixth anniversary of the laying of the corner stone. Eric French, chairman of the board of trustees, Ian Brodie, chairman of the stewards and Mrs. E. Magee, president of the U.C.W., were elected by the congregation to participate in the mortgage - burning ceremony.

Mr. Brodie outlined the history of the church from the time of the fire until Sunday, and Mrs. Magee offered prayer. Mr. French lit a candle and handed it to Mr. Earl Dangye, the oldest member of the church, who touched the flame to the note.

Guest speaker was the Rev. Irvine Johnstone of Trinity United Church Napanee, who urged his listeners not to relinquish their efforts now that they had reached this goal. "Burning the mortgage is only the end of one phase of your work", the speaker said, "it also marks the beginning of another phase".

In special session the week before the official board approved a new front door and stained glass window for the church from Mr. and Mrs. E. Hagerman. It was dedicated jointly by Mr. Johnstone and the minister of the church, the Rev. Russell Finley. Dedicated at the same time were a United Church flag and a clock for the Sunday school.

Tickets for the anniversary dinner Wednesday are all sold. The church basement seats 160 and there are two sittings, one at 5:30 and the second at 7:00.

It is estimated that at least 400 people will have enjoyed the turkey dinner by the end of the evening.

DENT CHARGE

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—Jordanian forces beat off Israeli raiders who crossed the border Monday night in an effort to blow up a building at the Ghaboot outpost 50 miles north of Aqaba, a Jordanian military spokesman claimed Tuesday. The Israelis denied the charge.

Wilson

strike-breaking, then we would react accordingly. If they move vessels only to let food ships go, we would not consider that strike-breaking."

Although Wilson specifically said the order was not directed at the unions, some sources saw in the situation a widening rift between Wilson and the trade unions.

Wilson, striving desperately to maintain a prices and incomes policy because of the country's financial plight, has been faced with an almost endless stream of pay demands.

The shipping federation, representing the owners, has offered the seamen, who now work a 56-hour week, a 40-hour week over a three-year period.

The 63,000-man union, claiming 518 ships now are tied up and 14,000 men on strike, has refused to budge from its stand, which would be tantamount to a 17-per-cent pay increase over their current weekly wage of £14 (.42). The ship owners have refused to increase their offer, amounting to a 13-per-cent increase spread over three years.

One Canadian newspaper, comparing wages, says the basic monthly wage for a British seaman comes to nearly £40 calculated from a 56-hour week, compared with the Norwegian £26 for a 45-hour week and the Swedish £77 for a 45-hour week.

MARY JOINS QUEUE

The liner Queen Mary joined the growing list of strikebound ships when she arrived at Southampton early today. A spokesman for the Cunard Line, owners of the ship, said about 850 of the 1,043 crew members belong to the striking union and joined the strike.

Jack Dash, leader of the dock workers in London, told a mass meeting that within the next week the shipping congestion would bring idleness to their ranks.

"Then the employers will have their problems with 65,000 dockers unable to work and drawing £9 'tall back' money each week."

Dash appealed to the dockers not to be provoked "into irresponsible unofficial action now that would not help the seamen's case one iota."

DAM GIVES WAY

ST. RAYMOND, Que. (CP)—The 5,000 residents of this farming community 40 miles west of Quebec City stood ready to evacuate the town east of Sunday after a dam on the Nelson River burst 30 miles upstream. However, the rushing waters, which swept away at least two bridges on a country road near the dam, spread out before reaching the community. No one was killed or injured but several persons were trapped by water.

The MAC Theatre Society of Calgary won four awards, including the Canadian Association of Broadcasters Trophy and $1,000 for the best production in the week - long festival which ended Saturday.

Also taking four awards was le Mouvement contemporain, a Montreal group which carries Europe's contemporary theatre to Quebec.

Andre Brassard, named best director for his work in the Montreal group's Les Bonnes by Jean Genet, said: "I want to get into professional theatre as soon as I can.

"That is the whole idea of le Mouvement contemporain," said Mr. Brassard, at 19 possibly the youngest director ever to win the high festival honor.

Both winners of the best acting awards, Michael Ball and Sharon Pollock, said they want to turn professional.

Miss Pollock, who co-starred with Mr. Ball in the Calgary group's production of The Knack by Ann Jellicoe, said "the final goal of almost any amateur enterprise is becoming good enough to go professional."

"I'm no exception," said the young mother of five.

CALGARY FOURTH WIN

Calgary's fourth win was the $200 prize which went to James Eberley as the best actor under 23.

In addition to the best director award, the Montreal troupe earned the best visual production title and the best French language play. The seven-play festival was preceded by a joint conference of the Western Canadian Educational Theatre, Canadian Child Drama Association and the DDF conference.

Jean Pouliot of Montreal, president of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters, principal sponsors of the festival since 1960, said the CAB will expand its regional participation to replace its former national role. Richard MacDonald of Ottawa, longtime governor and executive vice - president, retired. No successor was named.

Chairman for next year's festival, to be held in St. John's, Nfld., will be John C. Perlin of the host city. The festival next year will contain only plays written by Canadian authors. Only one Canadian play was presented this year.

TO AID HOSPITAL

The proceeds of the chaos will be contributed to the Tache Hospital in St. Boniface, Man.

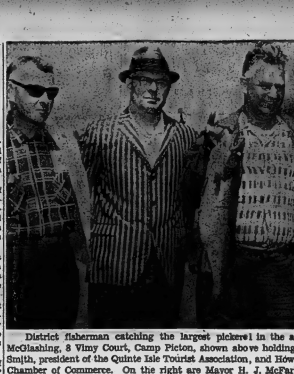
Cool weather moved into the Prairies late Monday, spoiling the holiday in some regions. But Portage la Prairie, Man., recorded a high of 91 Sunday, equalling a mark set in 1930.

Crowds thronged to horse races in Calgary, Saskatoon kicked off celebrations for its 60th birthday and a new official flag will be raised in the city Thursday.

In Toronto, fireworks displays were set off all over the city and some 50 persons were treated for minor burns. An eight-year-old girl was severely burned by an exploding firecracker.

More than 2,500 persons attended a time-honored «Victoria Day ritual at the Six Nations Indian reserve near Brantford under sunny skies and 75-degree temperatures.

TULIPS DRAW WELL



Tourists flocked to the annual tulip festival in Ottawa under sunny, warm skies and large crowds visited the Parliament Buildings.

Blossoms were the big attraction on the Niagara Peninsula and thousands of motorists drove along Lake Ontario to see the fruit orchards.

Roman Catholic children in Montreal went to school Monday but protestant students observed the holiday. Under new provincial regulations, the Catholic students are allowed to observe a floating holiday and took Friday off instead.

Skies were clear in the Maritimes and temperatures were in the mid-70s. Holiday activities in Newfoundland were quiet and Prince Edward Island, in the midst of a provincial election campaign, had no special activities scheduled.

Traffic was reported heavy in New Brunswick. Large crowds attended Victoria Day road races in Trenton, N.S., and the province's annual Annapolis Valley apple blossom festival started in Digby.

District fisherman catching the largest pickerel in the annual Prince Edward fishing derby was Lloyd McGlashing, 8 Vimy Court, Camp Picton, shown above holding the 9.93-pound fish. Girl's Kidney Forms Bond Of Friendship

TORONTO (CP)—The kidney of a dead girl has formed a bond of friendship between two families.

Arthur Van Zandt, an Owen Sound salesman, received the kidney from 16-year-old Francine Gagliardi who was killed in a car accident Jan. 31.

Mr. Van Zandt had been in a Toronto hospital for about a year. He was alive only because of an artificial kidney machine.

When Frances was brought in the hospital after the accident, doctors asked Mr. and Mrs. Michael Gagliardi for permission to use Frances' kidney in a transplant.

After doctors assured the couple the transplant could be done immediately after the death of their daughter, the parents agreed

MEETS PARENTS

The Van Zandts and the Gagliardis met Monday in Mr. Gagliardi's tiny Italian grocery store in Toronto for the first of what they hope will be many visits.

When Mr. Van Zandt entered the store, Frances' mother clutched him to her and kissed him.

"I lost my girl, but I am happy we are able to give somebody live," Mrs. Gagliardi said.

Mr. Van Zandt doesn't think of the kidney as belonging to someone else. "I mostly think of it as my own. But I try not to think of it all, really."

Although he weighs 16 pounds at the time of the operation, he now weighs 140.

The tobacco salesman hopes to be back at work in about two weeks but, he says, the future is uncertain.

The three tiraches asked to leave Poland were Cmdr. William Allhoff, naval attache, Col. Bertram Parr, assistant military attache—identified as the occupants of the car in question—and naval attache Col. Edward Wooten.

Allhoff and Parr were accused of "intelligence activities" while Wooten was said to have "engaged in activities contrary to his diplomatic status."

P.A.F. said part of the material from the briefcase was returned to and accepted by the American embassy. The remainder was being held as evidence of illegal espionage.

One of the Poles ordered out of the U.S. was accused of having "engaged in activities incompatible with the norms of diplomatic conduct."

After three Americans had been expelled from Poland, two more Poles in Washington were declared "no longer acceptable."

Longshoremen Take Holiday

VANCOUVER (CP) — The loading and unloading of freighters stopped Monday when longshoremen in all British Columbia ports spent the Victoria Day holiday at home despite a court injunction.

Agents for the shipping lines were considering further action today.

The longshoremen's action came in the middle of a troubled labor scene in which:

—Garbage collectors and street sweepers in Vancouver continued their strike as garbage piled high;

—The powerful International Woodworkers of America (CLC) was voting heavily in favor of a walkout.

Outboard Club Holds Races At Waupoos

PICTON—It was fair-weather racing on Sunday afternoon with unny skies and fast water as the Picton Outboard Club sponsored a race at Jack Wells' «Sandy Point» at Waupoos. One of the largest crowds ever to attend outboard races in the district was present to watch both American and Canadian boats participate in the action packed events. There were lots of chills and spills as boats overturned, went end-over-end and sollked. Fortunately there was only one driver hurt and his injuries were slight. He was attended by St. John's Ambulance personnel. In his mishap he took off the complete front of his boat.

36 Utility, Riggs A. Smith of Montrose, Penns., U.S.A.

B Utility, Dave Curtis, Watertown, N.Y.

A Stock Hydro, Tom Bain, Toronto.

D Utility, Laverne Moore, Picton.

C Stock Hydro, Ted Abel, Agincourt, Ont.

B Stock Hydro, Mike Toohey, Deseronto.

D Stock Hydro, Roy Warner, Oakville.

A Utility, Gordon McCredy, Brockville.

Of the 75 boats which participated in the spectacular races about 40 were from the U.S.A. They claimed the course is one of the finest on which they had raced; many preferred it to North Bay where previous races were held. North Bay (near Cosscocu) has now been taken over by the Canada Lands and Forests and cannot be used any more for these races. The course at "Sandy Point" was a longer course.

PICTON (Staff) — Participants in this years' Prince Edward annual fishing derby certainly had no complaints about the weather.

The 1966 derby got off to a good start on Friday noon and wound up Monday. There were a large number of entrants and they registered some 400 pickerel and 150 pike during the contest.

Fully two-thirds of the fish caught were brought in this year from East and West Lakes. There were also fish taken from the Big Island area and Smith's Bay near Waupoos. Hay Bay and Bagnot's Bay did not report their usual good catches this year.

Two Johnson 6 h.p. motors were awarded as top prizes this year, the first offered for the largest pickerel caught by a fisherman from outside the area — the second presented to the local resident having the best pickerel. Winner of the first prize for out-of-the-area fishermen was Norman Green who caught a pickerel which weighed in at 11.44 pounds. Green is from 111 Memorial Park Ave., Toronto. His fish was 29¼ inches long, had 17½-inch girth and was caught at Green Island, near Cressy Point.

The local fishermall with the largest pickerel, 9.93 pounds was Lorraine McGlashing, 8 Vimy Court, Camp Picton. The fish was 27 inches long and had a 17-inch girth. It was caught at Long Point.

Biggest catch within the legal limit was registered by Dave Fleming, 4130 30th Street, Long Branch, Ont. They were all pike, caught in the Big Island area and weighed 20.3 lbs.

Largest pickerel caught by a lady was 5.8 pounds by Mary Jervis of Scarborough, Ont. Prize for this catch was a spinning outfit.

The largest pike was caught in West Lake by Larry Sorgit, 833 Concession St., Hamilton. It was 31 inches long and weighed 10.5 pounds.

Prizes were presented by the dignitaries at the official closing ceremonies. Present were Howard Mallett, president of the Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce; William Smith, president of the Quinte Isle Tourist Association; Warden of the County Harold Bonter; Norris Whitney, MPP for Prince Edward - Lennox, and Mayor Hervey J. McFarland of Picton. Master of ceremonies for the occasion was J. Hepburn.

One of the largest fish caught, and unfortunately it could not qualify, was a gar, pike which weighed in excess of 15 pounds. The smallest pickerel caught was by Wes Green and weighed .14 pounds.

All 29 Crew Members of Ship Lost

AUCKLAND (Reuters) — All 29 crew members of the 2,685-ton New Zealand coal ship Kaitawa were feared lost today in New Zealand's worst sea disaster in 10 years.

The ship was believed to have sunk early today after striking the sand-covered rocks of the Pandora Banks off northern New Zealand in a fierce storm Monday night.

A legal, sea and air search for possible survivors continued with little hope. Rescuers said no man could have lived in the seas raging when the collier disappeared.

After watching the blood-letting of Britain's Henry Cooper in the alleged heavyweight championship brawl in London Saturday, George Chuvalo, in this agent's opinion, has grown taller in the saddle.

The near six-act ring "drama" again failed to prove that Muhammad Ali, alias Cassius Clay has a knock-out punch. It did reveal that Clay has a flair for the theatrical. It should go down in boxing archives as an also-ran in the heavyweight titular stakes.

A gallant Briton showing no fear for his highly rated foeman gave all he had in a four round all-out attack. He had the edge in three of them, not because of superior ability, but what seemed to me to be the rodent role in a cat-and-mouse game.

In those first three idlls, Clay was far the winningest fighter that he showed in his brawls with Liston, Patterson and Chuvalo. His rais-ed left jabs were confined to occasional solo efforts. As events proved he was playing a waiting game. He even slightly staggered in his corner in the third when Cooper tagged him with a left and right,"sending a British announcer into a flurry of vocal excitement.

The tiger in the Clay corner was nothing more than a pussy-cat for three rounds. "At the end of the three neither fighter is marked" said the announcer.

Near the end of the fourth Clay who had been hugging and clutching suddenly reverted to form. He lashed out with those feral jabs and "There's a red mark over Cooper's eye."

And just as suddenly in the sixth, after a flurry in a corner, Cooper's eyebrow gave up the ghost and a geyser of blood.. It spurted upward, outward and everywhere.

Cooper claims Clay butted him. But movies revealed a punch opened a 12-inch gash over the Cooper optic.

The Clay camp claimed it was the same kind of blow that decked Liston in the Lewiston, Maine farce. I don't buy that because that blow, ringside experts claimed would not have knocked out a Dresden china girl.

The referee stopped the fight and added another name to Britain's long list of heavyweights who have failed to win at home in several decades.

In a dramatic theatrical finale Clay delivered an unsolicited eulogy, in which he uttered unabashed praise to the Almighty, Allah, the Muslims and their chief, the British Government and the Labor party, and when reminded by his handlers, to the United States Government for allowing him to travel.

I do not know how far the latter will go with his draft board when he comes up for classification.

His next fight, it is stated, is with a German heavyweight who may not call as easy as Cooper, but is not causing West Germans to plan receptions for a new champion.

The only one these "unexpert" eyes can see on the horizon who will give Mahmoud any cause for worry is Ernie Terrell, the Chicago guitar-twanging giant, providing he can get by Doug Jones in their upcoming brawl.

Now this one should be good. Two classic dancers son circling to the left, in and out, the other favoring the Charleston in reverse, and hanging like a drape over the bosman at close quarters.

Pete Weston and Pat Maracle combined to lead Trudeau Motors to a 7-4 victory over Ellis Juniors as the Belleville and District Softball League opened its schedule at the beautiful new Alemite Field Saturday night.

Over 300 fans watched Trudeaus grab a 5-0 lead before the Juniors hit the scoresheet. It was a 7-1 ballgame going into the bottom of the ninth.

Weston had a field day at the plate, slamming a home run, double and two singles in five trips, driving in two runs and scoring two.

The vetern pitcher, Maracle, allowed seven hits in all but had a two-hitter going into the seventh inning. He also drove in three runs, including the first two of the game, with a single and a fly ball.

Maracle struck out eight, walked two and hit one batter.

Strong-armed Bobby Ehlert was tagged with nine hits in defeat but got off to a good start toward another strikeout crown by fanning 17. He walked four and hit one.

Weston's single, a hit batter and Maverly's bunt single loaded the bases with none out for Trudeaus in the second. Ehlert got the next two but Maracle blooped a single to plate a pair.

Muirhead singled and came around on two errors and a stolen base in the third before Weston slammed a long homer to left for a 4-0 count. A walk, passed ball and Weston's base hit made it 5-0 in the fifth.

Twin errors on Ehlert's hard smash to left and St. Denis' base hit got Ellis' initial run in the seventh. An outfield error, walk, Baker's rbi single and Maracle's fly ball made it 7-1.

Clay Eyes British Fight Bonanzas

LONDON (AP)—Cassius Clay flew home to the United States today thinking of another big fight bonanza here following his disposal of Britain's Henry Cooper in six rounds Saturday night.

Promotor Harry Levene, glowing over the $1,200,000 receipts for the heavyweight championship, said: "We want Clay back. It's a question of finding an opponent."

Clay, said to have got $350,000, told reporters he will be pleased to defend his title here again—possibly against Britain's No. 2 heavyweight, Brian London.

London, 32, former British heavyweight champion, has been around some. As far back as 1959 he fought the then world champion Floyd Patterson for the title at Indianapolis, Ind., and was knocked out in the 11th round.

"I fancy my chances against Clay because he is not a great puncher and I have always done well against blokes who can't dig," London said.

Clay's handlers are expected to have a representative at Liverpool June 20 when London defends his European title against Germany's Karl Mildenberger later this summer. Jones of New York is mentioned as another possible.

Clay has more immediate problems. First, the U.S. internal revenue service wants about $115,000 of the money he earned in London.

Then there's the matter of Clay's draft status, currently 1-A, which Cassius, alias Muhammad Ali, is appealing on the basis of religious and financial hardship. A Black Muslim, he has appealed that he's a conscientious objector.

He echoed those sentiments after opening a 3-stitch cut over Cooper's left eye, a cut that pumped blood all over both fighters, a ref and the ring sprayed over ringside reporters and forced referee George Smith to stop it at 1:38 of the sixth round.

DISLIKES HURTING

"I was sorry to see it end like that," Clay said. "I don't mind admitting I was a bit disturbed by all that blood. I didn't really want the violence to continue. I don't really like hurting anyone. It's against my religion."

Up until that point Cooper, 32, had been doing well as Clay danced away from Cooper's left hand that knocked the champion down in a fight three years ago. Clay came back to win that one on a fifth-round cut over Cooper's eye.

The Associated Press gave Cooper the first two rounds, called the third even and gave the fourth and fifth to Clay. Under British rules, the referee is the only official and his card is never announced.

There were no knockdowns and no one was really hurt until Clay opened the cut.

Cooper, who came in at 188, said Clay, 201½, bothed it open when they banged heads. But a slow-motion film showed Clay opened the cut with a punch.

Punch Not Butt

LONDON (AP)—A slow motion film Monday proved it was a punch from Cassius Clay that ended Henry Cooper's challenge for the world heavyweight title.

But the film showed that the boxers' heads never touched.

"There you are," the world champion said. "You can all see it was a punch and not my head that caused the injury."

Cooper, with 12 stitches in the wound, rested at home and was still skeptical when told of the movie.

"I haven't seen the film," Cooper said, "but it's a bit funny how a punch could do all that damage. But there it is—I'm not complaining."

Ever since the fight ended, Cooper made it clear that he wasn't accusing Clay of deliberately butting him, but he stuck to his theory that it was Clay's head that ripped open the cut along the scar tissues left from previous battles.

Thornton No Match For Torres

NEW YORK (AP)—If heavyweight champion Cassius Clay runs out of opponents in his own division he may find light heavyweight champion Jose Torres knocking on his door.

Torres, a sassy winner over Wayne Thornton in a title defence at Shea Stadium here Saturday night, hinted he would like to fight Clay, who stopped Britain's Henry Cooper on cuts in the sixth round in London.

The 30-year-old author of the 175-pound class said he watched the telecast of Clay stopping Cooper and declared: "I had more trouble with Thornton than I would have with Clay."

Torres scored two first-round knockdowns and soundly drubbed Thornton, the No. 1 contender from Fresno, Calif., in a brawl marred by the challenger's constant fouling.

The handsome 26 - year - old Californian bested a small cut over Torres' right eye in the first round and kept grabbing the champion's powerful left arm.

Torres won the decision over the 174-pound Thornton by a lopsided margin. The officials had it ahead by the following round scores: Judges Al Berl and Artie Aidala, 10-4-1 each, and Referee Johnny Loblanco, 12-2-1. The Associated Press card had it 13-2 for Torres.

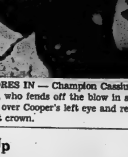
Pilote Runner-Up



Laperriere Wins Norris Trophy

MONTREAL (CP) — Jacques Laperriere of Montreal Canadiens has become the fifth player to win the James Norris Memorial Trophy, awarded annually by the National Hockey League to the defenceman who demonstrates throughout the season the best all-around ability at that position.

In the results of the voting by sports writers and broadcasters in the six league cities announced by NHL headquarters Sunday, Laperriere gained a total of 89 points over the season—62 in the first half of the season vote and another 27 in the second-half poll.

Pierre Pilote of Chicago Black Hawks was runner-up to Laperriere with 54 points while Pat Stapleton, another Chicago defenceman, led the second-half voting with 40 points after failing to draw a vote in the first-half of the season. Stapleton finished third in the over-all tabulations.

Laperriere's victory in the voting marked the eighth time a member of the Canadiens has won the award since its inception in 1953-54.

JACQUES LAPERRIERE

Laperriere, a 24-year-old native of Rouyn, Que., and in his third NHL season, missed the final 13 games of the last campaign because of a knee injury.

However, he turned in his best record of his professional career with six goals and 25 assists for 31 points and 48th place in the final scoring list.

He will receive $1,500 as the Norris Trophy winner plus $250 for leading the poll in the first half.

Pilote collects $500 as over-all runner-up while Stapleton will receive $250 for leading the poll in the final half of the season.

We raced our six horses against six others – and lost.

We took on a six-horse racing team to prove a point: the Johnson 6 is an extraordinarily peppy motor. So fishermen don't speed up they getting out in the big ones. It also cruises 17 hours on one tank of gas. Quietly. As for the race, we placed second. But Tom Dechristo's checkwayne hits 29 knots an hour. And his horses weren't swimming.

The Johnson 70's could be called the best fishing motor ever made. Because it's a low profile engine, you can cast over it sitting down. It's an well-balanced that moving, moving and steering is a cinch. Nothing sticks out from the sides, and the steering handle folds neatly out of the way.

JOHNSON MOTORS A PRODUCT OF OUTBOARD MARINE CORPORATION OF CANADA, LTD., PETERBOROUGH, ONT.
THE FIRST NAME IN OUTBOARD MOTORS, BOAT CRAFT, SNOWMOBILES, FISHERIES CRAFT, SKIES.

The Johnson 3 offers two different models: Single-Action and High-Thrust Drive. Both weigh just 25 pounds. The Single-Action drive idles easily over rocks and sandbars and through weeds. The High-Thrust model is ideal for rough boats and smaller craft. Unlike others the Johnson 3 is a twin cylinder motor – very smooth ringing.

If you think versatility is expensive, price a Johnson 5. It powers anything from a small fishing skiff to a medium size cruiser boat. That's weight just 43 pounds and has a flat starboard side for easy carrying. Overboard operation lets you speed up, slow down, or stop without moving down your trolling rod. This year's 5 is even quieter than before.

Roseboro Clout Wins 7th For Sandy

Yanks Grab Three

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

John Roseboro gave Pittsburgh Pirates a lot of trouble Monday night as he helped Sandy Koufax win his seventh game by scoring the winning run in Los Angeles Dodgers' 3-2 victory over the Pirates.

The Dodger catcher, who had gone hitless in his previous 12 times at bat, smashed a two-out double in the ninth inning and came all the way home on pinch-hitter Derrell Griffith beat out an infield single.

Koufax, who has lost once, blanked the Pirates on three hits until the eighth when they scored the game 3-2 on singles by Bob Bailey and Manny Mota plus Gene Alley's two-run double. Ron Fairly homered for the Dodgers in the sixth.

As Griffith topped a roller to the right of the plate, Roseboro headed for third. Pitcher Pete Mikkelsen fielded the ball and tossed it underhand to first base.

Griffith, however, beat the throw, for his first hit of the season, and Roseboro kept going. He crossed the plate without a play being made on him.

Elsewhere in the National League, Philadelphia Phillies walloped Houston Astros 9-0 and Atlanta Braves trimmed Cincinnati Reds 6-4. Kansas City Athletics defeated Washington Senators 5-3 in 12 innings in the only American League game.

A BUSY WEEKEND

The victory was revenge for the Dodgers who were blanked 4-0 by the Pirates Sunday after winning 5-4 Saturday. The Phillies' shutout gave them a series sweep following a 6-1 win Sunday after the Astros won 3-2 Saturday while the Reds lost 4-3 to St Louis Cardinals Sunday after a 4-1 Saturday victory. The Braves split with Chicago Cubs Sunday, winning 3-2 and losing 4-2. Saturday the Cubs won 7-6.

In the American League, the Athletics lost twice to Boston Red Sox, 5-1 Sunday and 6-5 Saturday while the Senators split Sunday with California Angels, winning 6-2 and losing 2-1, after winning 5-3 Saturday.

Minnesota Twins lost three weekend games to New York Yankees, 5-2 and 3-1 Sunday and 4-2 Saturday while Cleveland Indians took two of three from Chicago White Sox, winning 3-2 and 4-1 Sunday after losing 7-2 Saturday. Detroit Tigers and Baltimore Orioles split their weekend games, the Tigers winning 3-2 Sunday after losing 7-5 Saturday.

Larry Jackson stopped Houston on three hits and didn't allow a runner to reach third. The Astros went hitless until Lee Maye singled with two out in the fifth. Doug Clemens hit a three - run homer while Tony Taylor belted a two - run triple for the Phillies.

Joe Torre hit a homer in the fifth inning, then powered a four - run sixth with a two - run double as Atlanta overcame Cincinnati. The Reds took a short - lived 4-1 lead when they erupted for four runs in the fifth, three on Tommy Helms' homer.

Phil Roof's first major league homer was the first major league homer off Washington's Casey Cox and gave Kansas City its victory. Roof connected with one on and two out in the 12th. Frank Howard and Jim King homered for Washington.

Norman Sidey Scores First Hole-In-One

The greens and fairways of the Bay of Quinte Country Club have got quite attained the usual spring perfection, due, club pro George Balzas says, to weather conditions.

It was the second hole-in-one for Sidey. He recorded the first in 1961 playing in the Calvert Tournament at Peterborough's Kawartha Golf Club.

The holiday weekend with perfect weather conditions drew the golfing membership out in large numbers.

The course was in good conditions, but as the pro pointed out is hampered in growth due to the weather.

The lack of warm days and sunshine up to the holiday has had a retarding effect, he said.

The club social season got away to a splendid start Saturday night with a near record crowd attending the season's opening dance.

Next Sunday the qualifying round for up to the club championship will be played and the ringer scores begin. The junior club championship qualifying round is also slated for next Sunday.

U.S. Will Boycott Clay

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Cassius Clay must fight outside the United States or not at all, former heavyweight champion Joe Louis said Monday.

He said Clay, the current champion, had no box office appeal in his own country.

"They'd boycott him," Louis said. "The theatres wouldn't show his fights, and I don't think the public would pay money to see him perform. Not now anyway. He'll have to stay in Europe if he wants to fight."

Louis said the American public was disillusioned by Clay's bouts with the selective service system.

Elsewhere, Richmond Braves edged Columbus Jets 2-1 and Buffalo Bisons defeated Rochester Red Wings 6-5. A game between Toledo Mud Hens and Jacksonville Suns was rained out.

Saturday, Rochester defeated Toronto 8-4, Buffalo downed Syracuse 6-2, Toledo edged Richmond 3-1, and Columbus shut out Jacksonville 3-0.

"Beautiful" Is Consensus

New Alemite Field Opened

"Beautiful, simply beautiful", was the consensus of fans, players and softball officials at the opening of the newly - renovated Alemite Field Saturday night.

Bleechers to seat 400 fans were close to full as Trudeau Motors defeated Ellis Juniors 7-4 in Belleville and District Softball League play.

Suitable opening ceremonies were held.

Numerous city officials, including Mayor Jack Ellis, and softball officials took part. Over a dozen were introduced at midinfield.

Pat Maracle, believed to be the oldest player taking part, and Bob Moon, the youngest, presented autographed softballs to Mayor Ellis and to Alderman Don Williams, of the Belleville Recreation Committee. Maracle pitches for Trudeau Motors and Moon is the Ellis Junior catcher.

Alderman Williams did the pitching, Maracle the catching and Alderman Art Keegan the batting in further ceremonies. Keegan belted a "clean base hit" off the first pitch.

The park itself lived up to expectations. It has a full infield, fine lighting in both infield and outfield, a portable public address system, dressing rooms and a canteen. A scorer's table will be added and there is room for over bleechers. The park is completely fenced in with ticket offices on the Pine Street side of the park.

Belleville and District and Commercial League softball will be played at the park on Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, under the lights, with minor softball and baseball scheduled earlier in the evenings.

"We hope we have needed in this town for a long time", one fan was heard saying as he left the park.

Centennial Softball Tourney

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Canadian Amateur Softball Association decided Sunday to organize an exhibition softball tournament as an unofficial part of the 1967 Pan American Games here July 22-Aug. 7.

Nine delegates representing five provinces voted at the annual meeting to ask the physical fitness council for $3,438 to help finance the tournament.

In other developments, the Ontario Amateur Softball Association affiliated with the CASA. The largest provincial softball body in Canada, the OASA se previously boycotted the national organization.

Jurisdiction over softball in northwestern Ontario was left in the hands of the Manitoba provincial association for 1966, pending a fall meeting to set up a separate organization for the area west of Sault Ste. Marie to the Manitoba boundary.

Calcary was chosen the site for the 1966 Canadian men's senior final Aug. 12-14. A June 25 deadline was established for interested centres to apply to stage the 1966 women's senior final.

Ed Corbett of Calgary was elected president. Other officers include Harold Dormer, Peterborough, third vice - president and Lloyd Algulre, St. Cathar ines, commissionaire for Ontario.

Special Ceremonies

BMBA Opens Season

Opening ceremonies and a no-hitter got the Belleville Minor Baseball Association's 1966 program off to a flying start at Park Dale yesterday.

Steven Moores and Terry McTaggart combined to toss a no-hitter in Farrell Motors' 9-0 bantam league win over Park Dale Ratepayers.

In the other opener, an E.O.B.A. peewee tilt, Holy Rosary Major "A" team defeated Lion's Club "A" team 4-1. Both are Belleville clubs.

The "Coach of the Year" award for 1965 was presented by Cy Coulson to Mike Burke, of the I.B.E.W. peewee city champions.

In the B.M.B.A. bantam game, Moore started and gave way to McTaggart in the fourth in their no-hitter. They struck out 14 batters and walked four. Ron Jury was their catcher.

Farrell's scored all their runs in two innings, batching six in the fifth and three in the sixth of the seven-inning contest.

Jim Wood started for Park Dale, relieved by Gerald Pape in the fifth. They gave up five hits, struck out 12 and walked seven. Ed Christopher caught.

Butch Coulter had two singles and Ron Jury a triple to spark the winners' attack. David Cass and Terry Pape each added a single.

In the E.O.B.A. peewee game, Holy Rosary scored one in the first, another in the fifth and two in the sixth before the losers netted their loner in the seventh.

Dan Brooks and Art Wellesly in the sixth hurled three-hit ball, whiffing 11 and passing

Fight Scene Had Color, A Lot Of It Red

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

LONDON (CP) — The spectacle and everything: Screaming cockneys, solemn flag processions a maharajah or two, movie stars, prayers to Allah battering gladiators and bloodred and lots of blood.

Everything, that is, but victory for the British challenger Henry Cooper who fought desperately to bring back to England—where boxing was born—the heavyweight crown for the first time in 67 years.

When the fight began the crowd of more than 40,000 in Arsenal football "pitch" set up no ferocious, swelling chant of "Hen-ry, Hen-ry, Hen-ry" for their hero.

But before the evening fabled Cassius was hailed by a smaller group of fans with "Ali, Ali-li, Ali-li" as if in derision of the earlier chant.

Some cynics commented that the power of Allah—invoked by Clay as he paused to pray before the fight—was apparently greater than the fervent prayers of Cooper. Various Cockneys who screamed—"Enery, 'Enery, 'Enery—first in hope, then in despair.

Their frustration can be understood by a glance at the records. The last previous world heavyweight title contest held in Britain was in 1908 when Canada's Tommy Burns, then world champ, knocked out Britain's Jack Palmer. Fewer than 2,000 watched the fight.

The last Briton to win the heavyweight title was Cornishman Bob Fitzsimmons, who knocked out Gentleman Jim Corbett in a Nevada bout and lost the crown to Jim Jeffries at Coney Island in 1899.

It was a strange scene Saturday night, somehow smacking of battles long ago, as the dark-haired deposed ruler Arsenal Stadium while preliminary fighters did their stuff.

Becoming impatient, the fight fans—prices ranged from $60 ringside to $6 for standing room 200 yards away—began to chant "oh why are we waiting" in a high-pitched time sounding vaguely like Cious Ali To Fatti ful.

An information officer hurried around to tell reporters the Maharajah of Baroda, India, and Prince Faisal of Iraq were in the crowd. At the beginning of the five preliminary bouts, the announcer paid due respect to all dignitaries on this way: "Your highnesses, excellencies, ladies, ladies and gentlemen."

This became a game with the crowd so that by the time the main event arrived the introduction went:

Announcer: "Your highnesses." Crowd: "Hooray."

Announcer: "Excellencies." Crowd: "Hooray," and so on down the list.

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids and repair damaged tissue. A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the tissue inflamed tissue. In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place. Most important of all — results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months. This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Now Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H. Ask for it at all drug stores! Satisfaction or your money refunded.

Going For Belmont

The King Eyes Triple Crown

BALTIMORE (AP) — Kauai King's bidding for the big one. Tim Tam, Carry Back and Northern Dancer all tried it and failed.

Kauai King, with victories in the Kentucky Derby and Saturday's Preakness, is going for the Belmont Stakes—bidding for a sweep of the Triple Crown that has been accomplished only eight times since 1877. Citation last turned the trick in 1948.

"I was confident before the Preakness," jockey Don Brumfield said, and predicted the long-straining 1¼ miles of the Belmont will be no trouble for Kauai King, a $5,000 supermodel nominee for the June 4 test at Aqueduct.

Only Citation's victory Tim Tam, Carry Back and Northern Dancer all swept the first two legs of the grueling test for three - year - olds, only to be beaten in the Belmont, the longest of the Triple Crown series. The Derby is 1¼ miles, the Preakness 1 3-16.

CHANCE PROMISING

But the picture is more promising for Kauai King, whose father, Native Dancer, took the Preakness and Belmont after being nipped in the Derby for his only defeat.

The list of prospective opponents he has not already beaten is almost non-existent.

His performances, particularly in the Preakness, show he can run the distance. Only one other horse, Nashua in 1955, ever ran the last three-sixteenths of a mile faster than Kauai King.

Although Brumfield whipped Kauai King only a couple of times to keep him straight in the stretch, they were nearly two lengths ahead of Stupendous at the finish.

It was another five lengths back to Amberoid and straggling in order were Rehabilitate, ridden by Ron Turcotte of Grand Falls, N.B., Indulto, Advocator, Exceedingly, Understanding and Blue Skyer.

It was the eighth victory in 20 starts this year for Kauai King and lifted his earnings for owner Mike Ford to $369,027.

Meeting In Montreal

CAHA Accepts 'Newfie'

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, at the first plenary session of its annual meeting, voted Monday to accept Newfoundland to full membership in the now nationwide association.

Canada's 10th province has operated as a territory entity in the national amateur hockey picture to date with no affiliation with either the Amateur Hockey Association of the parent CAHA.

Lionel Fleury of Quebec and Gordon Jacobs of Melville, Sask., president and secretary-manager of the Maritimes respectively, said there "will have to be a period of adjustment" before the new member can take its place for the 1966-67 season.

Earlier the session heard the financial statement covering operation of the CAHA in its sponsorship of Canada's national team and teams by visiting European clubs.

Juckes told the meeting the national team incurred a deficit of $8,967.52 for the year ending April 30, 1966, down from a loss of $26,000 the previous year.

Scot Wins Monaco Grand Prix

MONTE CARLO (AP) — Jackie Stewart of Scotland roared to a record victory Sunday in the Monaco Grand Prix after bad racing luck had knocked out most of his chief rivals.

The Scotsman won handily in his BRM two-liter, covering the 195.4 miles at a speed of 78.5 miles an hour. His time of two hours, 29 minutes, 19.5 seconds was 4½ minutes faster than the previous record held by Graham Hill of Britain, who finished third in a BRM behind Italy's Lorenzo Bandini in a Ferrari.

Batting — Pat Roof, Kansas City, tripled and scored in the second inning, then hit a two-run homer in the 12th that gave the Athletics a 5-3 victory over Washington Senators.

Western Bowlers Win

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—Paul Yoshimasu of Winnipeg captured the Canadian men's open doubles championship Sunday to keep the international bowls trophy crown in Manitoba for the second consecutive year.

Yoshimasu, a five-pin veteran of tenpin bowling, rolled a three-game total of 882 points to edge John Priester of Vancouver by 39 points in Sunday's roll-off.

In the ladies' open singles, Louis Smith of Vancouver, who finished first in regular play, was defeated by Bonny Ballen-tine of Regina 565-553 in the three-game final roll-off.

Ontario's team from Kingston managed to grab the only crown for Eastern Canada with a 2,701-2,573 victory over Alberta's crew in Sunday's roll-off.

In the final round, the Kingston team of Peter Clark, Klaas Smallbil, Allan O'Neil, Jack Charest and Ervin Alajbeg won the first two games before dropping the third to the Alberta team of Al Lamb, Frank Herron, Ted Zitzelsberger, Sid Allen and Harvey Rose, all of Edmonton.

Five-Game Win Streak

'The Yanks Are Coming'

NEW YORK (AP) — They laughed when Ralph Houk said, "I still think this club can win the pennant," as he took over New York Yankees two weeks ago. Somehow, nobody is laughing any more.

Since Houk went from the front office back to the dugout, May 7, replacing Johnny Keane, the Yanks have won 11 of 14 games and will take a five-game winning streak into a series with the California Angels opening tonight. They have emerged from the American League cellar and have moved from a 4-18 record to 15-18.

In the four-game sweep over Minnesota Twins during the weekend, it was the early errors and mental lapses of the Twins that gave the Yanks their openings.

That means the Yankees, a bold, are finally cashing in on the opponents' mistakes.

HITTING IMPROVED

Joe Pepitone looked like anything but a .321 hitter Sunday when he won one game with a two-run homer and the other with a double.

The transformation of Roger Maris has been amazing. He hit .180 before Houk and .318 since. His season average leveis off at .345.

Tom Tresh is on the move. Bobby Richardson's hits have started to fall in. Even Elston Howard, off to his worst start, is beginning to come around.

Bill Crothers Back In Form

TORONTO (CP)—Bill Crothers, Olympic silver medalist involved in a car crash two weeks ago, competed successfully Saturday in a championship meet held by the Central Ontario Track and Field Association.

Crothers, who was in a b l y shaken up in the crash, won the 440-yard event in 48.3 seconds. His team, the East York Track Club, took the men's team championship with a total of 58 points.

Oakville was second with 16.

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Bruce Devlin of Australia won the $150,000 Colonial National Invitation golf tournament Sunday with an even par 280 for 72 holes.

R. H. Sikes missed an 18-foot putt on the final hole that would have given him a birdie and a tie. Devlin had only to lay up and sink his putt for the par that brought him $20,000.

PARIS (AP)—Darryl F. Zanuck, a man regarded as fearless, faced the one ordeal he dislikes—the annual stockholders' meeting.

As president of 20th Century-Fox, he presided at the New York meeting. Even though he had good news for the stockholders, he anticipated the usual trouble-makers.

"There's always someone who wants to know why we didn't pay more dividends or why we are paying so much money to this star or that," he sighed. "I just have to face it."

A large part of the good tidings for stockholders could be attributed to The Sound of Music, which has brought the sound of money to the company that was almost sunk by Cleopatra.

IS SURPRISED

"I knew we had great entertainment in The Sound of Music, but I never dreamt that it would be such a moneymaker," said Zanuck. "The film is heading in $1,000,000 a week in film rentals—not just grosses, but rentals'

"It has already been in release 20 weeks. It has played in only 187 theatres in America and it's still playing in 185 of the best of them."

He produced some projection sheets that indicated the musical would gross at least $65,000,000 before it is brought to moneymaker of all time. Zanuck's own estimate is $80,000,000. Total so far: $47,000,000.

The Zanuck's are hoping to mine the same kind of gold from Darryl Zanuck's biography of Jackie Andrews; and Hello, Dolly.

NO CAST CHOSEN YET

The latter has not yet been cast.

Zanuck, who once controlled 20th Century-Fox from a conference office on the Westwood lot, not finds himself in a global setting. He is receiving reports on the shooting of Batman in California, Two for The Road (Audrey Hepburn and Albert Finney) on the Riviera, and The Sand Pebbles in Kong Kong.

"We've had troubles with Sand Pebbles, he muttered. "The company was 45 days of rain in Formosa during one location trip. And four different calls for shooting every day according to what the weather was. Some months a thousand extras. It was murder."

Zanuck dispatched the company to Hong Kong, and now the outlook is for smooth sailing while he moves on to other matters, such as the release of The Bible. Said Zanuck ad hazedly: "I guess it's the greatest picture ever made."

Wins Races At Harewood

JARVIS, Ont. (CP) — Mike Duff, Canada's only entry in the world championship motorcycle racing last year, returned to action Sunday and won the 250-cc heat and the 20-lap feature at Harewood Acres.

He was riding a 1967 Manx Norton.

Duff suffered an impacted hip accident while riding in Japan last October. Although he is still recovering from surgery, he will leave Wednesday for the European racing circuit.

The 20-lap feature race came on the line in front of 3,000 fans.

AT THE BELLE — Wednesday — In Vikki (Francoise Dorleac), the sultry new French sensation, plays the mysterious fashion model who becomes both a romance in espionage. It is one of the suspenseful secrets of "Where They Spies Are", Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's exciting adventure drama in Panavision and color, filmed in arresting locations in the Middle East. "Where The Spies Are" opens Tomorrow Wednesday, at the Belle Theatre in Belleville.

Dick Van Dyke Show Collects 4 More Emmys

By GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The expiring Dick Van Dyke show triumphantly collecting four more Emmys . . . Negro winner Bill Cosby . . . and Carol for having "the guts" to star him . . . Barbara Stanwyck fighting back tears after her second award.

These were among highlights of Sunday night's Academy of Television Arts and Sciences ceremony awards, a slowly - paced show that nevertheless developed its own excitement.

There was pathos, when Paul Davis, art gallery owner, accepted an award for his wife Alice Pearce who played comic neighbor Gladys on the Bewitched series before she died of cancer a few months ago.

The Van Dyke program brought Emmys to its stars, Dick Van Dyke and Mary Tyler Moore; its producer, Carl Reiner and the writers of its "coast-to-coast big mouth" episode last Sept. 15, Bill Persky and Sam Denoff.

WON 16 EMMYS

Sunday night's awards brought the show's total in five years to 16 Emmys. Van Dyke has won three Emmys. Miss Moore two.

Cosby networks, the breakdown of Emmy awards was NBC 26, CBS 14, ABC 9.

Cosby, a 28-year-old comedian and actor for the very early series, I Spy, received a standing ovation as he accepted his Emmy, an award he said came as no surprise.

"I was the sentimental favorite — I'll be a Negro," he said after the ceremony.

Miss Stanwyck won her Emmy as the mother of a family in the old west on ABC's The Big Valley.

'Death of a Salesman' 63rd In List of 106 Programs

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The television program which has gained more glowing talk than any other of the last season, CBS' fine production of Death of a Salesman, wound up in the latest national Nielsen ratings report in the 63rd position in a list of 106 programs.

It achieved a rating of 15.5 and, in that popularity list was nestled between CBS' My Favorite Martian and Lassie.

On the same list, NBC's Bonanza, in first place, had a rating almost twice as large.

However, Death of a Salesman was a serious, two-hour special dramatic presentation, and the television ratings system has consistently shown anything over the seasons—that the public wants comedy and corny comedy and action-adventure.

NBC already is at work on an hour-long program about the wedding of Lexi Baines Johnson and Patrick Nugent. It will be broadcast on the day of the wedding, Saturday, Aug. 6, complete with shots of the ceremony itself.

The special will show details of the preparations — White House decorations, food, writing of invitations, the bride's choice of china and silver, and possible shots of pre-wedding parties.

Recommended tonight: The National Drivers' Test, CBS, 10-11 EDT.

How They're Hitting!

NEW YORK (AP) — It's a good thing San Francisco Giants have Hart . . . and Willie McCovey.

That's because Willie Mays, star of the National League's first-place team is in a bad slump.

The slugging outfielder didn't slug at all last week. In fact, he was on the bench Sunday as the Giants split a doubleheader with New York Mets.

In the previous five games last week, Mays collected only three hits — all singles — in 18 times at bat. His average dropped 14 points to .258. Mays failed to drive in a run, leading the NL. RBI lead to Atlanta's Hank Aaron. Aaron has 31 RBI and is the batsman in homers with 13. Mayo has 10 homers and 31 RBI.

Jim Hart and McCovey picked up much of the slack for the Giants. Hart hit four homers, moving into second place behind Aaron with 11. He also is the league's fifth leading batter with a .338 average.

McCovey, who missed three games because of a bruised left hand, had nine hits in 17 times at bat, a .529 pace, in four games. He boosted his average 43 points and moved up seven places to third with a .344 mark.

ALOU LEADS CIRCUIT

Matty Alou, the former Giant now with Pittsburgh Pirates, took over the NL batting lead with a .354 mark. He gained 31 points last week with eight hits in 14 attempts.

Joe Morgan of Houston "Astros, the leader a week ago, slipped to second at .346. He lost 14 points with a 6-for-22 performance. Ron Hunt of the Mets advanced two places to fourth on a 19-point pickup to .340. The figures include Sunday's games.

Minnesota's Tony Oliva retained the American League lead despite a 12-point drop to .374. Oliva, who won the batting title his first two years in the big leagues, had 11 hits in 32 tries last week.

Frank Robinson of Baltimore Orioles slumped 33 points to .342, but held onto second place. He had only five hits in 24 trips. Washington Senator's Fred Valentine climbed eight points to third with a 23-point increase to .333.

Rick Reichart of California Angels hit two homers and tied Boston Red Sox's George Scott for the AL home run lead. Each has 11. Baltimore's Brooks Robinson continues to lead in RBI. He drove in six runs last week, giving him 34 for the year.

Hold Parade For Last Time

LONDON (AP) — Britain's Old Contemptibles of the First World War marched for the last time Sunday.

The passing years had done what Kaiser Wilhelm's army could not do. They had all but wiped out what the Kaiser once called "that contemptible little army."

British Tommies cheerfully adopted the phrase as their nickname, wearing the German emperor's own words as a badge of honor. They formed an Old Contemptibles' Association when the war ended and held annual parades in London.

But last year, only a few hundred turned up.

"The effort called for at this annual parade has become increasingly difficult," a spokesman said. "That's why today's (Sunday's) is the last. I don't think there is a single man here less than 70 years old."

But, if this was the last parade, it was made a special occasion.

Some 350 veterans of Dunkerque in the Second World War helped line the route and clapped their claps in salute. Brig. Sir John Smyth, holder of the Victoria Cross and veteran of both world wars, commanded them.

MARCH-APRIL RECORD-BREAKING SALES OF AMERICAN MOTORS CARS PROVE: CANADIANS WANT OVERALL QUALITY NOW!

The months of March and April combined for the best spring sales record in American Motors Canadian history! Proof that Canadians want the overall quality that American Motors cars give you now. Advanced engineering features other cars won't offer you for years to come. We say, "Why wait for '67, '68, '69?" More Canadians than ever before have agreed. So will you, when you check these quality features in all American Motors cars.

Ceramic-Armoured Exhaust System. Not just sheet metal alone, but a ceramic-armoured coating exactly like the nose cone of a space rocket. Resists heat, corrosion, wear—season after season.

Single Unit Construction. Body and frame on all American Motors cars are welded together into one, single, solid unit for tremendous strength and safety. Result: a stronger, safer, longer-lasting car—a car free from rattles.

Double Safety Brakes. Not just one braking system, but two. If one set ever fails, the other stops you safely. (Double Safety Brakes have been an exclusive feature, at no extra cost, on all our models since 1962. Some other manufacturers have now announced that they will adopt this feature—but not until their 1967 models.)

World's best rustproofing. All our cars get a "bath." They're deep-dipped up to their rooflines in rustproofing compound six separate times. Then they're dipped again in primer and given a separate spray coat of primer. Then come three gleaming coats of Lustre-Gard super enamel. You get a beautiful finish and long-lasting protection from the ravages of rust.

Widest range of seating options in the industry. Luxurious reclining seats (buckets, if you want). Armrests and adjustable headrests. And fine-furniture coil springs in all our seats in all our models. (Only one other North American car offers this—and it's in the luxury class).

Attention to detail. American Motors offers the durability of plastic kick panels, all-metal rear-deck shelves, even ashtrays that roll out on ball bearings. Small details, yes—but they add up to overall quality.

Beautiful luxury fittings. A big, big selection! All the power equipment and features you want. And floor consoles. Thick-cut pile carpeting. Wire wheel discs. Walnut interior paneling. Houndstooth Check fabric. New vinyl patterns. Exciting styling in top-of-the-line Ambassador DPL, Rambler Rogue and Rambler Rebel.

New car quality. We believe that quality is what you build in—not what you add on. We build quality into all our cars from the beginning. We take the time. We take the trouble. We always have. We always will.

Used car quality. The exclusive quality and features that we build into our full line of cars mean that an American Motors used car is a better value and a better buy.

Nike System Could Provide Defensive Cover Over Entire U. S.

NEW YORK (AP) — The Nike-X system has been improved to the point where it not only can destroy hostile satellites but can provide a defensive cover for the entire United States, a top missile scientist said Monday.

Hartelore, the system has been commonly regarded as means of protecting cities or vital military installations from long-range ballistic missile attacks.

Dr. Gerhard H. Lange, chief scientist for the Nike-X project office at the Redstone Arsenal in Alabama, talked in guarded terms of the new capabilities at a convention of the Aviation-Space Writers Association.

Lange, explaining that the Nike-X system would employ two interceptors — the long-range Zeus and short - range, high - acceleration Sprint, both solid propellant missiles with nuclear capability—added:

"Zeus is a carryover from the Nike - Zeus system which already has proved itself capable of intercepting both ICBM targets and satellites in orbit."

A Redstone arsenal spokesman said published reports that the Nike-X system already has shot down U.S. and Soviet satellites were in error.

"Obviously, we don't go around knocking our own satellites out of orbit and we would be correct to say the weapon comes within interceptor range of satellites in orbit.

The Nike system, under development at the Kwajalein test site in the Pacific, employs three different types of radars and data processing equipment with the two types of missiles.

Lange said this makes for a building block or module concept, with one of the radars serving as the basic module to be augmented for more or less demanding roles in target handling.

"How many of these blocks we combine determines the level of defence we can achieve," he said.

"Through the use of the radar and the Zeus long-range interceptor, wide geographical area defense could be provided against a so-called light attack with a very few radars and few Zeus installations," he added.

"So the entire geographical area of the United States could be covered defensively with a minimum of modules," he said.

Ouimet, Aide Differ on Value Of 1964 Study

OTTAWA (CP)—CBC President J. Alphonse Ouimet and a former aide disagreed Tuesday over the merits of a 1964 study group cure for management-producer friction in the public-owned corporation.

Michael Barrington, the group chairman, told the Commons broadcasting committee that management rejected a proposal for "an unbroken line" of authority from top management down to program producers.

Each level in the chain of command from the programming vice-president down would become the work of the level below it. Management would not keep down several levels to examine a program.

The aim of the recommendation was to provide a workable method of shaping programming, to keep it moving in the direction the CBC was going, and against the flaws.

Testifying later, Mr. Ouimet termed the proposal "impractical." It would have cost more than the existing arrangement in both money and manpower. However it was "a more cogent plan."

"No other organization in the world has ever worked that way in programming," Mr. Ouimet said. "I do agree that it would have provided "a check on the authority" to the level of perhaps a program on paper, but all the same it would be instituted."

Mr. Ouimet, however, agreed with another Harrison suggestion for a parliamentary assessment of the CBC at appropriate times to review the mandate and the corporation's performance in the light of it. Now, Mr. Ouimet said, was "excellent."

THINGS HAVE CHANGED'

The president also said the group's recommendations were dealing with a situation two years old and things had changed markedly since then.

Mr. Harrison said the group's conclusions are valid today.

He was executive assistant to Mr. Ouimet when the president named him to head the study group in 1962. The group, made up of six CBC officials, was established following criticisms in the Glassco report on government organization.

Mr. Harrison told the committee, which has been examining the confrontation between management and restive producers, that his group "tended to find illness and propose a cure."

He said management had the right to reject the proposals. His group "could be unattached with management" over them and Mr. Harrison later left the organization.

Mr. Harrison said there were

Uganda Captures Kabaka's Palace

KAMPALA (AP)—The Ugandan government captured the palace of the rebellious king of the Buganda region Tuesday night. But the fate of "King Freddie" was not known.

The 41-year-old monarch of Uganda's biggest and richest region was variously reported missing, dead, or under arrest.

One report in London said the Ugandan Army had set the palace on fire and killed 200 of the king's bodyguards.

Ugandan President Milton Obote's government said its troops have attacked the brick-walled palace compound at Mengo, on the southwest outskirts of Kampala, after it was learned that arms were being distributed there to mobs. The troops seized the palace after an all-day battle, the government said.

The government did not report casualty figures from the battle but said eight policemen and 10 civilians were killed when mobs threatened a police station. Two Britons on a surveying project were killed by a mob 50 miles east of Kampala, the government added.

King Freddie is Sir Edward Frederick William Mutesa II, the kabaka of Buganda. He got his nickname as a student, Grenadier guardsman and polo-playing exile in London.

The violence grew out of a long-smoldering power struggle that sharpened last Friday when the king told Obote to take his central governments out of Kampala and the Buganda region by May 30.

Buganda had semi-independent status under the 1962 constitution and King Freddie was the national president. Last February Obote, who then was prime minister, tore up the constitution, ousted the king from the presidency, took the post himself and pushed through a new constitution undermining regional power.

King Freddie inherited his 300-year-old throne at the age of 18 when Uganda was still a British colony.

He was returned to his kingdom but was exiled to London again for resisting British colonial policies. Two years later the slightly built king returned home again as a popular hero.

Troops Join Riot Police In Quelling Saigon Mobs

SAIGON (AP) — Riot police backed by paratroops broke up crowds of anti - government demonstrations in Saigon today after the South Vietnamese capital's mayor banned a massive Buddhist "march of peace" against Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's military regime.

Several persons were injured and a number of Buddhist monks and nuns were arrested as police scattered the demonstrators with tear gas.

Ky's opponents demonstrated peacefully in three other cities, including the northern Buddhist stronghold of Hue, while government supporters rallied in another.

The U.S. military command ordered all Americans off Saigon's streets in anticipation of trouble during the scheduled march from the Buddhist institute, focal point of past disorders.

Cardin's Errors About Gerda's Name and Fate Give Rise to Questions

OTTAWA (CP) — The Munsinger security inquiry ended Tuesday with questions about the source of Justice Minister Cardin's wrong information that Gerda Munsinger's name was Olga Monseigner and that she had died of leukemia in Germany.

Mr. Justice Wishart Spence, head of the inquiry, gave no indication as to when he will make his report to the cabinet. The commission heard 10 witnesses at 10 open hearings in also had three known secret sessions.

John Dupre, counsel for Pierre Sevigny, former Conservative associate justice minister, noted that Mr. Cardin on March 4 and 11 in the Commons had referred to the "Monseigner" case and at a press conference March 10 had stated that the RCMP had received a report that the German dancer was dead of leukemia.

Mr. Dupre then recalled the testimony of Superintendent Fortune, a Montreal friend of Mrs. Munsinger, that she had told Montreal lawyer Robert Du-charme and financier John Doyle in November, 1964, that Olga Monseigner had died of leukemia.

Mr. Dupre said — and the judge agreed—that the RCMP witnesses at the inquiry had testified the force had never received nor received information that Mrs. Monsinger was dead.

He identified Mr. Doyle as a well-known financier in Canada and also in the United States."

Mr. Dupre said it was Mr. Justice Spence's "duty" to find out how Mr. Cardin had made two such serious errors — "if don't say he lied"—and added: "I say it is up to you to find out what relation there can be between this answer given to Ducharme in the presence of Doyle (by Miss Delorme about the supposed death) and the fact that a month later, on Dec. 1, 1964, the whole file on Munsinger was sent up to the prime minister who sends it to (former Liberal justice minister) Favreau and when it comes back keeps it for a year and a half."

Mr. Justice Spence said he

Spence Thinks Police Should Have Probed Political Pull Charge

OTTAWA (CP)—Mr. Justice Wishart Spence said for a second time Tuesday the police should have been instructed to investigate reports that political pressure was exerted to free Gerda Munsinger from jail in 1961.

It was one of a number of comments by the judge during the course of the inquiry suggesting what should have been done about the security case when it was before the Conservative government of John Diefenbaker.

The inquiry headed by Mr. Justice Spence is adjourned indefinitely while he considers the evidence, whether to make charges of misconduct against anyone and what to report to the Liberal government which appointed him in March.

Mr. Justice Spence first made the suggestion about "disturbing political pressure" May 19 when he interjected that the Conservative government might have looked into what political pressure was exercised and by whom.

"Yes, exactly," agreed Jack Campbell, counsel for Justice Minister Cardin, who had been given his views on the course which should have been followed.

Mr. Justice Spence interrupted John Dupre, counsel for Pierre Sevigny, former Con-

Liberals Under Attack

By GERARD McNEIL

OTTAWA (CP)—The minority Liberal government was accused Tuesday of everything but progress by an opposition that said its extensive administrative shuffle either goes too far or not far enough.

A government reorganization bill undergoing second reading is the major effort so about eight departments. Debate continues today, with closure-by-closure study ahead.

New Democrat MPs said the government should have created departments of economic affairs and consumer affairs, as well as a powerful federal office of education.

Elden Woolliams (PC — Bow River) said Mr. Pearson was carving up justice "like a Christmas turkey" because he had trouble with his justice ministers.

The reference was to Privy Council President Favreau, who resigned last summer as justice minister, and his successor, Lucien Cardin, who has run into flimsy weather over the Spencer and Munsinger cases.

The shuffle would create a registrar - general — Mr. Favreau has been pegged for the job—to deal with commercial law. Solicitor-General Pennell would take responsibility for the RCMP, the National Parole Board and the penitentiaries service.

Higher Tolls Opposed

TORONTO (CP) — Transport Minister Irwin Haskett introduced a bill in the legislature Tuesday that would empower the government to force car manufacturers to include certain safety equipment in automobiles if they didn't do so voluntarily.

In other business:

—Premier Robarts said his government is opposed to higher tolls on the St. Lawrence Seaway or the Welland Canal.

—The premier said the municipal affairs department is studying requests from municipalities for an early announcement of the 1966-67 winter works program.

—Agriculture Minister W. A. Stewart introduced a bill that would clarify responsibilities and procedures for control of plant diseases.

—Attorney - General Arthur Wishart said he plans to study a transcript of an inquest to find out if the staff of Guelph Reformatory was at fault in the death of Anatol Chomenko, 19, who died last December after a heart attack.

—Mr. Stewart said the government plans no special legislation to protect pregnant mares used for the production of the hormone estrogen. The Ontario Arm Council Inc.'s annual report asked Municipal Affairs Minister J. W. Spooner to consider its recommendation that the Municipal Act be changed to allow municipal governments to subdivide local arctistic groups.

The auto safety bill would give the cabinet power to require "the use of incorporation of any device in or on any vehicle, which may effect the safe operation of the vehicle. . ."

Mr. Haskett said the government could also set out standards and specifications for tires. This would prevent manufacturers from using Ontario as a dumping ground for substandard tires if other jurisdictions pass tire safety legislation.

He said the cabinet has no intention at the moment of drawing up new auto safety rules but merely wants to give itself the authority to do so.

Mother, Two Children Die In N.B. Fire

FREDERICTON (CP) — Fire in a two-storey dwelling early today claimed the lives of a 38-year-old woman and two of her children.

Mrs. Hugh Haswell and two sons, Robert, 9, and Charles, 6, died when fire swept through their home. A third child, three-year-old Timmie, and the children's grandfather, C. Hedley Forbes, escaped.

Mr. Haswell, a biologist with the fish and wildlife branch of the New Brunswick lands and mines department, was in Moncton.

Fire Chief Harold F. Doherty said the fire apparently started in the vicinity of the kitchen and swept up a flight of stairs at the rear of the house to the second-storey hallway. Cause of the blaze, first noticed about 12:45 a.m. ADT, was not known.

Timmie was found by a neighbor standing in the lower hall near the front door. The body of his mother was found in the upstairs hall near the body of one of her other sons. The body of the other child was discovered in a small bedroom.

Republican Leader Dirksen Tells LBJ Congress Wants Answers on Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett Dirksen told President Johnson Tuesday that Congress wants more answers to what's happening in Viet Nam. The president has not met with congressional leaders for several months.

The Illinois Republican said during "a reasonably lengthy talk" with Johnson he proposed a bipartisan White House briefing for congressional leaders. The president promised to take the idea under advisement, Dirksen reported at a press conference.

In other developments:

—Sale Secretary Dean Rusk reaffirmed the U.S. desire to negotiate peace in Viet Nam and said the administration shall continue its "far-reaching, persistent efforts to bring the other side to the peace table."

—United Nations Secretary-General U Thant said military operations in Viet Nam should be scaled down in an attempt to initiate peace discussions among the major powers including China. The war in South Viet Nam can no longer be described as a fight for democracy."

While he avoided any personal assessment of the situation in Viet Nam, Dirksen said that opinion polls indicated a downward shift in public support for Johnson's policies there.

Dirksen said he thinks the majority of Americans want the war brought to a conclusion as rapidly as possible.

Thant told the biennial convention of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America in Atlantic City, N.J.:

"What is really at stake, unless an early end to the hostilities is brought about," he said, "is the independence, the liberty of and the survival of the country itself."

But in a speech a few hours later, Rusk told the council on foreign relations that the leaders of Russia and China still "are committed to promotion of the Communist world revolution —even while they disagreed bitterly on tactics."

After saying that the U.S. aim is "to eliminate war and not merely what it would go away," Rusk said the United States is ready to negotiate peace in Viet Nam wherever there is anybody "with whom to negotiate peace."

"When the other side becomes convinced that it cannot achieve its purposes by force, peace will come."

Wins Oregon Nomination

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert Duncan, President Johnson's champion in an Oregon campaign focused on Viet Nam, captured that state's Democratic Senate nomination for the November general election amid Republican talk of nationwide voter uneasiness about the Asian war.

In Duncan's runaway victory Tuesday over peace candidate Howard Morgan, advocates of the U.S. stance in South Viet Nam could find at least a partial answer to the Republicans.

HEARINGS ADJOURNED — Jules Dupre (left), counsel for Pierre Sevigny, and Mr. Justice Wishart Spence (right) leave the Board of Transport Commissioners committee rooms in Ottawa Tuesday after Mr. Justice Spence adjourned the hearings into the Munsinger sex and security scandal. Mr. Dupre told Tuesday's hearing a report should be made available on any relationship between statements in November, 1964, that Gerda Munsinger had died and Prime Minister Pearson's having sent for RCMP files on the case the same month.

No Expenditure on Day Nursery Until Full Report Given

Establishment of a day nursery in Belleville to care for pre-kindergarten children of working mothers, has received budget approval by city council, but at least two of its members would like to see the $5,000 item removed from the year's expenditures.

Yesterday at city council Alderman Don Jose and Thomas Carruthers presented a motion to have the $30,000 item "day nurseries" deleted from the city welfare budget pending adequate clarification of the program.

However, on the assurance of Mayor Jack Ellis that no monies would be spent until a report outlining the proposed program was presented to council, the motion was withdrawn.

In introducing their motion the two aldermen said there appeared to be considerable misunderstanding regarding the day nursery, while also many had raised sincere objections.

VOLUNTEER SERVICE OUT

The resolution pointed out that there has been active discussions in the city for a volunteer day nursery service for people who are unable to afford proper baby-sitting service.

It went on to note that if the proposed city sponsored day nursery was only for three and four year olds it would be of little value to working mothers with younger children.

Mayor Ellis said the demand for day nursery service would be such that it couldn't possibly be satisfied by a volunteer service.

Ald. Carruthers said he did not object to the day nursery service if only welfare people were to benefit but he objected if it was also intended for people who could afford to pay.

Alderman Joss said he was opposed to any money being in the budget for day nurseries until details were known.

"You're not being fair," interjected Alderman Don Wilkins, "the Welfare Department knows what it is doing. Let's give the day nursery a trial and if it doesn't satisfy the right people then it can be disbanded."

Alderman Jack Allin said this matter had given him more misgivings than anything else on his long association with city council.

"I get three or four calls a day and I feel if this is a good thing then a lot of explanation is necessary," he said.

Aldermen Carruthers said many people did not understand that the day nursery was to be a welfare project.

The motion to delete the $30,000 item from the budget was withdrawn when Mayor Ellis assured that a full report would be before council in two weeks time.

Child Drowns While Playing At Boat Ramp

A two-year old Belleville boy drowned about 1.40 p.m. yesterday afternoon while playing with some companions at the foot of South George St. near the Bay.

Dead is Glen Richard Dafoe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Dafoe, 58 South George St. He had been playing with his brother, Stephen, 8, and Glenda Markwell, 6, and Penny Lis Markwell, 5, of 62 South George St.

The boy slipped into the water along the north side of a boat ramp. When Glenda Markwell saw him fall in the water, she ran up the street and told the boy's mother what had happened. A Trenton man, Charles Brown, 24 Lewis St., who was visiting at the home of J. Callaghan, 52 South George St., heard Mrs. Dafoe scream and rushed down to the bay and recovered the boy, lying down in 18 inches of water about four feet from shore.

Mr. Brown and Wayne Craig, 85 S. George St., along with city police, began working on the boy until firemen arrived with a resuscitator, LaSalle Ambulance was also on the scene with a resuscitator.

The Fire Department Emergency Unit worked feverishly trying everything possible to revive the boy, Coroner Dr. J. Russell Scott declared the boy dead at the Belleville General Hospital

There will be no inquest.

Two Bylaws Referred Back For Discussion

Belleville city council still hasn't decided what action to take with respect to the keeping of horses and just whose "other professional men" may establish stables.

Both subjects were again under discussion at yesterday's meeting of council with conveying by-laws in both instances being referred back for more consideration.

The first noted subject with respect to horses was up, for the second time two weeks ago after a College Hill area resident objected to a neighbor keeping a horse in an adjoining yard. Yesterday a petition, an opposing petition with about 20 names was presented.

Proposed by-law amendments to allow the pasturing of cattle on properties of more than 2 acres and to permit keeping of livestock for sales purposes at the Belleville Livestock Sale Barns and at the fairground during fair week failed to meet approval when it was noted there might be other similar applications.

LAWYERS OPPOSE

The by-law amendment would have allowed the keeping of horses where they were a necessary part of business.

Two Belleville lawyers, Rod Cameron and William Angus, appeared before council to speak against a proposed zoning by-law change which would rule out lawyers establishing their offices in connection with their homes.

They pointed out that a lawyer through sickness or accident might be unable to travel and his downtown office and might find it necessary to conduct his practice from his home.

Later in the council session Alderman Douglas Boyle said the same set of circumstances could also apply to an architect or other professional man. Under the originally proposed terms of the by-law amendment only doctors would be permitted to have offices in their homes.

Council Golfers Ready to Take On All-Comers

Belleville city council has thrown out a golfing challenge to other municipalities across Ontario.

The challenge is that two members of Belleville city council will play an 18-hole match at the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club with any two representatives from municipal councils in any part of Ontario.

City Councillors Don Joss and Thomas Carruthers are neither of them tyros with a golf club — presented the resolution which was carried by council.

Mayor Jack Ellis, however, asked to be excused from inclusion in the golf match play.

"I don't know which end of a golf club is up," commented the mayor.

Gets 6 Months In Fraud Case

TRENTON — Joseph Desmonde, who last week was convicted in Trenton court on a charge of theft, was given additional charge of theft, was sentenced to six months' concurrent in the county jail on both charges by Magistrate T. Y. Wills in Trenton court on Tuesday. The fraud charge involved the passing of a worthless cheque at the Dominion Tire Sales, Trenton, and the theft involved an incident at Hespeler, Ont., when a $15 watch and fifty-cent pieces was taken.

Wm. G. Weston, appearing for the accused, brought out through testimony that the car driven by Lentz on April 7 had been lacking brake fluid. Assistants To Magistrate Appointed BRIGHTON — A continuous increase in the number of cases on Magistrate's Court docket in Brighton and Percy Township has resulted in the office of the Ontario Attorney General appointing an additional part-time magistrate to serve the united counties of Northumberland and Durham. At present Magistrate's court sittings are held in Brighton and Campbellford two days a month. New appointee Robert Batten is now practising law in Peterborough. He also serves as assistant magistrate in Victoria County. Mr. Batten is expected to begin his duties in Northumberland soon, presiding as magistrate throughout the county at sittings two days every week. Northumberland Crown Attorney Jeffrey Bennett said it would often be desirable to hold magistrate's court sittings in Brighton and Campbellford every week. The new appointment will facilitate this, he said. It has been learned that Ontario Attorney General Wishart is also likely to find it necessary to appoint a full-time attorney to serve as assistant to Mr. Bennyeuile. He now has a part-time assistant, one of whom, Trevor Clarke of Campbellford, has submitted his resignation to devote full time to his law practice there.

Promising Markets Turning Up on the Continent Says Agriculture Minister Greene

By JIM ANDERSON

LONDON (CP) — Agriculture Minister Greene, making his first European tour since assuming the portfolio, says new markets available for Canadian agricultural products are turning up on the Continent but aggressive marketing prospects can be strengthened by making trade a two-way street.

Canadian dairy cattle sales to France are likely to run to about $1,500,000 during the next few months and there also is a large cattle market in Yugoslavia, Greene told a press conference Tuesday.

Greene stopped in London to hold his first meeting with British Agriculture Minister Fred Peart. Topics discussed included Commonwealth trade and British farm legislation. Anglo-Canadian agricultural relations are "very good," Greene said. Any outstanding problems were of a minor nature.

Greene's four-day visit to Yugoslavia was mainly to attend the Novi Sad, fair—largest agricultural exhibition in central Europe — where 20 Canadian Holsteins were on display. Those impressed even Yugoslav President Tito. The Canadian entries won top awards for milk yields.

PRODUCTS NOT KNOWN

Greene said he was surprised by the lack of knowledge in Yugoslavia about Canadian products. He hoped to establish an exchange of personnel and information to encourage two-way relations and trade. Yugoslavia had recently purchased several hundred Holsteins from Denmark, West Germany and The Netherlands but until the Novi Sad fair apparently did not realize Canadian Holsteins had the world's highest milk yields.

Other central European countries offered similar possibilities for Canadian cattle, Greene said. But in return, Canada must think of buying more from these countries, including Yugoslavia which his a serious balance of payments deficit.

More all-round Canadian imports could contribute to greater Canadian economic independence, Greene said. He noted that his Yugoslavia trip was the first by a Canadian agriculture minister.

In Paris, Greene conferred with French Agriculture Minister Edgar Faure and was told that the European Common Market now having settled its thorny agricultural differences, there is "every hope of a satisfactory discussion" at the Kennedy round of world tariff bargaining. Overall negotiations have been delayed mainly because of Common Market squabbling and inability to present a united agricultural package for tariff bargaining.

City Council Approves Home Inspection Program

Health Unit Slated to Start September 1st

The new county health unit, formation of which was approved some months ago by Hastings county council and Belleville city council, is slated to begin operation by September 1st.

This was the assurance given city council members by Mayor Jack Ellis and Alderman Enos David.

Alderman David advised that the unit would carry out any hazards found but had no authority to order cleanup or repair of any fire hazards found. All findings would be confidential and would not be released even to fire insurance companies.

Chief Poste said that such an inspection would enable him to do much to reduce the number of fires in residences.

The Belleville Fire Department yesterday received city Council approval for an in service home inspection program aimed at eliminating potential fire hazards in residences.

This program, scheduled to get underway on Sept. 1st, was explained to council by Fire Chief Ted Poste and Inspector Robert Pate, who emphasized the inspection would be strictly voluntary on the part of the home owner.

Only the basement, yards, sheds and garage would be inspected, Fire Chief Poste said, noting that if these were found to be free of fire hazards, it could be assumed the balance of the home would be okay.

The fire chief said the department would point out any hazards found but had no authority to order cleanup or repair of any fire hazards found. All findings would be confidential and would not be released even to fire insurance companies.

Chief Poste said that such an inspection would enable him to do much to reduce the number of fires in residences.

barbed wire around the institute but were driven off by tear gas.

Earlier, riot police scattered 200 students staging a noisy anti - government, anti - American protest outside Saigon University. Blaming the United States for Ky's suppression of the rebellion in Da Nang Monday, the students waved a placard saying "American troops stop their inhumane actions."

In Hue, 350 miles northeast of Saigon, 5,000 persons demonstrated peacefully against the ruling junta and the United States for supporting it.

A display of pro-government sympathy was staged in Quang Ngai, where 300 demonstrators cheered appeals to march against Hanoi and the Viet Cong. Government spokesman said, Thirty-four Viet Cong were reported killed against light government casualties.

Biting Insects Subject of Talk To Kiwanians

"At this time of year especially, I thought you might like to know what's biting you," opened Dr. D. Belton in an address yesterday to the Belleville Kiwanis Club. Dr. Belton spoke on Canada's biting flies and how to combat them. He is on the staff of the Research Institute in Belleville.

Dealing with the blood sucking species of biting flies, Dr. Belton termed the black fly "The most pest in Canada". He also discussed mosquitoes, deer and horse flies, and stable flies, suggesting ways of eliminating them, regulating them and repelling them.

He referred to the Armed Forces Manual for Pest Control and noted that the booklet was going out of date because of the fact that the Ontario Water Resources Commission plans to outlaw the use of the insecticide DDT in water, in the fight to control these pests, the manual will have to be revised in the next year or so.

He explained that one-tenth of an ounce of DDT per acre is used to kill mosquito larvae and an even smaller amount of the insecticide does the trick in the battle against black flies. But with the OWRC decision to outlaw DDT,a great deal of research is now going on in an effort to produce some other method of control.

The use of sounds to attract birds and other predators to the haunts and breeding places of the pests is the subject of research now being carried out. But Dr. Belton observed that it will probably be 10 years before a suitable non-chemical method of pest control is devised and given the stamp of approval.

Pests arriving from other countries are also creating problems since there are no natural enemies to prey on these newcomers to Canada. The task here is to introduce natural enemies for them.

At yesterday's meeting, Kiwanians were reminded that the annual motorcycle scramble is scheduled this year for May 29. Tickets for the event are on sale now.

Scarborough Man Killed In Collision

TWEED —An early morning car - transport crash on Highway No. 7 near the Hastings county Lennox and Addington line east of Actinolite has resulted in the death of one man and heavy property damage to both vehicles.

Killed in the crash was the car driver, George Osborne Jarvis of Scarborough, whose car was a complete wreck.

The driver of the transport Murray Medford of Lavoie, Quebec, escaped injury, but his transport caught fire and the Tweed fire department had to be called to put out the blaze.

Madoc provincial police stated the accident occurred about 12.50 this morning. Coroner Dr. S. Berry pronounced the Scarborough man dead at the scene.

Fire Protection For Four Twps. May Cost More

Fire protection for the four Quinte area townships having agreements with the city of Belleville could cost more money in the future.

City council was told yesterday that there had been no changes in fire agreements with Ameliasburg, Sidney and Tyendinaga since 1963, and no agreement with Thurlow since 1956.

Current standby rate paid by Ameliasburg is $300 per year, by Sidney and Thurlow, $1000 each and Tyendinaga pays an hourly rate of $15 per hour for each vehicle within a seven mile limit and $50 per vehicle in excess of seven miles.

Costs of the Belleville Fire Department have increased by 19.1 per cent since 1963 and by 1967 will have increased 27 per cent.

New fire fighting rates for the township were proposed to council by manager J. R. Reynolds but Alderman Jack Allin was named a committee of one to meet with township officials to discuss changes for new agreements.

Development of River Bank Area at Rear of Stores Under Advisement by City Council

Although the official city plan when it is received will include proposals for an overall plan for the re-development of the city's downtown area, city council still takes an early look at re-vitalizing the river bank area to the rear of Front street stores.

On recommendation of Alderman Thomas Carruthers, chairman of waterfront redevelopment consulting engineers Damas and Smith of Toronto, to prepare plans for development of the river bank area.

The area to be considered in the preliminary survey will extend from Bridge street to the Upper Bridge, the plan to provide for vehicular access from existing streets, across within the area, additional parking spaces and river bank improvements.

Alderman Carruthers said the plan would also include proposals for the rehabilitation of buildings and provision for rear entrance to stores.

MEDICINE HAT PORT

Cost of the preliminary study is not to exceed $2,000.

Alderman Jack Allin wanted to know why the city planning department could not do the study instead of the city hiring outside consultants.

Mayor Jack Ellis said that due to the extensive work load it would be impossible for the planning department to do the work this year.

Planning Director F. J. Beavis said he appreciated council wanted to get something done this year to clean up this part of the city but in view of over - all proposals to re-develop the downtown area, suggested, the preliminary work be done.

Whatever was done at this time would only be a short time plan, he said, adding that the Mr. Beavis said because of the long narrow properties facing Front street, proper development was impossible.

Land assembly and re-development of the harbor and town area was needed, he said.

PLANS AVAILABLE

Alderman Doug Boyle wanted to know if it became a 20-year-old plans for development of the river bank area which had been drawn by the city engineer Charles Mott.

"They are still at city hall," replied Mr. Beavis.

The plans drawn by the former city engineer envisioned an esplanade along the east bank of the river with access points near the Upper Bridge and on Bridge Street at the Lower Bridge.

The plan also included provision for rear access to Front Street stores.

Earlier plans for the development of the river bank area failed to get past the preliminary stage when difficulty was experienced in acquiring properties and the Ontario Highways Department frowned on allowing an access onto Bridge Street.

Oshawa Trailor Club Enjoys Facilities of Frankford Park

FRANKFORD — "Have Family Will Travel" is the motto of Oshawa Travel Trailer Club members who with 31 homes on wheels, converged on Frankford Park on the holiday weekend. Known as trailerites, the group was part of a newly-formed association with some 300 members throughout Ontario. All are part of the contingent of trailers that take to Ontario's highways singly each weekend and in force, once each month.

Clubs from Trenton, Belleville, Renfrew, Oshawa, Peterborough and Scarborough and Eastern Canada are limited to from 30 to 50 members. This is due to lack of facilities in parks. The newly-formed association will endeavor to approach various government agencies hoping to have sanitation outlets and recreational facilities expanded.

Association president Martin Ostler said; "We do not wish to make profit in trailers but this would defeat the purpose of freedom we all desire. Certain rules must be added by in order that we are welcome to use the parks in Ontario."

Evidence of the Oshawa group's planning for the successful weekend outing here, was the atmosphere prevailing among older and younger groups, who went about their activities happily. Highlights of the three-day visit were a potluck supper, a fish derby, boating, half games and a church service.

On hand to welcome the trailerites in Frankford were Reeve Ray Moran and members of the council. Perbes (Don) McEwan of Whitby, president of the Oshawa Club, represented the visitors at the meeting with village officials.

Mr. McEwan said he and four other men formed one of the first clubs in 1961 and since then, club members have visited many parts of Ontario.

Bill Kent, one of the originals from Oshawa, said many people from all walks of life now enjoy the hobby with their children. He observed that the biggest problem in keeping the clubs small enough to match park facilities.

Members of the association will hold a rally at Lakeview Park, Oshawa, June 10-12. New clubs may attend the rally and apply for membership in the association.

Most of Profit Went to Morgan And His Wife

TORONTO (CP)—C. Powell Morgan and his wife received the return next year, based on the listing of shares of Commodore Business Machines (Canada) Ltd. between 1961 and 1965, royal commission was told Tuesday.

Chartered accountant Bernard Wolfman said Mr. Morgan, former president of Atlantic Acceptance Corp., and his wife bought 457,700 Commodore shares for $1,355,774 and sold 448,300 of the shares for $2,022,343.

Evidence given the commission investigating the failure of Atlantic last year also disclosed that some portion of the Morgan's profit went to William Walton and Harry Wagman, chartered accountants. The two, along with Mr. Morgan, owned Associated Canadian Holdings Ltd.

But Mr. Wolfman said an attempt to promote the sale of 100,000 commodore shares in Europe was not successful. The shares were originally shipped from Toronto to West Germany from the stockbroker's account of Mrs. Morgan and Associated Canadian Holdings Ltd.

Mr. Wolfman's testimony was based on documents seized from Toronto stockbroker Barrett, Goodfellow and Co.

He testified that many of the shares reappeared in Canada and were sold on the Canadian Stock Exchange in Montreal. Most were bought by Mr. Morgan and his associates at prices well in excess of the $3-per-share delivery price to Germany.

The hearing continues.

few restrictions on program-ming at the CBC. But it would be impossible to give "unbridled freedom" to program producers.

"Their work must be in concert with the objectives of the corporation," he said. "Otherwise the public broadcasting system becomes a corporation for those who want to express their own views."

The testimony of both men was at Prime Minister Pearson awaited the report of medi-ator Stuart Keate on the pro-posed CBC commercial and the touched off the removal for next season of the Seven Days hour, Wednesday night public affairs show. The report is expected soon.

To Mr. Harrison's "illness" remark, Mr. Ouimet replied that in an organization that must reconcile optimum creativity with sound administration "we will always have a problem if this kind."

The president, fencing at times with MPs, said he knew of no serious "malaise" in the CBC across the country now. He was aware of such when the Glassco Commission came and this led to the Harrison study group.

Asked whether he could guarantee no other "holy mess" in a few years time, Mr. Ouimet said he would take steps to prevent it. For these to succeed, the difference in philosophies between management and management must be resolved.

The positions on both sides have been clarified in the inquiry over Seven Days. He hoped the television program would return next season, but that would depend on getting proper balance. He would operate it in accordance with the CBC principle against making editorial comment.

In a summation statement, Mr. Ouimet also made these points:

—Mr. LaPierre was dismissed because he was unable to accept the principle—MG CBC has the right of view on controversial matters.

—Mr. Watson was removed, not because of his on-air performance, but in order to bring the program back under management control.

—There was a failure of communication downward in that the dismissal word was not passed down through channels, but there was a more serious failure of communication upward.

—The high-pressure publicity campaign on the Seven Days" movement accompanying it would be an "illuminating example" of the misuse of public opinion," although he had no idea of their origin.

Lesage Stresses Dangers of Separatism

QUEBEC (CP)—In a helicopter tour of five Montreal-area constituencies Tuesday, Premier Jean Lesage continued his theme that the June 5 provincial general election campaign is a straight two-party fight between his Liberal administration and the Union Nationale party.

The premier has repeatedly stressed the dangers of separatism for Quebec, answering separatist and Creditiste candidates who support a more independent status for the province.

Tuesday, he also spoke out strongly against independent Liberal candidates running in three of the five ridings he visited, urging voters not to waste their votes.

Daniel Johnson, leader of the Union Nationale opposition in the last legislature, spoke to 1,200 persons in a 700-seat hall at Joliette. He reiterated criticisms of the Liberals' farm program and its proposed health insurance plan.

'MAKE RICH PAY'

He said "the little man will pay for the millionaires" under the Liberal health plan, while the Union Nationale would establish a plan whereby "the rich would pay the largest share."

He said 30 of the 37 agriculture items in the Liberal election platform were taken directly from that party's election platform of 1962. The Union Nationale would add "38 agriculture out of its stagnation."

Mr. Lesage's night rally in Donnacona was expected to have excellent turnout of the current campaign.

Mr. Johnson's premier dealt mainly with plans to establish a provincial department of recreation, tourism and fish and game. He added that the education department would move into two new fields of study, the training of farmers and of recreation supervisors.

Today the premier returns to the Quebec City area where he is to address night rallies in the towns of Lotbiniere and Levis. Tuesday, Mr. Johnson has a night rally scheduled at Thetford Mines.

INCREASES FORCE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union has modestly increased during the last year its force of intercontinental ballistic missiles aimed at the United States, U.S. officials said Monday. No numbers were given, but the officials said the American superiority of about three or four to one in ICBM's "has not been altered."

Will Open Fair Grounds to Motorists But Street Work Won't Begin Until '67

Local motorists will soon be able to drive the length of Sidney street through the Belleville Fair Grounds, but reconstruction of the street is not expected to get underway until next spring.

This was learned by city council yesterday when Mayor Jack Ellis, in reply to an inquiry two weeks ago from Ald. Jack Allin, said the city engineer foresaw no difficulties in opening the roadway for almost immediate use.

The necessary field work and design for the Sidney street reconstruction will be carried out during the summer, with the view of getting start on construction next spring.

It was pointed out, however, that the final design of the Dundas - Sidney street intersection will dependent on the additional engineering to be carried out on the Dundas street project.

The mayor noted that the change in thinking regarding the Dundas street project and the Parker Street extension affects the layout of Sidney Street, particularly the Dundas-Sidney street intersection.

He said the final design of Sidney street was therefore dependent on the additional engineering to be carried out on the Dundas street project. It is anticipated that this information will be available by fall to enable completion of Sidney street plans.

AWARD CONTRACT

Council awarded a contract for $2,328 to the T. C. Construction Company for renovations to the former opportunity shop area at city hall, which is to be used by the purchasing and personnel department. The estimated cost of the work was $3,000.

Council adopted a specific policy for the development of industrial lands.

The corporation will acquire the necessary road allowances either by purchase or dedication, an exception being where roads are entirely within a development, in such cases road allowances will be dedicated by the developer.

The corporation will provide the costs of constructing roads by local improvements and will provide costs for installing storm sewers out of the general rate.

The corporation will also provide for the costs of constructing sanitary sewers and water distribution mains by local improvement. The additional cost of providing oversized sewer and water mains will be borne by the corporation through its share of local improvement costs.

A new history of Belleville is off the press and the first specially bound copy was presented to the city.

Prior to the opening of the city council session, Thomas Ransom, president of the Hastings County Historical Society and Nick Mika, publisher of the history, presented the first copy of the history to Mayor Jack Ellis.

Restless Youth

In the current issue of The Canadian there is a series of articles about the so-called "committed kids," the assortment of what the magazine describes as peaceniks, beardniks, new-style do-gooddniks and the rest of the noisy minority that is setting the pace of today's youthful idealism.

The articles — by Tom Alderman — range from interviews with Company of Young Canadians interim director Bill McWhinney, 27, Quebec's Alban Asselin, 24, who surveyed the youth job market for Jeunesse Ouvriere Catholique, a religious organization, and Doug Ward, 27, president-elect of the Canadian Union of Students, to the more bohemian, but equally unorthodox individuals we associate with civil rights demonstrations, sit-ins and squatters protesting against the war in Viet Nam.

The observations of these and other young people reflect the inner ferment, the questioning and unrest that grips young people everywhere. As often as not, this restlessness symbolizes nothing so much as a desire to create a new and positive dynamism in society. Without the want to do good, but unobtrusively, without the rather pathetic bungling and busybody attitudes of the professional do-gooder. They want a cause and a stake in this new Canada which is concerning itself more and more — through the idealism of its youth — with social and humanitarian questions than with material and economic development.

They are at work both at home and abroad, these young people, and quite clearly their activities are not always welcomed or endorsed by communities they select for their task forces. Kingston is an example; last year, the magazine points out, the city was "the reluctant target of when all the dreamers swooped in looking for slums, poverty and evil landlords."

The project lives on — to Kingston's chagrin — in the shape of a two-girl team which is awaiting reinforcements to carry on the summer. One of the girls, pictured in the shabby apartment she calls home, admitted there was no money for clothes or cosmetics, "but who needs it anyway."

In her attitude at something of the spirit of young people who are prepared to make personal sacrifices and endure discomfort for the sake of ideals in which they believe. Often it is practical idealism, although it does not please local administrators. Many are students at Queen's who unearthed in their spare time such information as the fact that 38 per cent of the city's labor force earns less than $3,000 annually. And their declared aim is to organize the poor "to help them solve their own problems."

But to return to the young men mentioned earlier. Bill McWhinney of the Company of Young Canadians touches on two aspects of latter-day youthful protest. "To get something done," he says, "you either stand still or try to change things from the inside . . . I'm still glad you is a hoarse voice." With his clean-cut, executive looks, McWhinney obviously belongs to the school that favors getting something done without noise and fuss.

After a slow start, incidentally, 250 young Peace Corps style Canadians start later this year on a variety of projects in depressed areas.

Then there is Doug Ward, already mentioned as president-elect of the Canadian Union of Students. A Bachelor of Divinity from the University of Toronto, he takes an intellectual's view of the revolution among modern youth.

"A lot of our education saps the creativity of the students," he says. "Mom and more they feel they are becoming not people, but personnel. Most just hang on until they get their degrees, then get themselves a good job. As long as their bellies are full and they have got a good future they will tolerate anything. But others are thinking: 'Hey I don't like the food they are tossing us animals in here.' They are wondering if they are being educated or just being trained, like an assembly-line shirt worker. They are asking basic questions about the meaning of university education."

Which of course is all to the good. If young people are doing that, if they are questioning and stirring things up, it means they have the quality of awareness that is so important in a perplexing age. The one thing no one can afford in life is a "cannot care less attitude." That many of the country's young people concern is clear from this series of articles in The Canadian.

In recent months Weekend has featured Moss pictures of Winnipeg's Portage Avenue in the dead of winter, the Arctic and Newfoundland. He also accompanied A. Y. Jackson, of the celebrated Group of Seven, on a winter painting expedition by the artist.

In the current issue of Weekend, Moss has a photo-story of his visit with folk-singer Buffy Sainte-Marie at the Pia Pot Reservation in Saskatchewan where she was born.

Counsel's Pointed Question On Security Risk Issue

By RICHARD JACKSON

From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—The basic question Parliament assigned Supreme Court Justice Wishart Spence to answer in the Munsinger sex and security riddle: Did or did not Prime Minister Diefenbaker fulfil his security responsibilities?

Learned counsel watching, listening, sifting and weighing the thousands of words and hundreds of pages of the transcript of the life and times of blonde Bavarian playgirl Gerda Munsinger, tell you that if the answer is to be found, it will be in two exchanges bearing directly on it.

Former Conservative Justice Minister E. Davie Fulton in laying questioned first by A. J. Campbell, counsel for Justice Minister Favreau, and then by C. F. H. Carson, his own and Mr. Diefenbaker's counsel.

The dialogue from the transcript:

Mr. Campbell: Did you understand that by reason of Pierre Sevigny's relationships with this Munsinger woman, that that was part of the security risk?

Mr. Fulton: That was a security risk that had been created, yes.

Mr. Campbell: He had put himself in a vulnerable position with respect to gossip, blackmail and the like?

Mr. Fulton: This is the definition of a security risk.

Mr. Campbell: And that would be true insofar as he was concerned, or insofar as Gerda Munsinger herself, but as regards all those with whom she might have become associated or who might have known of the situation?

Mr. Fulton: Well, this is all part of the security risk situation.

ALTERNATIVES

Mr. Campbell: Did I understand that notwithstanding these compromising elements, after Gerda Munsinger departed from the country, that Mr. Sevigny continued to be Associate Minister of Defence without any protest on your part, sir?

Mr. Fulton: I have the record as to Mr. Sevigny's continuing in there, Mr. Campbell.

Mr. Campbell: I know, but the last part of the question, without any protest on your part?

Mr. Fulton: I reported that situation, as was my duty to do, having reported it, it was for somebody else to make the decision . . .

Mr. Campbell: There were alternatives, were there not, sir?

Mr. Fulton: Well, you have to be more specific, I am afraid, before I can answer that question.

Mr. Campbell: You could have brought it to the attention of your other colleagues?

Mr. Fulton: I consider that would have been an improper course.

Mr. Campbell: Or you could have resigned?

Mr. Fulton: One can always resign, yes.

Mr. Campbell: As it was you left it in abeyance and as the decision of the Prime Minister at the time, the Right Hon. Mr. Diefenbaker?

Mr. Fulton: Yes, I did, in the hands of the one whose sole and ultimate responsibility is the determination of the composition of the Cabinet.

Mr. Campbell: Of course, we all have our own responsibilities, and I believe I discharged mine.

THE FACTORS

So much for whatever security risk there might have been. Then, under cross-examination by Mr. Carson, this from Mr. Fulton:

"I have been trying to keep myself in the area of my responsibility, and what has always occurred to me in connection is that Mr. Diefenbaker had the responsibility of making the decision.

"I had the responsibility of reporting the facts to him. I so reported; he made the decision, and that insofar as it is appropriate for anyone to express or make or come to a judgment on Mr. Diefenbaker's decision, there were a number of things that would have to be taken into account.

"First, had there been a breach of security before?

"Second, was there a breach of security afterwards?

"In other words, had the national security suffered as a result of the decision?

". . . In making the decision, Mr. Diefenbaker, upon whom the very grave responsibility rested, had to take into account not only the risk, and, of course, he was appraised of, but the other factors which it is appropriate and essential for a prime minister to consider.

"Mr. Sevigny's known loyalty.

"His war record and the fact that he came from a prominent French Canadian family with a reputation I need not elaborate on;

"The question in the Prime Minister's mind as to whether there could be any question of Mr. Sevigny's loyalty in his country, perhaps apart from his discretion."

In the light of all these factors then did the national security suffer as a result of the decision?

Well, shot back Mr. Carson, in the light of what happened, had the national security suffered?

While it was careful to say it wasn't his responsibility to express any judgment, Mr. Fulton said Mr. Diefenbaker's decision had been "vindicated."

But will Mr. Justice Spence agree? Would you?

Last of the Whalebacks

Montreal Gazette

The last of the whale back freighters, which made marine history on the Great Lakes, is going to be preserved as a museum in Hamilton. According to reports this week from Hamilton, the ship will be moored in the city's new Confederation Park harbor.

The particular ship which will serve as a museum was built at Hamilton at the beginning of the decade during which one of the cigar-shaped vessels was built in the United States for Great Lakes use.

The theory behind the design of the ships — the inventor was a native Canadian, Capt. Alexander McDougall — was that they would not lip over and that but would roll about in the water like whales.

Supposedly another reason for the cylindrical shape was the narrow decks to avoid tonnage tax based on deck area.

The ships had a very good safety record and for as sinking was concerned, while they carried grain or iron from the Lakehead to Buffalo or Cleveland. But they rolled unmercifully and on rough days sailors had a hard time keeping lines on deck to keep them from falling overboard.

This particular whale back, the John Ericsson, has a history dating to the 19th century but it served a central figure in a more recent, and less pleasant, era as on the Great Lakes. In 1963 she was towed to Port Colborne to take on a load of grain during the seaway strike. Hotter international waterfront disputes between owners, Upper Lakes Shipping, and the seamen's union, sailed back to Toronto empty after longshoremen refused to load her.

The company donated the ship to the city for a museum and it will now be preserved, as it should be, as a reminder of inland shipping in Canada and the part the whalebacks played in that history.

Sex Not a Moral Problem

— By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

(A Primer in Problem Solving: eCrime isn't a legal problem.

Education isn't a school problem.

Peace isn't a political problem.

Sex isn't a moral problem.

This is why crime cannot be diminished by legal methods. Why education cannot be much improved by bigger or better schools.

Why peace can't be achieved by political arrangements.

For the roots of crime are sociological.

The drive and desire for education must come from the family.

The attainment of peace must be a mental and habitual imperative, before any political arrangements can be lasting or effective.

Sex is a psychological dynamism, whose demands must be met in some way.

The law cannot reduce crime until the community takes steps to cure the social pathology that is the inevitable breeding ground for crime.

The schools cannot educate properly until the family provides a home setting in which children are motivated to learn.

The nations cannot possibly unite for peace until enough of their individual citizens recognize and act on the assumption that war is an insult to man's reason and a perversion of his ethical sense.

The churches, or other moral control that is aware of sexual behavior until they revise their notions of "sin" to conform to psychosexual realities as known to depth-psychology.

The government cannot eliminate poverty by adding up the Gross National Product or increasing funds for welfare programs, but only by changing the environment outlook and expectations of the submerged one-fifth of the population who live beneath the level of decent subsistence.

No problem can be dealt with within its own sphere; each is part of another problem, just as the human being is a total organism in which every part responds to every other part. This does not mean that everything must be done at once, but that no discipline can be left to its own experts.

It means, most of all, that solutions overlap and interlock. Perhaps we can only do a little at a time — but that little must be done with the whole human organism, not just fragments floating in a void.

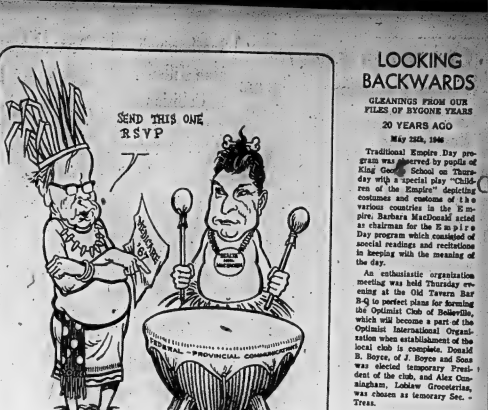
Teenagers' Affluence

Ottawa Journal

A new study says 24,000,000 American teenagers have $15,000,000,000 a year to spend, or $625 apiece. What a wave of hard-time reminiscing that could set off among ex-teenagers of all ages!

A survey found "allowances" for teenagers from parents ranged from a low of $1 up to $20 a week.

Canadians are more moderate in money matters but even people in their twenties here should have professed amazement at the liberal amounts of money their teenaged brothers, sisters and cousins manage to spend in 1966 compared with themselves in 1958.



As for students whose teenaged days pre - date the 1930s and other misty scons of the past, the contrast is even more astounding.

—It's not that parents are any more generous or teenagers any more demanding than they ever were. Times change. What there is money around it tends to get distributed. One need not be an optimist to feel that today's teenagers are comparatively speaking, as sensible about money as yesterday's, and as capable of understanding that if times were hard again, money would be scarce again.

Meet the same, crazy old adults will be forgiven a wry smile at the 16-year-old's view on money. Said she:

"Teenagers are not as impressed with money as adults are. We just want enough to spend."

Ah well, she'll learn soon enough that the hungry of such disdain for money is not cheaply provided to one's progeny.

To Your Good Health

Should Discover Cause Of Sway-Back Posture

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: A friend recently told me that her daughter is doing exercises under direction of a physical therapist to correct lordosis.

I had always heard that such posture was hereditary and nothing could be done about it. My 11-year-old daughter has a very severe sway-back posture. Could we expect any noticeable improvement through exercise or is she too old? Why do some children continue to have this unattractive posture? Should we consult an orthopedist? —M.W.

Saying that poor posture (including lordosis or "sway back") is hereditary is amounts to giving up without a battle.

Still, going into a program of exercise without knowing the cause of the trouble is not likely to help much. So yes, I distinctly favor seeing an orthopedist.

Posture defects obvious by sometimes are the result of slouching until the slouch becomes habit and in time the habit becomes a permanent flaw.

Again, poor posture may be the result — it has been in the past anyway — of some such disease as polio. There have been cases that seemed so mild that they were not recognized at the time. All the same, muscular weakness in some areas throws the back out of perfect alignment. Such distortion can become gradually worse.

In other cases, there is the possibility of some actual deformity of the spinal structure.

An orthopedist can find out what the situation really is. You can't, but can advise whether nothing can be done or whether some more vigor o us treatment may be wise.

Exercises are often effective before the bones of the spine become too rigidly fixed. At the age of 11 proper exercise (if you still be very useful) — but time is also losing short. Consult an orthopedist now.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is sea air preferable for one who has emphysema, or is a warm, dry climate better? — T. L.

Dry air is better. Sea air, of course, is usually moist. For other side is combatting emphysema, read my booklet. You can have a copy by sending 10 cents to coin and a long, self-addressed stamped envelope to me in care of The Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P. O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill., and asking for "How to Control Emphysema."

Dear Dr. Molner: What is your opinion on having moles removed? I have several that could be irritated by undergarments. One started to bleed and my doctor said I should have it cut off several; others removed. Can this safely be done in his office? I was under the impression that if a mole was cut into, you could get cancer. — Mrs. R. C.

You don't get cancer from cutting into a mole. The point is this: of the billions of moles that exist, a small percentage may become cancerous, especially if irritated. Removal of a suspicious mole puts an end to that danger.

This does not mean that all moles should be removed. Rather, remove a mole if it changes in size or color, or is repeatedly chafed or irritated, or if it bleeds without apparent reason.

Removal can be and usually is done in the doctor's office.

To Mrs. J. S.: Moderate use of a sun lamp is not harmful and will not age the skin. Just follow the same rules you would use for outdoor tanning. Take it in small enough doses so you do not burn, and don't try for too dark a tan.

Town Planning In Spotlight

BBC London Letter

The importance of good town planning now to human happiness in the future was stressed by Professor Colin Buchanan, a leading British author in the town planning, in a recent BC World Service broadcast. Comprehensive advance planning, both of housing and facilities like schools and hospitals, was essential, he said, if increasing population was not to result in overcrowding and eventually slum conditions.

Speaking of the lessons developing countries could learn from— past mistakes of industrialized countries, Professor Buchanan emphasized the need to recognize town planning as an activity of great social significance. "Try to get people to accept that there has to be some measure of control over their private affairs and attempt to get trained in a liberal kind of way and let them travel about the world and see how other people live. Develop a strong legislative system, and a system of bailiwick of fairly large tracts of land in the more highly developed countries.

"I think every developing country should take planning for the growth of cities very seriously, that is to say, try to devise city forms which lend themselves to steady growth but possibly in quite unexpected ways, and avoid the desperate problems that have arisen all over Europe from the laid medieval concentric, spider's web type of city which is very difficult for expansion.

"I should advise all nations to safeguard the countryside. In open country, to coast, to mountain, for getting away occasionally and conditions of almost loneliness and isolation. Lastly, one should try to get real quality in the urban environment, and I think there are four points that are important — urban surroundings should be safe, they should be convenient, they should be visually stimulating and interesting and they should offer a tremendous variety of housing."

Field Naturalists Spot 78 Bird Species at Presqu'Ile

With headquarters at Dunworking Cottage they explored the Point and were able to identify 78 species of birds. The warblers and shore birds were not too plentiful but still the list was very gratifying.

An innovation was tried Monday when large numbers of owls arose while it was yet dark and went to a spot in the woods that is known for the many birds. Presently the whip-poor-wills started calling from different directions, then the wood thrushes and mourning doves were heard. It wasn't long until so many were singing that it was quite impossible to separate the calls. Soon after sunrise it was the "transformed into a publicity stunt."

The government said it would not allow entry to about 40 newsmen representatives who were to have accompanied Kennedy during his visit from June 6 to 9.

Kennedy's visit has become a political issue in South Africa.

He was invited by the multiracial, anti - government National Union of South African Students to come to South Africa to address them.

South Africa Keeps Press From Kennedy

PRETORIA (Reuters)—South Africa today imposed restrictions on newspaper men aimed at ensuring that a ban on foreign correspondents accompanying Senator Robert Kennedy remains absolutely airtight.

The restrictions were announced shortly after the government said South Africa was not prepared to allow Kennedy's visit to be "transformed into a publicity stunt."

The government said it would not allow entry to about 40 news representatives who were to have accompanied Kennedy during his visit from June 6 to 9.

Kennedy's visit has become a political issue in South Africa.

He was invited by the multiracial, anti - government National Union of South African Students to come to South Africa to address them.

Deficit and Trade Picture With U.S. Under Discussion

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada, although gradually improving its balance of payments deficit with the U.S., will have to look to that country for investment funds "for as long as I can see," Trade Minister Winters said Tuesday.

Several MPs questioned the minister on the deficit and the trade picture generally at a meeting of the commons finance, trade and economic affairs committee.

John Munro, parliamentary secretary to Immigration Minister Marchand, asked what kind of measures the trade department was getting to its recently-announced guidelines for Canadian subsidiaries of U.S. firms.

"Invariably good," replied Mr. Winters. The firms had accepted the guidelines as "an opportunity" to learn what the government expected of them. There had been "no adverse replies at all."

To a question by John A. Irvine (PC—London) the minister said the 4,000 letters sparking out the guidelines had gone out and there had been 300 to 400 responses—although replies were not solicited.

PREPARES NEW LETTER

He department was preparing another form letter asking specific information from Canadian subsidiaries of U.S. firms. These would be going out shortly and the confidential replies would tell the department just how well the guidelines were being followed. The intention to send out the second letter had been announced at the time the guidelines were set down.

Mr. Irvine asked what plans the government had for reducing the payments deficit with the U.S.?

Mr. Winters said any solution may have to be long range. The U.S. with its diversified economy had many products Canada could sell but the country had a continuing need for American investment.

But the amount of this foreign investment could decline as soon as "pools of money" are set up in Canada, the trade deficit with the U.S. for the first quarter of this year was "better than it has been."

Canada was "going in the right direction" but the deficit was "still badly out of balance."

ARE CHANGING

Canadian firms were moving towards greater fabrication of products instead of simply exporting raw materials for processing elsewhere. "Nearly every company I know is moving in that direction."

Mr. Winters said his department is giving consideration to the question of whether Canada should cut down on the production of certain commodities in order to help the industries of developing nations.

He said he expected to be put on the agent on this question when the Commonwealth trade ministers meet in London in June.

He saw two obstacles to cutting down on production of certain items to help struggling industries of other countries.

In the first place, Canadians dependent on the industries involved would be upset.

In addition, it often happened that developing nations produced items they had no business producing because of their unsophisticated methods of production. Canadians were better able to produce some products.

"Just because these developing nations produce an item doesn't mean we have to stop."

Accuses CBC

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Jornal do Brasil, a Rio newspaper, has accused the CBC of painting a false picture of Brazilian life. Commenting editorially on the visit by a CBC crew last February to film the Rio carnival, the newspaper says their film "misrepresents the Brazilian reality and its people."

New Reservoir System Reviewed by Utilities

PICTON (STAFF) — Much of the discussion at Thursday's meeting of the Picton Utilities Commission meeting concerned the town's proposed $250,000 new reservoir system.

The plans call for a one-million gallon high level reservoir near Camp Picton and a 500,000 - gallon clear water reservoir near the present Water Purification Plant.

Gore and Storrie, the consulting engineers, have recommended that the town prepare to issue $280,000 in debentures to cover the cost of the project. At six percent interest, repayment would be made at the rate of $22,068 annually in principal and interest over a 20-year term.

The engineers have also advised getting underway with the high level reservoir in order of urgency, in view of the rising cost of construction. The estimated cost of the project is already higher than the original estimate. The engineers now expect the clear well to cost $112,000, compared to the original estimate of $75,000, and the high level reservoir to cost $122,000, compared to $120,000. Engineering costs will be a further $22,000.

If much of the work is done next fall and winter, the engineers say the commission may be able to recoup as much as 75 per cent of labor costs under the winter works program. Total labor cost is expected to be in the neighborhood of $40,000.

The main hookup at present seems to be coming to an agreement to purchase land near the Purification Plant which will be needed for the new clear well.

Town Council and the Ontario Water Resources Commission have approved the project. It will only remain for the Ontario Water Resources Commission to give approval before tenders are called.

First in passenger, first in freight. There are 27 railways in Canada. That's right, 27. Yet CN carried more than 60% of the rail passengers in 1965. And almost as much freight as all the other rail carriers put together. 99 million tons. Which called for a lot of freight cars. Over 101,000. And 145 freight trains every day to keep things moving. And 35,000 miles of track to get into every busy corner of all ten provinces. But we don't rely on bigness alone. We keep on searching for ways to be more economical, more efficient and more flexible. That's the only way we know to stay first.

WCTU Still Determined Force on Battle Field Against Use of Liquor

TORONTO (CP) — The Women's Christian Temperance Union has won a few battles but lost the war in almost a century of fighting against the use of liquor.

But if its members seldom engage in front line skirmishes any more, they are still a determined force on the field of combat.

The union today has all but given up its opposition to new liquor outlets. It is concentrating on seeking to convince children of the harmfulness of liquor.

The movement was launched in southern Ontario communities and counted its early victories in farms of the number of saloons closed or licences cancelled. Now it is aiming more at young children.

In theory, the WCTU has a network of groups to which an individual can belong from the cradle to the grave. Mothers pledge to teach their babies temperance when they are enrolling them as Little White Ribbon-ers. A pledge of abstinence is made by the children themselves in the Loyal Temperance Legion and renewed when they become members of the Youth Temperance Council.

Membership has fallen sharply from what it was 40 years ago. In 1886 Ontario's membership alone was 12,268. Now there are an estimated 1,000 members in all Canada.

HARD TO REFUSE

Modern trends make it difficult for young people to say no to liquor, says Mrs. A. D. Keith, national president of the organization.

During its career, the WCTU has opposed bingo, pari-mutuel betting, betting shops on Sundays, evening hours for liquor stores, liquor licences at airports, cheese in bars, Sunday sports, Sunday ski trains, beverage rooms for women, liquor in the United Nations, violence on television, obscene literature and the use of the word cocktail instead of fruit salad by canning companies.

A Winnipeg group opposed the sale of popcorn in beer parlors because it is a third producer.

A Toronto group condemned a plan to catch the city's pigeons by feeding them vitamin-soaked corn.

But Mrs. Keith says: "We do not normally oppose liquor licences any more."

However, the Winnipeg local recently went before the Manitoba liquor commission to protest a liquor outlet in a national park and a temperance group won a campaign to keep a West Toronto area dry.

DEMAND FRANCHISE

The WCTU has always been a service organization.

It was one of the major movements demanding the franchise for women, it started kitchen gardens for the poor and pushed for home economics courses in public schools. It has pressed for women on school boards, opened a home for unwed mothers in British Columbia, helped staff a school for retarded children in Manitoba and maintained a low-cost residence in Toronto for girls.

Its members still perform welfare work, visit women in prison and fill dirty bags for garbage men. But they don't put any money in.

Mrs. I. G. Perfect, 85, a former president of the organization, says she believes the Second World War contributed to its decline.

Other reasons given are that women don't feel so strongly against liquor, partly because the churches now take a drink-in-moderation stand. Some see the WCTU's refusal to modernize its stand on total abstinence as another reason.

But Mrs. Keith says: "The WCTU may change its approach from time to time. But it will always be a movement of abstainers. On that we will never change."

U.C.W. Meetings

BETHANY U.C.W.

The May meeting of Bethany U.C.W. was held in the church hall with the president, Mrs. Gerald Eggleton, in the chair.

Thank-you notes were read from Mrs. Cecil Walker and Mrs. Ed Treverton. An invitation to attend a tea and bazaar in Shannonville in June was read. Mrs. George Beer reported on a stewardship meeting she had attended recently. Mrs. Gerald Eggleton reported on the meeting for presidents which was held in Picton. The date for the fall rally is Oct. 25 at Thomasburg.

It was decided to donate a sum of money to the centennial committee to help defray expenses. A committee was appointed to look after having the church floor painted.

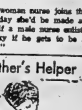
Mrs. John Anderson was in charge of the worship service on the topic of "Family Life." Mrs. George Rose gave a paper on "The Mission of the Christian Family."

Following the meeting plans were made for catering at the sales barn the end of May.

Male Nurse Gets Position As Director

WINNIPEG (CP)—Harry McDonald is doing "just fine" in a field of work dominated by women.

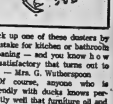
Mr. McDonald is the new director of nursing at Deer Lodge Hospital in the city of St. James, part of metropolitan Winnipeg—and one of about 300 male nurses in Canada.



He says more men should enter the nursing profession because "it offers so much personal satisfaction and brings you into such constant contact with people."

Mr. McDonald, a native of Scotland, received his training in Britain. But he and his wife, also a nurse, developed "itchy feet" and emigrated to Canada, where he worked at the veterans affairs hospital in London, Ont., and the Colonel Belcher Hospital in Calgary.

Mr. McDonald says he hasn't encountered discrimination against male nurses in Canada, except for the armed forces.



"If a woman nurse joins the army today she'd be made an officer. If a male nurse enlists he's lucky if he gets to be a corporal."

Mother's Helper

TRAVELING by car with children? Here are some time-tested tips from several readers. Take along a bed pillow for each child, for napping. For snacks, keep a box of pretzels, raisins, apples, cookies. Avoid rich or sticky foods. To pass the time, make up a kit with cards, pipe cleaners, pads of paper, paper and pencils for games. And don't forget a roll of tissue and a damp cloth in a plastic bag for cleanups.

OIL AND WATER DON'T MIX

Dear Susanna: If you have a special drawer or, box for dust rag and cleaning cloths, go one step further. Use a little pail (yellow slip or cloth bag of some kind to hold the oily ones you use for polishing furniture. This is well worth doing, as it serves two purposes.

The polish or furniture oil holds up on the dust cloth and should not be wasted, as these cloths are quite re-usable a few times.

Secondly, it is easy enough to pick up one of these dusters by mistake for kitchen or bathroom cleaning — and you know how unsatisfactory that turns out to be. — Mrs. O. Witherspoon

Of course, anyone who is fortunate enough to own perfectly well that furniture oil and scrub water just don't mix! — SUSANNA

Dear Susanna: For a graham cracker crust that ends without crumbling, add one egg to the graham cracker mixture and flute the edges of the shell.

Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F) about 10 minutes.

. . . and the next time you wish to cut a meringue pie without pulling or tearing, use a well oiled knife. — Mrs. Edna Duke

Dear Sue: After the final scrubbing of tub and shower tiles when you are really spruciug the place up for company, rinse the whole thing down with a pail of water to which a small cup of vinegar has been added.

You'll think someone let the sunshine in! — Mrs. E. V. Belvell.

Ann Landers

Girl Falls for Man Who Killed Her Father

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 17-year-old girl with a serious problem. Several months ago my father was killed in an automobile accident. My mother was injured in the same accident, but not seriously.

The driver of the other car was a young man 21 years of age. He was charged with involuntary manslaughter. The court proceedings lasted a long time and I got to know the boy very well. When the verdict—not guilty—was handed down I was terribly happy because I had become very fond of him.

My mother insists he was guilty regardless of the verdict. She says he was speeding and that he lied on the stand. She hates the sight of him and I wouldn't think of telling her that I have been seeing him secretly.

ANN LANDERS

Please tell me what to do. This boy could be the big love of my life. — ODETTA.

DEAR ODETTA: There are plenty of boys around without picking the one who killed your father — even if it was an accident.

This one sounds like bad news in spades. Forget him. Your mother has had enough heartache.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My problem is not important, but it bothers me. Whenever we have guests for dinner my husband compliments me on the food in the presence of the guests. I think this puts the guests on the spot. They think they must say something nice about my cooking and it makes me uncomfortable.

My husband often compliments me when there are no guests present but of course they don't know this. Should I ask him to please stop praising the food when company is around? — PROCEDURE IN YONKERS.

DEAR YONKERS: Your husband sounds like a living doll. Don't put a damper on his compliments either in private or in the presence of others. Your guests probably think

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband never needs to worry about me having a fever. The woman next door to me wouldn't let me get away with a thing.

Every time a strange car drives up to our house the neighbor woman comes right over. By strange car I mean any car that isn't ours. She is so fast on her feet that often she beats the guests to our door.

I don't mean to be petty, Ann, but it is very annoying because the woman includes herself every time we have company. We own our home and don't want to sell, although I have actually considered doing it to get rid of this pest. Please tell me what to do. — LOVE THY WHAT?

DEAR LOVE: How did the pest get so chummy? Overnight it didn't happen.

The only way to free yourself is to tell her that you are spending too much time in one another's home and that from now on it's going to be on an invitation only basis. It could be that she will stop speaking to you altogether. And wouldn't that be nice?

Ungraded School System Working Well in Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—The principal of Toronto's first experimental ungraded school says he is optimistic there will be more like it in the future.

"We believe we have based the program on the positive approach," R. B. Coles, principal of Perth Avenue public school in North Toronto told a parents' group. "The ideal way to treat young children is to encourage and praise them for every bit of success they get."

An ungraded school system, geared to the individual differences found in children and the concept of continuous progress, has been in effect at Perth Avenue for three years. There is no passing from grade to grade, no failure and no traditional report card. Parents receive a card that gives them a diagnosis of a child's ability, rather than his examination marks.

Next year, the cards will tell what each child is doing about them, and how parents can help if they want to.

EASES PRESSURE

The ungraded school system does not pressure a child to be at a certain level at a certain time, and does not present him with material he cannot understand before he is ready for it, Mr. Coles said.

There is no "streaming," or getting all the bright children in one group and the duller in another.

"The streaming system has no flexibility," said Vice-Principal E. D. Lewis. "If you put a child in one category he remains in that one the whole of his school life. Our classes are carefully grouped, and each group contains children who are good, average and below average."

Parents have new responsibilities to assume when they enter a child in an ungraded school, Mr. Coles said. The biggest of them is acceptance of the decision of the staff when the child must be moved into a slower learning group. Parents must not put the child back under pressure because they feel his grades should be higher than they are.

"We hope we are turning out a generation of children who don't know about the A and B system of rating individuals," he said.

New Home Recipe Reducing Plan

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Narsa Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Narsa Plan.

If you first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bothy fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if the reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly blood disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Spring teas and bridal showers bring forth silver tea services and dainty morsels. Busy hostesses will be pleased with the no-bake cookies Mary Moore has concocted for entertaining occasions.

NO-BAKE CHOCLATE COOKIES

When we give you a recipe for no-bake cookies we can depend on you writing for extra copies. When we use chocolate in no-bake-cookies- the popularity is even greater.

With spring teas and bridal showers in mind we have made two little chocolate beauties that are sure to find their way proudly to your tea table. The Chocolate Crispa call for packaged rice crispies. When these are cut into little squares or bars the whiteness of the rice crispies stand out clear and clean and makes a pretty contrast against the chocolate background. The No-Bake Brownies are a little on the soft side and must be kept chilled to make them firmer. We suggest you serve them in little colored fluted paper cups for daintiness' sake.

WEDNESDAY

Dinner Menu

by Mary Moore

Lamb stew with vegetables and dumplings (see Tues.), lettuce and watercress salad with Russian dressing, sliced strawberries, macaroons, tea.

CHOCOLATE CRISPS (No-bake):

2 cups miniature white marshmallows, ½ cup evaporated milk, ¾ cup granulated sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 ounces baking chocolate (2 squares or 2 packages liquid choco-bake), 1 tablespoon butter, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 3 cups rice crispies, 1 cup chopped walnuts.

Into a large saucepan measure the marshmallows, milk, sugar, salt and chocolate. Bring to boil, stirring. Boil gently 5 or 6 minutes, stirring frequently. Remove from heat and stir in butter and vanilla. Add rice crispies and walnuts and mix well. Press smoothly into buttered 8 x 8" or 9 x 9" pan. Chill. With sharp knife cut into small squares or bars.

NO-BAKE BROWNIES:

1 cup evaporated milk, 2 cups miniature marshmallows, ¾ cup granulated sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 ounces baking chocolate (2 squares or 2 packages liquid choco-bake), 1 tablespoon butter, ½ teaspoon vanilla, 2 cups fine wafer crumbs, 1 cup chopped walnuts.

Into a large saucepan mix together the evaporated milk, marshmallows, sugar, salt and chocolate. Stir constantly over medium heat until blended and boiling. Lower heat and boil slowly 5 or 6 minutes, stirring. Remove from heat and stir in butter and vanilla. Cool. Meanwhile roll wafers and chop nuts. When mixture is cool stir in wafer crumbs and nuts. Press into buttered 9" square pan. Chill overnight. Cut into small squares or bars or diamonds and serve in small fluted colored paper cups.

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 5

It has always been believed that newborns could only distinguish between light and dark and could follow moving objects only after several weeks. Not any more! Recent clinical studies indicated that newborns can see and can follow moving objects at less than a day old. Interestingly enough, countless mothers have discovered this fact all by themselves. Pretty clever, these mothers.

Another "early" first. Cereal is usually the first solid food a baby gets. And Gerber 8 for Cereal is often recommended as the starter for these good reasons:

- Gerber 8for Cereal is a mild, single-grain cereal well-tolerated by babies.
- It has added iron—known for its blood-building quality.
- Important B-vitamins thiamine (B1), riboflavin (B2) and niacin are increased in the cereal for your baby's sake.
- Mild and pleasing in flavour, Gerber 8for Cereal has a creamy-smooth texture when mixed with formula or milk.

Heady idea. Brand new parents are often confused at the size of their new baby's head. Seems much too big for the rest of that adorable body. But as baby grows, his body proportions change, too. Limbs grow more than torso, the head grows less, and suddenly baby is sized just right.

Mealtime manoeuvers. Two important ingredients for mealtime success: a relaxed and cheerful atmosphere; a goodly variety of food for appetite interest and well-rounded nourishment. Gerber Strained Foods have built-in eating enjoyment and nourishment. Over 50 tempting choices so you can create colours and kinds of food to your heart's content and baby's delight. "Custom-cooking" according to the individual requirements of different foods helps preserve food values and brings out the best in each variety. Gerber Baby Foods, Niagara Falls, Canada.

CGIT Girls Entertain With TV Program

FRANKFORD — On Friday evening 75 citizens of Frankford gathered for an evening's entertainment given by the C.G.I.T. girls. The guests were received and welcomed by Mrs. A. Stickle and Mrs. T. King.

The program was in the form of a television broadcast. It consisted of "The Living Word," led by Kathy Moran and Christie Chase, with Debbie Moran at the piano. The theme was "The Good Shepherd."

This was followed by "Through the Years 1956-1966" which was a very different type of fashion show.

No TV program is complete without commercials so the "sponsors" were the leading detergents.

In the Ted Mack Amateur Hour the contestants were Janie Sharpe and Rhonda Wickson, vocal duets; Carol Branch, piano solo and Anne Beach, violin solo with Linda Dafoe at piano.

Mrs. King and Miss Sandra Gray led in community singing. The show concluded with a newscast by Brenda Payne, weather by Merebeth Rowe and sports by Susan Chase.

Ideas to Keep Busy On Holiday Trips

DEAR DORIS: We plan a motor trip across Canada and will take our four children along. Please suggest some things to occupy them as we drive along. — SUMMER SAFARI.

DORIS CLARE

DEAR SUMMER: Games on the road: the simplest activity, like counting cats or horse provinces licence plates or makes of cars keeps tiny motorists involved for hours.

Take favorite small toys along. Hang a shoe bag over the back of the front seat to hold a stock of crayons, miniature cars, small dolls.

Let the older ones help you navigate. Let them watch the road map for turns and tell you what towns you will be going through. Have them take turns clearing up the clutter. Produce a new riddle book when they need a change.

One mother transformed the back seat of her car into a home-away-from-home for her boys of 18 months and seven years. She filled in the floor space with suitcases to the level of the seat, and stretched a small mattress over all — a homelike spot for spreading little bodies out. "Great for the disposition!" she claims.

Not only that, but this rigging made it possible to transfer still-sleepy children from beds, for an early-morning get-away!

DEAR DORIS: My girl friend is adopting a baby. Would it be in good taste to give a shower or would you advise against it? —UNSURE.

DEAR UNSURE: I'd advise for it. A baby is a cause for celebration, whether the stork brings it or a social worker.

We don't hush-hush adoptions these days.

Buy now—and go broke later?

A generation or two ago, most people had a pay-as-you-go philosophy about spending money. Today, things are different. There's the house to be paid off, as well as a new car, a washing machine, and maybe even a color TV set. The June issue of Reader's Digest takes a look at how people — and governments — are keeping their budgets these days. Is it as irresponsible way to live — or the only way? Spence

He said it was not suggested Mr. Sevigny used such pressure but the point was the police received no instructions to investigate "this important issue" of an attempt by someone to interfere with the course of justice.

At separate points, Mr. Justice Spence has suggested that former defence minister Harkness and former trade minister Hees should have been advised of Mrs. Munsinger's doubtful security background and her relationship with Mr. Sevigny.

GIVES FINAL ARGUMENT

Chief commission counsel J. L. O'Brien said in his final argument that Mr. Diefenbaker should have consulted RCMP security experts, discussed the matter with the whole Conservative cabinet, dealt with Mr. Sevigny in "another manner" and brought the case to the attention of Mr. Hees.

"And Mr. Harkness," interjected Mr. Justice Spence.

Later, he called Mr. O'Brien's final argument a "very clear delineation." It was the only final argument on which he commented.

At another point Tuesday, Mr. Justice Spence said he "regretfully" agrees with Davie Fulton, former Conservative justice minister, that it is not Mr. Fulton's role to make judgments on Mr. Diefenbaker having retained Mr. Sevigny in the cabinet.

"It's mine," he added.

Mr. Dupre argued that Justice Minister Cardin's statements in Parliament and at a press conference suggested that the justice minister learned from the RCMP the erroneous facts that Mrs. Munsinger died of leukemia in Germany.

JUDGE INTERVENES

Mr. Justice Spence intervened to say Mr. Cardin had mistakenly mixed up a police report with rumors and gossip in the capital and a witness called by Mr. Dupre "indicated where that started."

He said the witness, Jacqueline Delorme, "invented it with a good deal of ease."

Mr. Justice Spence has said he'll be glad to make charges of misconduct against anyone he will give them advance notice and an opportunity to appear.

This will be done, he said, notwithstanding a Conservative boycott following complaints about the conduct of the inquiry which Mr. Diefenbaker described as a "McCarthy smear."

Liberals

Mines Minister Pepin for spending more time talking about bilingualism than about resources.

Mr. Hamilton said Mr. Pepin would be a "weak minister" for such an important department as energy, mines and resources.

He expressed particular concern about the battle between Ottawa and the provinces over the resources of the continental shelf.

"We have had no indication he will defend provinces on the federal government against lascacious hands which reach out to take what belongs to all people of Canada, not just those of a single province," Mr. Hamilton said.

"The continental shelf is the key to the struggle over the ill-considered powers of the provinces," said the Saskatchewan MP, once resources minister.

It was a Canadian-owned resource that stretched half way across the Atlantic, the Pacific and the Arctic ocean—considerably a vital federal responsibility.

APPROVE SOME CHANGES

The Conservative MPs said shuffle is aimed at providing jobs for retiring members, though they did find merit in some of the changes.

One that received little criticism was creation of a man power department uniting immigration and labor force responsibilities.

It was hardest hit-by Liberal back bencher Gaston Isabelle of Quette (Lothinière), who said a separate immigration department should be established to accent French-language immigration.

J. Patrick Nowlan (PC—Digby Annapolis - Kings) said the reorganization made clear a change in Liberal outlook.

Three years ago Prime Minister Pearson had promised a program "to excite the daring and test the strong." This would now be paraphrased as "dividing departments and confusing the throng."

Two Workmen Plunge 250 Feet To Their Deaths

NORTH VANCOUVER, B.C. (CP)—A routine test turned into tragedy Tuesday when a helicopter struck a radio transmission tower on the side of Mount Seymour and two workmen plunged 250 feet to their deaths.

The helicopter crashed, exploded and burned but the pilot, Robert N. Hansen, 30, was thrown clear. He was in poor condition following emergency surgery.

Killed were Joseph Jacob Yoner, 30, of Burnaby, and Robert Smith, 36, of Cloverdale, B.C., steelworkers employed by Western Bridge Ltd. who had climbed the tower only five minutes before the accident.

Checking to see if it was feasible to hook a line from the helicopter to the tower, they had planned to unbolt the 20-foot section for removal.

The helicopter blade chopped through the tower five feet below where the men were working. The men, a chunk of tower and the helicopter plummeted to the ground in a shower of debris.

The crash was the second in the area involving a helicopter within the past five days. A pilot and two passengers escaped uninjured Saturday when a helicopter fell 40 feet.

French Cape of Hope Becoming Despair Is One of Oddities of Nomenclature

By GERARD McNEIL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

There's an old adage that things aren't always what they seem. For instance . . .

Cap d'Espoir, Que., is pronounced almost universally among the English - speaking as Cape Despair, but it becomes Cape of Hope when translated from French.

This and other intriguing oddities were turned up in a Cross-Canada Survey of place names by The Canadian Press.

He was John Pulleden Bastard, MP for Devonshire in the late 19th century and descendant of a long, illustrious line of Bastards.

Romance, Sask., beckons but not for long.

Fun - poking local history says that when a pioneer broke saw the place, her reaction was:

"That's romance!"

NAMED AFTER PEST

What inspired Skunk's Misery, Ont., is a mystery but there are several versions of how Punkeydoodle Corners, Ont. got its name.

What they boil down to is that someone in the hamlet near Kitchener one called a pest, is corrupt Pennsylvania Dutch, a "punkeydoodler," or pumpkin grower.

Wayward fishermen named places like Come by Chance or Seldom Come By, Nfld.

Voyagers reaching the first landfall called it Little Heart's Ease. Then came Heart's Delight, a better harbor, and Heart's Content, the best.

The men who called outports Spanish Room—a fishing area is a room—and Joe Batt's Arm sometimes ran out of imagination.

These names stuck but many another succumbed in the wave of babbitry that followed the tide of settlement.

Marysville, Nfld., was named Turk's Gut—a gut on the Atlantic coast is usually a narrow inlet—until residents felt they should dignify themselves with the prosaic.

Pile o'Bones, Sask., became Regina when the last of the buffalo remains disappeared. Rat Portage, Ont., perhaps more understandably, became Kenora as pioneer objectivity succumbed to civic pride.

Grand Falls, N.B., was known by Maliseet Indians as Chikuhkahlk or "Destroyer Place" It was there that canoeing Mohawks were lured over the falls to death by Maliseet women.

However, no motorist can mention Nerepiwrash without a passenger rapping:

"I'd rather drive."

The story is that a Micmac mother was strolling with her child when he wouldn't go any farther. She got to the seat of the problem, then asked: "How-would-you-wait?"

If this seems far-fetched, consider Flin Flon, Man.

INSPIRED BY NOVEL

In the early 1920s, a hunching prospector found a book beneath a log. He and his companions read it avidly.

It was an account of the adventures of Josiah Flintabatty Flonatin of the Society for the Exploration of Unexplored Regions.

The fabulous Flintabatty Flonatin learned of a strange and wondrous place at the bottom of a lake, built a submarine, dove for two weeks, and found the Sunless City.

The colonge there was rich but the streets were paved with gold.

Fierce women ruled while husbands kept house.

Fear of this fate sent Flonatin scrambling up the crater of an extinct volcano.

The prospectors enjoyed the uncompleted tale, and when one of them found a conical hole that looked as if it might have been an old volcano, he said:

And when they struck it rich, they named their mine Flin Flon.

Names like Yellow Grass, Sask., and Snowdrift, N.W.T., are magnificently evocative. So are Westward Ho, Alta., named by explorers, and Spanish Ship Bay, N.S.

The Isle of God's Mercie sits in the Hudson Strait between Quebec and Baffin Island, a tribute to some Puritan's repriev.

There is Keam Scoup, N.S., which sounds like a disease, and Eramosa, Ont., named by a surveyor who liked the sound of the Indian word. It means "dead dog."

Most of the hinterland ones have their origin in the sea, such as Dog Cove, Launching Pond, Square Head and Short Point Harbor.

Here are some from the other provinces:

New Brunswick

Beresford: North shore village named in 1814 after Viscount Beresford, a British general, but almost entirely populated by French-speaking citizens.

Nova Scotia

Blomidon: At the end of a mountain in the Annapolis Valley. It is named by Portuguese sailors or is the name a corruption of "blowme-down?"

Cheverocook: Pronounced Cheezencook. Some say it's Micmac for "many channels flowing there." Others that it is from the French "chez les coques," or "home of the clams." Channels and clams are both common there.

Necnac Touch: "Beach of fine sand."

Tangier: After a wrecked schooner.

Port Mouton: Named by a French explorer when a sheep jumped ship.

Malignant Cove: A benign spot but one avoided by tourists. Origin of the ominous name is lost in history.

Quebec

St. Louis de Ha! Ha!: After the joyous shout voyageurs gave on reaching the community on Lake Temiscouata.

La Reine: Which means the queen, but is named after a French - Canadian regiment that fought under Montcalm at the battle of Carillon. It was formed in 1633.

Shigawake: Micmac for "land of the rising sun."

Trois - Pistoles: No Dumas romance here. The town is named after the loss of a silver goblet said to be worth three pistoles—an old French coin.

Arvida: An amalgam of industrialist Arthur Vining Davis' name. He founded the aluminum industry there.

Manicouagan: When Quebec Carving Mining Co. named its executive rail coach after the mighty river, it found the name means "good place to get a drink."

Ontario

Tay, Tay and Flos Townships: In Simcoe County, named in 1832 after Lady Sarah Maitland's dogs. She was the wife of Sir Peregrine Maitland, lieutenant - governor of Upper Canada from 1818 to 1828.

Bobcaygeon: In Mississaga "Rocky Portal." It describes the connection between Sturgeon and Pigeon Lakes where the town of Bobcaygeon now stands.

Wawa: In northern Ontario, Ojibway for wild goose.

Otiawa: The name Algonquin's supposedly came a nearby tribe with big ears. Until 1855, the city was named Bytown after Col. John By who built the Rideau Canal from Kingston to Ottawa.

Kitchener: Settlers from Germany called the community Berlin for the first 56 years after it was changed in 1916, when anti-German feeling ran high, to Theodore Roosevelt, during the Second World War, and inspired by Nazi use of the swastika as a symbol.

Manitoba

Wabowden: Which sounds Indian but was named after W. A. Bowden, chief engineer of the Hudson Bay Railway.

Sask Lake: Originally named Son of a Bitch Lake by an annoyed prospector nearly eaten alive by black flies, then renamed by more refined northern settlers who used the first letter of each of the original words.

Saskatchewan

Moose Jaw: One version is that the Qu'Appelle River bends like a moose's jaw there. The other isn't so simple. It says the city takes its name from the Cree Word Mosolchapiskaisipoi, which means the place where the man mended the cart with the jawbone of a moose."

Eyebrow: A hill that looked like one, and rose as gently.

Revenue: Named in 1908 by a railway engineer who thought the land might produce some.

Alberta

Cheetpiee Creek: A heritage of Indians who thought it haunted by a headless horseman after a battle there.

Medicine Hat: One popular version says that in fleeing a battle, a Cree medicine man lost his hat in the South Saskatchewan River. Blackfoot Indians then massacred the good doctor's demoralized brethren.

Whiskey Gap: Near the Montana border, named in the late 19th century after traders who sold booze to Alberta forts. One story says this illegal trade helped spur formation of the Northwest Mounted Police, now the RCMP.

Hairy Hill: All hills on the Prairies are named, no matter how low. This one commemorates the buffalo who shed there.

Jumping Pound: Where Indians drove buffalo off a cliff to their death.

British Columbia

Poison Cove: Named by Capt. George Vancouver in 1792 when Seaman John Carter of the Discovery died after eating poisoned mussels. Vancouver was named after the captain.

Cardin's

has more difficult and important problems to deal with."

Jack Campbell, counsel for Mr. Cardin, said Mr. Dupre had drawn a "red herring" into the inquiry.

Mr. Dupre said Miss Delorme had testified she had been introduced to Mrs. Munsinger by Mr. Ducharme as "Olga Monsseigner." From correspondence with Mrs. Munsinger after she returned to Germany from Canada in 1961 and which had suddenly stopped, Miss Delorme believed Mrs. Munsinger had died of leukemia.

She had met Mr. Ducharme and Mr. Doyle at an airport en route to Nassau in November, 1964. Mr. Ducharme had asked after "Olga Monsseigner" and she had told him in the presence of Mr. Doyle that the woman had died of leukemia.

Mr. Dupre said Mr. Cardin had repeated "the very words" reported by Miss Delorme to Mr. Ducharme and Mr. Doyle. "These were "extraordinary facts."

Mr. Justice Spence commented that Miss Delorme "invented it with a good deal of ease."

MADE MISTAKE

Later, the judge said Mr. Cardin had "quite evidently" made a mistake by mixing up an RCMP report and the "gossiping around" about the Munsinger case.

Mr. Dupre, in his final two-hour summation, appealed to Mr. Justice Spence to "rehabilitate the reputation of a man of honor and integrity who has devoted so much of his person and his capacities to his beloved country."

Mr. Sevigny had never committed a breach of security or leaked any information as a result of his sexual relationship with Mrs. Munsinger in 1958-59.

Then prime minister Diefenbaker had instructed Mr. Sevigny to end his relationship with Mrs. Munsinger and had demanded to be satisfied that there had been no breach of security.

"One, 10 or 100 times did not matter to the prime minister," Mr. Dupre said. He had to make a decision.

DECISION VINDICATED?

Mr. Dupre said Davie Fulton, former Conservative justice minister, had testified that in his judgment Mr. Diefenbaker's decision to keep Mr. Sevigny in the cabinet had been vindicated.

Mr. Justice Spence interjected: "I regretfully agree with Mr. Fulton that it was not his role to make a judgment. It's mine."

The burden of Mr. Cardin's charges which touched off the inquiry—it began secret sessions April 6—was that Mr. Diefenbaker misdirected the Munsinger case when it came to his attention as prime minister. He has described how Mr. Diefenbaker allegedly mishandled it.

Mrs. Munsinger has been described in RCMP reports to the inquiry as a one-time Soviet espionage agent, petty thief, passer of bad cheques and a prostitute whose profession fees ranged from $15 to $100 a customer.

Last week the Conservatives boycotted the inquiry after Mr. Diefenbaker described its conduct as a "McCarthy smear."

Chief commission counsel J. L. O'Brien said Tuesday that "disgracefully false and libellous statements" had been made about Mr. Justice Spence.

RAPS PRESS

Mr. Dupre deplored the "incursion" into Mr. Sevigny's private life. Suddenly, the life of "this happy man" had been changed by the press of the country branding him as a high security risk because of an affair six years ago.

Mr. Dupre, who made his final argument in English, said Mrs. Munsinger had a "so-called security background" because of "certain very minor so-called subversive activities" in 1947-49 before coming to Canada in 1958.

No evidence had ever been found that she had engaged in subversive activities in Canada. Testimony had been presented that Mrs. Munsinger went back to her job with the U.S. forces in Munich after leaving this country in 1961.

At one point, Mr. Dupre said: "Put yourself in the place of Mr. Sevigny."

"Oh, no, I won't do that," Mr. Justice Spence said.

MAN DROWNED

SIMCOE (CP)—The body of Sidney Bell, 68, of Simcoe was found, Tuesday night in a creek near a railway culvert. Police began a search Tuesday of the mud bottom of Lake George, a pond in the centre of town, after park employees drained it. Mr. Bell was last seen Thursday night on a bridge spanning the pond.

Niagara Falls Police Honored For Fast Work

NIAGARA FALLS (CP)—The Canadian Bankers Association rewarded Niagara Falls police Tuesday for their fast work in recovering $902,600 stolen in a bank robbery two years ago.

Association President Samuel T. Payton of Toronto presented a cheque for $2,750 to the Niagara Falls Police Association Benevolent Fund in recognition of swift capture of the robbers and recovery of almost all the money.

Three weeks later three men were arrested in Montreal and most of the stolen money was recovered. The three now are serving 10-year sentences.

Rotarians Hear Talk On Cyprus

CAMPBELLFORD — Major John Pryde of Picton was the guest speaker at the Campbellford Rotary Club weekly luncheon on Monday. Major Pryde, a member of the Canadian United Nations Peace Force sent to Cyprus, gave a first-hand account of government policy and the military situation on the island.

The issue between the Turks and Greeks broke into open warfare in 1963, and while the United Nations force is keeping control of the situation, it seems no nearer now than it was their to a peaceful conclusion. The Turks are in the majority but being in control of key positions hold the balance of power. Canadian soldiers are part of the peace force.

Bemersyde Chapter IODE Hears Reports

CAMPBELLFORD — Bemersyde Chapter I.O.D.E. held its regular meeting at the home of the Regent, Mrs. G. Vanwater, on Thursday evening.

It was decided to purchase a table model flag for use by the Order. This flag is an eight by 12 inch model on an eight inch pole with a granite base. This flag is placed on the Regent's table before a meeting and is not removed until after the meeting is over.

The picnic tables being given to the new park on Queen St. are now ready and will have an I.O.D.E. plaque.

Services at Home and Abroad Convener Mrs. D. Meyers, reported she had plenty of wool on hand for knitting and would like to pack a carton in June for headquarters.

Mrs. F. M. Rutherford gave a report of the annual Provincial Conference held in Hamilton in late April. She quoted Mrs. Morrison, the provincial president, as saying, "The I.O.D.E does not intend to go the way of the dinosaur and become extinct."

Mrs. Morrison was confident of the future despite charges that women's voluntary groups are no longer useful. To attract women a volunteer organization must have an up-to-date and worthwhile program.

In her report Mrs. Rutherford outlined the educational work being done by I.O.D.E. $160,000 was given in scholarships, bursaries, and equipment. Adopted schools in Ontario and in remote areas of the Commonwealth were assisted.

There were seven new Junior Chapters organized this year, to bring to 20 the totals for Ontario.

In Services at Home and Abroad it was reported 630 cartons of all sizes containing knitted and sewn articles were shipped for overseas.

There are now in Ontario, 13 Municipal Chapters, 602 Primary Chapters and 20 Junior

Ottawa to Investigate Plans For New Low-Level Bridge

CAMPBELLFORD — A five-man delegation from the Campbellford Municipal Council visited Ottawa last week to interview Federal Department of Transport officials in regard to a new bridge in Campbellford. The Department had previously submitted plans for a high level bridge, but council supports the idea of a low level bridge at present.

The Department agreed to reconsider the plans and to estimate the grants which would be made for a low level bridge. It is understood the department's grant for a high level would be 80 per cent of the cost.

The load capacity over the present bridge has been restricted and Council is considering plans to make a railway bridge over the river available for vehicular traffic if details can be worked out with the C.N.R. Three bridges in Northumberland County over the Trent Canal, (at, Healey Falls, Hastings and Campbellford) are considered too narrow for present traffic conditions and were built originally for horse and buggy traffic.

None Injured In Two Minor Auto Mishaps

CAMPBELLFORD — An accident occurred on highway 30 on the bridge at Trent River on Saturday evening when a car driven by S. Linton was in collision was a car driven by Wayne Miller. No injuries were reported. Constable E. Stacy investigated.

A small European car rolled over at the junction of highways 45 and 35 at Cuff's Corners, no injuries were reported.

Chapters, with a total membership of 14040.

The semi annual meeting will be held in Owen Sound in October.

The Intelligencer

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, MAY 25, 1966

Ottawa at a Glance

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

TUESDAY, May 24, 1966

The Gerda Munsinger judicial inquiry was adjourned after a lawyer asked for investigation of the relationship between statements in November, 1964, that Mrs. Munsinger had died and the fact that the prime minister called for the file on her within a month.

Jules Depre, lawyer for former Conservative associate defence minister Pierre Sevigny, asked for investigation of the "extraordinary facts."

The transport department announced investigation into the July 5, 1965, crash of a CPA airliner showed the cause to be "explosion of a device" aboard the craft.

The crash near 100 Mile House, B.C., killed all the crew members and 46 passengers aboard.

The Commons debated a bill to reorganize five government departments and set up one new department—president of the treasury board.

Prime Minister Pearson said the move is toward two grades of cabinet ministers—one group that would form the actual cabinet and another that would concentrate on running departments.

WEDNESDAY, May 25

The Commons meets at 2:30 p.m. to continue the reorganization debate. The Senate meets at 8 p.m.

Higher Tolls On Welland Canal Opposed

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario went firmly on record Tuesday in opposition to higher St. Lawrence Seaway tolls or tolls on the Welland Canal.

Premier Roberts, in a statement in the legislature, said the time has come for a reappraisal of the benefits of the entire Great Lakes system and its respective costs and revenues to the United States and Canada.

Mr. Roberts said his government made a submission to the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority Tuesday asking for a 90-day period during which the province could analyse what impact proposals made at current toll hearings would have on the Ontario economy.

The authority's economic studies mainly have been concerned with the effect of toll increases on bulk cargoes such as coal, iron ore and wheat, said the premier.

SEES GREAT EFFECT

But, he said, proposed increases on other commodities of comparatively smaller tonnage could have great significance to some Ontario industries and to particular communities.

"At a time when we are embarked on regional development and transport assistance programs and are aware of the necessity of creating substantial further employment opportunities in this province," he said, "we should like to be assured that the consequences of the proposed toll increases are carefully weighed against these programs."

As for the suggestion that tolls once again be imposed on the Welland Canal, the premier said, the separation of Lake Ontario from the other Great Lakes by a toll barrier would put Canadian industrial complexes on Lake Ontario at a disadvantage compared with U.S. cities in the upper lakes.

No tolls would exist for lake vessels serving such Canadian ports such as Buffalo, Detroit, Cleveland and Chicago with bulk cargoes but vessels passing through the Welland to Hamilton or Toronto would have to pay tolls.

Ontario proposed to the St. Lawrence Seaway authority that no tolls be introduced on the Welland Canal at this time.

MAKES OFFER

TORONTO (CP) — Samuel Stanger chairman of an experimental bail project for Toronto magistrates' courts, said Tuesday the Ford Foundation has offered to contribute $20,000 to the project if $20,000 can first be raised in Toronto. Accused are interviewed before their first court appearance to determine whether they can be released on their own recognizance.

Education Greatest Single Factor in Economic Growth Spring Meet of Chamber Told

Education was cited last night as the greatest single factor in economic growth.

Speaking to a capacity audience at the Belleville Chamber of Commerce Spring Meeting at the Hotel Quinte last night, Hon. George Hees, M.P. Northumberland, said, "Boosting the cost of education is definitely something to be looked upon not as a burden, to be ducked or shirked, but something that must be increased year by year in order to keep pace with the tremendous competition in today's world."

Mr. Hees, former Minister of Trade and Commerce in the Diefenbaker government, said, "Canada is naturally not a mass producing country compared to the U.S., Britain, West Germany and so on. They're bigger. They have more people. They're more advanced technologically. In order for us to keep pace with them we've got to increase our technical knowledge then to a point where it is a little bit better than theirs."

The speaker said that business is large, common sense, hard work and getting along with people. "But first and foremost, it's ideas, and the man who succeeds is the man with ideas and the trained mind that knows how to develop them.

"At this moment in history, Canadians are facing the task of adjusting to a great scientific revolution, yes, a revolution; that great explosion of knowledge which has come about in the last few years with the launching of Sputnik into orbit.

MONTHLY CITED

"Our rate of industrial progress will be in direct proportion to our ability to develop the technical brains necessary to direct our processes of production and distribution."

Mr. Hees said it has been estimated that 80 percent of all the scientists who have ever lived are alive today. He said "that whereas 20 years ago, perhaps 10 mathematicians were all that were needed for the industry and government services of the United States, today 200,000 mathematicians are required just to operate computers.

"They say that of all the children now in Grades 1 to 8, half will be employed, when they are of age to work, in occupations that do not as yet even exist."

He cited the Atlantic Monthly as saying there is no place in the modern world for the uneducated and the untrained. "Today, even ditches are dug automatically.

"Many of us were fortunate enough to go to university, but I think that many of those who did, might have been able to get by all right if we hadn't gone. Today that's just not so. Our children can't do that. Getting the highest possible form of education is for them a must.

"There is no longer any unskilled labor, either mental or manual.

"Out of all those young people going to university, perhaps 10 percent may emerge on top who will graduate with the highest standing, and will be fitted to proceed further in scientific and cultural studies.

"The crux of the matter is that we can't discover these brilliant 10 unless we let the 100 have a try too.

MUST ENSURE EDUCATION

"If we want the ideas which the top 10 percent will produce — and without them we will have no progress — we must do what is necessary to ensure the education of the bandeau."

Mr. Hees said that the importance of education to business is shown in the U.S. where the centres of learning, California, New York and Massachusetts, have been able to claim nearly 60 percent of all military research contracts for the government.

"Business depends on our being willing to accept the fruits of research, and the amazing new sciences, which can show the way to develop new ways for our raw materials, to find out how to recover at a profit ores of low quality that have hitherto been regarded as unworkable and so on.

"All that we have; all that we do, is affected by the work of the universities. They are not only the depositories of all past knowledge, but the means whereby we can discover new worlds to conquer.

"Our choice as a nation in the world of today is whether we try to keep abreast of what is going on in the leading universities of the world and in the leading countries of the world, certain all of the world is our industrial competition whether we fit ourselves to compete with them, or whether we just sit back and slip behind.

"That is our choice today. We can step on the bitch's car wagon to the explosion of new knowledge, and learn how to make use of all that the scientific revolution brings to us, or we retreat into obscurity."

Mr. Hees pointed out that graduate engineer now has a half-life of about 10 years. "That is, about half of what he has learned will be obsolete in a decade. What that same engineer will need to know 20 years from now is not available to him today."

MUST CONCENTRATE

The speaker said the confrontation of the "competitive rival social systems of the communist countries is another factor in assessing why it is that education has become so vital to our economic growth.

"Just staying in the race means for us a much greater concentration on knowledge, a much greater expansion of new educational facilities. All this will involve us in a vast expenditure, but I am convinced it will be a capital investment in ourselves and in Canada maintains its place in the competitive world of today.

"We are going will have to spend on education double the proportion of our national income that we are spending today. Remember, double the proportion of our national income, not double what the amount we are spending today. It is going to be a great deal of money.

"But it will be an expenditure that we will be making in our own best interest. We either make it and stay afloat, or we don't make it and fade away into obscurity.

"The challenge is tremendous, but it can, and must, and will be met, as Canadians have met every great challenge in the short, but exciting life of this country."

Mr. Hees was introduced by Lee Gibbs, Belleville Chamber of Commerce president. Mr. Gibbs said, "It is a pleasure to be in the friendly city of Belleville with my own friendly people. I feel extremely safe and secure in Belleville then I do in Ottawa in view of certain events which have taken place there recently."

PLANS OUTLINED

Mr. Gibbs also referred to Mr. Hees as "Canada's Great Statesman," said, "It's an inspiration to us to sit in the house with a man like Mr. Hees, who commands the attention of all members of the House and who works, so hard for Canada."

Chamber of Commerce president, Fred B. Deacon, called for the help of every Chamber member to make the work of the Chamber a success.

"Do step forward," he said. "Do take a part. It will only be as strong as you make it."

Mr. Deacon said the Chamber has passed a revolution to undertake a campaign to promote the Belleville Waterfront Development Plan, to attract new industry to the city, to promote tourism and to encourage the development of the Bay of Quinte.

WELCOMING DISTINGUISHED GUEST—Belleville Chamber of Commerce president, Fred B. Deacon, left, and Hastings South M.P. Lee Grills, welcome Hon. George Hees, Northumberland M.P., to the Chamber's spring meeting at the Hotel Quinte last night.

THE IMPORTANCE OF EDUCATION was the topic of a speech made last night by the Hon. George Hees before a capacity audience at the spring meeting of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce.

Cynical Buddhists Lure 40 Reporters To Pagoda to Play Role of Hostages

Distributed by The AP

SAIGON—The collapse of the myth that the Buddhists represented a just but oppressed popular cause probably began Sunday night in Da Nang when veteran Associated Press reporter Robert Poos staggered into the American press camp, livid with anger and bleeding from a chest wound.

"The Buddhists trapped us in the pagoda and then opened fire when we tried to get out," Poos exclaimed with rage.

During the previous hour the scales had fallen from eyes of more than 40 American and foreign correspondents, who spent most of the most frightening moments of their lives within Da Nang's besieged Tinh Hoi pagoda.

TRICKED BY BUDDHISTS

In the course of short treatises that stripped bare the almost incredible cynicism toward human life Buddhist monks and rebel political commanders, correspondents were enticed inside for a "briefing" on the announcement, then were told it was too dangerous to leave for the remainder of the day. Buddhist forces provoked a heavy fire-fight with surrounding paratroop units.

Though the word hostage was never used, there was little mistaking the role of the newsmen.

The Tinh Hoi was a place of unutterable terror, where 28 corpses lay under Buddhist flags and swarms of flies. Other dead and dying civilians lay on the bloody exposed courtyard ground in pain and unprotected during bursts of heavy fire.

Huddled mobs of nearly 100 high school girls and boys misled with frenzied pagoda gongs and exhortations in the nightmarish cacophony.

In a candlelit cell Tinh Hoi's abbot, Thanh Chau, Chi Chau, held a press conference.

"I fear," he said, his smooth face impassive and aided, "the paratroopers will attack us to-night or at dawn. I want the press to be here to see it."

FEARS WELL-GROUNDED

Several correspondents voiced fears of ending up as corpses in Tinh Hoi's grisly collection of martyrs. These fears later proved well grounded when the pre-dawn silence rebel radio, or possibly Viet Cong, set up machine-gun on the pagoda terrace and shot at any rebel soldier who tried to surrender.

For as long as every correspondent there is can remember a bit of horror. For some it was the bloodied wounded women lying on stretchers and on the ground in a hideously callous display for newsmen's cameras. For others it was the reverse. Following the end of two small children when the Buddhists claimed the government wouldn't allow them to carry them for burial, though we had seen large trucks waving red cross flags drive in and out of the pagoda smuggling grenades and ammunition.

Perhaps the most cynical and outrageous touch was a wounded baby someone had propped against the body of a dead woman for the photographers' benefit.

People had moved freely in and out of secret passageways to the pagoda compound, yet monks made no attempt to lead the young girls and children to safety.

If Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's battalions had indeed launched a bloody all-out assault on the pagoda it would have been an epic new story to reporters who survived to describe or photograph it. But a compulsion to stand up for human decency swept the correspondents in Tinh Hoi and their fright became mixed with almost uncontrollable anger.

Despite the real risk of being mowed down by the Buddhist rebels, the correspondents turned their backs on the monks and waving handkerchiefs and undershirts, marched out the pagoda gates with rebel machine-guns trained at their backs. After trying to stop the first group with sniper bullets the rebels gave the second and third, three, rebels let others pass without firing.

The scene in the real civil war in Da Nang probably ended as the reporters marched away from Tinh Hoi. The rebel leaders and senior bonzes might have defied Ky's troops and triggered a bloody showdown after slipping away themselves at the last moment. But if the pagoda was to be destroyed and scores of women, children and soldiers massacred, the venomous Buddhist rebels would require the monks being positive in advance that the press would fix the blame on Ky's forces and not themselves.

CDC BILL COMING

OTTAWA (CP) — Legislation to establish the Canada Development Corp. will be introduced this session, Finance Minister Sharp told the Commons Tuesday. He said he is not in a position yet to give the precise timing.

EXPECTS REPORT

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said Tuesday he expects to receive a report on the CBC producers' dispute by Friday. He told Opposition Leader Diefenbaker in the Commons that once the report of government-appointed investigator Stuart Keate is received he will know better how to handle it.

MAY RECONSIDER

OTTAWA (CP)—The government is prepared to reconsider its deferment of several major federal building projects in the national capital area if the situation so warrants, Works Minister McIlraith said in the Commons Tuesday. He was replying to a question by Opposition MP Douglas Rowbotham, who asked whether such reconsideration might be made in the light of unemployment figures, especially in the Ottawa area and a worsening of the employment situation.

Ont. Regional Development Program Under Attack at Meeting by Geographers

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)—The Ontario government's program of regional development was criticized Tuesday at the annual convention of the Canadian Association of Geographers by Dr. Hans Carol of York University, Toronto.

Prof. Carol, chairman of York's geography department, told about 40 delegates the 10 areas where Ontario has set up associations to promote economic growth "are not the best kind of regions for the purpose the government has in mind."

In his presentation he criticized the government's categories of some regions and the criteria used to establish them. He said later he meant especially the regions bordering Lake Ontario and in eastern Ontario.

"According to Premier Roberts, in a recent speech to the provincial legislature, his government intends to activate regional development with the main purpose of equalising economic growth and opportunities as far as is available throughout the province."

Those development regions might eventually form the structure for a new form of local government in which the province would be governed by

After going down for the count of 10 days following a vicious attack of kid Stomach Flu and recovering slowly, I doubt if I can muster enough resistance to ward off threatened violence from Local 857463534, Organized Yankee Lovers.

After a piece I wrote exposing a few facts about the New York Yankees — and I repeat — who were a pampered, high-living, don't-give-a-damn-for-other-ity crew — I've been assaulted via telephone and missive.

To quote: — I am as ruggered, a nitwit, a prophet without honor; a nut with wall-to-wall skull vacancy; a Dodger lover; and so on into the night.

The arrows of truth fired from the columnar bow sunk deeply into the flesh of the faithful. The brilliant Bombers from the Bronx, who boast more flags than a New York St. Patrick's Day parade ever got, cut, their declared, off their form because of love of life (night), disregard of managerial edicts and curfews, but victims of a seasonal slump that could befall even the Mets.

My would-be assassinos chose to disregard the fact that I pointed out the "Yanks were Coming" and by the magic wand of their former dugout pariah one Ralph Houk, had taken on a new lease of life and showing signs of the Yankee troop that once snafflebag any American League upstarts who dared challenge their supremacy.

They ignored the fact that in a weak moment, I forecast the Yankees were back on the win trail and with the advent of Houk carvelaying the Kansas bench, could very well revert to their former status of nice ball-players who could take orders and quit planning ways and means to get rid of managerial "Simon Legrees."

Perhaps the events of the past few days have smoothed ruffled feathers and helped curb threats of personal attacks upon this humble scribe.

What Houk has done — and is doing — to the erstwhile occupants of the league's janitor quarters, raises him as a stand-in for Walt Disney's fairy, the fitting gal who waves a magic wand, and creates colorful gimmicks.

The newest colonel of the Yankee troop had his buglers blow the fall-in — read them the articles of baseball war — then had the trumpets sound the charge.

This guy — as I noted in the previous article — was the hoke that proved in the Yankee dugout that love is a many splendored thing. Hadn't he fired Yogi Berra who had risen from a bench trooper to commanding officer and who rubbed their hackles the wrong way? Hadn't this guy discharged Johnny Keane without benefit of court martial?

The Bombers' Aramis', Portus' and D'Artagnans rallied the Yankee smuteleers with the historical battlecry, "All for One and One for All." It has worked.

The Bombers switched to water-on-the-rocks, early-to-bed, and do-as-I'm-told under the aegis of the Houk. And what has happened?

With battle-flags aflutter, they've emerged from the doldrums of a boot-camp gang into a well-organized win-happy troop.

Mantle and Maris have taken on their former Double M for Murder role. The pitchers are pitching, the hitters are hitting and the famous Yankee "take advantage of foemen bobbled or neakering fails".

Up to this writing they have won 11 of their last fourteen starts and are in the welcome throes of a five-game win streak.

The storm signals are waving over the camps of the Indians, Twins, Orioles and Tigers. With Houk at the helm a new Yankee Clipper has been launched and is firing warning shots across the bows of the American League flag-hoisted sailcoverers.

P.S. — The Yankees lost yesterday.

Herman's Hideaways Out Of Cellar

Pt. Anne Slips Past City Hotel

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

"Everything is perfect—good defense, good hitting and good pitching."

Sounds like the manager of one of baseball's upper-echelon teams, right?

Actually, those are the words of Billy Herman, whose Boston Red Sox are only 1½ games and four days removed from the American League cellar.

But Herman's Red Sox are streaking. They stormed to their sixth straight victory Tuesday night, crushing Minnesota Twins 11-2 with a 16-hit barrage that included homers by Carl Yastrzemski, Tony Conigliaro and Jim Gosger, plus four doubles.

In addition to the lusty hitting, Boston had the good pitching, by Jose Santiago and Dick Radatz, and no errors.

That adds up to winning, and winning six in a row has boosted the Red Sox from last to ninth ahead of Kansas City Athletics and one game behind New York Yankees.

SPLIT DOUBLEHEADER

At the other end of the ladder, front-running Cleveland Indians and second-place Detroit Tigers split a doubleheader. The Tigers won the opener 7-6 on Don Wert's eighth - inning single, while the Indians took the second game 2-0 as Luis Tiant pitched his fourth shutout of the year.

California Angels beat the Yankees 4-2 with a four-run fifth inning, Baltimore Orioles downed Chicago White Sox 6-4 behind the key hitting of Brooks Robinson and Boog Powell, and Don Lock's two-run pinch homer in the eighth and the bottom of the ninth lifted Washington Senators over the Athletics 2-1.

The Red Sox bombed Camilo Pascual for seven runs in the first two innings, with Yastrzemski and Conigliaro hitting two-run homers. Gosger homered with one on against Jim Bouton in the sixth. Yastrzemski, Gosger and Rico Petrocelli collected three hits apiece.

Santiago, now 4 - 1, was roughed up for three hits and both Minnesota runs in the first, but gave up just two more hits through the next seven innings. He then retired with an ailing back, and Radatz finished. The loss was the fifth in a row for the Twins.

Tiant, whose four victories have all been shutouts, blanked the Tigers on four hits in the second game at Detroit. Chuck Hinton singled across an uncarned run against loser Hank Aguirre in the fifth and Leo Wagner homered for Cleveland's second run in the eighth.

SINGLE SETTLES IT

The Tigers, down 5-0 in the opener, came back and eventually settled it in the eighth when Wert singled in Ray Oyler. Norm Cash hit two homers for Detroit and Jim Northrup one. Rocky Colavito, Duke Sims and Fred Whitfield homered for Cleveland.

Joe Adcock's bases - loaded double eliminated the Angels' winning relay against the Yanks. Trailing 2-0 going into the fifth, California got its four runs off rookie receiver Dooley Womack on a walk, Womack's error, Willie Smith's pinch double, a fielder's choice and Adcock's two-run hit.

CAHA Annual

May Seek New Deal With Pros

MONTREAL (CP) — Delegates to the annual meeting of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association will be asked today to ratify or reject proposals from the executive committee that would allow re-negotiation of the association's working agreement with the National Hockey League.

Lloyd Fleury, CAHA president, said that while his executive had "studied various proposals to be submitted to the NHL, these can still be turned down at the plenary session."

Fleury would give no indication of what steps the CAHA planned to take to beat the NHL that shortened the 10-year professional-amateur pact signed in 1958.

WAIT TWO YEARS

In Victoria, the CAHA voted to end the agreement. However, the contract contained a clause which called for two years' notice of termination by either party, thus holding the CAHA to the agreement until June, 1967.

It is believed that some factions within the executive will ask permission of the general meeting to negotiate a complete new deal with the professional organization.

The controversy hinges on the distribution of funds paid by the NHL for amateurs drafted to professional ranks.

Another point to be discussed is any new pro-am agreement or a proposal to have any player suspended by a professional team granted an amateur card after a period of one year. However, the CAHA agrees that the player will remain the property of the professional team and not become a free agent if he decides to return to pro ranks.

Fairly Big Stick In Dodger Drive

Four Homers In Five

By DICK COUGH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Mr. Clutch has shifted years again and Los Angeles Dodgers are driving.

Ron Fairly, the Dodgers' unsung delivery man, rapped an eighth inning home run Tuesday night that made the difference in a 2-1 decision over Philadelphia. Phillies. It was the fifth victory in the last six games for the world champions.

RON FAIRLY

Fairly has hit four of his five 1966 homers in his last five games, helping the Dodgers stay within range of first-place San Francisco Giants in the National League race.

Three weeks ago Fairly, a .270 lifetime hitter, was batting .203.

Since then, he's roiled at a .400 clip, lifting his average to .290, and driven in 11 runs for a best-hitting total of 30. The 27-year-old outfielder paced the club with 70 RBI last season and hit .274.

Tuesday night's homer sent L.A in front 3-1 but turned out to be the winning blow when the Phils scored in the ninth against Ron Perranoski. Perranoski, who was on for relief when Don Sutton in the eighth, had not allowed a run in his previous 11 appearances.

Elsewhere, the Giants whipped Pittsburgh Pirates 5-2, Cincinnati Reds blasted Atlanta Braves 5-2, Houston Astros beat New York Mets 5-3 and Chicago Cubs blanked St. Louis Cardinals 4-0.

The Dodgers, held to three hits through six innings by Bob Bolin, erased a 1-0 Philadelphia lead in the seventh on run-scoring singles by pinch hitter Al Ferrara and Wes Parker.

A seventh - inning single by pitcher Gaylord Perry touched off the Giants' evening three-run rally against Pittsburgh. Tom Haller singled in the first run, Willie Mays delivered the second with a sacrifice fly and Willie McCovey capped the rally with his fifth homer.

Perry, with a two-inning assist from reliever Frank Linzy, boosted his record to 6-1 while veteran Vern Law, 1-2, took the loss.

The Reds struck for seven runs in the sixth inning and put Atlanta away behind the six-hit pitching of winner Joey Jay 5-2, and Hal McCoy.

Tommy Helms, who cracked four hits for the night, triggered the big inning with a single and then added to it with a run-scoring single. Don Pavletich singled in two runs and John Edwards doubled across two more as the Reds sent 11 men to the plate and collected half of their 10 hits in the sixth.

The Astros scored four runs in the first inning—three on Jim Gentile's bases-loaded double—and held off the Mets on Claude Raymond's one-hit relief pitching over the last 2 1-3 innings. Rusty Staub knocked in the other Houston runs with a double and single.

Glenn Beckert doubled in the sixth inning at St. Louis, and scored on Ernie Banks' sacrifice fly, then drove in the Cubs' second run with a seventh inning single.

"Monumental Earnings"

Britain Pot O' Gold For Clay Rainbow

LONDON (AP)—Cassius Clay flew to Egypt Tuesday at the invitation of President Nasser and said he might be back within two months for another money making defence of his world heavyweight boxing title in Britain.

As Clay left for a few days rest in the Egyptian sunshine, it was clear that boxing and crowd-crowd interfaces officials were eager to repeat the glittering financial success of his title defence against Henry Cooper in London Saturday.

That fight was watched by 42,000 fans and grossed $1,200,000, including closed-circuit television rights.

Clay's share was reported to be around $280,000.

DISCUS MATCH

Former champion Harry Leveue, who staged Saturday's fight, confirmed that a Clay - Mildenberger fight in Britain is under discussion.

Clay has the prospect of massive monumental earnings in Britain—with no restrictions on taking the money back to America.

A spokesman at the British treasury said: "Clay is in the same category as any other nonresident entertainer. There is no restriction on importing goods or services from America.

Clay was set to return to the United States Tuesday. But he received an invitation from the Egyptian embassy a few hours before he was due to fly to New York.

"I am going to see the Egyptian boxing authorities and to have a little rest," Clay said. NO PLANS

Neither Clay or anyone else would nail down any definite plan for a fight against Mildenberger. Levene said he could give neither a date nor a site.

Clay talked to reporters about the possibility of fighting Mildenberger. But he added that the best opponent might be the winner of the coming fight between Doug Jones and Ernie Terrell, the WBA champ, June 28 at Houston.

En route to Cairo, Clay's plane stopped at Frankfurt where he met Mildenberger, the 28-year-old European champion. When they squared off in sparring stance at the airport, Clay said: "Why, he's a southpaw. The only worry I have is that.

"I thought I was the prettiest fighter in the world! But I see you're pretty too. That's how I can tell he's a good fighter: No marks."

The Handguns

Frank Allin nosed out Don Wilson for top score at the Quinte Marksmen's weekly outdoor shoot, at the Redeerville range, last night. Allin scored 263 and Wilson 262.

Wings Stop Buffalo; Leafs Lose

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rochester Red Wings finally stopped stampeding Buffalo Bisons, but it took top-flight pitching by an international League rookie to do it.

The Bisons, who had climbed into fourth place from last on an eight-game winning streak, lost 4-1 to the Red Wings Tuesday night.

Dave Leonard, a 20-game winner last season in the Eastern League, scattered five hits and did not permit a runner to reach third base until the ninth inning.

Meanwhile, Syracuse Chiefs edged Toronto Maple Leafs 4-3, Richmond Braves defeated Columbus Jets 5-1, and Toledo Mud Hens downed Jacksonville Suns 4-3 in the first game of a doubleheader before losing 10-5 in the nightcap.

Braves to victory.

Bored? You don't have to be

Nobody is born bored. But somewhere, between childhood (when even a piece of iced cake can seem exciting) and adulthood (when iced cake only means extra calories), our enthusiasm begins to fade—and we become bored. The June issue of Reader's Digest tells you why it happens — and how you can avoid being bored, even when what you're doing may not seem very exciting. Learn the secret of sparking enthusiasm in your life — in the new issue of Reader's Digest, on sale today.

Quebec Wins Junior Age Bid

Oil Kings Must Play At Own Level

MONTREAL (CP) — Edmonton Oil Kings, this year's Canadian junior hockey club champions, must compete against junior teams in the 1968-69 season, the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association ruled Tuesday.

The Oil Kings, this year's Memorial Cup champions, have spent the last seven seasons playing against intermediate or senior teams because of a lack of competition at their own level in Alberta.

The governing body for amateur hockey did not specify which junior league the Oil Kings will perform in next season.

The move came at the second provincial plenary session of the CAHA's 50th annual meeting. The sessions started Monday and will continue until Friday.

The Quebec Amateur Hockey Association was also to have the age limit for junior players raised to 21, but a similar recommendation governing categories below the junior level was deferred for further consideration.

The age change will take effect for the 1967-68 season, leaving junior ranks open to all players under 21 on Dec. 31 of any playing year.

The regulation previously opened the junior category to players under 20 on May 31 in the season of play. The change thus raises the age category by five months.

Chief opposition to the move came from The Maritimes and Ontario hockey associations.

In a bid to clamp down on laxity in reporting player submissions, the CAHA ruled that a club cannot release a suspended player in order to assist its reduction to the 19-man team limit on Dec. 31, but must carry the player on its revised Jan. 1 roster.

In addition, the session ruled that no player under suspension may be granted a transfer and banned Feb. 10 as the final date a player can change clubs in a season.

In two safety measures, the rules committee proposed that the top corners of all goal posts be padded with some type of foam rubber to alleviate collisions and that skate manufacturers develop a removable heel guard that can be readily attached to the blade of the skate if the permanent shield is shattered.

The meeting also adopted a rule to require a match penalty for any player who deliberately attempts to kick or otherwise injure an opponent.

'C' House Of Collegiate Is Leading

PICTON (STAFF) — Perfect weather prevailed for the annual track and field meet at Prince Edward Collegiate Institute Thursday afternoon.

Some teachers called it the best day of the year so far as students competed in a total of 51 junior, intermediate and senior events. Nineteen records were broken and four were tied.

With only the discus competition still to be decided, C. House was leading at the end of the afternoon's competition with 162 points. Next was B. House with 113, followed by D. House with 110 and A. House with 90.

Some novelty events, such as tug-o-war and a wheelbarrow relay did not count towards the total.

Special Buses Carry Crowd To Display

PICTON (Staff) — Between five and six thousand people were present at Neil McMasters resort for a spectacular fireworks display Monday night. Special buses ran from Picton, Trenton and Belleville bringing children and adults alike to this annual display.

Prior to the fireworks games and races were held adjacent to the fine picnic area. Prizes were awarded for the winners of the various games — balloons and noisemakers were presented to each child present and the young fry consumed 8 dozen do-nuts, 2,300 hot dogs and orange drinks were also on the menu. All got what they were payed at no cost to the crowd. There was a small admission charge this year to help offset some of the costs. A draw was held and the holder of the lucky ticket, 10-year-old Jimmy Wennamaker won a fishing outfit valued at $56.

During the course of the evening a cheque to the Salvation Army was presented to Capt. Leo Flaus of Picton by Mr. McMasters on behalf of the Elks Lodge of Picton.

4 Accidents Over Weekend, None Serious

PICTON (STAFF) — In spite of heavy traffic there were no serious accidents in the county over the weekend. Three occurred on Sunday and one Monday, and all were one - car accidents.

On Sunday at 11.45 a.m. a car driven by James McKenzie, Downes Ave., Picton took out six guard rails on Warden's Corners (they had recently been replaced after another accident); at 11.55, Dennis Rogers, Trenton, struck 3-year-old Dennis Carnahan, R. R. 2 Bloomfield, in the Village of Bloomfield — the boy suffered only minor injuries; at 1.30 a.m. a hard - top truck driven by John Welsh, R. R. 1, Bloomfield, struck and broke off a maple pole on the lawn at the home of Mrs. James Lester. Passenger was Bert Krieger Camp Picton.

On Monday, 7.15 a.m., a car driven by Wayne Soules, Toronto and Picton, was in an accident on Talbot Street.

Use of Safety Belts Emphasized in Test

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—CBS' second National Drivers Test Tuesday night was as much an hour of instruction as it was a quiz. The lessons covered passenger conduct and emergency repairs as well as driving techniques.

Few in the television audience —certainly few women drivers —knew before the program that the best way to cool off a motor overheated by stop-and-go driving is to shift into neutral and race the motor.

What to do when you are caught in the full light on a pedestrian crosswalk or intersection? Jump the light! Back up! Or what about the pedestrians walk around you? You stand still and accept their glares.

If your car gets a flat tire on a high - speed expressway where you cannot get it to the side, do you halt in the right hand lane to make repairs or avail help or do you stop with the flat until you can get off the road? You keep travelling since a downed tire is not as serious as a deadly pileup of speeding cars.

These were some of the 22 questions and answers posed during the hour. The viewer scored his own answers, to be matched against a national sample of licensed drivers presently being taken. The CBS-Gallup national sample score was 51—one point over a rating of "poor."

CUE QUIZ-CUTTER

This second drivers' quiz was much easier to follow. The program cut out most of the distracting clutter that interrupted the first one, permitting the viewer to concentrate more on the problems.

Throughout the program, use of safety belts was emphasized. In fact, the first questions gave the viewer a chance to score five points if he could say that he used a safety belt.

At another point we were instructed how a passenger wearing a belt could further protect himself in a collision situation by bracing himself and burying his head in his arms on the dashboard.

Two non - scoring "opinion questions" were inserted. The first asked whether drivers over 65 should be given physical checkups and have their driving skills re-tested each time their licences were up for renewal. Sixty-two per cent of the national sample thought they should be.

The second asked whether built-in safety features should be standard equipment, either for current prices at the sacrifice of style or for extra cost or whether they should be optional. Seventy-four per cent of the sample said they should be standard equipment in cars at no extra cost, even at the sacrifice of style.

Egyptian Actor Not Happy With Academy Award Win

By BOB THOMAS

PARIS (AP) — "How could they do that—give the Oscar to 'The Sound of Music'?" Omar Sharif wanted to know.

The Egyptian actor played the title role in Doctor Zhivago, which lost the Academy Award race to the musical. But he claimed there was no sour-grape attitude in his reaction.

The Oscar should have gone to Doctor Zhivago or The Spy who came in from the Cold or any other film that had artistic merit," he said. "But not to a purely popular concoction."

Surprisingly, Sharif expressed with the academy's failure to nominate him as best actor, although Doctor Zhivago received a flock of other nominations.

"It would have been a gross indication because the role was too passive," he said.

PAY IS LOW

Sharif, who was nominated as best supporting actor for Lawrence of Arabia, doesn't fret about his pay scale. He says he is too busy pursuing his career as one of the most popular, if lowest paid, actors of the international film market.

Lowest paid?

"That's right," he said. "I'm still operating under the contract I signed for Lawrence of Arabia, and it's a good thing hold out for better terms. But I signed a contract, and that is that. I will live up to it."

He mentioned that he is earning $30,000 for his current film, The Night of the Generals, in which he plays an anti-Nazi officer. He probably could demand 10 times that amount for such a prestigious film as a free lance.

"I made $14,000 for 18 weeks' work in Genghis Khan," he said with a trace of bitterness. "I don't mind making films like Night of the Generals and Doctor Zhivago for little money. But my career cannot afford more than two Genghis Khans."

Lest you shed any tears for Omar the deal-maker, it should be added that he lives in a luxury apartment on the Avenue Foch, supports his estranged wife at the Hotel George V and now is racing his own horses at French racetracks. These are clearly not added by the fact that he has paid no income tax in his home country, Egypt.

"That the ruling is not oppressive," he said. "The French have the richest races in the world, 34,000 to the winner here. And it is cheap to maintain a horse—no more than $10 a month."

Whenever Omar is not on call for Night of the Generals, he can be found at the racetrack. The way he describes it, he can't afford not to own race horses, such are the benefits thereof.

Three Sky-Divers Thrill Napanee Crowd With Stunts

NAPANEE — Monday night was the first time Napanee had seen an exhibition of sky-diving, and then it saw three men in the air at the same time. They were Don Miller, born in Napanee and now residing here while employed at the C.I.L. plant in Millhaven; Bill Wacey of the RCAF in Trenton; and Roy Krupskinski, also of the RCAF.

The small plane circled the town for about half an hour before the jumps, while the pilot got his bearings and the skydivers acquainted themselves with the situation. At one time they came down to 1,000 feet. The three men jumped at 7,500 feet and opened their chutes at 2,000 feet, and it took just 30 seconds to travel the 5,000 feet Don Miller says.

DISRUPTS BALL GAME

The sky-divers had hoped to approach the fairground from the north, but the wind made that impossible. Accordingly the jump was made not far from the hospital, and two of the men managed to manipulate themselves to make their landing on their feet directly in front of the grandstand. The third, Roy Krupskinski, was not as fortunate. The wind caught him, and he came down in an open space. He chose the ball park, and came down in the middle of a game of ball in progress. The girls were so busy with their game that they did not see him until he called to them from about 50 feet up.

Sky-diving is one of the most thrilling of all sports, Don Miller says, and is much safer than driving on the highways. "We have had surprisingly more chance of being injured driving to and from the field than jumping," he says. But it is also a no sport for anyone who is not a quick thinker, or whose co-ordination is not perfect. "Everything must be done on the split second," he says.

He also regretted that it is only when there is a mishap that sky-diving gets into the news. There are clubs in Eastern Ontario in Picton, Kingston, Brockville, Smiths Falls and Ottawa with about 200 jumps made each weekend; all of them without mishap. "But nobody ever hears about it," Mr. Miller commented.

FORMER PASTRYCOOPER

After leaving Napanee Collegiate Don worked for a year in Napanee and then joined the army with the parastroopers in 1950. He received his training in Rivers, Man., and on graduation was taken on the staff as an instructor. He served in Korea and was with the army in Germany for two years. He has been in civilian life, since 1960. He is the son of Adrian Miller of East St., and is married with six children.

Napanee has a second sky diving addict, Tom Cox, manager of the National Employment Office who is the vice - president of the Parachute Club of Canada and the national safety officer. Mr. Wacey, appointed by Mr. Cox is the safety officer. All four men are members of the Prince Edward Parachute Club. Mr. Miller is the vice-president of that club and its safety officer.

Pilot of the plane Monday night was Jean St. Pierre, R.C.A.F. pilot, who was flying a Cessna 172, the property of the Prince Edward Flying Club.

Mr. Cox explained that Mr. Miller and Mr. Wacey were using modern chutes, much easier to manipulate than the older style worn by Mr. Krupskinski. His chute, while safe and adequate, is a little trickier to manage.

SEARCH ENDS

VICTORIA (CP)—The search was ended for an alleged booby-trapped package believed to have been mailed by Paul Charles Lee, died when a bomb-blast ripped a washroom in the House of Commons last Wednesday. RCMP Superintendent G. R. Engel, head of the civil investigation bureau here, said Tuesday "unfounded suspicions over names caused people to think" the package had been mailed to Chartier's wife.

Government Serious About Raising Indians' Standards Former Mohawk Chief Says

TYENDINAGA RESERVE — Melville Hill, who attended his first meeting of the Indian Advisory Committee to the Department of Welfare last week, has a number of interesting observations to make regarding the conference and its significance, and on some of the things that were done at this meeting.

Mr. Hill himself was dissatisfied at first, as so many people who were not members of the committee were milling about. Indians do not talk freely under such conditions and it was not until the afternoon of Friday that outsiders were cleared from the meeting room and the members could settle down to business.

A major move was made when, Wilmer Neiljwan of Parry Island was appointed vice-chairman. He is a man with a keen mind, a quick thinker and not afraid to express an opinion. This was a big step in discussing the problem of drinking in the Kenora area, for example. Mr. Neiljwan made the shrewd observation: "You cannot cure an alcoholic by taking his liquor away from him. You have to put something in its place, a hope, a purpose in life."

A second important thing to Mr. Hill was the statement that from now on all legislation that will in any way concern Ontario Indians, must first be submitted to this committee which will amend it or make suggestions before it comes before the house. This applies to all departments. "This is a cabinet," Mr. Hill says.

OLD COMMITTEE TO GO

He also made the prophesy that the committee formed two years ago of which he is the chairman will soon pass away with. "There is no need of it now," he said. "This new committee is for every middle-ter. The old one was just to advise the Hon. Ellen Fairclough, minister of the Department of Lands and Forests."

Speaking of the fact that Indians are exempt from the Ontario sales tax, Mr. Hill emphasized the fact that it applies only to those Indians residing on the Reserves. "People in Shannonville and Deseronto are just out of luck," he said. Checking to himself he said, "When I addressed the Indian Association in Winnipeg in 1946, I said jokingly 'There are two kinds of people in Canada. Those who are Indians and those who think they were.' It isn't much of a joke in Ontario now after all."

Mr. Hill is really serious about wanting to raise the standards of its Indians, as I have learned in the past two years," Mr. Hill observed. "Now that this fact about our exemption from the sales tax has come to light, that standard is automatically raised five per cent."

The committee's next meeting next week, June 2 and 3, and one half day will be spent on studying the housing problems in the not too distant future. The meeting place for the committee will be in Moosonee where problems there can be studied by all the members. Mr. Hill says that no plans have visited this area on several occasions.

Members of the committee, except Elliott Moses, the chairman, are chiefs or former chiefs, all outstanding personalities on their own Reserves. Mr. Moses has always been a government employee.

Saskatchewan Against Higher Seaway Tolls

OTTAWA (CP) — Sound economic principles demand that operating and maintenance costs of the St. Lawrence seaway should be charged to users, the province of Saskatchewan said today.

In a brief submitted to the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority by Industry Minister G. R. Grant, the province said capital costs of the seaway could be met through general revenues of Canada.

Such a policy would contribute to development of a more rational, coast-oriented national transportation system, the brief said.

Jaycees Present Victoria Day Exhibition

NAPANEE — Although some of the plans which were made by the Jaycees for Victoria Day failed to materialize, the crowds which went to the fairgrounds were more than pleased with the spectacular exhibition of sky-diving, and the lavish display of fireworks, which cost the club $375.

Wayne McLean was the overall chairman for the project, Sheldon Boomhour for the fireworks, and Clare Hanna for the parade and the entertainment. Perhaps because it was a holiday and people were busy elsewhere, so few people turned out for the parade that president Ernest LeFave thought it wise to cancel it. The group of folk singers who had been engaged to sing before the grandstand were prevented at the last minute from coming. The Junior Farmers, called on at such a late hour, felt they were not prepared. The sky-diving was the project of Don Bartlett, who had Tom Cox make the arrangements.

ATTEND CONVENTION

The Jaycees had five representatives attending the Ontario provincial convention. Junior Chamber of Commerce in Hamilton over the weekend. This unit had submitted four projects for competition, and, while they did not receive the first place in each, they did receive second place in two. As there are 90 units in Ontario, and this is the first year the Napanee unit, its members naturally are a bit proud of themselves.

ASK CONSUMER HELP

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal authorities are asking consumers to help enforce food and drug laws. Copies of regulations of the food and drug directorate has produced a new pamphlet giving consumers a guide to the laws enacted by Parliament for consumer protection in these fields. It urges them "to report to the consumer division all apparent infractions of the Food and Drug Act and regulations for the directorate's investigation."

Solid Protest Against Raising Seaway Tolls

By BEN WARD

OTTAWA (CP)—Proposals for increased tolls on the St. Lawrence Seaway, including a new lockage charge at the Welland Canal, ran into a solid wall of protest Wednesday from major seaway users.

A public hearing on the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority's package plan to increase its revenues over the next five five years was told the added shipping costs would hurt the national economy.

Of the 36 written and oral briefs presented, 33 argued that either the entire toll structure should be abolished or the federal treasury should take on the seaway's annual debt payments and let tolls cover the costs of operation and maintenance.

The proposals, made jointly by the Canadian and U.S. seaway agencies, seek an increase of about 10 per cent in tolls on the Montreal-Lake Ontario section of the seaway. The lockage charge at Welland, where tolls have been suspended since 1962, would start at $160 a vessel in 1967 and jump by $100 a year to a maximum of $600 in 1971.

SLIDES INTO RED

As originally planned, the $475,000,000 seaway was supposed to pay for itself over 50 years. But a sharp slide in revenue in 1960 operating income has been insufficient to meet fully annual charges. Last year alone, the deficit has been sliding deeper into the red.

The two seaway agencies intend to submit the new toll proposals to their respective governments following the public hearings which are to end here today and reopen at the start next week to hear American views.

It then will be up to Ottawa and Washington to weigh the arguments and come up with a decision. When the Canadian seaway first proposed the increase two years ago the U.S. side did not agree and the matter was put off for two years.

Dr. Pierre Camu, president of the Seaway Authority, presided at hearings Wednesday but did not comment on the arguments presented.

Much of the criticism was directed at the Welland Canal charge. The 1966 season was tolled free from 1903 to 1959 when a levy of two cents a ton on bulk cargo and five cents a ton on general cargo was imposed. This toll was suspended in 1962 by the Conservative government and the suspension has been continued by the Liberal administration.

CHALLENGES RIGHT

George F. Bain, vice-president of Upper Lakes Shipping, Toronto, challenged the seaway's legal right to introduce the lockage charge. He called it a back-door method of getting around the federal toll suspension.

Stuart Armour, president of the Great Lakes Waterways Development Association, said the seaway should admit that it cannot pay off its debt at a reasonable toll level and quit charging as much as the traffic will bear.

He said the Welland charge

Pennell Defends Action

By GERARD McNEIL

OTTAWA (CP)—The department of justice will remain Canada's law firm while the solicitor-general's office will deal with crime and corrections, Solicitor-General Pennell told the Commons Wednesday.

He was defending a government reorganization that will shift responsibility for the RCMP, the penitentiaries service and the national parole board to the solicitor-general.

A registrar-general will handle patents, bankruptcies, the Combines Act and other commercial areas of justice.

Mr. Pennell said the way against crime deserves a separate and special ministry. Since the transfer was made Jan. 1, steps had been taken to increase RCMP efficiency.

He also argued that it is "foreign to the spirit of justice" to have police and prosecutors in the same department.

After two days of debate, the reorganization bill went second reading and went into clause-by-clause study. This continues today.

A highlight of the debate came when Raymond Langlois (Creditiste — Megantic) asked for an RCMP inquiry into the use of federal water works funds in Notre-Dame-de-Lac-Golesque, a Quebec village where he said "seven suicidal hangings" have taken place in the last 18 months.

Howard Greffrey (PC—Brome - Missisquoi) said he hopes the reorganization will restore federal leadership.

OPPOSE TRANSFER

Andrew Brewin (NDP—Toronto Greenwood), Hazi Sauf (NDP—Toronto Danforth) and Richard A. Bell (PC—Carleton), all lawyers, left the transfer of the RCMP from justice to the solicitor-general's department.

Mr. Sauf said "every possible degree of co-ordination is required between your police forces, yet here you seem to be moving in the exact opposite direction."

He said he and Mr. Brewin,

SPACE GIANT ROLLS OUT — The giant Apollo-Saturn 5 facilities vehicle, towering more than 400 feet into the air over the crawler, emerges from the assembly building at Cape Kennedy, Fla. Explorer Goes too High, Rocket Fails to Shut Off

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — An Explorer satellite put into orbit Wednesday to take readings of the earth's upper atmosphere went too far out when the second stage of its Delta rocket failed to shut off on time.

The Explorer 32 went into an orbit ranging from 180 to 1,588 miles high instead of as intended 170 to 750 miles.

The U.S. space agency Wednesday tested a huge crawler for transporting a Saturn 5 rocket, weighing 12,000,000 pounds, from its assembly building to a launch pad. The crawler—the size of a baseball diamond—successfully made the transfer on tank - like treads giving it a maximum speed of one mile an hour.

It was the first outing for the test version of the Saturn V rocket which will be used for training crews in the man-to-the-moon project. First test firing of the rocket is scheduled for early next year.

Funeral Marchers in Hue Set Fire to U.S. Office

By ROBERT TUCKMAN

SAIGON (AP) — Screaming students set fire to the U.S. information Service building in the northern city of Hue today.

The mob, including the second, two-story building after Buddhist leaders, at a protest funeral speech by thousands, assailed the United States for supporting Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's military regime.

The USIS building was closed and no Americans were injured.

The war scene was dominated by a report that the number of dead among the combined forces more than doubled last week and the number of U.S. killed—146—was the highest for any week since the Ia Drang Valley fighting last November.

A military spokesman said the toll was the result of the numerous battalion-size actions during the week rather than any one major engagement.

The combined forces dead totalled 326 last week, compared with 161 the week before. Spokesmen reported 1,235 Viet Cong killed, a rise of 25 per cent compared with 986 the week before.

In Hue, smoke belched from the USIS building as the flames consumed books, bookshelves and library tables.

AN EVERY WINDOW

About 200 students attacked first with rocks, shattering virtually every window in the building. Then they forced their way in and threw books, furniture, files and other articles through the doors and windows before setting the building afire.

Ky's 10-day policies suffered with tear gas about 30 Buddhist demonstrators in Saigon trying to start an anti-American, anti-government protest in the central market.

Anti-Americanism has grown since Ky's troops crushed the Da Nang revolt Monday. The Buddhists vigorously had backed a widespread show of anti-Ky sentiment might swing the Johnson administration away from the ruling junta. Instead, U.S. officials expressed relief that the Da Nang uprising had collapsed without spilling more blood and urged both sides to get on with the war and an orderly transfer to civilian rule.

In Hue, thousands followed the body of a South Vietnamese Army lieutenant killed by an American helicopter gunner last week.

More than two miles long, the funeral procession wound across the Perfume River and past the shuttered U.S. consulate after the mourners heard the United States denounced by speakers as a pagoda.

SAYS POLICY OBSOLETE

Bui Tuong Huan, the rector of Hue University and a leader of the Buddhists, called American support of Ky "a policy of obsolete colonialism" that not only creates contempt among free peoples but also feeds Communist propaganda. He added:

"We appreciate the generosity of the U.S. people who have extended to us aid in manpower and financial power for the noble purpose of helping us in our fight against Communist aggression, to preserve freedom. Nevertheless, we protest the colonialist policy pursued by the American government which blindly puts its lackeys in Viet Nam."

He appealed to the American people to persuade their government to withdraw its support of the military regime.

Despite the heated speeches, the rebellion in Hue, 600 miles northeast of Saigon, seemed to be losing steam following a declaration by the military commander in the area that he and his men were behind the government.

U.S. diplomats said they thought Ky's government seemed in control again.

Will Carry 6,000 Bee Eggs in Belt To Keep Them Warm on Atlantic Hop

LONDON (CP)—About 6,000 bee eggs and larvae will be strapped around the shirt of a retired Toronto schoolteacher Friday in a transatlantic flight that may herald development of a stronger and more productive Canadian bee.

J. P. Stein, 62, said he will carry the eggs and larvae "in the same way as people carry money in a money belt." He will wear the belt around his body over his shirt to provide sufficient body heat to make sure the vulnable cargo is not chilly.

"The eggs and larvae will be in small tubes or containers," he said today in a telephone interview from Buckfast Abbey in Devon where the consignment is being prepared. "I'll carry some of these containers in my shirt pocket but most of them will be in the belt."

Buckfast Abbey is world-famous as a bee centre. The consignment is destined for Yugoslavia, Austria, Greece and Turkey.

"Our basic Canadian bee—of the Italian race—needs to be improved," said Stein, who has just completed a bee-inspection tour of the Continent.

"We are looking for a stronger, more fertile bee to improve honey production and pollination of plants. Better pollination will give us more fruit and other plant life."

The eggs and larvae Stein carries to Canada will go to the agriculture department of the University of Guelph which will launch a cross-breeding experiment.

Normally, said Stein, Canada does not allow bee imports. He will fly Friday morning from London to New York; get immediate U.S. agriculture department clearance for the U.S. with his consignment; then hop on a plane for Buffalo, N.Y., where he hopes a representative of the Canadian agriculture department will meet him to approve his entry into Canada.

He expected to enter Canada Friday night and from the border will immediately speed to Guelph, getting no rest until the consignment is delivered and placed in the laboratory.

Some of the eggs and larvae later will be sent from Guelph to Baton Rouge, La., to help the U.S. in its bee cross-breeding.

Companies With No Assets Made Profits Inquiry Told

TORONTO (CP) — Transcommercial Commercial Ltd., a company without assets, made a net profit of $36,874 by charging its debtor companies 15-per-cent interest on money it had borrowed at 5%-per-cent interest, the Atlantic royal commission was told Wednesday.

Bertrand Wolfman, a commission chartered accountant, told the hearing into the collapse last year of Atlantic Acceptance Corp. that the Baronet Associates Inc., of New York, made a profit of $30,000 by similar means.

Testimony showed the two companies were controlled by Jack Tramiel, president of Commodore Business machines (Canada) Ltd., and his secretary, Manfred Kapp.

Albert Shepherd, commission counsel, said that up to December, 1965, Commodore Sales Acceptance Ltd., made substantial loans to Commodore Business Machines and other companies in the Atlantic group at an annual interest rate of 12 per cent.

"Then, in December, 1965, all loans are treated as having been repaid and there appears for the first time a loan of $917,832 to Trans-Commercial Acceptance."

Mr. Wolfman agreed that this was the total of all the Commodore loans.

Evidence showed Trans-Commercial obtained all its income from Commodore companies between 12 per cent and 5¼ per cent it paid to Commodore Sales Acceptance.

Mr. Wolfman said this amounted to $26,000, leaving $36,874 after taxes.

Other companies that were charged 12 per cent included Everest Office Equipment Co. Ltd., Humber Typewriter Co. Ltd., and Commodore Dry Copy Ltd.

Mr. Shepherd said a similar pattern of consolidation of loans and repayments between Atlantic, a subsidiary of Commodore Business Machines, arose when Barnet became the creditor.

Mr. Wolfman said a balance sheet showed no funds invested in Barnet. The company had a $20,000 profit, all of it from interest revenue.

Mr. Shepherd said Everest borrowed from Commodore Factors at 8¼ per cent and lent the money to a group of companies at 12 per cent.

Mr. Justice Samuel Hughes, head of the commission, said the evidence appeared to show that Atlantic Acceptance had been deprived of certain amounts of interest that had been transferred to companies without assets that were owned and controlled by Mr. Tramiel and Mr. Kapp.

The hearing continues.

Nine Convicts Escape From Police Bus

PORTSMOUTH, England (Reuters)—Police scoured the south of England today for five dangerous convicts who escaped from a police bus Wednesday. Nine convicts overpowered two guards and broke free while being driven from a court hearing at nearby Winchester to top-security Parkhurst prison on the Isle of Wight. Four were recaptured Wednesday night.

The home office said that the 13 prisoners were being driven from Winchester to Parkhurst as one of the men suddenly shouted "right" and the men attacked and overpowered six prison guards.

One witness said they crashed through a hedge, knocked over a chicken coop, then disappeared in a flurry of feathers and squawking chickens.

The men were wearing civilian clothes for their court appearance. They testified in the trial in which their prisoner was charged with wounding another.

Quebec Town's Winter Works Linked to '7 Suicidal Hangings'

OTTAWA (CP) — The winter works program and "seven suicidal hangings" were linked in the Commons Wednesday as Raymond Langlois (Creditiste—Megantic) called for an RCMP inquiry into the way the Quebec municipality of Notre-Dame de la Guadeloupe has been spending federal money.

He said that within a year and a half there had been seven suicidal hangings in the municipality. "There is something wrong there and if the provincial government doesn't look into it the RCMP should."

Quebec is the only province that doesn't allow federal auditors to look into records of winter works projects. Citizens in a municipality which receives contributions from 50 to 60 per cent of payroll costs.

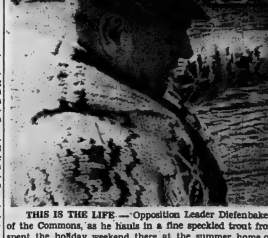
Mr. Langlois said $196,000 has been spent in the community "without anything to show for it."

The community is in his riding about 75 miles southeast of Quebec City. The 1964 Quebec Municipal Guide lists the community of La Guadeloupe as having 1,800 residents.

Immigration Minister Marchand said in an interview the provinces administer the winter works program and he is uncertain whether a federal inquiry can be made. He had asked the Quebec government for a report.

Mr. Langlois said the municipal organization in Sherbrooke, Que., had tried to find out whether proper salaries were being paid under the program, designed to provide winter employment.

The organization, which he didn't name, got access to the books and found them "a complete mess" for the last three or four years. He said:



—People weren't being paid under the program, although their names were on payroll lists.

—Or "they received cheques endorsed them and sent them back, though they were not doing any work in connection with the projects. This has been going on for four years."

One condition of the federal-provincial agreement covering the winter works program is that federal officials be given access to provincial and municipal records dealing with the funds.

But the federal auditor-general, Maxwell Henderson, noted in his 1965 report that Quebec objected to this on the grounds its provincial auditor gave "extensive examination" to the records.

"As a result, we are not examining the records of the municipalities in this province," Mr. Henderson said.

THIS IS THE LIFE — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker enjoys a day in the sun, but even through the heat of the Commons, as he hauls in a fine speckled trout from Soulbier Lake, near Low, Que. Mr. Diefenbaker spent the holiday weekend there at the summer home of a friend. (CP Wirephoto)

Federal Aid to Education Brought Under One Roof

By RONALD LESEL

OTTAWA (CP)—Federal aid to education is being brought under one roof for the first time.

A small branch is quietly taking shape in the department of State Secretary Judy LaMarsh to plan and co-ordinate various programs to assist higher education.

Ottawa spends more than $250,000,000 annually in this field, but the money goes out through a mass of specialized programs run by about 20 departments and agencies.

Now three senior officials headed by under-secretary of State Ernest Steele have been assigned the task of analyzing federal aid and advising the government on future needs.

They are busy preparing material for the federal-provincial conference in Victoria June 16-18, when Prime Minister Pearson will propose increased federal aid to universities.

Mr. Pearson announced in January that per-capita operating grants will go up to about $100,000,000 in the next academic year from $39,000,000 last year. He called this an interim step and a permanent aid formula will be proposed at the Victoria talks.

The prime minister also promised during last fall's election campaign that his government would distribute $10,000,000 annually in university scholarships and increase the $40,000,000 student loan fund.

These programs and others will be co-ordinated or administered directly by a $30,000-a-year official to be appointed soon by Miss LaMarsh.

He will be assisted by Christopher Gill, formerly on the staff of the Association of Universities and Colleges of Canada on a research assistant to the committee of experts headed by Dean Vincent Bladen that last fall recommended a massive boost in federal aid to post-secondary education.

Jean-Marc Hamel, a career civil servant, is working with the education section on a temporary basis.

The section is seeking to cut duplication and apply administrative standards to aid programs carried out by the National research council, the Canada council, medical research Council, health department, technical training branch and other federal agencies.

This was recommended by the Bladen commission, which found that uniform procedures and accounting up to date statistics were almost non-existent in explicit financial assistance.

Officer Cadet Wayne Seymour Crowell of Trenton, Ont., formerly of Halifax, N.S., graduates Friday from the Royal Military College of Canada, Kingston. He will receive a bachelor of engineering degree in chemical engineering and a regular commission as a Flying Officer in the Royal Canadian Air Force. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Crowell, 354 Front Street, Trenton, Ontario.

Council to Re-open Discussion On Hours of Sale for Gasoline

The question of hour of sale for gasoline stations in the city is expected to be up again for discussion at the next meeting of city council.

The present by - law allows service stations to remain open until seven in the evening with a specific number allowed to remain open until 11 o'clock on a rotating basis.

Earlier in the year a petition was brought into council asking that the present restrictive closing by - law be rescinded while at a subsequent meeting a counter petition was presented requesting the present by - law remain unchanged. The majority of service station operators appeared on both petitions.

Now another petition representing 26 of the 50 service station operators in the city, has been received and will be considered suggesting a compromise in the hours of sale for gasoline.

The compromise suggestion is that the restrictive closing by-law be amended to allow unrestricted sale of gasoline for the period May 1st to November 1st. This it is suggested, would allow Belleville operators to take advantage of the tourist season.

Mayor Jack Ellis at Monday's council meeting, said the question of hours of sale of gasoline would be placed on the agenda for discussion at the next meeting.

WINNIPEG (CP) — Sullivan C. Richardson, a Los Angeles lecturer, said here science can prove only 20 per cent of the human brain is ever used and only 10 per cent of that is used effectively. He said self-taught therapy could expand the effective range of the brain to an immeasurable degree.

Bus, Streetcar Drivers Refuse Overtime Work

TORONTO (CP) — Rush-hour transportation service was cut by more than 20 per cent in Metropolitan Toronto today when about 300 bus and streetcar drivers refused to work overtime.

A Toronto Transit Commission spokesman said that despite the slowdown in service "things weren't too bad this morning."

"The streetcars and buses were as crowded as they are every morning, but because people leave at various times traveling wasn't too bad."

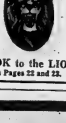
The spokesman said he expected it would be worse during the evening rush hour when most people leave for home at about the same time.

Edward McDermott, president of Division 113 of the Amalgamated Transit Union (CLC), said after a union meeting that a strike is likely within a few weeks.

Normally 1,532 buses and streetcars are in service in the morning rush hour.

Toronto's subway will not be affected by the slowdown.

Mr. McDermott said a conciliation board report is expected next week and union members can legally strike seven days after it is received.



Drivers and motormen now received $2.48 an hour under a contract that expired March 31. They want a 62-cents-an hour increase. The TTC has offered 52 cents over 30 months.

LSD Potential Danger To Takers, Companions Say Federal Officers

OTTAWA (CP)—Use of the drug LSD by the beatnik fringe is a potential danger to the drug taker and to his companions, federal drug officers say.

Efforts now are being made by the federal Food and Drug Directorate to draft legal controls on trafficking and possession of LSD.

Federal concern about misuse of LSD is illustrated in the current issue of Canada's Mental Health, a publication of the federal health department's mental health division.

Dr. F. Gordon Johnson, of London, Ont., psychiatrist, describes in an article in the publication some of the effects produced by LSD in controlled medical use. They include violent outbursts by the taker who may try to act on bystanders emotions of love, hatred and fear.

Dr. Johnson also says that tests indicate that "in spite of the apparent profundity of thought that he (the LSD taker) experiences, intellectual standards actually deteriorate."

This is the kind of effect which, in uncontrolled use of LSD by unskilled persons, has the federal government worried. The United States also is disturbed about growing use of LSD among the unqualified and is conducting congressional hearings on the subject.

SEE POTENTIAL DANGER

"It's the potential danger involved that we are trying to protect people against," says Dr. R. A. Chapman, head of the federal Food and Drugs Directorate.

Dr. Johnson catalogues the following observed effects in patients undergoing therapy:

Visual distortions such as sharpening of colors, shifting of objects in the room, a shimmery appearance of space and distortions of body image; tremors, perspiration, dilation of the pupils of the eyes and palpitation, nausea or vomiting.

These usually occur in the first 30 minutes to two hours and are followed in the second to fifth hour by:

Meaningful images of a pleasant or unpleasant nature; withdrawal of attention into an inner world of fantasy emotional instability ranging from continuous euphoric laughter to deep depression and sobbing; sense of personal identity "becomes thinned out"; mystical experience in which he feels extreme unity with God or the universe and that he deeply understands the essence of life.

In this stage, says Dr. Johnson, the LSD taker often thinks about current problems and may see them in symbolic form.

"For instance, a skid road alcoholic may believe he is in a slime-filled pit crawling with snakes and from which he is unable to escape. . . ."

MAY GET VIOLENT

He may recover early memories and "violent outbursts may accompany these memories."

"People around him may be misidentified as real figures from childhood and he may act out his emotions toward them in demonstrations of love, hatred, fear, etc."

Writing about deterioration of intellectual processes in the LSD user, Dr. Johnson says: "The person thinks less logically.

"He finds it hard to make simple decisions or to do arithmetic computations and may be loose and to disrupt the reasoning process. The patient becomes easily distracted by outside issues and cannot readily get back on to the subject. . . .

"Delusions may occur in an effort by the patient to interpret the peculiar things happening to him. Communication is extremely difficult under these circumstances."

Dr. Johnson says medical and lay opinion is sharply divided about LSD as an adjunct to resolve some of the gaps in knowledge about it, research is under way in the London, Ont., branch of the Alcoholism and Drug Addiction Research Foundation.

CN Pensioners Hear Manager Of Freight Sales

Mr. Harold Wootton, the Canadian National Railways' Freight Sales Manager for the Bideau Area — of which Belleville is the hub — yesterday addressed some 70 of the railway's pensioned veterans at a luncheon honoring those of the Pensioners' Association who have achieved 50 years of age and are therefore ranked as Senators. 15 of these greying seniors were present, the eldest being Mr. Henry Sheridan of Belleville, who at 86 years of age is actively enjoying retirement in good health. Mr. Sheridan commenced his service with the railway as a fireman in the early 1900s and, promoted to Locomotive Engineer, hauled freight and passenger trains between Hamilton and Montreal. All of these sturdy veterans served the railway in various capacities for close to fifty years, some exceeding that figure.

In his address Mr. Wootton spoke eloquently of the services performed by these senators in the past days of steam when railroading was not the white-collar job of today's computer age, but a life of hardship and toil where only the fittest survived to become 'seniors' of the rail and immensely proud of their calling. After his tribute to the 'never-ods' the speaker went on to describe the progress made in fulfilling the demands of the shipping public and the various changes made for bettering the service.

Mr. Joe Hunter, President of the Pensioners' Association, thanked the speaker for taking time out from his busy schedule to appear on this occasion. He voiced the appreciation of the pensioners and extended an invitation for him to appear again as guest of the Association.

ON SUMMER RECESS

This May 21st meeting of the pensioners concludes the scheduled meetings of the past year. A summer recess follows during which recreational activities will continue under the direction of Mr. Marshall Petty and Mr. George Clapper. A vote of thanks was extended these two members for their excellent efforts during the past year. Mr. Jim Hunter was also the recipient of a hearty thanks for his excellent work as president of the Pensioners' Association.

Mr. Roly Whitley of Trenton a guest of honour at the table by that town's railway veterans, contributed in no small way to the occasion by a rather remarkable series of humorous recitals worth a thousand laughs — which were forthcoming. Mr. Whitley is well known in Trenton for his ability to entertain and his drollery here was certainly appreciated. His refusal of a vote of thanks was in character with humorous recitals.

Some fugitives from the past winter's snow and cold, bronzed by Florida suns, were Mr. Alex. Wilson, retired Operations Manager of the Bideau Area of the railway, and Mr. Art. Simpson, who retired as Rule Instructor for the Area. A veteran CPR conductor, Mr. Cliff. Knox, who among several others has chosen the CNR Pensioners' Association as a haven, also was present after a winter sojourn in the southern United States.

Before adjournment in the mid-afternoon several matters pertaining to pensioners' benefits were discussed and action approved on measures taken by the Association to improve conditions.

Air Cadet Crashes

Fainting Cadet Hits Floor Suffers Concussion, Bruises

A sizeable crowd of spectators was present at the Belleville Armories last night to watch Squadron 608, Belleville Air Cadets put through their paces in the fourth annual squadron inspection. There was at least one person, however, who went away from the event unhappy.

Sixteen-year-old David Standing, the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Standing of Alexander Street in the city was one of about half a dozen cadets who were unable to endure the heat and humidity while standing at attention. He was less fortunate than the others. After falling face forward on the concrete floor, he was rushed to Belleville General Hospital where this morning he is reported in good condition, despite suffering concussion, a chin laceration, and a very sore jaw.

The squadron, numbering some fifty cadets, including bandsmen, was inspected by W/C D. R. Adamson, Officer Commanding No. 437 Transport Squadron at the Canadian Forces Base in Trenton. Wing Commander Adamson, assisted by Flying Officer G. L. Lees of Trenton, also took the salute in the cadet march past. Following the official inspection, W/C Adamson, in a short address, congratulated the cadets on their appearance.

PRESENTATIONS MADE

Included on the program was a speech by A/C A. D. Ross (retired) the Air Cadet League representative, displays by the squadron band and drill team, and instructional displays of features of cadet training for the benefit of the spectators.

A number of presentations were made, including perfect attendance awards covering 1, 2, 3, and 4 year periods, graduation diplomas from air cadet training were presented to W. O. 2 T. Law, P/Sgt. J. Wrinkel, and Sgt. R. Harris by A/C Ross of the Air Cadet League, and F/L Woodley, C.O. of Squadron 608.

The marksmanship award was presented by Range Instructor J. Lynch and F/O Foley to Cpl. D. Diminie.

This year's Air Cadet of the Year was F/Sgt. K. Campbell, who received the coveted award from president J. O'Bryan and vice-president W. Stone of 418 Wing of the Royal Canadian Air Force Association, sponsors of the loyal air cadets.

A special Belleville Poppy Fund award was presented to F/L A. J. Woodley, C.O. of Squadron 608 in recognition of the air cadets' outstanding assistance in the poppy fund drive. The plaque was presented by Mr. E. Liddle and Mr. C. Chapman of Branch 39 of the Boys' Canadian Legion.

MOSCOW (AP) — Thirteen minor earthquakes have hit Tashkent since the Soviet city's third serious quake in a month struck there Tuesday, Tass reported Wednesday.

County Warden To Be Host At Festival

Prince Edward County officials and the Amelialsburg homeowners' association have united forces in an effort to make Prince Edward County recognized as a showplace at apple blossom time.

On Sunday, May 29 County warden and Mrs. Harold Bonter host the inaugural ceremony of the first Apple Blossom Festival on the lawn of their residence on the Redmerville road in neighboring Ameliasburg township. The location on the south shore of the Bay of Quinte is 10 miles west of here.

The event to be expanded as part of the County's centennial project in 1967 was suggested first by the township's homeowners last winter. More than 100 government and civic leaders and their families from various points in the province have been invited to attend along with the general public within a radius of 100 miles of the Bonter orchards.

Visitors will be given the opportunity to mingle with the blossoms and enjoy their fragrance from tractor-drawn trailers with seats on them. Regular tours down the long rows of apple trees will be conducted throughout the afternoon. Refreshments will be available for young ladies interested in entering the township sponsored Blossom Princess contest to be judged later this year.

Families are being encouraged to bring lunches with them for picnics at rustic tables in the beautiful setting at the water's edge. Apple pie cheese and ice cream will be available in large quantities.

M.S. Chapter Hears Kingston Neurologist

A general meeting of the local chapter of the Multiple Sclerosis Society of Canada was held last night at Education Hall at Belleville General Hospital.

The chapter chairman, Gerald Joyce, explained to the meeting the aims and objectives of the society and the plans for the summer months. The speaker of the evening was Dr. Henry D. Dinsdale, chief neurologist of Kingston General Hospital and Associate Professor of Queen's University.

Dr. Dinsdale explained the symptoms and treatment of M.S. patients and said, "M.S. is a disease caused by the loss of the fatty insulation of the nervous system producing a short circuit of the nerves around the spinal cord and brain. Those affected are usually in their 20's or 30's and statistics show that M.S. is most common in temperate climate and in the area of the world between the 40th to 50th parallels of latitude . . . with this country having many patients."

Dr. Dinsdale gave encouragement to patients who have suffered from sporadic attacks of M.S., pointing out that many patients may enjoy periods of up to 15 or 20 years between attacks, and in some cases may never suffer a re-occurrence.

A survey was taken in Great Britain and showed that 20 per cent of all M.S. patients became fully active for the rest of their lives, and many lived an entirely normal life for many years after they experienced symptoms of M.S.

Mr. Joyce introduced the members of the local M.S. chapter, and Dr. Richard Potter introduced the speaker, who was thanked by Dr. Douglas Horne. A vote of thanks was expressed to Dr. Potter, who arranged for the refreshments which were served at the close of the meeting.

May Name Streets After Former Mayors

The names of former Belleville mayors may be commemorated in the names of city streets if a recommendation from city council is carried out.

This week council received a letter from Mrs. Edith Hanna, 163 Durham Street, asking that consideration be given to naming a street after the late Charles E. Hanna who was mayor of the city back in the early 1920's.

The letter was referred to the planning board with the recommendation that wherever possible new streets be named after former mayors.

Mayor Jack Ellis however commented that he would appreciate by be out of luck.

"There's already an Ellis Street in Belleville and it wasn't named after me." he said.

Weekend Turmoil

The Victoria Day weekend, the first vacation break of the summer, predictably was a costly one in terms of highway accidents. Eighty persons died on the highways, well over the 56 anticipated by the Canadian Highway Safety Council.

Nothing will stop people seeking to escape for a brief while the confines of their homes. Yet the irony of it is that the people who stay at home, or find their fun and relaxation close to home, are the ones who benefit most.

For what fun is there in the kind of situation described by The Globe and Mail. "There were those who decided to put an early end to the long weekend . . . and do a few chores around home, only to discover the idea had occurred to others."

Traffic had slowed to a crawl on Highway 400 on Sunday afternoon. More than 40,000 vehicles entered Victoria Park at Niagara Falls; and at one point there was a traffic jam six miles long.

The answer is that there is no fun at all in such a situation, when it is hot, and as likely as not fathers are tired from driving and the children are restless and mothers have to try to keep the peace.

Perhaps the wisest advice for future weekends is, "Stay Close to Home." You will feel better Tuesday morning and most important, you will not have become an accident statistic.

Flood Aftermath

Winnipeg's flood threat has receded, but the memories of that difficult time linger. Indeed, citizens are not being allowed to forget it, for all around is the mute evidence of the city's flood control program in the shape of thousands of sandbags, now rotting in the sun.

One who was there recently described the scene: "Everywhere as we walked . . . there was mud and sand. Men who normally would be working their gardens were carrying sandbags off the dikes in wheelbarrows, emptying them on driveways. There were signs on expensive houses: 2,000 sandbags free; or just, sandbags free.

The administration built the dikes but citizens must remove them. Another chore for householders is carrying stuff from the attics to the basements cleared six weeks ago against the flood threat.

As ever, the children find some pleasure in the situation. They play on piles of earth and in the evenings fathers load their car trunks with bags to take home for a sandbox.

Meanwhile the people of Winnipeg swall the floodway which they began so long under consideration. It should be in partial use next year, and completed and able to cope with anything in 1968.

Behind the Times?

Dr. Clara Pfeifer, a young Hungarian woman scientist on a three-month visit to Queen's University, is astonished that so many Canadian women are content to stay at home.

In Hungary, women prefer to work, especially professional women, she told Joan Hollobon of The Globe and Mail. A pharmacologist and mother of two sons aged 19 and 14, Dr. Pfeifer believes Canadian women live a life a century behind the times.

"Women, after all, are the same human beings with the same brains. I think marriages are happier if women work. The wives have an outside interest, they have their own income and more to talk about with their husbands."

Dr. Pfeifer must have discovered there are plenty of working wives in Canada, but it seems they are not in such numbers as in her country.

The Hungarian Academy of Sciences visitor also put her finger on another aspect of Canadian life, compared with what she may consider the more settled traditions and mannerisms of Europe.

"It seems a quiet life here, but of course it may be different in the larger cities," she said gesturing toward the university campus.

Well not really, unless we take into account the occasional student demonstration in Ottawa, Toronto or Montreal. In her observations about the quiet life in Canada, Dr. Pfeifer is fairly close to the truth. It may be dull, but it is stable.

Costly Error

Anyone who travels half way around the world to New Zealand, only to discover it is cool there in late May and central heating is not in general use, must have had rather flimsy reasons for emigrating in the first place.

A Toronto couple reportedly arrived in New Zealand May 19 after years of saving and hard work. But after the 1,200 mile trip from Auckland to Wellington by train and a week's stay in a Wellington hotel, they missed home and central heating so much they decided to book passage back to Canada.

The Torontonians, having made one of the classic errors of the emigrant — failure to find out as much as possible about life in the other country before setting out — are about to make another. They are returning without so much as giving themselves time to adjust or even see much of the country.

Hazen Argue Only a Shadow Of the Reformer of Old

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Something's happened to that angry young socialist of yesteryear.

Money.

A half million of it over the next 30 years.

As sure as the sun rises and sets.

Through thick and thin, in sickness and in health, come boom or deepest gloom.

And without lifting anything more than his voice, and that only when the spirit moves him.

Then, at retirement, a good pension to the end of his time. An annual $8,000.

All at public expense.

And all from an institution that once he demanded in the name of all that's right and just and decent, he abolished.

The angry young socialist?

Hazen Argue, who else but the CCF-or-turned-Grit.

And now the Honorable Senator from Saskatchewan's Assiniboia.

For the next 30 years — if he can tough it out — he'll be getting an annual $15,000 with $3,000 of it tax free, which, if you calculate the worth of $30,000 or being free and clear of the Revenue Department, adds up to something like a half million.

Well, Senator Argue has made his maiden speech and you'd never have guessed from what he said that this was the old reformer.

HISTORY MAKERS

There wasn't a word about reform that once was so dear to his heart.

Leaf back through the old Hansard records of the Commons and you find a different Hazen Argue, CCF MP for Assiniboia, on November 24, 13 years ago, quoted:

"I suggest the position that the best reform that can be brought about is the abolition of the Senate."

Commons Speaker Rene Beaudoin whistled Hazen down for breaking the Commons rules by saying uncomplimentary things about "The Other Place," as they call the Senate in the House.

Undaunted, the angry young reformer pressed on:

"I have the greatest respect for the members of The Other Place . . . however, I think history will show that The Other Place has been famous mainly for delaying progressive legislation and it by this House of Commons."

Then, just a few weeks later, on February 2, 1954, with no inkling that the golden lightning of the Senate was to strike him in a matter of years, he objected to a pay raise for Senators that took them from $4,000 to $10,000.

"I cannot support this bill providing for any of $10,000 for Senators," cried the righteous indignation, contending that $6,000 was plenty for the kind of work the Senate did — or didn't do.

And now, here he was in the Senate, speaking in the despised Senate, not at that occasion sufficient $6,000 nor even at the proposed $10,000, but at the going rate of $15,000 with $3,000 of it clear and free of the tax axe.

It was back on May 27 of 1948 and Hazen was playing another variation of his favorite theme of abolishing the Senate when he trumpeted:

"I have heard it called 'a rich man's club,' and when I hear it carries a salary of $6,000 I say it seems like a pretty rich man's club.

How much cosier, though, at $15,000.

And with Hazen qualifying as "an old man" at his current 45 years!

One of the reasons the Senate rated nothing better than abolition, he once explained when he was the angry young socialist reformer, was that in a democracy, the people's will could be served only by the people's elected representatives — and everybody knew that the Senators, politicos' hacks, bagmen and bagmen, were appointed.

But any of this the other night when Hazen bowed himself onto the Senate speaking floor?

Not one word.

The closest he came was a veiled if wry reference to his bad old days as a reformer, when, in the Commons, he recalled, he had "not been known to be reticent about things."

There were a few smiles and the nodding of the odd understanding smile.

But the Senate had died.

The reformer was forgotten.

And the old ferocious Hazen Argue, who had roared like a lion for Senate abolition, looked right at home among the men he had called "old," and made all the fuss about on the quietly sleepy ancient chamber of a mouse.

Many Avoid Citizenship

Brantford Expositor

Though Canada in the ten years 1956-65 received 1,231,701 immigrants, it gained only 694,000 of it last year, which, if you calculate the worth of $30,000 or being free and clear of the Revenue Department, adds up to something like a half million.

Well, Senator Argue has made his maiden speech and you'd never have guessed from what he said that this was the old reformer.

"Go-Go" on Car Assembly

Letter in Brantford Expositor

Your editorial Why So Many Car Defects? poses the question that if the assembly lines moving too fast for the human eagle-eyed supervisor and if so, how can an assembler be expected to do an expert job? I've had nearly a decade of experience working on an assembly line. The tempo is "go-go-go," with no time to correct poor-fitting parts. These study periods described experts don't justify their existence. They have a tendency to set work standards too high and do not make allowance for individual work capacity. This cannot but be reflected in the quality of automobile the consumer buys.

Grooming, Wine and Wisdom

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Thoughts at Large:

Hair, to women, must have some deeply symbolic or sexual meaning far beyond the mere physical appearance, for nothing else explains the vast amount of time, money and energy devoted to care of the hair; nor is this merely a modern obsession — in Biblical times, the Book of Timothy warns women against excess in attention to the dressing of the hair.

Some wine turns sour with age, and some wine improves with age; so it is with wisdom, as one of the older Adams is upon himself to offer advice to a young man, he should first make sure that it is the kind of wisdom that time has improved and not turned sour.

The older teacher will not only make his pupils aware of the hallucinatory and beguiling fallacies dangled before them by demagogues, but he will go further, and show the pupil a flaw against his own, the teacher's, prejudices and preconceptions. (This is perhaps the hardest task in teaching a "live" subject.)

If Clemenceau's famous remark that "War is too important an a matter to be left to the generals" is true, is it not equally true that peace is too important a matter to be left to the diplomatists?

Speaking of national conflict, few men in public life have the candor of Count Cavour, when he declared: "What counsels we would be if we did for ourselves what we stand ready to do for Italy!"

The character of a man consists of three elements: what he believes what he does, and how he reconciles what he does with what he believes — and it is in the last contradiction that the ultimate assessment of character must be made.

People are friendlier in the country, but freer in the city; and the price one pays for having a neighbor who will take a kindly interest in you when you need him, is having a neighbor who will take an officious interest in you when you don't want him to.

The meanly ambitious man can be distinguished from the decently ambitious man by the fact that the former has no moderation of posture — he is either cringing before his superiors or strutting before his subordinates, but is incapable of standing easily erect for any sustained period.

What the behaviorists fail to understand in all their experiments with sexual practices was tersely expressed by Rosenstock-Huessy many years ago: "Sexuality throws no light upon love, but only throughout love can we learn to understand sexuality."

The way of the transgressor is hard because the traffic is so dense on his road.

Today in History

The city of Saskatoon was incorporated 60 years ago today—in 1906—by amalgamating three villages on the South Saskatchewan River, its name came from the Saskatoon berry, Missaskatoomina in Cree Indian. The settlement was originally planned by an Ontario-based temperance society which obtained a land grant of 100,000 acres and began colonization in 1883. But early settlers and other traders had different ideas and the plan for a "dry" island in the prairies vanished. Saskatoon was reached by the railway in 1890 and became the trading centre for northern Saskatchewan.

To Your Good Health

Inflamed Esophagus Can Have Many Causes

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: How does esophagitis start? I had it and I am still on a bland diet. — Mrs. N. M.

The esophagus — or gullet — is the portion of the alimentary or food tract extending from the throat to the stomach.

When it becomes inflamed, we call it esophagitis. As one example which I recently mentioned, although not by name, children only too often manage to get hold of and swallow lye, paint brush cleaner or some similar caustic.

Esophagitis is too mild a term to apply to the original burns from a caustic. However, as the area heals, there often (usually in fact) will be a stricture. The scar tissue draws the tissues tighter, partially closing the esophagus.

Then the normal passage of food past this stricture becomes irritating. This irritation and accompanying inflammation is the sort of condition which we can rightly call esophagitis.

That is scarcely the only cause. There may be ulcerations, or there may be some fault in the development of the esophagus, just as there may be such a development fault in any part of the body — "congenital his." an inborn heart defect, and so on. Finally, hiatal hernia, which I have discussed rather frequently in this column because it occurs so often, can cause esophagitis. In that case, the hiatal hernia permits a backwash of stomach acids up into the esophagus. The esophagus is not designed to tolerate these digestive juices, so irritation—esophagitis — results.

In severe cases, such as from caustic or corrosive chemicals, a long series of treatments to dilate and ease the stricture may be necessary before the esophagus can be brought under control.

In the more ordinary cases, treatment in general follows that used for peptic ulcers; bland, soft diet, and antacids.

If a specific cause can be determined, then of course the proper treatment is to correct it. But if the exact cause is not apparent, or cannot be cured by direct attack, then the bland diet and antacids to neutralize acid from the stomach are the best way to ease the irritation. I presume you have had an X-ray study of the upper digestive tract.

Dear Dr. Molner: My baby now is having trouble since pitch and strep germs. A friend told me these were caused by filth and dirt, yet the baby's mother keeps the house immaculate. What do you think? — Mrs. N. G.

I'm in favor of good housekeeping but you can't sweep out germs. Your young niece picked up the germs somewhere or from someone, and the cleanest person in the world still can harbor germs. Just forget what the women said.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 42 and have had sickle cell anemia since 1961. The doctor says it can't be cured. I have lots of oranges and am nervous all the time and keep wondering if it is cancer. — R. L. B.

No, sickle cell anemia is not cancer. It is however, one of the many diseases for which no cure has yet been found. It is being studied intensively, but on the basis of what is now known, medical science is limited to using such measures as will make the patient more comfortable. Abdominal pains are one of the results of sickle cell anemia.

Dams Threat To Canyon

Boston Herald

The struggle to preserve open space and natural beauty is a tough one, almost a losing one. In Massachusetts vast parks and small city parks have been threatened and are still in danger.

In the nation a wholesale situation is just as dangerous, perhaps more so. Grand Canyon is one of those places which every American who has seen it feels is partly his. It is one of the natural wonders of the world. There is nothing like it anywhere.

But now the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation wants to build two dams in the Grand Canyon. While neither would be within the boundaries of Grand Canyon National Park, they would greatly affect the park. One, on Marble Canyon Dam, would back water up into it for 13 miles. The other, Marble Gorge Dam, would would be above the park, would lessen the flow at times. Both areas would be threatened and are likely to be built are beautiful in themselves and should be saved.

Neither dam would save water to feed thirsty citizens of Arizona or their livestock or irrigate farmland. They are being built to make electricity to be sold for a profit by the Government. It would be far better if the Government made electricity cost out of nuclear fuel and left this great natural resource for future generations to see.

Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall, who has been trying for conservation measures in the past, apparently favors the proposed dams, although he does not say too much about it publicly. Everybody makes mistakes, but we think he would not make this particularly disastrous one.

Judging by speeches made at a Young Communists' congress in Moscow, there is concern in the Soviet Union over the indifference to Marxism among the younger set. There was talk of vandalism in the country, "parasitism" and lack of discipline.

Plastic No Substitute

Christian Science Monitor

We hope it is only a trial balloon that report coming out of Washington that Capital gardeners may use plastic flowers in the White House where space is failed to meet planting goals. Public reaction should puncture it.

On the whole the Washington flower-planting program is magnificent. Tulips, daffodils, and other spring blossoms, including cherry, crowd one another to parks and public green spaces, thanks to an ambitious effort to beautifying the nation's capital. So why worry if some slips a bit on the north side of the Executive Mansion.

We hope the public is awake to the effect the planting of synthetic flowers might have on an overseas visitor.

What confidence can be fed in a Government which would resort to such a ruse?

We do not oppose all artificial flowers. They have their place. But that place is not in gardens.

We tremble to think what might happen if Washington were to set an example of planting synthetic flowers in flower beds. We can see lesser cities build artificial lawns in parks, setting up plastic petunias and vinyl verbenas in park flower beds, massing fake ferns in grottoes. And metals hurling visitors with no-fade geranium borders.

This need not happen, Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, the beautifying First Lady, has exerted a strong influence for the restoration of gardens. We trust her to make certain that the effort to have that bloom in Washington are not plastic but the kind that bud, blossom, and drop their petals in accord with nature's rhythms.

Named in Tavern by Founder's Rivals, Belleville Marks Its 150th Birthday Receiving Gift of Mikas' New History

OFF THE RECORD

By Ed Reed

"My wife wants me to send her a diagram of this cell so she can rearrange the furniture."

Belleville reached an important milestone in its corporate life yesterday.

The city turned exactly 150 years old.

And the day before it got its first birthday present, a new history of the city, "Mosaic of Belleville", compiled by Nick and Helena Mika to commemorate the event.

Belleville's history began officially in 1816, when it was given its name by a group of six of its earliest settlers.

Meyers' Creek, population 150, was surveyed that year and laid out in village lots. A small group of citizens, British-born and anxious to curry favor with the Family Compact in York, decided it was time to give the settlement a more reconciliation name. They were joined by the business rivals of Captain John Walden Meyers, American-born Loyalist and founder of the village, and were resentful of his prominence.

On May 25, the six men were enjoying a convivial evening at Mrs. Simpson's Tavern, the village's principal refreshment center of Front and Dundas Streets.

With a brawl stimulated by the free-flowing refreshments they called for quill and ink pot and composed a letter to Lieutenant-Governor Gore, who acted on permission to name the village after his wife, Lady Arabella, known familiarly as "Bell".

Gore, ignorant of village politics and population, announced in the Kingston Gazette that he was pleased to give the new town the name of Belleville "at the request and gentition of a great number of inhabitants".

PRESENTATION MADE

From that tavern gathering of 130 years ago, Belleville counts its birthdays. Tuesday night, in the more dignified atmosphere of Council Chambers, co-author Nick Mika and T. S. Simpson, president of Hastings County Historical Society presented the first copy of "Mosaic of Belleville" to the Mayor and Councillors of 1816 city.

"Mosaic of Belleville" was a year and a half in preparation. Mr. and Mrs. Mika searched the government archives in Toronto and Ottawa and the files of the Hastings County Historical Society and The Intelligencer. Eighty percent of the material in the book came from old newspapers in The Intelligencer building.

Through the co-operation of interested citizens, over 500 old pictures and photographs were collected. From these, 400 illustrations were culled. The existence of many of the illustrations was previously unknown, and they are published for the first time in the book. Included are 62 hand-screened color reproductions of city landmarks, executed by Miss Studios.

The new history book consists of 208 pages, bound between hard covers. The dust jacket has a silk-screened sketch in color of City Hall, taken from a drawing by R. Lott. Other local artists whose sketches appear in the book are Mrs. D. Rivers, Mrs. Brandon, Pollard and J. Burkhouse.

TRACE BEGINNINGS

In their book, Mr. and Mrs. Mika have shown how Belleville grew from Ann Wallbridge's first primitive log cabin to its present prosperity and city status. They have included chapters on chronology, churches, schools, homes, transportation, entertainment, sports, organizations, businesses, industries and the city fathers.

To be complete, of their book, Mr. and Mrs. Mika have brought the clear-eyed but affectionate viewpoint of newcomers for an adopted home.

Nick Mika was born in the Ukraine in 1913 and studied languages at the University of Warsaw. During the Second World War he was taken to Berlin as a forced laborer and after the war settled in Frankfurt-Main, Germany. There he was a newspaperman for four years, and met his wife Helena, also a newspaper reporter.

Mrs. Mika, a graduate of the University of Frankfurt, wrote her novels in collaboration with her husband. One, "Letters of a Young Girl", was translated into English.

"It was a terribly sentimental book," Mr. Mika says. "Write what you're writing it, I learned from my wife all about the psychology of young women in love."

HAS OWN STUDIOS

The Mikas came to Canada in 1949 and Mr. Mika worked for the Bakelite Company. In 1961, he established Mika Studios, an industrial printing firm, now employing nine people.

Since coming to Belleville, the Mikas have turned their attention to more scholarly works. Mr. Mika's first book in English was a volume of mathematical tables for use in universities. His second was "Farewell to Steam in Canada" the first book of history written about Canadian railroads. Mrs. Mika teamed up with her husband in research and work, and in writing the third book, "Mosaic of Belleville."

For ten days, beginning on Thursday at 6:00 p.m., source material used in compiling the book, including 70 original drawings, documents and old newspapers, will be on display in the downstairs auditorium at Corby Library. The book itself will go on sale in book bookstores in about one week's time.

STATE PURPOSE

The Mikas purpose in compiling their book is summed up in the introduction. They say:

"A city is many things to many people. It is home to those who live within its boundaries. It is a place to work and raise a family. It is houses and factories, short streets and busy thoroughfares. It is familiar landmarks, historic sites and modern edifices. Belleville is some it is the place of birth, to others it is the spot where they choose to live.

"Whatever it is your city means to you, there is no doubt that Belleville, like any other city in the world, has its share of beauty. If you care to look around, you may find it even more abundant than you had thought."

Final Paving on Pinnacle Due As Reconstruction Nears End

Welcome news for Belleville motorists — they're heading for the last round up on Pinnacle street reconstruction.

Yesterday the McFarland Construction Company paving crew commenced patching bridge sections in the base paving coat south of Bridge street and expect to start almost immediately on finish paving in the same area.

At the north end of Pinnacle street there is still some road work and curb construction to do and it may be two or three weeks before paving operations in this section can be started.

Channelization for traffic at the Pinnacle-Station street intersection has been worked out by city engineer Wilbur Purcell and Inspector Ralph Blatchford of the city police traffic department with plans approved this week by city council.

PROPOSALS OUTLINED

The proposal is for two left turn lanes onto Station Street, with a third lane for left turn using run-by rush hour periods. There will be one right turn lane, plus a fifteen-minute parallel parking zone for the post office parking space on Pinnacle Street north of entrance across the Upper Bridge by making a right turn onto Station Street and then a "U" turn toward the bridge. This will eliminate curbing diagonally across the middle of the intersection. Also the "U" turn will serve for motor ists travelling west on Station Street who wish to stop in front of the Federal building.

Lost Striking Figure, Now Loved for Mind

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was touched by the letter from "Over-Endowed." Several years ago I had her measurements — and her problems. — I could write a book about the cruelty I suffered from members of both sexes.

ANN LANDERS

I tried desperately to achieve recognition for something besides my figure, but it was hopeless. My "assets," which so many girls envied (and so many boys lusted after), brought me nothing but trouble.

Thank God those wretched days are over. What a relief that my once spectacular figure has gone the way of too much flesh. Now I have friends who recognize that I have a bright mind, and a nice philosophy.

Believe me, Ann, it's a lonely world for the Too Beautiful. — ONE WHO WAS.

DEAR ONE: It's a lonely world for the dogs, too — probably lonelier.

Can it be that you really developed your bright mind and your nice philosophy when you could no longer count on the external trappings? This sometimes happens and I'll bet it happened to you, Doll.

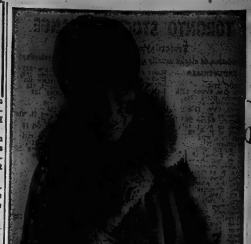
DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have a mother and two sisters who ran my life. They pushed me into a loveless marriage with a man who was too old for me. After 10 years of misery I some how found the courage to take a stand against my family and get a divorce. The only good thing that came out of that marriage was a wonderful son.

Two years after my divorce I married a marvelous man and we moved to another state. He has been a devoted husband and father and I now know the meaning of real contentment.

I stayed away from my family for seven years. Their letters were filled with hostility and resentment. Every time I got a letter from home I'd start to get an eye-piercing headache.



A few months ago I decided to go home and see if I couldn't make peace with my family. I wasn't in the house 15 minutes when my mother and sisters suggested that I take the boy to see his father. In the 10 years that had passed the man had not tried, even once, to contact his son. Neither had he offered one penny toward the boy's support. Yet my family kept saying, "But he is the boy's father . . ."

I refused to budge and a big fight followed. They said I was the meanest person who ever lived and envy besides. What do you think about this? — CINDERELLA.

DEAR CINDERELLA: The decision to see or not to see your ex-husband was yours to make. The family should not have mentioned his name. It is obvious that they learned nothing in those long seven years. The best thing that exists between you and your relatives is distance. Keep it that way.

Confidential to SICK OF SCHOOL AND WASTING MY TIME: I know all about the dropouts who made it big — the Wright brothers, Picasso, Marconi, Thomas Edison and Mark Twain, to name a few — but they didn't burn money off their dads and go riding around on motorcycles. They managed to educate themselves. Stay in school and get your diploma or you'll regret it.

The Experts Say

Collect Old Canadiana For Love, Not Status

By JEAN SHARP
Canadian Press Women's Editor

TORONTO (CP) — Beware of "centennial fever" if you're thinking of collecting Canadiana.

And remember that just because an object is old, that doesn't mean it's for you.

June Biggar of the Royal Ontario Museum suggests people should examine their motives before deciding to become collectors.

"If you're going to collect something it should be something you like for its own beauty or function.

"The sad thing is that so many people are buying because they think something is old, not because of the object. Maybe it's centennial fever."

Miss Biggar is curatorial assistant in charge of Canadiana collections at the museum. Her experience prompted her to say that building a good collection of period furniture or anything else takes time, trial, patience and knowledge.

FEW BOOKS AVAILABLE

"Before you start acquiring, read and look. Try to find out as much as possible. What is a furniture? How is it made?

"There are few publications pertaining to Canadian furniture so the beginner has few sources to go to. Only three books deal entirely with Canadian furniture. There is Early Furniture of French Canada, by Jean Palardy, Antique Furniture by New Brunswick Craftsmen, by Huia G. Ryder, and Antique Furniture by Nova Scotia Craftsmen, by George MacLaren.

"There are chapters on furniture in three others, in a Canadian Collector, both by Gerald Stevens, and Collectors' Luck, by F. St. George Spendlove.

"For general reference on the development of furniture there are Field Guide to Early Furniture and Field Guide to Victorian Furniture, both by Thomas H. Ormsbee."

In addition to reading about furniture, you should talk to people about it and examine as much as you can, Miss Biggar says.

"Look at furniture in museums, in antique stores, at auctions. The more you see the more your eye becomes adjusted and the more selective you become. You can only train your eye by seeing as many pieces as possible.

"Ask your local historical society or museum about furniture in your own area. There are regional differences in Canadian furniture. A lot of it is still in the hands of families. You may be able to find out if there is furniture in your community and get permission to see it."

Miss Biggar says the museum's Canadiana department is launching a survey of furniture made in Canada up to 1900.

It will ask for photographs, for information about the construction of the furniture and for background on the cabinetmaker or carpenter who made it.

When you're ready to buy, don't be afraid to examine a piece, Miss Biggar emphasizes. If you have done your homework you'll be able to judge vintage and condition.

"An antique should be in its original condition or as close to it as possible. If you had an antique Sheffield coffee pot replated it would lose its antique value."

Miss Biggar says she is often asked what to do when you find nine coats of enamel over the original finish of a piece of furniture.

"That can be taken down to its original finish. It must be expertly done but you can uncover the first stencilling or painting.

"Learning about these things is a continuous process through a lifetime. There is no one in the field who would pretend to know everything about it.

"The collector is going to make mistakes. His ideas are going to change. People will discard something for a piece, they like better or, as they learn, they know it better. Collecting should be a continuous development leading to connoisseurship."

Susanna's Family Fare

KITCHEN COMBINATION

Dear Susanna: Several weeks ago on your Family Fare page, you described a delightful, original pattern for a hot-pan-holder.

My church guild is interested in the detailed instructions as many of the girls remembered that their members had similar handlers, and would like to try them for our bazaar.

In return, we have a suggestion for a very useful, practical item.

TAKE an ordinary dish cloth (or one you have made from suitable material) and cut a piece of nylon hose or net the same size. Sew these together by machine from corner to corner, like an X, and all around the edge. If you have the zig-zag stitch for doing this, it enhances the appearance considerably.

Now isn't the result a most "extraordinary" kitchen aid? Must say it comes in very handy for cottaging or camping too. — Mrs. R. S. Smith.

Autumn Colors in Tweed, Plaids and Checks Mark Showing in Fall Fashions

By LINDA CRAWFORD

MONTREAL (CP) — Autumn colors in heather tweeds, plaids and checks heralded Wednesday the beginning of the major fall fashion previews.

The Junior collection of co-ordinates—and the total look was never stronger—opened with a highland-looking outfit of muted turquoise, brown and grey wool plaid. It was co-ordinated with turquoise heather tweed.

When the heather jacket was removed, the fake kilt skirt became a long-torso dress with cap sleeves. A plaid scarf was draped around the neck.

Golden Browns made frequent appearances, along with sage green. A winter white called pearl frost usually came in combination with a richer color.

Many coats had side fastenings and most with this detail had a fencing tunic look.

Generally, the coats were narrow. Some had brass buttons and military styling and most coats and suit jackets were double breasted.

The molded look in coats was carried through to their companion dresses.

Wide belts that hung slightly below the waist were popular on coats and suits. Most skirts were straight, or almost so.

The teen coat—free, full lines floating from narrow shoulders—is back in vogue. It came in caramel, green and checked plaid.

COMBINATIONS SEEN

Houndstooth, heather and plaid combinations were seen throughout the collection. Turquoise and cognac, burgundy or plum were favored color combinations.

Several turnabout costumes were shown for casual wear.

Bell-bottoms were bypassed for stove pipe slacks for the three-piece pant customer also came in heather tweed and check combinations.

Ranch mink, fox and dyed raccoon were used to trim several coats. One with raccoon trim looked 30ish with its large, low fur collar, fitted lines, side fastening and skinny fur-trimmed sleeves.

Budget-priced fake furs were used for casual above-the-knee coats. The stencilled was not meant to resemble "any known animal." A new uncrushable pile fabrics in golden brown was also shown.

Will the short skirt get shorter?

Where did the short skirt come from in the first place — and where is it going? A group of "experts" tackle these questions (and lots of others about "kooky" teen-age clothes) in this month's Reader's Digest. Is the short skirt a sign of rebellion, as a fashion photographer claims, like "spitting in someone's eye" — or are the sociologists right when they say it's just a reaction to the miniskirt times we're living in? Find out — in the new issue of Reader's Digest, on your newsstand today.

Chatting together at the annual meeting of Ladies' Auxiliaries, Boy Scouts of Canada at Parkdale Community Centre last night are (left) Mr. L. R. Griffith, of Cobourg, assistant provincial commissioner, Quinte region; Mrs. J. G. Hamilton of Hamilton, of the provincial advisory committee for Ladies' Auxiliaries and Mrs. H. S. Thomson, president, Belleville District Committee for Ladies' Auxiliaries.

Scout Movement Faces Change Speaker Tells Ladies' Auxiliaries

Social clubs, sports clubs and full - time jobs are taking women out of the membership rolls of service organizations like the Scout Auxiliaries. This is the change and the challenge which must be faced by Scouting's Ladies' Auxiliaries, Mrs. J. G. Hamilton, provincial advisory committee member for Ladies' Auxiliaries, Boy Scouts of Canada told local members at the annual potluck dinner held last night at Parkdale Community Centre.

"Don't be afraid of the competition of other groups that are vying for the attention of women who should be our members — have faith in Scouting and in your Auxiliary," Mrs. Hamilton advised her listeners.

"Scouting is inaugurating terrific changes," the speaker said, "the Cub uniform and program with its fire star emblem, the Venturers section, so new that the handbook is not yet published; multi-stage badges; such things as scuba diving, aeronautics and electronics, are all part of the new look in Scouting. We are in a transitional period. Parents more than ever will have to participate in the Scouting program because the leaders cast do it by themselves."

In conclusion, Mrs. Hamilton left with her audience a poem for times when the going gets rough.

"Two ends am I equiped with,
One to think with.
One to act with.
It all depends which one I use,
Heads I win,
Tails I lose."

Mrs. Hamilton was introduced by Mrs. G. S. Hodgson, Peterborough, regional representative for the Quinte Region to the Provincial Advisory Committee. She was thanked by Mrs. J. Gadd, 1st Belleville, and presented with a small gift by Mrs. A. J. Fort.

HEAD TABLE GUESTS

The head table guests were introduced by Mrs. H. S. Thomson, president of the Belleville District Committee and included the following: Mrs. D. Kennedy, president of Peterborough District; Mrs. A. J. Fort, immediate past president for Belleville District; Mrs. A. J. Fort, District Commissioner; Mrs. R. Griffith, Assistant Provincial Commissioner; Mrs. J. G. Hamilton, guest speaker; Mrs. B. C. Brown, immediate past president for Peterborough District, Mrs. G. S. Hodgson, regional representative; Mr. J. A. Glover, president, Belleville District Committee; Mr. R. Bell-Irving, 18th Belleville Group Committee.

The District Commissioner, Mr. A. J. Fort, in his remarks, mentioned some of the highlights in Scouting during a very active month that will culminate with the Caboree on Saturday, May 28th, at the Belleville Fairgrounds.

Mr. Fort also announced that a Scout from the United Kingdom would be a guest in the district for three weeks in August. It will be necessary to arrange for three host families, one week each, during his stay.

The District Commissioner would welcome offers in this connection; the only qualification is that these should be homes where there would be a Scout of similar age who would be the guest's companion during his stay with that family.

In extending the greetings of the Belleville District Council, the president, Mr. J. A. Glover, expressed his gratitude to the efforts of the Ladies' Auxiliaries with assistance and encouragement to the leaders and in promoting the program that Scouting offers to all boys.

Mrs. Thomson announced that the big Scout Day at Expo '67 would be July 28th, 1967, during Expo's Boy Scout Week, starting July 25th, 1967.

The nominating committee, under the chairmanship of Mrs. J. Farrell, had its work cut to nothing when, in a request for nominations from the floor, all vacancies were filled voluntarily from members in attendance. A full slate of officers is now ready to be presented to the annual meeting early in the fall.

Registration was taken by Mrs. J. Farrell, assisted by Mrs. C. Lynch, while a well-stocked display of available publications was arranged by Mrs. B. Stetson.

Mrs. R. Homewood, 17th Belleville, expressed appreciation to the ladies of the 18th Belleville Auxiliary for their gracious hospitality.

Bad Boy Skorts Intended For Teen-age Girls Arrive

VANCOUVER (CP) — Bad Boy Skorts, intended for teenage girls despite their name, have arrived here.

Made of fake fur, suede or leather, the skorts reach about half way down the thigh. They're an import from London, the mod capital, and are worn with shorts underneath.

"At first sight, the girls in these tiny skorts remind one of little Robespierre's decked out in their Sunday-best lederhosen.

"One thing's for sure, they'll wear well. Put knocking about, they'll be off and running in search of a new style before these have had half a chance to wear out."

Miss Ricardo finds a contradiction in current fashion directives. Noting that one London designer has said all stockings must be replaced by all-in-one stocking tights, she says:

"Oh the sad heart properly is thrown to the winds, on the other hand it is zealously protected."

REPLENISH JELLY SUPPLIES

A flurry of requests from mothers of jelly-eating family tots has arrived. Their winter supply of jelly is all gone and several have asked if they can make jelly from fresh frozen juice concentrates. I made lovely orange jelly and my secretary, Shirley, made equally good grape jelly, by a simplified method. Both were successful and these recipes should be clipped and tucked into your homemade jelly file.

1 package certo crystals,
2 cups water,
2½ cups sugar,
¾ cup (one 6-oz. can) frozen orange juice concentrate.

Into a large saucepan measure the certo crystals and water and mix until smooth. Place over high heat and cook, stirring constantly, until boiling. Boil hard 1 minute. Reduce heat to low. Add orange juice concentrate and sugar and stir until sugar is dissolved and bring to a full boil. Remove from heat and pour into prepared jelly glasses (approximately 5 eight-ounce). Seal with clean melted paraffin and adjust lids.

Note: This jelly could be used as a filling for tarts or jelly roll or between cake layers.

GRAPE JELLY (for your morning toast from fresh frozen grape juice)

1 package certo crystals,
2 cups water,
3¼ cups sugar,
½ cup (one 6-oz. can) fresh frozen grape juice concentrate.

Into a large saucepan measure the certo crystals and water and mix until smooth. Place over high heat and cook, stirring constantly, until boiling. Boil hard 1 minute. Reduce heat to low. Add grape juice concentrate and sugar and stir until sugar is dissolved and bring to a full boil. Remove from heat and pour into prepared jelly glasses (approximately 5 eight-ounce). Seal with clean melted paraffin and adjust lids.

Both of above jellies are easy for amateur jelly makers and will instil them with confidence for future jelly-making sprees. They result in excellent products.

Successful Living
Expected Dull Life But Not So at 75

DEAR DORIS: Your column is my first on each arrival of the paper. Often time forbids reading much more.

We are over 75. Though years ago life must be dull at this age, but not from me. There is more of interest and life is great.

I am enclosing a poem you may not have heard. Keep on Doris. — LULU and ROSS.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR LULU and ROSS: Tell us more. What do you do for fun? —

Readers will enjoy the poem, so I am reproducing the first verse here:

I AM FINE, THANK YOU

There is nothing the matter with me,
I'm as healthy as I can be,
I have arthritis in both my knees,
And when I talk, I talk with a wheeze,
My pulse is weak and my blood is thin
But I'm awfully well for the shape I'm in.

There are seven verses altogether, which proceed to enlarge on the writer's ailments and chuckling philosophy. Any reader writing in for it and enclosing ten cents and a self-addressed, large envelope, may have the complete poem.

DEAR DORIS: The night I broke up with my steady he told a boy that he still liked me a lot but didn't want to be tied down. Since then we've seen him a couple of times but he never even speaks, so I don't either.

Every time I see him I can't think of anything but him, not even the boy that I am with at the time. I would like to go around with him again but not steady. A friend of his said that he still talked about me, the way I look, or my hair was done differently. Any advice? — ALL BROKEN UP.

DEAR BROKEN UP: Just because you broke up you don't have to ignore him. He probably doesn't speak because he's afraid he'll be snubbed.

Lots of girls and boys stop going steady but remain friends. Next time he swings into view, give him a smile and a cheery hello. You might just start something!

DEAR DORIS: About the reply to "Anonymous," whose common-law husband died without a will:

Under English Common Law in force in Alberta a common law wife, under a section of law, has a claim on the estate of the deceased man for wages during whole time she kept his house. The woman you mention kept his house for 20 years and surely can make a claim on the estate for wages of an amount the court would allow. I would think this could run to at least $20,000. — ALBERTA LAWYER.

DEAR ALBERTA: The point is well taken. In all of the provinces in which Common Law applies (all but Quebec) this would hold true.

The bitch might be that she would have to establish that she was his housekeeper, and it is doubtful whether this could be kept secret. What she needs is a lawyer like you who has her interests at heart and would help her work it through.

Anonymous lives in another province — and gave me no name or address. I hope for her sake she reads this!

DEAR DORIS: Is it proper for a teacher (20 years old) to date one of his grade eleven students?

Would he lose his job and would the public frown on it? — BOOTS.

DEAR BOOTS: There's no rule that says he loses his job; though the public may or may not frown upon it. If the girl is as young as 16, I'd frown too.

But if she is 18, and is dates her property (meeting the family, taking care of her, seeing her home to interesting, socially acceptable events), he deserves a break.

He'll be walking on eggs to maintain the status quo in the classroom. If such a teacher were seriously interested in said pupil, he'd do well to get the nod from his principal first.

DEAR DORIS: I'm writing you about a young person of 18 (Worried) asking you what to do to overcome shyness.

I also had this problem and came out of my shell a year ago (at 17). Ever since I got over my shyness I've never had so much fun with my friends and have also gained many more.

Why be shy when overcoming shyness can add sparkle to your personality and can make the trip much easier along that tough old road leading to a good-natured life?

Good Luck to Worried. Remember: "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again." And I mean try. — NOW MORE POPULAR THAN EVER.

DEAR POPULAR: Do you mean that all you did was break your shell and come out — like a baby chick? Just how did you work it?

I agree that the results are worth the effort. My leaflet entitled "Don't Be Shy" (which is available for ten cents and a stamped envelope) suggests a few useful techniques for Worried and others like her.

(Ask Doris for the information you need. If she doesn't know she'll find out from one of her consultants. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for private reply.)

THURSDAY Dinner Menu

by Mary Moore

Into a large saucepan measure the certo crystals and water and mix until smooth. Liquid must be free of lumps, so if necessary beat until smooth with rotary beater. Place over high heat and cook, stirring constantly, until boiling. Boil hard 1 minute. Reduce heat to low. Add orange juice concentrate and sugar and stir until sugar is dissolved and beat until syrup is just below boiling point. Do not boil. Remove from heat and pour into prepared jelly glasses (approximately 5 eight-ounce). Seal with clean melted paraffin and adjust lids.

Both grape jellies are easy for amateur jelly makers and will instil them with confidence for future jelly-making sprees. They result in excellent products.

Canadian Fashion Defined by Experts

By JEAN SHARP
Canadian Press Women's Editor

Canadian fashion is a bit like Canadian culture.

Some people say it exists but they can't quite say what it is.

Others say it doesn't exist and prefer to concentrate on arguing about whose fault that is.

Still others say we don't need it anyway; that the best style is international, not national.

Only one man in a representative group of persons in the fashion business interviewed in Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa took a stab at defining Canadian style.

"Women here are inclined to go to brighter shades than are often accepted in Europe," said Rodolphe, Vienna-born Toronto couturier.

"Canadian women are younger in outlook than Europeans. They try for a younger look."

Rodolphe cited as an example a 75-year-old customer who had recently bought a bright red coat.

The Canadian woman came in for a good deal of approval from the experts.

People in the business say her taste is improving, even if it does defy definition. She is quicker to adopt new styles than she used to be.

She is not ready to buy the hautest of haute couture, perhaps, but she isn't as stodgy as she once was.

POCKETS OF REACTION

This is the consensus, however. There are still pockets of resistance.

Frances Stewart of Ottawa says she designs conservative, classic clothes because they are what Ottawa women like.

"Once at a fashion show a woman told me she likes my things because they looked as though you could wear them to the supermarket. I haven't liked myself yet, but I was insulted."

Most of the designers interviewed say they do what designers in all the Western world do—they adapt Paris trends, sometimes by way of New York.

Whether they go directly to the source or use the long way round often depends whether they are in Toronto or Montreal.

"New York copies Paris, Canada copies New York," says Albert Haddad, whose wife is designer for their Toronto lingerie firm. "Fashion is fashion and we have to follow the trend and adapt it to our own way of doing things."

Marielle Fleury of Montreal, boutique-owner and designer for a manufacturer, says "Canadian designers look to Paris, I would hope."

Michel Robichaud of Montreal, who designed the uniforms for Air Canada and Expo hostesses, says "I never work from New York but from Paris because New York is always behind Paris."

AFRAID OF COUTURIERS

Rudolphe says there are many more couturiers working in Canada than there were 10 years ago. But Marie di Nardo of Montreal says Canadians generally are nervous about couturiers.

"There are many Canadian women who are not educated as far as couture goes and who don't even understand what it is, and who therefore don't go to a couture house.

"One reason is that they don't know what they're getting when they can't see it on the rack, and they're afraid they won't like it."

Another is that although the snob appeal and assurance of an imported label is waning, it is still important enough to hinder acceptance of Canadian work.

John Warden of Montreal, who has designed for a manufacturer and now is planning to open his own boutique, says it's not the woman but the buyer who prefers imported tags.

"Women will buy what's in the store," he says, and it's the buyer who is keeping higher-priced Canadian clothes out of Canadian stores.

One buyer, G. E. Bunnett of Robert Simpson Co's Toronto store, agrees that buyers don't look for Canadian designers' work.

LACK INFLUENCE

Mr. Bunnett adds that Canadian designers, in any case, "don't influence fashion."

"They will tell you they put ostrich feathers on their clothes five years ago. It's true but it doesn't influence anyone."

There were several suggestions how to build a distinctive and perhaps influential Canadian fashion.

Mr. Warden says the country needs its own fashion magazine. Other designers say Canadians should get more publicity so that they'll become known and a demand for their work will be created.

Claire Haddad agrees with Marielle Fleury who says: "The first step is Canadian fabrics. We can't have Canadian fashion without Canadian fabrics."

Mr. di Nardo says climate is a problem. It's difficult to be chic in cold weather. Two other Montreal designers, Frances Davies and Lydia Goerlich, says Canadians should capitalize on the weather; perhaps learning to lead by specializing in turning out something practical and stylish for cold weather.

René Jean Foure, Parisborn Montrealer, says the federal government should help Canadian designers show in other countries to demonstrate what Canada can do.

Michel Robichaud, whose work is in a Quebec-sponsored European show, says each country should have something individual, and the obvious things for Canada would be sports lines, boots and winter coats.

Mr., Mrs. J. McClelland Mark 50 Years of Marriage

Mr. and Mrs. John McClelland, who last week celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary, were the guests of honour at two happy functions last weekend.

On Saturday, a family dinner was held at Queen's Hotel at tables decorated with gold and white. Mrs. Fred Miller of Port Erie, the twin sister of the bride, was present with many of her family. The grace was said by Dr. G. Shull of Wilson, N.Y., and a toast proposed to the honored couple by Mr. Malcolm McClelland, the eldest son in the family.

Following dinner everyone joined in singing a witty song composed by Mr., Mrs. Brue Miller, about many events in the McClellands' past. The family have many happy memories of times spent together in singing. Mrs. McClelland still spends many hours at her piano.

Mr. Malcolm McClelland presented his parents with a "money tree" on behalf of the family and spoke of the love the children feel for their parents. Mr. Wayne Gariepy presented a gift on behalf of the grandchildren and read an appropriate poem. Gifts were also presented by the family of Mrs. Miller and by her grandchildren.

During the week Mr. and Mrs. McClelland received many florist tributes as well as other treasured gifts from friends and neighbors and from their church, Tabernacle United, where Mr. McClelland was an elder for many years.

AT HOME ON SUNDAY

On Sunday afternoon the couple received good wishes from friends at the home of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Babiak. The door was opened by Miss Mary Babiak and guests were invited to sign the golden guest book. The tea table was covered with lace underfoil with gold and centred with a floral bowl arranged by Mrs. G. Shull, a niece of the bride.

Tea was poured by Mrs. A. D. Archibald and Mrs. F. Miller and those serving included Mrs. Mel Gariepy, the McClellands' eldest daughter, Mrs. J. Poehel, Mrs. K. Miller, Mrs. M. McClelland, Mrs. G. Shull and Miss Diane Gariepy. The table was replenished by ladies from Tabernacle U.C.W. where Mrs. McClelland is a member. The gathering included many who had travelled some distance to wish the couple well. Young people as well as older people were present since this couple have always befriended all ages and in their warm, friendly way have been good neighbors wherever they have lived.

SETS GOAL

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) Claude Jodoin, president of the Canadian Labor Congress, says that despite Canada's wealth, "at least one-fifth of our population is subsisting below a reasonable standard of comfort and decency." He told the convention of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America that labor's main goal must be the establishment of wage standards that assure workers their fair share of benefits.

Diefenbaker Defends Action In Handling Munsinger Case

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker Wednesday night defended his handling of the Gerda Munsinger case and said the inquiry into it was "simply a case of a government trying to get revenge upon the Opposition."

Mr. Diefenbaker, on the nation-wide CBC television program The Nation's Business, said the Munsinger case was supposed to involve security matters.

"Yet the prime minister, securing the report on this case which he now says is so dangerous to the security of Canada, brooded over it for a period of 14 or 15 months and did nothing about it until it was useable as a threat against the Opposition.

"That disposes of the security question."

The inquiry, headed by Mr. Justice W. F. Spence of the Supreme Court of Canada, concluded hearings Tuesday.

It was set up after Justice Minister Cardin made allegations that Mr. Diefenbaker when prime minister withheld the Munsinger case, which he said involved one or more former Conservative cabinet ministers.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he has the highest respect for the courts, but when a judge becomes an inquiry commissioner he ceases to be a judge.

"... that is the reason why the Supreme Court of Canada—that great body—our final court of appeal, has not had judges acting on political commissions for many years."

Mr. Diefenbaker said neither he nor Davie Fulton, his justice minister when the Munsinger case was investigated by the RCMP, have anything to hide.

"Our action in every way was reasonable and responsible."

Testimony at the inquiry said that Mrs. Munsinger had been involved in espionage work in East Germany before coming to Canada in 1955, and that she was the mistress of Pierre Sevigny while he was associate defence minister in the Conservative government.

Mr. Diefenbaker said when the case came to him he asked whether there had been any espionage and was told that the RCMP after careful examination had concluded there had not been.

He said he has been told that within a few days there will be "certain allegations made by the commission.

"Allegations of what?"

Mr. Diefenbaker said he called in Mr. Sevigny and made it clear he would not stand for a continuation of any relationship.

"He was a man with a distinguished war record. It ended there. There was no continuance of the relationship. There has been no suggestion that at any time she directly or indirectly engaged in espionage."

"What else would I do? I exercised the discretion of a prime minister, the responsibility of a prime minister, which is not subject to a review by any commission.

"The record is clear. As far as I am concerned, Canadians realize that there was nothing of an improper nature committed by Mr. Fulton or me."

Leaders of South Arabia Seek British Military Help To Offset Nasser's Influence

Carl Mollins of The Canadian Press London bureau is on a tour of the Middle East and North Africa. Following is his report from Aden, background for London negotiations between Britain and South Arabia on the troubled-riddled military base.

By CARL MOLLINS

ADEN (CP) — The sheikhly leaders of South Arabia are desperately seeking British military help in the fear that Egyptian-backed political foes will try to take over when the British pull out of this seaport-fortress in 1968.

Encouraged by British administrators here and by Conservative party leaders in Britain, South Arabian federal ministers hope to persuade the Labor government to reverse its stand against underwriting the defence of this area under independence.

At the same time, British military men stationed here plan in urge Britain to double the size of the native South Arabian army—now 8,000 strong—and supply better weapons to hold off organized incursions from neighboring Yemen.

"We are concerned about our future security," Sheikh Mohammed Farid said in an interview before he flew to London to participate in the current talks. "We want a British security guarantee to see us through an interim period after independence while we are building up our own defence."

Sheikh Mohammed, a member of the ruling family in the South Arabian Aulaqi sheikhdom, is external affairs minister in a shaky federal government that links Aden and 18 of the 20 surrounding tribal regions in the southwestern corner of the Arabian Peninsula.

MARKED BY VIOLENCE

The union between the autocratic sheikhs of the Aden hinterland and the urban radicals of Aden has been troubled by dispute, suspicion and violence since its inception three years ago.

Many Aden politicians are in exile or imprisoned under the British state of emergency imposed because of shootings and bombings in Aden and organized attacks across the Yemen border by dissident South Arabian tribesmen.

Operating from Cairo and Taiz in Yemen, the Front for the Liberation of Occupied South Yemen claims responsibility for both the Aden violence and the border raids. Abdul Mackawee, ousted chief minister of Aden state, is the Front's nominal leader but Abdullah Asnag, exiled head of the Aden trades union congress, is considered the Front's real power under the Egyptians.

Aim of the Front is to unite South Arabia with Republican Yemen, thus appealing to the people of Yemen's origin who make up about one - half of Aden's 220,000 population.

But other tribal leaders fear union with Republican Yemen would place this area under the influence of Egypt's Soviet-backed rulers from Yemen are backed up by an estimated 70,000 Egyptian troops who have been fighting Yemeni royalist forces.

sions could drive small vessels out of business.

Economics Minister S. D. Randall of Ontario fled a written protest against the Welland charges. He said it would create an artificial barrier to provincial and federal efforts for economic development in the province.

Several briefs complained that the Seaway Authority did not make public the reports of two consultant firms on which its proposed toll increases were based. The digest that was made available gave no explanation of the data from which traffic forecasts were computed.

The seaway's proposals on Montreal - Lake Ontario tolls would increase the rate on bulk cargo to 44 cents a ton from 30. General cargo would go to 81 a ton from 60 cents and the charge for vessels themselves would rise to 4½ cents a ton from four.

Together with the Welland charge, this would add onethird of a cent to each bushel of wheat passing through the seaway, 11 cents to each ton of iron ore or coal and between 25 and 40 cents for a small European car.

Ontario Hydro filed a brief which said the additional cost of moving U.S. coal through the Welland would have to be passed on to power users in Ontario. A double charge would be involved because coal carriers could not accept other cargoes on their return trips through the canal.

The hearing was given a synopsis of protesting briefs filed by various organizations, including: Greater Niagara Chamber of Commerce, Greater Welland Chamber of Commerce, Lakehead Chamber of Commerce, Canadian Pulp and Paper Association, Algoma Steel Corp., and St. Catharines Chamber of Commerce.

The Railway Association of Canada restated its position that seaway tolls should be related to make the system self-supporting.

Memoirs of Former Quebec Premier Will Likely Set Off Bombshell in Campaign

OTTAWA (CP)—Former Quebec premier Antonio Barrette has resigned as Canadian ambassador to Greece to publish a book about politics in the thick of the Quebec election campaign.

The resignation was confirmed in the Commons Wednesday by External Affairs Minister Martin.

He said regulations prevent members of the diplomatic corps from expressing personal opinions on politics and other controversial subjects.

Mr. Barrette, who is 67 today, resigned April 25 and Mr. Martin accepted the resignation May 5. Mr. Barrette, former Union Nationale premier, is expected back in Canada in a few weeks.

His memoirs, reported to be critical of some key figures in Quebec's Union Nationale party were to be published today in Montreal by Les Editions Beauchemin.

The Montreal newspaper Le Devoir reported Wednesday that the book attacks Jean-Jacques Bertrand, gene rally considered the right-hand man of Union Nationale Leader Daniel Johnson, and could set off a bombshell in the race for the June 5 election.

Mr. Barrette was Quebec's labor minister from 1944 until 1960 when he succeeded the late Paul Sauve as premier and Union Nationale leader. His government was defeated in general elections in June, 1960.

His book recounts the struggle for power that followed the death of Premier Maurice Duplessis and Premier Sauve.

It charges that Mr. Bertrand, now seeking re-election in Missisquoi, sided with Legislative Councillor Gerard Martineau when Mr. Barrette tried vainly to replace him as party treasurer.

Mr. Martineau was convicted of influence peddling earlier this year and is appealing.

as NDP counsel before the Ontario royal commission on organized crime, found lack of coordination among police forces is a big problem in fighting crime.

Mr. Bell referred to the emasculation and dismemberment of the justice department and said the effects would be calamitous.

He repeated the Conservative position that, under the reorganization, Prime Minister Pearson is tailoring the jobs to fill his men.

Mr. Pennell answered that the reorganization won't mean division. The justice department would remain responsible for drafting legislation, criminal prosecution, preparations of legal opinions and conduct of government litigation.

"In other words, the department will remain the law firm for the government of Canada."

The reorganization would relieve justice ministers of what they called the United Nations' Children's Fund to Indian schools. The thieves used forged papers to collect the milk from school warehouses.

Countries Under Pressure To Pull Out of W. Germany

BONN (AP)—After more than 20 years in Germany the armies that defeated Adolf Hitler—British, American, Soviet and French—are coming under pressure to pull out or at least to cut their forces.

Experts have fought for and resisted such a move for years. Now it may be coming of itself.

The United States needs more of its trained troops in Viet Nam. Fifteen thousand men are being withdrawn but that still leaves 215,000, official figures show.

Britain also is feeling the strain of its military obligations in Africa, the Middle East and Southeast Asia. There has been talk of reducing its 51,000-man Army of the Rhine.

There are about 9,700 Canadian servicemen in West Germany. There has been no pressure for reduction of Canadian forces, however.

Both the U.S. and British governments say the West Germans are not living up to their defence-money American and British goods. These purchases were promised to offset the expenses of American and British troops in West Germany.

The United States and Britain have deficits in their balance of international payments and need to sell more goods abroad. Chancellor Ludwig Erhard of West Germany is in Britain this week, trying to do something about the problem. He and Prime Minister Wilson failed to agree.

One obvious remedy: Withdraw troops, so that there will be less British and American spending, and less need for West German spending to offset it.

President Charles de Gaulle is threatening to pull French troops out for a different reason: His quarrel with the rest of the Atlantic Alliance over unified commands. He is withdrawing from these commands, but says his forces, officially 72,000 men, will leave Germany altogether if the West Germans don't want them, or if the two countries can't agree on the status of the French in West Germany.

There is even pressure on the Soviets to get their troops out of other countries. This comes notably from Romania. The Soviets believe to have about 400,000 men in East Germany.

Alexander's Command Car Undergoes Spring Overhaul

OTTAWA (CP) — The round trip to the body shop was a festive and humiliating 26 blocks.

Like a woman bound for the powder room, Field Marshal Alexander's command car needed freshening this spring.

But to be lowered at the end of a rope was something new for this celebrated vehicle, veteran of four years in the African desert and 20 years on public display.

The car is one of the most curious trophies to for inspection by the 200,000 - plus visitors annally at the Canadian War Museum.

It's a 1941 Ford sedan which underwent a 36-hour conversion in Cairo to meet Lord Alexander's demand for a mobile, reliable vehicle.

The conversion eliminated doors and added wooden gunwales on each side for added strength. Extra - wide tires without treads kept the car from sinking in the sand; a rubber tube drained condensation from the radiator into a metal container to save water. A gun was mounted on the driver's side, and metal racks around the rear stored gasoline, water and oil.

Joe Wells, the field marshal's chauffeur through Tunisia, Algeria, Sicily and Italy, has lived for many years in Ottawa. He recalls that the 6,000 - pound vehicle never failed in a critical situation.

It went through three engines and Mr. Wells recalls that a handful of sand could be cleaned from the filter each night.

Scratched and dented, its collapsible hood and leather seats stained with tea for camouflage, it was presented to the museum in 1946 at the request of Lord Alexander, governor-general of Canada from 1946 to 1952.

Museum curator Les Murray ordered the car to be brought to its shiny best, with an eye to the Centennial Year celebration of Veterans' Week, when the car will appear with the National Aeronautical Collection in Ottawa.

They won't need a rope then. With its battery replaced and self-esteem regained, the car will emerge from the museum under its own power.

TOUGH VETERAN GETS FACE-LIFTING — Field Marshal Alexander's command car, veteran of four years in the African desert and 20 years on display, gets a touch-up job in Ottawa. Officials at the Canadian War Museum want it looking its shiny best for centennial celebrations next year.

27 Senators Must Decide On Retirement by Wednesday

By RONALD LEBEL

OTTAWA (CP)—Nearly one-third of the members of the Senate—27 to be exact—have until next Wednesday, June 1, to decide whether to retire on an $8,000 annual allowance.

Indications are only two or three senators will retire, with the others deciding to serve out their life appointments at $15,000 a year.

The 27 senators facing the unprecedented deadline were aged 75 and over when the Senate Retirement Act came into effect June 2 last year. The act gave them one year to choose.

Eight senators have retired since, including one under 75 who was disabled. Two died a few days after their retirements were announced and two others in the over-75 group died.

The older senators include some of the most active men in the upper house.

Their dean is Senator Thomas Alexander Crerar of Winnipeg, who turns 90 on June 17. He told the Senate a few weeks ago he would retire just before the deadline.

LED PROGRESSIVES

The senior member of the Privy Council, he joined the Borden Unionist cabinet in 1917 as agriculture minister. He later became leader of the Progressive party, which captured 64 Commons seats in the 1921 election and held the balance of power before gradually merging with the Liberals.

Senator Crerar entered the Mackenzie King cabinet in 1929, was defeated the following year and came back in 1935 as mines minister. He remained in the cabinet until his appointment to the Senate April 18, 1945.

The upper chamber has become steadily younger and more Liberal since the Pearson government took office three years ago.

Prime Minister Pearson has appointed 24 Liberal senators and there are seven vacancies, with prospects for two or three more opening up by June 1.

Current standings are 61 Liberals, 31 Conservatives, two independent and one Independent Liberal. There are 102 seats.

The vacancies are concentrated in the Maritime provinces. Quebec and Newfoundland have two apiece while Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia and Ontario have one apiece.

SPECULATION RARE

Speculation about Senate appointments has been rare in recent weeks. Mr. Pearson may await the report on the Gerda Munsinger inquiry and the outcome of provincial elections in Quebec, Manitoba and P.E.I. before considering his next appointments.

There have been reports that Justice Minister Cardin, whose allegations set off the Munsinger inquiry, and former postmaster-general Rene Tremblay, recovering from his second heart attack in a year, are in line for Senate seats.

Retirements from the Senate are expected to become frequent in the next few years as senators appointed before June 2, 1965 reach the age of 75.

The 17 senators appointed in the last year and all future appointees will be required to retire at 75. Disabled senators can resign earlier.

Mr. Pearson's last 12 appointees had an average age of 59.7 years and included the Senate's youngest member at present, Senator Keith Davey, 40, former Liberal national organizer.

Of the 95 senators, 53 are over 65.

Three turned 75 in the second half of 1965, five will make the grade this year and two next year.

Steelworkers Asking Close of Wage Gap, New Pension Program

HAMILTON (CP)—More than 40,000 Canadian union members are expected to be affected by negotiations under way or to come as the United Steelworkers of America (USA) continues into its big contract year.

While details have not been made public, union contract proposals are believed to include narrowing the wage gap between United States and Canadian steelworkers and a major new pension program.

Underlining the importance of the Canadian contract talks, the USWA international executive will hold its first meeting in Canada in its 30-year history, starting today and continuing until Friday.

Twenty-nine district directors from the U.S and Canada will attend the Toronto meetings.

Contract talks covering more than 11,000 Hamilton workers started Tuesday between the Steel Company of Canada Ltd. and the union. Preliminary discussions involve employees in Local 1005 at the Hilton works.

Tied in with them are another 3,300 employees in 18 fabricating plants of the Stelco chain at Hamilton, Toronto, Montreal, Gananoque, Ont., Brantford and in western Canada.

PACT EXPIRING

The current agreement between Stelco and the Hilton works employees expired July 31, when most contracts with the fabricating chain also run out.

Running parallel with this set of contract talks are negotiations between the union and Algoma Steel Corp. Ltd. at Sault Ste. Marie, covering some 7,000 members.

Contracts will also be renegotiated with International Nickel Co. of Canada Ltd., Aluminum Co. of Canada Ltd. and workers in the Quebec iron ore fields.

The new pension program should provide 75 per cent of income, including public pensions, after 30 years of service.

During the last set of negotiations, 18 months ago, the union argued that the Canadian steelworker outproduced his American counterpart and therefore should be paid more instead of less.

Under terms of the last Stelco agreement, a start was made on a job training program. This time the union will work to widen and improve the job training scheme.

Supplementary unemployment benefits were not included in the old agreement and open up an entire new area for bargaining.

DOW

There couldn't be a better time!
You just can't buy a better beer!

Ask the Official Analysts

They'll tell you that in the past few weeks Dow has come through the toughest tests of any beer in the entire history of brewing.
And it came through with flying colours for brewing methods . . . quality . . . purity . . . and taste.

Ask our competitors

Sure they're proud of their own products. And rightly so. But even they can tell you that Dow has always met the highest industry standards for quality of ingredients, processes; and the care with which Dow products are brewed.

Ask the Dow drinker

He'll be happy to tell you why he's loyal to Dow. And don't be surprised if he talks about great taste, and refreshment, and a real out-and-out beer-drinking enjoyment no other brew can match.

Ask us

As far as we're concerned the headline says it all: You just can't buy a better beer, so next time, make yours Dow. There couldn't be a better time for you to swing to Dow. It'll pay off in pleasure and satisfaction for you. We promise.

Ask yourself

When a beer has gone through tougher official tests than any other brew in history . . . when even our competitors can vouch for its quality and purity . . . when its taste has been checked out by thousands and thousands of Ontario beer-drinkers and found to be an easy winner—

Next time shouldn't you make yours Dow?

Departure From Ceiling Rate of Bank Loans Causes Split in Liberal Caucus

OTTAWA (CP)—The Liberal caucus split widened today on proposals by Finance Minister Sharp to depart from the six-per-cent interest ceiling on bank loans, it was learned reliably.

A heated discussion broke out between Mr. Sharp's supporters and critics led by his predecessor, Walter Gordon, and former state secretary Maurice Lamontagne, sources said.

Mr. Sharp's draft revision of the Bank Act was expected to go back before the cabinet Tuesday for further discussion.

Government sources had said earlier that the legislation would be introduced in the Commons this week.

Mr. Sharp was reported to have proposed that the interest ceiling be removed entirely from bank loans of more than $25,000.

Smaller loans would be subject to a flexible ceiling slightly higher than six per cent.

ATTACK PROPOSALS

Mr. Gordon, Mr. Lamontagne and many other MPs attacked these proposals in a three-hour closed session. They argued that the changes would hit the small borrower and drive interest rates farther upward.

Mr. Sharp was reported to have stood his ground, arguing that more competition is needed in the financial community and that his proposals would benefit borrowers in the long run.

Prime Minister Pearson spoke in support of the legislation.

Another new feature in the draft legislation is the creation of a Crown corporation that would insure deposits in "near banks" to bolster the confidence of investors.

Trust and loan companies with federal charters would be required to buy insurance on their deposits. They would have to meet certain criteria of good management and come under the supervision of the new agency.

Near banks with provincial charters would be invited to participate in the insurance plan, but not required to.

CRITICS DOMINATE

The critics of the legislation were said to have dominated the discussion, which was the continuation of a debate begun at the previous Liberal caucus May 18.

They fear that the changes will be unpopular at the grass-root level and stamp the Liberals as a "big business" party. They also fear that the Commons opposition will successfully exploit the issue.

It was learned that the Bank Act revision now is scheduled to be introduced in the House within two weeks.

A majority of the cabinet favored the finance department draft, but secondary changes were not ruled out.

Mr. Gordon and Mr. Lamontagne both resigned from the cabinet shortly after the Nov. 8 election, but they retain influence in the caucus, which groups the 121 Liberal MPs and 61 senators.

The Bank Act was extended earlier this year to Dec. 1 to allow more time for the drafting of the massive revision. The act comes up for review every 10 years.

Offer Short Of Demands By CBRT

OTTAWA (CP) — A federal conciliation board majority report has recommended a seven-per-cent wage increase for 1,300 employees of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority with an additional seven per cent in a year under a two-year contract, it was disclosed Wednesday.

The recommendation falls far short of the demands of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and general Workers (CLC) but is higher than the authority's wage offer.

Release of the report means that the union legally can strike as early as Thursday, June 1.

The union had demanded a wage increase of 26 per cent to bring employees to the levels paid on the United States side of the seaway, and insisted on a one-year agreement.

The authority had offered an immediate increase of three per cent, another three per cent next year and a final three per cent in 1968 under a three-year contract.

Present rate for laborers is $2.13 an hour.

Hard on Housewives' Ears

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — More remarks that housewives' get tired of hearing—or overhearing:

"Don't you get tired of having nothing to do all day?"

"All right, maybe I have already missed the 7:18 train. I'm tied up with an out-of-town client. But I'll make the 8:15 for sure. If not, look for me when I get there."

"Get the kids off the street, honey. I'm driving home myself."

"Sure, I'll bring you breakfast in bed, baby—on your 30th wedding anniversary."

"The delivery-men from the department store brought a new coat while you were gone. I opened the package, took one look at the price tag, and told him there must be some mistake. He took it back. Anyway, it looked too big for you."

"Why should we go out to eat tonight? Didn't I take you out last month?"

"At her age she should never wear skirts that short. They make her knees look like a matched set of hornets' nests."

"How's my wife? Well, compared with what?"

"What do you mean I never listen to you? I heard every word you said. I heard them all back in 1942, too."

"He isn't actually on a crash diet. It's just that she handles the money now."

"If you'd majored in electrical engineering in college instead of psychology, honey, you'd be able to fix the vacuum cleaner yourself."

"There isn't time to send my sports jacket to the cleaner's, mom. Can't you just give it a quick press?"

"So that's the new hat everybody in the neighborhood is laughing about? It looks okay to me."

"Their marriage must have been arranged in heaven. Certainly it's hard to find any reason on earth for it."

"You simply don't understand, mamma. Don't you remember what it was like to be young and in love?"

Chinese Scholar Expects Communist China Soon To Launch Small Satellite

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)— Prof. Peng Hung, a Chinese scholar whose specialty is the geography of energy, said Wednesday he expects Communist China soon will launch a small satellite.

Prof. Hung, here for the annual meeting of the Canadian Association of Geographers, said in an interview such a launching would bring great prestige to China and be a significant step in its program to develop missiles as delivery vehicles for nuclear bombs.

Prof. Hung, designated head of the new department of geography at the University of Guelph, said he based his estimate on reports of leading Japanese physicists who had visited China.

"The Japanese haven't qualified how soon is 'soon' but there are some guesses it would be in 1967," he added.

There was no reason to doubt China's ability to develop missiles since China had "quite a crop of scientists," including Hsue S. Tsein, whom he described as one of the world's leading rocket specialists.

TRAVELLED TEACHER

Prof. Hung, in Canada since 1949, was until this year head of the geography department at United College, affiliated with the University of Manitoba in Winnipeg. His teaching travels include trips to Japan and the United States, where he recently spent eight months as a visiting professor.

He described the difficulties between the United States and Communist China as "a conflict of policy that involves not only President Johnson and Chairman Mao Tse-tung of the Communist party.

"Mao is too proud to bend, and how can you expect the United States, the richest and strongest country in the world, to kowtow to Mao."

In a paper prepared for presentation today, Prof. Hung reviews recent developments in China's energy resources, described as "a contemporary example of a confusion-prone revolution in a developing economy."

Despite a slow start, he says, China has become the world's leading producer of hard coal, excluding lignite. Coal production increased from 66,500,000 metric tons in 1952 to 420,000,000 metric tons in 1960.

China's output of electrical energy increased 10.7 times from 7,260,000,000 kilowatts in 1952 to 77,000,000,000 kilowatts in 1964, reaching the Soviet level of 1949.

He says China claims to have become self-sufficient in crude petroleum by 1963, reporting an increase in output from 453,000 metric tons in 1952 to an estimated 4,000,000 metric tons in 1974.

He attributes this industrial growth to fuller use of manpower by employing three and even four overlapping work shifts during a 24-hour day in major coal mines and a drive for higher labor productivity.

Despite these gains, he says, China has a long way to go before catching western nations in per capita supply of kwankwatt energy. Expressed in these terms, China's output was 0.6 metric tons of coal in 1960, compared to nine tons for the U.S. and 1.5 tons for the world average.

Sen. Thomas Crerar at 90 Bids Farewell to Senate

OTTAWA (CP)—History stood still in the Senate Tuesday as the Red Chamber heard one of its most esteemed members say goodbye and members about his 30-year involvement in Canada's political life.

Liberal Senator Thomas Alexander Crerar of Winnipeg, who turns 90 June 17, spoke to an almost-full chamber for more than an hour on what he termed "my swan song to the Senate."

He retires from the Senate June 1 after 21 years there and 25 years a political career that began in 1917 when he became agriculture minister in the Borden Union government.

He recalled serving with the Mackenzie King Liberal cabinet in 1929 as minister of railways and canals. More than half of that cabinet "have passed on."

Standing erect and speaking without benefit of text or notes, Senator Crerar drew attention to his Liberal Senate colleagues Thomas Vien (Quebec), 84, and Charles Power (Quebec) 79,—the other two surviving members of the Parliament of 1917.

SPEAKS FRANKLY

Speaking later — perhaps sooner—we will all be leaving this house," Senator Crerar said. Then, remarking it was time to speak with "some frankness" about some things he thought unfortunate in Canada today, he sailed into Canada's past.

First on his list was the "failure of Parliament to maintain its standards." It was a great misfortune when the people began to lose faith in their institutions. There should always be respect for men in public life.

"I hope to live on to see the practice of honesty fully restored." But this would not come "until we have a change in leadership in both the old parties."

Recent elections had shown neither leader was "able to secure the confidence of the electorate." New leaders "could restore prosperity."

He saw these main problems facing Canada:

—Federal - provincial relations were "mixed up to a very dangerous degree." Ottawa was dealing in areas that had once been the responsibility of the provinces. She should give the provinces all the "natural taxes," including corporation and personal incomes, and keep only sales tax and gasoline tax revenues.

INFLATION DANGER

—Inflation remained the most "insidious danger" facing Canada. The government must aim at balanced budgets in good times and reduced taxes in bad but in the last 10 "prosperous" years the budget had not been balanced.

—Labor unions had grown powerful and labor was big business but "the public interest in this country . . . should come first." The number of strikes was increasing and those within federal jurisdiction should not be tolerated.

—Canada had become "the most over-governed country in the world." At present federal departmental reorganization was not likely to be of value because government tend to feel they must "give the public everything at once."

—It was "anomalous" that the CBC spends some $100,000,000 a year "and there's no government control over its expenditures—not one little bit." He would have a minister responsible for CBC affairs, specifically its capital expenditures.

Senator Crerar closed on a note of hope for Canada and the opportunity of the 1967 centennial. "No country in the world can surpass us—not even the U.S."

Rylstone

RYLSTONE — Mrs. Clarence Thomson, one of the leaders of the C.G.I.T. group of the Springbrook circuit of the United Church and the C.G.I.T. girls from Rylstone: Ann Spencer, Marie Finch, Kathy Thomson and Suzanne Mumby attended the C.G.I.T. rally in St. Paul's United Church in Stirling recently.

On Tuesday evening the Canadian Girls in Training entertained their mothers at an evening of bowling at Springbrook bowling lanes and afterward served refreshments in the Springbrook United Church parlors which had been decorated for the occasion by the girls. Those attending from Rylstone were Mrs. Clarence Thomson, leader and Kathy Mrs. Harry Mumby and Suzanne; Mrs. Roslin Finch and Marie and Mrs. Robert Spencer and Sue.

Mrs. James Radcliffe entertained several ladies at a shower in her home at Havelock, in honor of Miss Carolyn Sherman of Campbellcroft, a bride-to-be on Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill McKown and Mark of Hamilton were weekend guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McKown and brother Paul.

Inside Story of Journalism To Get Funds for Press Club

LONDON (CP)—Fleet Street, in the words of Sir William Connor, is peopled by "the lovely nuts, the gorgeous crackpots and all the wonderful, generous, self-derisive folk who spend their lives making dirty great, black marks on miles and miles of white paper."

But Sir William, the master of invective who writes under the name of Cassandra in The Daily Mirror, also sees the fabled London newspaper world as "the best, the finest, the most furious, the most exciting bath of life that anybody could ever take."

This description, touching the heights and depths of newspaper row, is but a brief episode in the 219-page book Fleet Street, The Inside Story of Journalism published Wednesday by MacDonald to provide restoration funds for London's 85-year-old Press Club.

In a forward, Prince Philip acknowledges he has a reputation for "armed neutrality" with the press, a state "which is sometimes supposed to descend into open warfare."

"Our society would be less diverse and much poorer without the great range of papers and periodicals which we are still lucky enough to enjoy in this country," he adds.

SEES GREAT FUTURE

Sir Max Aitken, Montreal-born son of the late Lord Beaverbrook and chairman of the Beaverbrook newspapers, believes that despite radio, television and all the so-called menaces, newspapers have a great future. The big job ahead is to fight off "the encroachments on our free judgment by governments and bureaucrats."

Lord Thomson, Canadian-born publisher, sees technology revolutionizing the newspaper. While Sir Max considers color will have its place but will not be as important as some believe, Thomson believes the day will come when newspapers will appear in full color—and at heavy publishing cost.

Sir Max sees journalists as newsboys from top to bottom, for "we have something to sell." Thomson suggest journalists must be diggers, to dig out what is behind the news.

Gavin Astor, chief proprietor of The Times, writes that one of the "great strengths" of The Times "is that the editor is known beyond all doubt to have control of all editorial content and editorial policy in the paper and is answerable only to the chief proprietors of The Times, who alone are responsible for his appointment."

OPPORTUNITIES EQUAL

SACKVILLE, N.B. (CP)—Dr. J. H. Cragg, president of Mount Allison University, said Wednesday the United Church now gives women equal opportunity to work and make decisions within the church. He told the Maritimes conference of the church he is disappointed with the little attention paid to women in the principles of modern life and for the proposed merger of the United and Anglican churches.

Negotiations Will Resume In Strike Issue

MONTREAL (CP) — Negotiations aimed at settling an 18-day strike of longshoremen in Quebec's three major ports were to resume today at the request of federal mediator Judge Rene Lippe.

Meanwhile, officials of the Halifax longshoremen's association were to decide whether to obey a union order imposing a boycott on ships diverted from Montreal, Trois - Rivieres and Quebec City, the three strike-bound ports.

The strike, which involves 4,250 members of the International Longshoremen's Association (CLC), began May 9. It is costing shipping companies an estimated $1,000,000 a day.

The ILA and the Shipping Federation of Canada met Wednesday but issued no statement.

Negotiations resume at the request of Judge Lippe after the six ILA locals involved Tuesday rejected a "stopgap" settlement in the contract dispute.

The New York headquarters of the ILA (AFL-CIO) has ordered all longshoremen in North America to refuse to handle ships diverted from the strike-bound ports. Several such ships previously had unloaded at ports in New Brunswick or Nova Scotia.

5 Convicted Of Causing Disturbance

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Five persons were convicted Wednesday of causing a disturbance outside the Tilco Plastics Ltd. plant earlier this month.

Magistrate W. R. Philp fined Muriel Seabrook, a striker and Nona Edwards, a non-striking employee, $10 each. They pleaded not guilty to a charge of causing a disturbance outside the plant.

Susan Crary, 18, and Diana Blewett, 20, both striking employees, pleaded guilty to causing a disturbance and were each fined $10. They were fighting Margaret Tellier, 38, a non-striking employee May 3. Mrs. Tellier was fined $15.

Tilco Plastics, struck by the Textile Workers Union (CLC) Dec. 14, is still operating. The union members walked out in a dispute over a signing bonus.

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—Nine Ontario theology graduates were ordained into the United Church ministry here Wednesday night.

The service was part of the five-day Bay of Quinte conference of the United Church of Canada being held at Queen's University.

CAUSES SUITS

LONDON, Ont (CP) — The perfection demanded of doctors has resulted in more suits for malpractice, Toronto lawyer, D. K. Laidlaw, said Wednesday night. Mr. Laidlaw, counsel for the Canadian Medical Protective Association, told the Medico-Legal Society that legal actions involving doctors are increasing each year. He said the public is more informed and sometimes expects too much from doctors.

Air Line Workers Put Off Move to Strike Against Air Canada for One Week

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Air Line Employees Association has put off for at least a week any move to call a strike against Air Canada.

The independent union, representing 1,900 passenger agents and other ground workers, announced Wednesday that the membership had voted to reject recommendations of a federal conciliation board.

President Robert Dye said no further action could be taken until seven days after the recommendations had been read by the minister of labor.

If a strike is called, the union leader added, Air Canada's operations would be shut down and the cost to the company would amount to about $1,000,000 a day.

'KEEP AIRLINE GOING'

An airline spokesman declined comment on the cost figure but said: "I'm sure we'll keep the airline going the best we can."

Mr. Dye declined to release figures on the vote rejecting the conciliation report until members themselves are advised.

Mr. Dye said the union is seeking parity with employees of U.S. airlines operating in Canada, who earn more than $100 a month above their Canadian counterparts. Top salary for a passenger agent now is $478 a month.

The union originally sought a 10-per-cent pay increase retroactive to the end of the previous contract last November, and an equal increase in the second year of a two-year contract. It also wanted the work week cut to 37½ hours from 40, abolition of part-time work by outsiders and other concessions.

The conciliation board recommended a $150 payment to cover the period since the end of the old contract. It called for a 3½-year contract starting June 1 and providing for an immediate eight-per-cent increase plus a further seven-per-cent increase effective Sept. 3, 1967. It made no recommendation on the work week.

CHURCH WORTH MORE

The Lutheran Church in America had assets of $97,466,484 in 1965, an increase from $30,915,806 the year before.

Mayor Givens Threatened With Punch

TORONTO (CP)—An alderman Wednesday night threatened to punch Mayor Philip Givens in the nose for repeatedly interrupting him at a council meeting.

Ald. Charles Caccia was questioning Controller William Dennison about a motion and the mayor kept interrupting him, insisting that Mr. Caccia was making a speech when the rules allowed only questions.

After several interruptions, Mr. Caccia said to Mayor Givens:

"If you don't stop interrupting me, I'll come up and punch you in the nose."

The mayor only comment about the incident was: "I'm not going to sit around here for hours and listen to a bunch of idiocy."

EDITOR RETIRES

CHATHAM (CP) — Joseph Emmett, 71, former managing editor of the Chatham News, retired Wednesday after 46 years with the newspaper. Mr. Emmett, who was copy editor in semi - retirement since 1958, joined The News in 1920 as a cub reporter. He became managing editor in 1946.

U.S. Bombing of N. Viet Nam Has Fortified Public Morale

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP special correspondent

South Viet Nam is engulfed incessantly in turmoil while the Communist north seems free of it. Why?

How is it the northern regime under Ho Chi Minh appears able to escape political trouble and control its people, while southern regimes under various leaders, of whom Nguyen Cao Ky is the latest, seem incapable of doing so?

Probably there are several answers.

U.S. bombings of North Viet Nam appear to have fortified, rather than weakened, public morale.

Before the U.S. air offensive started, in February, 1965, the northern regime had 10 years virtually free from outside peril in which to organize and consolidate its rule.

There is no question in the north of Buddhist opposition as such. the religious situation there is much what it was in the south before the Buddhists started to organize politically against the Ngo Dinh Diem regime.

The local faith in the North was mostly a vague mixture of animism, ancestor worship, a deep imprint of Chinese Confucianism, and elements of Chinese Buddism. Under the Communists, Buddhists have had no chance to become a political factor.

This doesn't mean that there is clear sailing in the north in contrast to the south.

There is little doubt that there have been difficulties growing in North Viet Nam out of warweariness. earlier this year, politburo member Le Duc Tho severely lectured those who "entertain pacifism, slacken their vigilance and fail to get ideologically ready for combat."

The said party members were "too coercive with the masses." The party's prestige was hurt by this because "the greatest peril is separation from the masses." In some areas, he said, there was "a serious state of disunity."

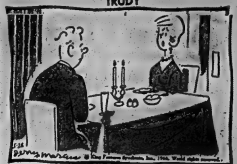
Correspondents admitted to Hanoi within the last year have suggested that U.S. bombings, putting the northerners' homeland under attack, have helped the Communists sustain morale.

Thousands of people now are in militia corps. Thousands are busy digging air raid shelters, manning defence posts, drilling. Air defence units, mobile repair teams and first aid groups are on the alert 24 hours a day. So many men are on duty, the party has reported, that 70 per cent of the industrial labor force now is made up of women.

The north, an area always poorer than the south, is accustomed to rural privations. All along, it has been on an austerity basis. Any disruptions in the economy due to bombings have had doubtful impact.

There is rationing in North Viet Nam of rice, meat, sugar and cotton, but there are no indications of extreme privation.

The northern regime has had a long time to organize. In the 21 years since Ho Chi Minh moved into Hanoi with the proclamation of a republic, a whole generation has been brought up to look upon him as the leader of free Viet Nam, the man who led the victorious fight against French rule.



Today, there are 2,300,000 children in the Communist Young Pioneers. The best get the title of "good nephew (or niece) of Uncle Ho." About 1,300,000 young people are organized in the Viet Nam Labor Youth Union.

When Ho was building his party and country, few of his followers cared that he called himself a Communist. He has been, to many in North Viet Nam, the father of their country. He identified himself with the peasants and championed them.

He was the first to organize a liberation movement in French Indochina at the end of the Second World War. Chiang Kai-shek's Chinese troops were in occupation in the North, charged with disarming the Japanese. They were reluctant to get out and by the time they did, and the French were on the way back, Ho was already well organized, with his Viet Minh guerrillas holding much of Tonkin.

Fighting against the French was high, and Ho had little difficulty in establishing authority among the Vietnamese.

The Communist structure was along the classical lines learned by Ho in the old days as Communist international agent. It is organized at village, district province, precinct and zonal levels in a pyramid that concentrates power at the top in the hands of the politburo. Once that was accomplished, there was little future in opposition to him.

"If the cutlets taste a bit funny—I had to use the fire extinguisher on them."

Quarter Century Since R. Hess Dropped From Sky Into Prison

By PETER BUCKLEY

LONDON (CP) — "I am Rudolph Hess. I am on a mission of humanity."

That melodramatic declaration by a captured German pilot began one of the most bizarre sideshows of the Second World War.

The deputy fuehrer of the Third Reich parachuted into Scotland in a grotesque bid to negotiate peace, on the very night German bombers were carrying out their heaviest raid of the war on London.

Hess's "mission of humanity" was doomed from the start. Britain was in no mood to negotiate. The Nazi hierarchy disowned him.

For the woeful central figure of this incredible show, the only pertinent result is that he now has spent more time in custody than any other Nazi war criminal.

Rudolph Hess is still in prison 25 years after dropping out of the night sky onto a Scottish farm. Now 72 years old, listless and apparently half demented, he may prove to be one of the few prisoners in modern times to serve out, literally, a sentence of "imprisonment for life."

The sudden arrival of the Nazi bigwig on Scottish soil May 10, 1941, caught both Germany and Britain flat-footed.

DESCRIBED AS MADMAN

For two stunned days neither side said anything, apparently unable to believe it had happened. Then each set about to salvage whatever propaganda advantage it could from the situation.

Germany contended that Hess was a madman suffering from the delusion that he could negotiate peace with Britain through a "spectacular individual gesture."

But the fact remained that the Nazis had lost one of the original pillars of their regime —Hitler's long-time supporter, a robust darling of the German mass rallies. Their insistence that Hess had been mentally weak for some time only made matters worse.

Britain for its part announced that Hess had come to warn the country against continuing the war and to open negotiations.

In fact, Hess told the British little in the way of German secrets, probably because he knew little. He had no apparent authority to negotiate. And his loss seemed to make no difference to the German war effort.

Post-war historians agree on most points about Rudolph Hess and his strange flight. One major question remains in dispute — whether Hitler knew of Hess's plans and encouraged him. Some historians say he did, others contend Hess acted on his own.

SERVED WITH HITLER

What is known is that Hess had planned for at least five months to make the flight. He gradually developed the mistaken belief that many Britons outside the Churchill government were willing to negotiate peace and then help Germany to crush Communist Russia. Among the fanciful grab-bag of names Hess collected was that of the Duke of Hamilton, dynamic heir to an ancient Scottish title. But the duke was a wing commander in the RAF, stationed near Glasgow at the time of Hess's flight, and his patriotism was unquestioned.

Hess's own background was slightly exotic. Born and raised in Egypt, son of a prosperous German import agent at Alexandria, he was sent to Germany in 1913 for education and army service.

He was wounded twice in the First World War, learned to fly and served in the same regiment as Lance - Corporal Adolf Hitler.

Later Hess became Hitler's first bodyguard and went to prison with Hitler in 1923 after the unsuccessful Munich putsch. There he helped put down Hitler's ideas on paper—the ideas that emerged as "Mein Kampf."

In 1934, after coming to power, Hitler made the beetle-browed, swarthy Hess his minister of state. He also became the chief Nazi party organizer.

Historian A. J. P. Taylor has contended that Hess was never much more than "purely decorative." Too unstable to be trusted with the grand decisions, he was deputized to make speeches, inspect troops and add galvanize the German people.

'BACK ON MONDAY'

By late 1940, showing alarming signs of eccentricity and increasingly ignored by Hitler, Hess began to think actively of ways to take Britain out of the war.

Early in 1941 he tricked plane manufacturer Willi Messerschmitt into fitting out one of his new short-range fighter planes with extra fuel tanks, a more powerful radio and other equipment. An expert flier, Hess made about 20 test flights in the plane.

Then on Saturday, May 10, 1941, he told his wife Ilse that he had to go to Berlin, adding: "I'll be back on Monday." They have not seen each other since.

At the Messerschmitt plant in Augsburg, South Germany, Hess told officials he was flying to Norway. Instead, with a map strapped to his knee and his pockets filled with drugs, he headed for the Scottish coast on a 900-mile flight to the Duke of Hamilton's estate near Glasgow.

Dodging a Spitfire off the coast and setting off frantic air-raid warnings as he went, Hess found the estate. He abandoned the plane and took to his parachute.

David McLean, a wiry plowman at a farm in Eaglesham, Renfrewshire, recalled recently Hess's first few minutes on British soil.

HEARD PLANE CRASH

Awakened by the sirens, McLean looked out his cottage window. "I saw a man dropping by parachute and heard a crash which I later learned was the Messerschmitt hitting the ground about half a mile away," he said.

The parachutist got tangled in his harness and I went out. I helped him out of the harness. He had hurt his leg on landing and I assisted him to the cottage.

"He said he was a German officer and his name was Horn, or something that sounded like that. He said he wanted to be taken to see the Duke of Hamilton. He was very polite. He sat chatting about the war and my mother offered to make him a cup of tea. But he refused."

Members of an anti-aircraft battery took him first to a Home Guard hut, then to a police station and finally to a military hospital in Glasgow.

It was only the next day, when the Duke of Hamilton was summoned from his RAF post to the hospital, that Hess revealed his identity and his "mission of humanity."

Hamilton flew to London to see Winston Churchill. For the prime minister, the news came as incredible fantasy at a time of chaos and suffering in the capital. At the same time Hess was being picked up, a massive fleet of Nazi bombers was blasting London, leaving nearly 1,500 dead, destroying such landmarks as the Queen's Hall, mecca for concert - goers, and damaging Westminster Abbey, the Houses of Parliament, St. James's Palace and the Tower of London.

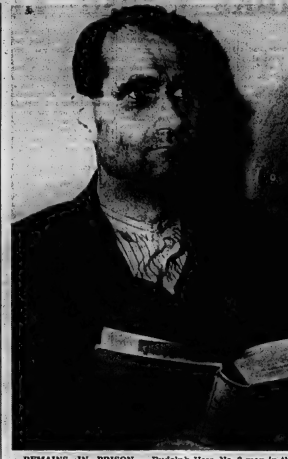
In the days that followed, Hess was interviewed by a series of top British officials, including Viscount Simon, then lord chancellor.

TERMS UNACCEPTABLE

Hess's terms included continuation of British rule in most of her colonies, recognition of continental Europe as Germany's "sphere of interest" and negotiations with Germany by a British government other than Churchill's.

The terms were patently unacceptable.

Hess was taken to the Tower of London for 48 hours, then to a guarded country house 40 miles from London and later to a military hospital near the Welsh border.



For long periods, he gave every indication of being demented. Psychiatrists who examined him reported morbid persecution complex, hypochondria, paranoia, split personality and suicidal instability. Towards the end of the war, he also went through a period of what the doctors insisted was heavy amnesia, although Hess contended later that he had been faking.

Between bouts of illness, however, he could appear fully sane. In one such period, he prepared a lucid statement of defence to be used at his trial.

At the war's end, Hess was flown back to Germany. After lengthy argument, he was declared legally sane and put in the dock at Nuremberg with the other major war criminals.

He was given a life sentence.

Rudolph Hess has been in the grim, red-brick fortress of Spandau prison, in the British sector of Berlin, ever since.

Blind Workers Walk Off Jobs For More Wages

TORONTO (CP)—George Little, the spokesman for 25 blind workers who walked off the job Wednesday at the Canadian national institute for the blind, says the men could not meet the cost of living with the wages they earned.

In an interview after the workers set up a picket line around a broom shop operated by the institute, Mr. Little said piece-workers made an average $25 a week and hourly-rated workers received $48 to $52 a week.

He said none of the employees has unemployment insurance, and deductions for the Canada Pension Plan have reduced the blind workers' take-home pay.

The workers are aware of their dependence on the institute for employment, but although they work in a sheltered shop, they are self-supporting, he said.

Demands include a 10-cent-an-hour increase for hourly workers.

Mr. Little said the institute has offered increases of $2.25 to $2.75 a week for piece-workers and a sliding scale less than 10 cents for hourly-rated employees.

William M. Mayne, the institute's personnel manager, said the broom shop that employs the workers is heavily subsidized.

"We cannot give them all they ask at this time," he said, "but we have made offers of increases with the intention of trying to improve the shop's efficiency."

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

According to a story by a Chicago hockey writer in the current issue of Ice Hockey News the Black Hawks will not stand pat for the 1966-67 season.

The story states: — In an effort to shake his team out of their perpetual second-place doldrums, general manager Tommy Ivan has declared that only Bobby Hull and Glen Hall are untouchable and chances are the Hawks will swing a few major deals before the new season gets under way."

It seems Ivan, Hawks owner Arthur Wirtz and coach Billy Reay are all upset about the Hawks not capturing the NHL title since everyone figured this was the Hawks year.

"Some players" the story goes, "have worn the red and black of the Hawks for the last time, but Ivan and Reay insist they won't trade just to trade."

The most glaring weakness in the Hawk armor - last season was the defence. Led by Pierre Pilote it was good enough to help Hall to the lead for the Vezina Trophy but hampered by Pilote's broken thumb and injuries to Ravelich, Vasko and Jarrett, it seemed to be his own worst enemy when the going got rough.

The story goes if the Hawks could swing a deal for a solid defenceman both Vasko and Al McNeill would be expendable. Any trade talk will most certainly include the mention of experienced defencemen.

Weakness down the middle was another reason the Hawks found themselves in second place. For all their scoring power they have only one first-rate centre, Stan Mikita. Esposito has not yet learned to play hockey at both ends of the ice.

The Hawks, the writer says, would be giving up a great deal of potential in Esposito but they definitely need a strong forechecking centre between Hull and Mahl.

The writer says Mikita's efforts were hampered by Doug Mohn's failure to lend the required amount of beef to the Scooter line. The absence of a policeman did lead the Hawks throughout the season. Mackellar's appearances often resulted in foolish penalties and Hall was just too involved with playing good hockey to frighten the opposition from taking undue liberties.

The third line of Lou Angotti, Red Hay and Eric Nesterenko was a fine defensive unit during the season. Hay and Nester were superb hitters though Nesterenko failed to get a short-handed goals this year as against the last season.

Angotti will never be a superstar, the story says, but he won his job with hustle and forechecking.

Goaltending is the one area with no worries. Hall has often been mentioned as tired of the pressure of bigtime hockey but he likes the salary the job pays and will probably stay around as long as Wirtz pays top dollar.

Reay is convinced that DeJordy and Dryden can carry the load and the need for an occasional Hall layoff will see them retained.

The writer says the pressure of Bobby Hull's ability will also be on the Hawks' shoulders as long as the Golden Jet continues to don skates. Each player on the team swore all season long that 58-goal record didn't mean a thing, but then proceeded to look for Hull instead of shooting and if obviously affected the team play.

In this corners opinion the Black Hawks of 1966-67 whatever and whatever they are won't have to worry about Hull shooting for records. He has them already and every goal scored next season will but add to the all-over total.

Nobody in the Black Hawk front office is fooling himself about the dismal Chicago finish; Montreal was the best team in the league and deserved all the honors. But the defeat by Detroit in the Stanley Cup semi-finals really rankled the brass and the odds are changes will be made for the immediate future so that the elusive NHL championship can find a home in Chicago.

British Empire Games

Track Coach Confident

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's track and field contingent to the British Empire Games at Kingston, Jamaica, in August can't say coach Paul Poce doesn't know what he's talking about.

Poce, 42, a former boxer from Toronto, runs right along with his athletes during daily workouts. He is able to beat some members of his Toronto Olympic Club.

"I want to run with these guys," he said. "I feel that a coach of any consequence should be there to experience what kids do. A coach loses something when he doesn't experience their indecisions, pain, frustrations and anxiety."

Among the athletes Poce has developed are runners Dave Ellis, Jim Irons and Abigail Hoffman, all of Toronto.

Poce feels Canada can improve on its performance in the 1962 Empire Games in Melbourne, Australia, when 17 track and field athletes won only one medal, a gold by Toronto's Bruce Kidd in the six-mile race.

THINKS CHANCES GOOD

This year, however, 30 and 40 athletes are expected to represent Canada in track and field and Poce feels there is a good chance for several medals, although he admits few of them will be gold.

"Shot put and discus men Dave Steen and George Puce (both of Toronto) are capable of placing high and so is pole vaulter Gerry Moro (of Trail, B.C.). Runners Abbey Hoffman, Roberta Picco (Toronto)- and Dave Ellis are also capable of bringing back some silverware.

"The real possibilities for gold medals lie with Bill Crothers in the half mile, Harry Jerome in the sprints and Nancy McCredie in the shot and discus.

"Crothers is from Markham, Ont., Jerome from Vancouver and Miss McCredie from Peterborough, Ont.

There is a chance that Jerome may not make the Games. He plans to take a summer course for his teaching degree.

Sam McDowell wasn't able to continue. Tom Tebbetts wasn't ready to take over. And Cleveland Indians are super Birdie Tebbetts wasn't about to give in.

But Kelley came in, Tebbetts gave in and Detroit Tigers caved in.

The Indians crushed the Tigers 13-2 Wednesday night despite the early departure of southpaw McDowell and Tebbetts' protest over reliever Kelley's lack of warm-up time.

McDowell, 4-3 on the year but winless since May 1, left the game in the second inning after straining a muscle in his pitching shoulder. Kelley was rushed in and relieved the side, then returned to the bullpen while the Indians were at bat.

The umpires called him back, however, and Tebbetts lodged his protest.

"They told me there was a memo put out this winter which said a pitcher could not warm up in the bullpen while he was in the game and his team was batting," the Cleveland manager said afterward. "I never saw it. I can't see any reason for it if there is such a rule."

The catcher's heroics overshadowed when Kelley proceeded to fan the Tigers on five hits while the Indians were pounding three Detroit pitchers for 18, including four singles by Chico Salmon and homers by Leon Wagner and Don Crandall.

Kelley, 22, a rookie, did not yield a hit until Norm Cash singled with two out in the fifth, and breezed to his second victory without a loss.

The victory increased the Indians' American League lead to 3½ games over the Tigers.

At New York, Mickey Mantle hit two homers in one game for the first time since August, 1964, driving in five runs and powering the Yankees to an 11-6 victory over California Angels.

TWINS BEAT BOSTON

Elsewhere, Minnesota Twins beat Boston 7-5 on Jimmie Hall's two-run homer in the 10th, snapping the Red Sox' winning streak at six; Chicago White Sox edged Baltimore Orioles 3-2 and Kansas City Athletics trounced Washington Senators 9-1.

McDowell walked three Detroit batters and hit Ray Oyler with a pitch in 1 2-3 innings before complaining of arm trouble.

The Indians scored all the runs they needed in the first inning when Vic Davalillo tripled, Max Alvis doubled and Wagner homered. Crandall connected in the second inning and Salmon contributed three run - scoring singles.

Gates Brown hit a two-run homer for Detroit in the eighth. Mantle rapped a two - run homer off loser Dean Chance in the first inning and hit his fourth of the year with two aboard in the sixth, giving him a lifetime total of 477 and eighth place on the all-time homer list. He went into the game tied with Stan Musial.

Two-run doubles by Elston Howard and Roger Repoz helped the Yankees record their high run total for the season and nail their sixth victory in the last seven games.

Al Downing picked up his fourth victory with relief help from Pete Ramos, who was credited for a three-run homer by Bobby Knoop in the sixth.

Hall homered off Red Sox reliever Dick Radatz in the 10th after a one-out walk to Harmon Killebrew. The Red Sox had scored twice in the seventh and then tied it in the ninth on Carl Yastrzemski's two-run double.

Killebrew belted a two-run homer and starting pitcher Jim Kaat delivered two more Minnesota runs with a pair of six-hitters. The White Sox, who had dropped eight of their previous 10 games, scored two runs in the seventh on a poor throw by Baltimore catcher Andy Etchebarren, filed a balk by pitcher Steve Barber for their margin over the Orioles. John Romano homered for Chicago in the second inning.

Ed Charles' first homer of the season sparked a three - run rally in the sixth that gave Kansas City the edge over Washington pitcher Joe Nossek followed with a single and Fred Talbot made it on a bunt. Wayne Causey's sacrifice fly scored Nossek and Ken Harrelson's double brought Talbot in.

Bobcats Defeat Bloomfield

One-Arm Pitcher Homers, Whiffs 14, Loses

By ROBERT SNEFJELLA

PICTON — Belleville Bobcats, boasting of a team made up of players from almost every town in the district, started the first inning with a four - run flurry and hung on to take a 7-5 decision over the defending B, and D, league champions, Bloomfield.

The winners got four consecutive hits from the top of the batting order to race into the early lead, and added three more markers late in the contest to stave off a pair of determined rallies by the home-towners.

The highlight of the night was a fantastic eighth inning home run belted by Carl Leahey. With his left arm in a cast, he swung with only one hand on the bat and lined the ball into the left-centre field for his round tripper.

Except for the fatal first frame, when Belleville stroked five hits, Stacey was hard to touch at the plate. He allowed only three singles the rest of the night, whiffing 14 batters in the seven.

On the opposing mound, Bob Lott threw third strikes past five batters, walked five and scattered seven hits, in the eight and two - thirds innings that he worked. Chair Leahey came in to relieve him in the eighth, struck out three, walked one, and gave up a lone safety.

In the first inning, singles by Paul Merww, Rick Locke, Terry LeSage and Paul Zakos, plus a double smashed by Hugh Brennan, accounted for the Bobcat's four runs.

Leo St. Denis walloped a triple just over the left fielder's head and added second to give the losers one run in the bottom of the first.

Bloomfield out the Bobcat margin to two when Keith MacDonald walked, went to third on a single by the Belleville battery and crossed home plate on St. Denis' single.

In the sixth, two base-loaded walks by an off-target lead to four runs and Bill Latchford rounded the bases two innings later on errors by Bloomfield and a single by Rick Locke.

Stacey's sparkling roundtripper in the eighth started a Bloomfield rally, but with the bases loaded Clair Leahey came through in relief.

Two errors by Belleville's first baseman and MacDonald's single carried the losers to within two runs of tying it in the ninth but again Leahey whiffed the remaining batter to end the game.

CAHA Delegates

Accept 'Peace' Proposal

MONTREAL (CP) — A proposal that could bring peace between the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and the National Hockey League was accepted Wednesday by delegates attending the CAHA's 50th annual meeting.

The motion, submitted by the organization's executive committee, calls for preparation of a memorandum outlining proposed changes in the current pro-amateur agreement.

The specific changes the CAHA will request from the professionals were not outlined at the general meeting. The membership agreed that details of the memorandum should remain confidential until a meeting with NHL officials can be held.

Lionel Fleury, of Quebec City, CAHA president, who helped draft the proposals with his executive Tuesday night, was absent from Wednesday's sessions. He was confined to his hotel room by a recurrent heart ailment and will be forced to remain there until the end of this week.

At last year's annual meeting in Victoria, the CAHA voted to terminate a pact signed with the NHL in 1956 for a 10-year period. However, the contract contained a clause which called for two years notice of termination by either party, holding the CAHA to the terms of agreement until June, 1967.

FUNDS KEY

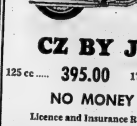
The controversy hinges on the distribution of the funds paid by the professionals for amateurs drafted to professional ranks and the pro sponsorship of amateur teams in certain areas of the country.

The meeting also adopted a motion requesting all branches to arrange for senior all-star teams under their jurisdiction to meet Canada's national team in a series of matches to strengthen Canadian representation in international tournaments.

CAHA secretary - manager Gordon Juckes of Melville, Sask., told of arrangements to hold a six-team international tournament in Winnipeg in January, 1967.

"So far we have invited teams from Sweden, Russia, Czechoslovakia and the United States to join in the tournament, and we have indications that all but Sweden will participate," he said.

In a move to make hockey safer at minor level, a rules committee recommendation that all players under the Junior A category be required to wear protective helmets was passed.



Centennial Hockey At Kingston

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association's project for next year's 100th anniversary of Confederation will take the form of a Canadian midget hockey championship.

The championship series will be held in Kingston on the Easter holiday weekend.

This decision was reached today at the 50th annual meeting of the CAHA.

Edmonton was chosen as the alternate site in the event that Kingston is unable to hold the tourney. In all, applications from 31 municipalities were received.

Astros' Rookie Orbits Four Clouts

Grandslam For Flood

By MIKE RATHEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Two weeks after he was fired as Houston general manager, Paul Richards purchased Dave Nicholson from Chicago White Sox holder for Astros' Oklahoma City farm club.

But Nicholson has been too busy blasting National League pitching to help Houston's entry in the Pacific Coast League. He drove in two runs with a homer, a double and two singles Wednesday night as the Astros downed New York Mets 7-1. His batting average now is .333.

During spring training, Nicholson cut down on the swing that brought him four major league strikeout records and a .203 lifetime average, started connecting more often and grabbed a job with the Astros.

Nicholson has collected 25 hits in 75 at-bats this season and has taken over fifth place in the NL batting race.

Elsewhere, Curt Flood hit a grand-slam homer as St. Louis Cardinals clubbed Chicago Cubs 9-1, Pittsburgh Pirates edged San Francisco Giants 3-2, Los Angeles Dodgers nipped Philadelphia Phillies 2-1 and Cincinnati Reds defeated Atlanta Braves 6-2.

BATEMAN ALSO HOMERS

Nicholson triggered a two-run second inning for the Astros with his double, drove in a run with a single in the third inning and hit a solo homer in the sixth inning. John Bateman also homered for Houston.

Flood capped a seven-run seventh-inning uprising for the Cardinals after Bob Tolan had put them ahead 3-1 in the fifth inning with a run-producing single. Flood's homer followed a two-run pinch-hit single by Bob Skinner and a wild pitch by Ted Abernathy that let another run score.

Matty Alou and Manny Mota teamed on their former San Francisco team - mates, slamming homers in the third inning off Bob Shaw for all of the Pirates' runs. Don Schwall and Roy Face combined to check the Giants on four hits, although each was tagged for a homer by Willie McCovey.

Chris Short, looking for his eighth straight victory at Dodger Stadium, had the Dodgers' shutout on six hits when Bill White's error opened the door with one out in the ninth. Tommy Helms' double and a walk to Ron Fairly loaded the bases, and one out later, Wes Parker stroked a two-run single that brought Don Drysdale the victory.

Milt Pappas recorded his fourth straight complete game victory for the Reds by holding the Braves to five hits. Cincinnati pulled ahead with a three-run fifth inning rally as Art Shamsky's sacrifice fly and two errors by second baseman Woody Woodward, each allowing a run to score.

Trades Backfire

Some Of The Big Ones Got Away

NEW YORK (AP) — Jack O'Donohoe, Matty Alou and Bill Hands have joined Frank Robinson in the ranks of deals their former owners would like to forget.

Milt Pappas' recent winning streak for Cincinnati Reds eased some of the pressure that had been building up on the Reds while Robinson was tearing the American League apart with Baltimore Orioles.

Robinson, traded during the off-season for Pappas, was hitting .330 with 10 homers after Tuesday night's play.

O'Donoghue has been unbeatable since Kansas City Athletics sent him to Cleveland Indians for Ralph Terry and a bundle of cash. Manager Birdie Tebbetts is having trouble finding a spot in his rotation for the Irishman whose last effort was a three - hit complete game against Chicago White Sox.

Kansas city let some good ones get away. Joe Santiago was sold to Boston Red Sox last October for a figure that probably was not much more than the waiver or draft price. The Puerto Rican has been the Red Sox's best pitcher with a 4-1 won-lost record.

San Francisco Giants, desperate for bullpen help, went after Joe Gibbon of Pittsburgh Pirates but gave up Matty Alou who has been leading the National League in hitting in recent days.

TRADED PAIR

In order to land relief man Lindy McDaniel and Outfielder Don Langrum from Chicago Cubs, the Giants had to give up Bill Hands and Randy Hundley.

Although the Cubs are buried in the cellar, Hands is manager Leo Durocher's top winner with four victories. Hundley, 24, has become the Cubs' No. 1 catcher. McDaniel has been so-so with a 2-2 record at San Francisco.

St. Louis Cardinals must be embarrassed by the Alex Johnson incident. When the Cards traded Bill White, Dick Groat and Bob Uecker to Philadelphia Phillies for Art Mahaffey, Pat Corrales and Johnson, it was Johnson who was to supply the Card power. The other day the Cards sent Johnson to the minors.

The Cards look better on the Orlando Cepeda for Ray Sadecki swap with the Giants. Cepeda is hitting homers and Sadecki is being hit hard.

The Cards-New York Mets deal turned out happily for both clubs. Charlie Smith is hitting .296 as the Cards' third baseman and Ken Boyer is hitting .267 for the Mets. Al Jackson has a 3-2 record as a Cardinal and a low earned run average.

Doug Ellis Pitches Perfect Game

Young Doug Ellis returned to the softball wars in grand fashion last night, pitching a perfect seven-inning game as Stewart Warner blanked Belvedere Hotel 3-0 under the lights at Alemite Field.

Ellis is a former Commercial League Pitcher who saw B. and D. League action before setting out last year.

He mowed down 21 consecutive Belvedere batters without a ball being hit out of the infield. He struck out eight batters. Pat Glancy was his catcher.

Stewart Warner got him two runs in the first and three in the sixth. Hits by Turner and Gee, two throwing errors and an infield out plated the first two. Ellis' triple ignited the sixth-frame rally. A two-base error, Rowbotham's double, another bobble and Glancy's single made it 5-0.

Ken Osborne was the starter and loser for the Hoolsmen, giving up four of the winners' five hits, fanning two. Jim Nichols finished up. There was not a base-on-balls in the game.

Doug Ellis' triple and Chuck Rowbotham's double sparked the Stewart Warner attack. Rod Turner, Gary Gee and Pat Glancy added singles.

This was the first Commercial League game at the new Alemite Field and it was completed in 51 minutes.

Cheesemen Defeat Lightfoots

A four - run outburst in the third inning provided Black Diamond Cheese with a 5-3 Commercial Softball League win over Lightfoot Construction, at Prince Charles School, last night.

Lightfoots held a 1-0 lead when the Cheesemen exploded. They made it 5-1 in the fourth and a Lightfoot rally was cut short at two runs in the seventh.

Ken Leveque scattered eight hits and as many walks to pitch the victory. He struck out seven.

George Young was the loser, giving way to Johnny French in the third. They gave up six hits, fanned six and walked five.

Ken Leveque sparked his own attack with a triple and a single and Black Diamond's only other extra - base hit was a double by Jack Douglas. Ross Kemper, Bob Cruickshank and Dale Foster belted singles.

Frank "Shiner" Murray hit a triple and single and Don Wood three singles for Lightfoots. Don Dolan, Jack "Deacon" Whiting and Joe Clapp hit singles.

Leafs Nip Chiefs 6-4, Jets Lose

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Maple Leafs, with only two victories in their last 10 games, have little to boast about but Bob Guindon is working out of his "good a game" label.

Guindon, who picked up the label around the International League last year because of his error total, played flawlessly Wednesday night and gave Toronto a 6-4 victory over Syracuse Chiefs with a two-run homer.

And the 23-year-old fielder, who has been moved from first base in an attempt to limit his miscues, also hit a sacrifice fly, drew a walk and filed out in his four trips to the plate.

Elsewhere, Richmond Braves defeated Columbus Jets 6-2, Buffalo Bisons shutout Rochester Red Wings 3-0, and Toledo Mud Hens edged Jacksonville Suns 3-2 in a game called after the fifth inning because of rain.

ACTIVATE TAYLOR

HOUSTON (AP)—Houston Astros of the National League have placed Toronto native Ron Taylor on the active list for the first time this year. Taylor has been out with a back injury.

Trap and Gun Results

The Quinte Trap and Gun Club's twice-a-week shoots are in full stride, each Sunday at 10.30 a.m. and each Wednesday, at 6.00 p.m.

Earl Marvin paced the pack last night with a perfect 25 score.

Herman Fires Fun

New Skipper Pulls Up Sox

BOSTON (AP)—Boston Red Sox are displaying a new attitude as well as a new look in their bid to regain respectability in the American League.

The country club atmosphere so prominent in recent years appears to have disappeared as the leadership of manager Billy Herman and outfielder Carl Yastrzemski, the team's first official captain.

"We're finally starting to jell," Herman said Wednesday. "We had hoped to get off to a good start, but didn't. However, the kids didn't lose their confidence and kept battling. Now a few things are going our way."

The Red Sox carried a six-game winning streak, their longest since June, 1963, into Wednesday night's game with Baltimore champion Minnesota Twins.

After finishing ninth last season, Jim-Bilked campaign despite a series of stiff fines clashed out by Herman—the Red Sox retained home, putting rid of half the team. A new look was installed with the emphasis on youth and defence.

In spring training, the players decided to police each other on and off the field. They elected Yastrzemski captain and the 25-year-old slugger cracked down immediately, banning card playing in the clubhouse before games and ordering other restrictions.

After Wednesday's play, Boston was under 10 games behind league - leading Cleveland Indians but only two games out of fifth place.

Latta Blanks Belleville In SH League

Latta whitewashed Belleville Acme Electric 8-0 in a South Hastings Baseball League game played at Latta last night.

The Belleville club is the former Victory Acme team.

Latta got strong pitching and hitting from Bob Smith and scored their runs in two, in the third and sixth innings.

Smith gave up five hits, all singles, struck out four and walked three on the Latta hillton.

Claude Carr and Keith Dickey in the third handled the Belleville pitching. They gave up nine hits, three off Carr who fanned two and walked two. Dickey struck out four and passed one.

Bob Smith stroked a double and a single and singled on the Latta attack. Ross Parks singled twice, Doug Chisholm, Gary Ross, Lynn Reynolds and Ernie Cronkright one apiece.

Glenn Reynolds had a pair of Acme safeties with one each for Don Masters, O'Neil and Archer.

THE ARNOLD Palmer Method

HIT STRAIGHTER SHOTS MORE OFTEN

3" 5"

GOOD SWING

The difference between the golfer who hits 50 per cent of his shots straight and the golfer who hits only 10 per cent straight often boils down to one factor:

Your ability to hit straight shots depends very largely on the distance your clubface travels while looking at the target in the hitting area (see illustrations). The longer your clubface looks at the target, the better chance you have to hit straight shots. If your clubface is turned only one degree off-line when it meets the ball, your drives may still finish on much on the 25-30 feet to the right or left.

Obviously, the object is to keep your clubface looking down the target line as long as possible.

The best way to achieve this is to avoid rolling your hands and forearms to the right or left on your backswing.

POOR SWING

When you roll them going back, you must perform the exact opposite maneuver coming through to return the clubface squarely to the ball. This is very difficult to do consistently.

It's much better to take the club back without any independent action of your hands.

How They're Biting

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Lands and forests rangers from various parts of Ontario report fishing at pickerel weighing up to nine pounds and speckled trout to six as the province's angling season moved into high gear this week with ice-free lakes, warm weather and heavy fishing pressure.

Big pickerel catches were be-ing reported from northwestern Ontario and the east, and speckled trout were biting well in most sections of Northern Ontario.

Rangers at most of the department's 32 district offices reported catches fair to good. Most popular and most successful bait seemed to be live minnows. Feather fly was also quite popular, especially in the north. There was no indication of the exact location where the biggest fish were being taken, or by whom.

The fishing conditions:

SOUTH

Lake Simcoe—Speckled trout fair to poor in streams in south Simcoe area. Pike and perch good to excellent in Georgian Bay from Midland to Collingwood. Pickerel and pike poor in Mile Lake. Rainbow trout and pickerel poor in Georgian Bay and Nottawasaga Bay outside the reaches of Collingwood.

EAST

Lindsay — Minnows, worms, spinners and plugs are all reported successful lure with fishing good. Pickerel fair in good in the Kawartha Lakes. Pickerel up to nine pounds have been reported from the upper Trent River. Pike good in Bradley Bay. Rainbow trout fishing fair, using worms as bait. Pickerel fair in most places, good in Jack's Lake. An 18-pound lake trout was taken on a troll in Chandler Lake, a five-pound brown in Eels Creek on worms. Rainbow and speckled trout poor to fair in Durham County, with spinners the best lures.

Tweed — Lake trout fishing "notably good" in Lamadie, Dickey and Walston lakes in Hastings County, and Palmerston-area lakes in Frontenac.

Speckled trout generally fair, but very good at Sullivan Lake in Frontenac and Madoc Creek in Hastings. Rainbow trout poor. Pike fair. Pickerel generally fair, but good at Bob's Lake, York and Mudweasha rivers, and Stoco, Moira and Crowe lakes. Pan fishing is good, with Baptiste Lake especially good for rock bass. Forecast for all species is fair to good.

WEST

Lake Erie—Fishing good at Mitchel's Bay, Lake St. Clair, Long Point Lake and Erie. Perch are good across the district. Pickerel good in the Aussable River and the Port Frank's area, using silver net spinners and worms. Pickerel expected to be good this weekend in Lake St. Clair, St. Clair River and the Detroit River.

Lake Huron—Speckled trout fair, yellow perch fair in Georgian Bay. Pickerel fair in Chesley Lake. Pike fair to good in Bruce County. Perch fair to good on the Lake Huron shore.

Crothers To Run On Coast

TORONTO (CP)—Bill Crothers, regarded as the leading middle distance runner in the world, has accepted an invitation to compete in the half-mile at the 27th annual Compton Invitational Track Meet in Compton, Calif., June 4.

The bespectacled pharmacist from Markham, Ont., emerged as the leading half-miler after defeating Peter Snell of New Zealand last June in an international track meet in Toronto. Snell, who has since retired, defeated Crothers in several races before that, including the 800-metre run in the 1964 Olympics in Tokyo. Crothers won a second-place silver medal in the event.

Crothers also said he may enter the half mile in the San Diego, Calif., Invitation Track Meet June 11.

Football Club Songs or Satires on Broadcasting All in Day's Work for Creative Edmonton Girl

By JANE BECKER

EDMONTON (UP) — When the Chamber of Commerce in Grand Prairie, Alta., wanted to know how to organize a beard - growing contest, they telephoned Peg Miller.

When the British Columbia Lions football team was in the market for a club song, Peg Miller wrote it.

And when the Canadian Association of Broadcasters wanted an hour - long satire on broadcasting for its March meeting in Montreal, a panic-stricken Peg Miller wrote one — and created a sensation.

Peg Miller is a tall, piercing - eyed blonde who for nearly 20 years has been a creative girl Friday at CJCA, an aggressive Edmonton radio station.

Friends call her a human dynamo, a born public relations woman, a remarkably talented and versatile artist.

Miss Miller isn't sure just what she is, but she does feel her mission in life is to make people laugh and enjoy life.

"I can't possibly describe my job. It may be the only one of its kind in Canada. At least I've never met my counterpart."

Officially, she supervises commercial productions at the radio station. Actually she spends only a fraction of her time doing that.

She writes song lyrics and scripts, prepares sample programs for the station's sales department, produces jingles and musicals for the station and other organizations, and represents CJCA on goodwill trips.

LAUNCHED BY POEM

It was a bit of her own poetry that got her the job. She worked as a switchboard operator at CJCA after arriving from her home in Marshall, Sask. A satirical poem she wrote would somewhat embarrassing her boss in the continuity department which she headed for several years. Gradually she developed a unique role for herself as a civic booster and chief enthusiasm-monger for CJCA.

She hasn't such thing as a typical day but here is how one progressed recently:

9 a.m.—Arrives at station. Letter from out-of-town station asks how to stage a school children's holiday talent contest such as the one she did at CJCA. Gathers details and replies.

10:30 a.m. — Meeting with sales staff reports assignments to produce a tape demonstrating the station's broadcasting philosophy for Eastern sales representatives.

11:30 a.m. — Chamber of Commerce at Grand Prairie phones to ask how to organize a beard-growing contest, similar to one run in Edmonton as part of the city's annual Klondike Days celebration. Miss Miller arranges to have lunch with Edmonton contest organizers to glean the information.

2:30 p.m.—To a hotel with the manager of the Edmonton Eskimos Football Club to help plan a giant public reception for the club.

3:30 p.m.—Begins composing three jingles for a prospective advertiser, working out ideas with the station's music director.

4:15 p.m.—Station president calls to ask her to prepare radio copy and enlist support of other stations for a tea being planned for a boys' home. Dictates letters and writes memos.

4:45 p.m.—Back to the sales desk, interspersed with several chats with staff from people asking how to stage Klondike parties.

5 p.m.—Home for supper with her mother.

FLAPPED PANCAKES

Peg Miller may not have invented Klondike Days, Edmonton's summer festival, but she probably has had as much of a hand in its success as anyone.

During one July, week the last three years she has donned Gay '90s garb to toss pancakes at 7 a.m. for the station's daily sidewalk breakfasts and to enlist passersby to take part in a sing-song.

Equally enthusiastic about football, she has written songs for Edmonton Eskimos as well as the one for B.C. Lions.

Miss Miller now is basking in new glory as writer and producer of musical variety shows as a result of the job she did for the Canadian Association of Broadcasters.

"I was more than somewhat panic-stricken when the broadcasters asked me to do it. A thing like that is so public. If it's a bomb, your career is wrecked."

Although she wrote the show in December, the equivalent of 2½ weeks of solid work, she first spent a week in Eastern Canada on research.

"This consisted of talking to people who knew the broadcasting personalities I wanted to write about and finding out about some aspects of the industry."

WROTE PARODY

One musical number was a parody Miss Miller wrote to the tune of When I Was a Lad from Gilbert and Sullivan's HMS Pinafore. One of the verses:

You have to know the BBG and also translate CBC

If you can't abbreviate, you'll never be One of the 19 directors of the CAB.

And finally, after many variations:

And when they die it's RIP For the 19 directors of the CAB.

Miss Miller shrinks neither from making fun of her industry nor, in a mild way, of some of the people in it.

Dr. Andrew Stewart, chairman of the Board of Broadcast Governors, was the subject of a rock 'n' roll song and one lyric in the show's slam-bang introduction noted that "as long as we can believe where anyone stands, the country's in the very best hands."

Miss Miller said the trick in writing a good personality song about people she didn't know was to unearth one personal fact about them—that most of their acquaintances would recognize.

"Sometimes you could talk to someone for hours and discover nothing. Other times someone would say 'Oh! You mean Charlie, who plays cribbage all the time,' and I had my song theme."

To compose her line on Gordon Love, president of CFCN Calgary who threatens to retire after a long career as a pioneer broadcaster, Miss Miller remembered he is an accomplished champion of private enterprise.

Gordon Love's from Calgary, a guy we all admire,
Just challenge private enterprise, then watch him breathe in fire,
He's ranted and he's bellowed, 'and everyone admits
We're gonna hate the silence when Gordon calls it quits.

In spite of the kick she got from writing the show, Miss Miller admits it was one of her toughest assignments. "It's not always easy to make a joke of a standard fact."

Faced with writing about Malcolm Neill, a Fredericton broadcaster she had never met, she found out that his station emblem was a seagull he had tried unsuccessfully to obtain a television licence in the Caribbean and his family had owned a hardware store for 106 years.

She was stumped until she ditched the hardware store.

Malcolm Neill from Fredericton's a man of influence
His emblem is a seagull and that makes a lot of sense.
He tried for television in that Caribbean clime
Was the decision to him what seagulls do to an from time to time.

At this point, Mr. Elton flicked some imaginary matter from his shoulder as he sang and Miss Miller and another bit.

She now is working on a shorter show for the Canadian Medical Association convention here in June on a voluntary basis.

Miss Miller doesn't know where it will all lead, but she is willing to play it by ear.

GIRL FRIDAY ALL WEEK LONG—Peg Miller has trouble defining her job at Edmonton radio station CJCA. Officially she supervises commercial production but actually spends more time boosting the town and the station. She organizes contests, writes songs to order and in March created a sensation with an hour-long satire on broadcasting written for the annual meeting of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters.

Read Zeros Shannonville

Read blanked Shannonville 7-0 on their home diamond last night for the clubs second South Hastings Baseball League win in as many starts.

Ted Abrams tossed a three hitter on the Read rubber, striking out a half a dozen and walking one.

Larry Lewis allowed just five hits for Shannonville, but the club had seven errors, to fanned five and walked four.

Wayne Pascoe clouted a double and single for Read. Ted Abrams and Pete Enright had two-base hits and Gerald Brennan hit a single.

Carl Boomhower, B. Rychman and Bill Barbeslock were the Shannonville hitters, each with a single.

AT THE BELLE — David Niven plays the most adventure filled role of his career as Dr. Jason Love, British espionage agent, in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's spine chilling thriller, "Where The Spies Are". The sultry new French sensation, Francoise Dorleac plays opposite as the mysterious fashion model who becomes involved in both romance and espionage intrigue. "Where The Spies Are" in Panavision and color in street-scenes locations in the Middle East, is now showing at the Belle Theatre in Belleville.

Olivia de Haviland Fits Gracefully in Parisian Life

By ROB THOMAS

PARIS (AP)—"Imagine dear, sweet Melanie banned in Britain!" said Olivia deHavilland in mock horror.

Melanie, of course, was the accident-prone lady of Gone with the Wind, which Miss deHavilland played with remarkable skill in 1939.

In more recent times she appeared in Lady in a Cage, a mobile tale of such horror that the British censor refused to allow it to be shown in the United Kingdom.

"I have absolutely no regrets about doing the picture," said Olivia. "I thought it was a treatment against senseless violence, and I was happy that the French critics agreed. In fact they raved so much about it that the film was booked into the London Film Festival; it will apparently be the only time Lady in a Cage will play in England."

The actress was commenting on career and other matters over tea in her home on Rue de Denouville near the heart of Paris. She has gracefully into the Parisian life. Although she was born in Tokyo of English parents and spent most of her girlhood and acting career in the United States.

WED EDITOR

She moved to Paris nine years ago, when she married magazine editor Pierre Gallanie. The marriage appears to have his ups and downs, but the continues her residence here.

"Pierrie doesn't speak any English as yet, but we are going to work on that soon," said Olivia of her daughter, a bright-eyed beauty of eight years who had just arrived home from school.

Benjamin, her 16-year-old son by a previous marriage, was off to school in Normandy, cramming for exams that would qualify him for college.

He has been more than a year since Olivia made her last film, Hush, Hush, Sweet Charlotte. She has averaged a film a year in recent times.

"And now the time is getting critical," she said. "I've started working on my needlepoint again, and I'm painting the canvases. I rattle about the house so that everyone wishes I would go back to work and return refreshed."

Film making has been such a habit to the two-time Academy Award winner that she can't live for long without.

AT THE BELLEVILLE DRIVE-IN — Hollywood artist Sam Norkin pictures Carroll Baker as fabled Jean Harlow in Joseph E. Levine's Technicolor and Panavision production "Harlow" showing tonight and Friday at the Belleville Drive-In Theatre. Via Paramount Pictures release, Carroll Baker, co-star-wise, are co-stars Michael Connors, Martin Balsam, Peter Lawford, Red Buttons, Raf Vallone and Angela Lansbury. 2nd feature attraction, also in color, "Breakfast At Tiffany's" stars Audrey Hepburn, George Peppard, Patricia Neal, Buddy Ebsen and Mickey Rooney.

Fainting Boy's Jaw Ousted General Talks With Ky Under U.S. Aegis

A 15-year-old Belleville Air Cadet underwent surgery at noon today for a badly broken upper jaw, sustained when he fell on the armories floor after fainting during the Air Cadet inspection Wednesday night.

In Kingston General Hospital is David Standing, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Standing, 56 Alexander St. His jaw is broken on both sides, he has a concussion, a chin laceration and he lost a number of teeth in the mishap, according to Mrs. Standing.

First reports were that he had suffered a broken jaw. This was denied by his doctor here yesterday morning but the boy was taken to Kingston General Hospital at 2.30 p.m. yesterday. A Kingston plastic surgeon, Dr. Wylie, performed the operation.

Mrs. Standing said David will probably be in hospital four or five days before being allowed to come home.

"The doctor will have to wire the jaw together," she said, "and he'll be on a soft diet for from five to eight weeks.

OUT ON FEET

"He told us yesterday that he hadn't been hearing any commands for a couple of minutes before he fell. I think he'd been out on his feet.

"It was terribly warm in the armories, and what with the tight shirts, the standing at attention for a long time and the tension of a thing like that, I guess it was just too much for him.

"I hope the next time they have a parade they'll have it outside."

Mrs. Standing said David may be able to go back to school in a couple of weeks time "he will have to walk gently there and gently back.

"David had his summer all planned. He was going to help the elderly gentleman next door in the garden and go to his cabin with him."

"He sure had a lot of fishing planned."

SAIGON (AP)—The leader of the rebellious South Vietnamese Army forces in Hue, Lt.-Gen. Nguyen Chanh Thi, was flown under a U.S. garnishe of safety today to a secret meeting with Premier Ngoyen Cao Ky.

Ky flew from Saigon to meet his bitter rival as U.S. planes evacuated 42 Americans, Canadians and other foreigners from Hie and the Buddhist stronghold's pro government mayor moved out of the city with 1,000 loyal troops to fortified headquarters five miles southeast of Hue.

Ky and Thi, whom the premier had fired as commander of the army's 1st Corps March 10, met at the U.S. 1st Marine Division's headquarters at Chu Lai, about 55 miles south of Hue.

Ky's dismissal of Thi, who controlled South Viet Nam's five northern provinces, precipitated the country's present political crisis. Buddhist leaders acted to support Thi and their influence caused in the north and converted it into a movement demanding the military government's replacement by a civilian regime.

HOPE FOR SOLUTION

U.S. officials had tried before without success to get Ky and Thi together in hopes some agreement could be ra a step which might lead to an easing of the political crisis.

A U.S. plane brought Thi from Hue to Chu Lai to meet Ky. He flew him back to Hue after the meeting.

There was no immediate indication of what transpired between the two generals.

There were reports that other members of Ky's ruling junta were present.

The evacuation of Americans from Hue, 400 miles north of Saigon, followed the bursting of the U.S. Information Service library there Thursday by a mob of Buddhist youths. A U.S. spokesman in Saigon said the attack on the mob to flight.

House Critical Of Tolls

By DENNIS ORCHARD

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons Thursday put a booster to a political rocket aimed at the tolltaxi.

In a rare emergency debate, three Liberals joined a near-unanimous Conservative protest against proposed increases in St. Lawrence Seaway tolls.

The issue will become the cabinet's baby by July 1, when the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority is required to specify what revisions it wants on seaway tariffs. The final decision belongs to the government.

The authority has just completed public hearings in Ottawa on its proposals to levy lockage charges at the Welland Canal and to raise tolls between Montreal and Lake Ontario by 10 per cent.

Earlier in the session, Speaker Lucien Lamoureux turned down Conservative bids for emergency debates on farm machinery prices and CBC problems over the television program This Hour Has Seven Days.

In allowing discussion of the tolls, he acknowledged there to be a matter of "urgent national importance."

Reg Castelain (PC—Kinderley), who sought the debate, said the toll increase would cost western farmers 4½ cents a bushel for wheat shipped through the seaway.

AFFECT INDUSTRY

Ontario MPs were concerned about the effect of higher tolls on secondary industry.

Increased shipping costs would send up costs of production and the cost of living, said Opposition Leader Diefenbaker.

Canada's $364,000,000 seaway on which tolls are intended to pay off in 30 years, was set down mentioned in the debate.

But John Turner, minister without portfolio who spoke for absent Transport Minister Pickersgill said the government is amortize the debt is the key issue.

The cabinet would have to decide either to order the toll increase and thereby stick to the existing seaway agreement, or drop the idea of ever paying back seaway construction costs.

He said the consequences of seaway subsidization would be to imperil the balance of competition among various transportation media. And such a decision could upset regional economies of Hamilton, Quebec, Ontario and the West.

Three MPs said the capital cost of the seaway should never be recovered anyway. Four MPs said all seaway tolls should be removed.

'BE OWN MASTERS'

Joe Macaluso (L—Hamilton West) said the seaway is the only waterway with tolls in North America. "I suggest that we should proceed to complete an all-Canadian seaway and be masters of the seaway. . . ."

Stuart Keate Tosses Ball Into Lap of CBC Board In Television Dispute

By TOM MITCHELL

OTTAWA (CP) — Stuart Keate wrapped up the This Hour Has Seven Days television dispute in 4,500 words Thursday and came to this conclusion :

. . . What has been inelegantly defined as 'the gut issue' remains: the CBC president and board, at an April 22 Halifax meeting, reviewed the cases of Patrick Watson and Laurier LaPierre and confirmed a decision not to renew their Seven Days contracts."

But Mr. Keate, publisher of the Vancouver Sun who took leave of absence to study the dispute at the request of Prime Minister Pearson, in a report on the situation suggested four steps to help clear the air in the dispute between producers and CBC management.

His first recommendation was that there be established a board of directors to review the questions of "due process" and "cogent reasons" behind the decision not to renew Mr. Watson and Mr. LaPierre as Seven Days hosts.

He noted the CBC has stated it will not negotiate on this matter. But he said board of directors "would be a useful device" to help CBC board decides.

Mr. Keate also noted that a "crucial principle" which should improve future relationships between management and the program producers had been agreed to by the CBC. Producers had stated that this was giving written formality to an "unwritten agreement" reached between them over the past two years before the dispute blew up over Seven Days.

CONSULT ON CHANGES

W. E. S. Briggs, senior CBC vice-president, confirmed there had been an agreement that no changes in program personnel would be made without the consent of the executive program producer, Mr. Keate added.

This is spelled out specifically in the new written agreement.

Mr. Keate's three suggestions.

The first recommendation tossed the ball into the laps of the CBC board, which holds a regular monthly meeting today in Ottawa. Tom Koch, president of the producers' group, said any action on the part of producers would depend on what the CBC board decides.

Mr. Keate also noted that a "crucial principle" which should improve future relationships between management and the program producers had been agreed to by the CBC. Producers had stated that this was giving written formality to an "unwritten agreement" reached between them over the past two years before the dispute blew up over Seven Days.

Railwaymen Say Computer Cannot Add

MILWAUKEE, WIS. (AP) — Milwaukee road switchmen staged a four-hour strike in Chicago and Milwaukee Thursday night because, they said, the railway's pay cheque computer can't add.

The walkout snarled switching operations at freight yards in the two cities, but did not affect movement of any passenger or freight trains on the main lines.

The strikers blamed a payroll computer installed two months ago.

"One guy said he had $300 coming, for example, and he got $11 on his cheque," said a switch yard worker.

Legal Aid Will Be Provided

TORONTO (CP)—The attorney-general's department plans to introduce this year a system of providing free legal aid for persons who can't afford to hire lawyers.

Legislation introduced in the house Thursday by Attorney-General Arthur Wishart would cover criminal and civil cases, would be run by the government and administered by the Law Society of Upper Canada.

In other business:

See Report Giving Time For Healing

OTTAWA (CP) — Some observers close to the CBC management-producers dispute regard the Stuart Keate report as "a holding action" to allow the healing hand of time to take effect.

This view holds that by not coming down heavily on either party, it may prevent precipitate action by both.

The sampled observers also feel the report—non-committal in tone—may have some appeal for the moderate wing of the Toronto Producers Association, where the nub of the discontent lies. If anything, they say, the tone of the report favored the producers rather than management.

OPPOSITION DEVELOPS

There were signs of developing opposition by members of the Commons broadcasting committee to the suggestion they get on with something else.

David Lewis (NDP — York South) said he, "politely and firmly" throws the suggestion back to Mr. Keate.

Mr. Lewis expects the steering committee of the broadcasting committee to discuss its future today. The whole matter likely would come up at the next scheduled session on Monday.

Political insiders were unsure about what would happen in the wake of the Keate report. Or said he would be surprised if the CBC board reverses its Seven Days decision at today's meeting or any other time.

Another view is that the longer things carry on without desperate action by either side, the less likely any will occur at all. The issue might eventually fade away with accommodations on both sides.

New Demands Are Made By Quebec Longshoremen

MONTREAL (CP)—The Shipping Federation of Canada will report today on a new slate of demands presented to federal mediator Judge Rene Lippe by the International Longshoremen's Association (CLC) late Thursday.

The union and the federation held a full day of negotiations with Judge Lippe Thursday in an all-out effort to end the 20-day strike by 4,250 longshoremen which has tied up the ports of Montreal, Quebec and Trois-Rivieres.

The new demands were submitted to Judge Lippe after the regular sessions ended and they were in the hands of federation negotiators by 9 p.m. EDT. A union spokesman said Judge Lippe instructed the federation to report on them by 11 a.m. EDT today.

The spokesman indicated the union expected agreement on the contract today.

He said the point now holding up an agreement deals with the federation's plans to cut down on the number of men in each gang working the waterfront.

T. B. Gleason, international president of the ILA which has head office is in New York, said here Thursday it is the policy of the ILA "never to allow unilateral reduction of work crews."

Negotiations between the union and federation opened Wednesday for the first time since the strike started.

ILA headquarters Wednesday instructed longshoremen in all North American ports not to handle cargo on any ship diverted from the strike-bound ports.

Union spokesmen said the main reason for the walkout was the salary dispute in the new negotiations for a new working agreement. The last contract expired Dec. 31.

The shippers estimate the ILA's crippling tieup is about $1,000,000 a day. About 150 ships are tied up here.

Grain elevator workers were turned back by pickets There day and trucks were not allowed through to pick up grain. Some work has been going on at the waterfront grain elevators but the majority of members of Montreal world's fair has been slowed as construction materials have been delayed in shipment. Work has been affected on the Japanese, Russian, Belgian, West German and French pavilions.

'Not Much That Is New,' Watson Says of Report

SASKATOON (CP) — The Keate report on the dispute over This Hour Has Seven Days "didn't say much that was new and there is no reason why the CBC should pay any attention to it," Patrick Watson said Thursday.

Mr. Watson, dismissed with co-host Laurier LaPierre from the CBC television program, was in Saskatoon to participate in the city's anniversary celebrations.

He was commenting in an interview on the report of Stuart Keate, Vancouver publisher, on the CBC producer-management dispute that arose over the dismissal of himself and Mr. LaPierre.

On the basis of an early story from Ottawa, Mr. Watson had remarked that the report appeared to be "a very good report."

Informed of a subsequent story, he said it seems to him that Mr. Keate now is saying in effect that there "is a helluva mess in producer-management relations in the CBC.

"And that's something that we already knew—that everybody knew.

"It doesn't seem to me that very much that's new has been added in that a review of the 'process' and the 'reasons' and the 'cogent reasons for statement' won't in itself satisfy the producers unless it leads to some kind of action."

He was referring to a recommendation by Mr. Keate that there be a board of directors re-examine the "due process" aspect and the "cogent reasons" behind the dismissal of the two hosts.

Asked about the future of Seven Days, Mr. Watson said: "The Keate report seems to toss the ball right back to the producers' association."

Asked about his own future, he said he wasn't giving any thought to leaving the CBC.

The Keate report said Mr. Watson was considered the English language host best equipped to handle a new program, Quarterly Report.

Mr. Watson was asked if he would be prepared to work on this program. "It would depend on who I had to deal with," he replied.

Mass Resignations Forecast By Leiterman After Comment

TORONTO (CP) — Douglas Leiterman, executive producer of This Hour Has Seven Days, said Thursday night that if the CBC board does not reconsider the firing of the program's hosts Laurier LaPierre and Patrick Watson, mass resignations may become inevitable.

Mr. Leiterman's comment followed a statement by investigator Stuart Keate that it was incorrect to interpret a report he made to Prime Minister Pearson on differences between the CBC management and its producers as a recommendation that the CBC re-examine the dismissal of the Seven Days hosts.

Mr. Leiterman, 34, said he issued a statement saying: "The key recommendation asks the CBC board of directors to reconsider the firing of LaPierre and Watson. Management's refusal to reconsider the dismissals has been the main stumbling block."

Mr. Leiterman added, after receiving the report of Mr. Keate's later statement in Vancouver :

"Like others I thought Mr. Keate was recommending that the CBC board reconsider the firing of the hosts. If the board does not reconsider it I fear the whole matter will be back where we started and mass resignations may become inevitable."

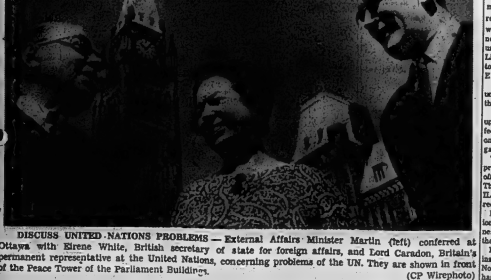
Supermarket Embryos Predicted in 10 Years

BRISBANE, Australia (Reuters)—Women should be able to choose the babies to order, in 10 to 15 years, after picking the day-old human embryos off a supermarket shelf, an Australian biochemical expert predicted Thursday.

Dr. R. G. Hafez said the embryos would be guaranteed true to label for sex, intelligence, colour of hair and eyes.

The women would go to their doctors for implants.

This is being done normally with animals, only the theological and sociological implications are stopping its rapid adoption to humans, said Hafez.



Hafez, from Washington State University, is working at Sydney University veterinary physiology department.

He read a paper at the Australian Biochemical Congress in Brisbane on embryo transplant work, which he has been carrying out on rabbits in Sydney.

In an interview later Hafez said the system he developed was one of selective breeding of humans, or control of human genetics.

"It would work this way," he said. "Wife A is genius—is fertilized by husband B who is a genius. A fertilized egg from A is implanted in a woman C and at the end of nine months she has a baby which will be a genius."

Hafez said work is proceeding in a bid to find a method for a non-surgical implant of a "obtained embryo" inside the woman who would actually bear the child.

Planning Board Opposes City Paying for Roads Of Access to Subdivision

Belleville and Suburban Planning Board is opposed to the city's method of acquiring roads in industrial subdivisions. Last night, at its regular meeting, the Board decided to register an objection to Council's plan to pay for all roads in a new industrial subdivision near the south west corner of Sidney Street and 401 Highway.

Council has said it will pay for the access road off Sidney St. required to open up a portion of land owned by Mr. and M. Developments. The developers are selling the parcel to Bishop Seeds Limited for an extension to their business.

In objecting to Council's proposal, Mr. G. G. Bussey said it was normal procedure for a subdivider to acquire access roads himself, not for the city to provide them. He recommended that this be drawn to Council's attention by letter.

Speaking in support of Mr. Bussey's motion, Alderman Don Lees said the Board's action was not the intent of Council's previously discussed policy.

"The Board will recommend that the entire 40-acre parcel owned by L and M Developments be placed under a registered plan of subdivision. Once a subdivision plan is accepted, all roads marked on the draft become the property of the municipality.

LIMIT OFFICES

The Board repeated its recommendation of last month that a by-law be passed to limit offices in residential areas to those operated by medical practitioners in their own homes. Following objections by a group of lawyers, who charged discrimination, City Council tabled the bylaw change and sent the issue back to Planning Board for further study. The board decided to stand by its first recommendation.

Discussion on a street-naming policy took up a major portion of the Board's time. Final decision was that future streets be named for deceased mayors of the city, if possible. The decision was made despite a warning issued by Mr. Bussey.

"I foresee all kinds of trouble later on if Council doesn't give a mayor's name to a street which the descendants think is not suitable to be a memorial to him," Mr. Bussey said.

Despite the suggestion from Mr. Bussey that descendants of the earliest mayors might be impossible to trace, the Board recommended that permission be sought from a city father's family before his name was put on the map.

House With Historical Interest Could Serve Many Useful Purposes

Some large local house with historical interest which has plenty of lot area could serve a dual purpose as the Hastings County Historical Society and for the Belleville Parks Board.

The historical society will soon be in need of new museum quarters and there is a feeling that some large local house with an interesting history might fill the bill.

And if the house had sufficient lot area it could also be used as a recreation area for the several local monuments now scattered about the city.

At least this is the thought of Alderman Don Williams, chairman of the city parks board, who is on the lookout for some suitable spot where local monuments and other large items of historical interest may be relocated.

Specifically, Alderman Williams is looking for a new home for the United Empire Loyalist "log cabin" monument on Firemen's Park, and also for the old fountain removed from the same park last year to make way for storm sewer construction.

The old fountain is now at Foley Foundry on Wallbridge Crescent where it has been put in good condition.

But, according to Alderman Williams the problem is where to put it.

Before the proposed Dundas Street road and bridge building project gets underway, the UEL monument on Firemen's park will also have to be moved.

The feeling of Alderman Williams is that some old Belleville home might be acquired, which would serve both as a museum and as a site for relocation of the city's monuments.

"So far," Ald. Williams says, "it is just an idea of my own as it hasn't been officially taken up by the parks board."

There's the house to be paid off, as well as a new car, a washing machine, and maybe even a color TV set. The judicious use of Reader's Digest takes a look at how people — and governments — are keeping their budgets these days. Is it as irresponsible way to live as the only way? You can learn all about the new attitude toward 'getting into debt' in the new Reader's Digest, on your newsstand today.

Comrades, a great number of events will soon be taking place in the club, but, the greatest of them all will be the inauguration evening that is being planned to officially install the title of "The Duke of Edinburgh" to the unit.

This weekend the unit band will participate in the International Goodwill Day parade at Alexandria Bay. The pipe band, under winners of the parade trophy, will, in addition to retain this trophy, enter into the grandstand competition against bands from both sides of the border, in an attempt to bring back another trophy. This year, a color party, under the leadership of Pat Boyle, will also be on parade. The boys have worked hard in preparation for this occasion and we wish them the best of luck in their great ventures.

Ross Blaind and his sports teams will be travelling to Toronto on June 4th to offer a challenge in the annual provincial sports meet.

Jack (Fitz) Fitzgerald is busy preparing a spring dance to be held on Friday, June 3rd. Tickets are on sale at the club, come. Bring another couple and join the gang in all the fun.

The 48th Highlanders are expected on the weekend of June 11th, for those of you who have never attended one of their visits, all I can say is, you don't know what you're missing.

Did you know? That the Activity Reunion will be held in Belleville this year? It is scheduled for the weekend of June 4th.

Did you know? That every Friday and Saturday evenings are lady social and sports nights in the club. Of course on down and bring the little woman.

Missionaries Said Facing New Challenge

KINGSTON (CP)—The Christian missionary working in the Orient faces a new challenge from religious sects which have developed since the Second World War, Rt. Rev. John Howe, moderator of the United Church of Canada, said Thursday.

He told 400 delegates at the annual Bay of Quinte conference that people in the Far East are turning to these new religions because of certain emotional satisfaction offered, such as beautiful churches and schools.

"These religions provide a service for the people first, then teach them the doctrine after," he said. "The teachings are conducted in the simplest language possible."

Mr. Howse, recently returned from a tour of the mission fields said there now are 385 different religious sects in Japan, but about one-third of Japan's population is agnostic.

60 Per Cent Reply to Recent Survey

TRENTON — A spokesman for the Community Assistance Committee, Mr. W. F. Anderson, said today results from the recent Better Living Survey mailed out during the week by the association had been better than 60 per cent.

Mr. Anderson expressed her thanks to the people of Trenton for their interest.

When all of the 340 canvassers have reported the results will be compiled by association members, assisted by administrative commissioner J. Alan Smith. Then, the results will be sent to the Ontario Welfare Council which will make recommendations to the association. The association, in turn, will make recommendations to Trenton council or to welfare or recreational bodies involved.

Any unanswered questionnaires may be mailed to Mrs. Anderson at 80 Third Ave. or in the box at Fred Love, 75 Canal Street.

Meanwhile, the Used Clothing Depot on Front Street, run by the association, will open its doors within two weeks. The depot was in the process of being moved from Quinte Street to Front Street when the association members had to start their survey canvass duties.

Volunteers to assist at the depot may phone Mrs. Anderson at 392-8856.

Blocks Entry to His Property

TRENTON — The Trenton Public Utilities Commission has blocked through its lawyer, Wm. G. Weston, a warrant, which will permit workmen from the Mel Wilhs Construction Company to enter upon land owned by Jack Alyea in Murray Township for the purpose of clearing the land.

Wednesday, workmen were frustrated by Mr. Alyea when they attempted to start work on the strip of land, (12.8 acres), which lies between the town and a water storage pond site. The remainder of the land has been cleared, and work is at a standstill.

The Town of Trenton started expropriation proceedings earlier this month when the PUC and Mr. Alyea failed to come to an agreement about the price of the land. The expropriation bid was denied by a Toronto judge on the grounds that the PUC should have been the body to institute the proceedings. The PUC immediately entered an appeal against the ruling.

Name E.M. Parker of Trenton Head of Quinte Riding P.C.'s

FRANKFORD — E. M. (Ted) Parker of Trenton will head the new Quinte Riding's Progressive Conservative Association. He was named president of the association at an organizational meeting held last night at the Masonic Hall here. Altogether, seven executive positions were filled and all nominees took office by acclamation. Secretary W. D. Whidley of Trenton was returned to office. Mr. Whidley received two nominations, simultaneously, from eager supporters.

The other members of the executive are: Gerald Joyce of Belleville, first vice-president; Harry Wickson, Frankford, second vice-president; Mrs. Agnes Yorke, Belleville, third vice-president; Mrs. Leslie Pinkos, Foxboro, fourth vice-president and John Weese, Bells Mills, treasurer.

Nominating Mr. Parker for the presidency, Mr. Joyce described the Trenton businessman as "an able individual who is active in his community. Ted Parker is a good Tory and he'll make a good president."

Mr. Parker declared: "The next time we go to the polls, we'll have an excellent candidate, no matter who it is."

He said the work of organizing should start at once and suggested a committee be formed to begin planning for a convention to be held at a future date.

NEW RIDING

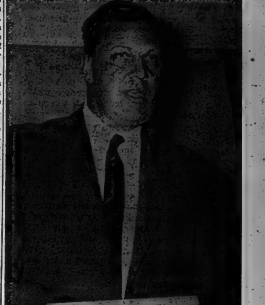
The Quinte Riding, a product of the recent Provincial redistribution, includes the City of Belleville, Trenton, Frankford, and all of Sidney township.

Dr. R. T. Potter of Belleville, president of the West Hastings Progressive Conservative Association for a number of years, was present for the night's meeting. He urged those present to give their support to the new riding association. Dr. Potter had enjoyed being president and was "proud of the way you carried out the duties." W. E. Sandercock, M.L.A., Hastings West) election such a tremendous success."

He introduced Mr. Sandercock, Charles Rollins, M.A., Hastings East) Progressive Conservative Member, Mr. Parker, A. W. Downer, M.L.A., Dufferin-Simcoe, and Mr. Whidley.

Mr. Rollins spoke briefly. He observed that it was a pleasure for him to represent a portion of the City of Belleville "in the present riding of East Hastings." He said he was looking forward to the formation of the new organization.

In his opening remarks, A. W. Downer paid tribute to Mr. Sandercock as a "particularly good representative and a hard worker," and to Mr. Rollins as "one at it as long as Sandy but he's made a remarkably good contribution and will continue to do so."



In his address, Mr. Downer said: "We've made tremendous advances since coming into power in 1943 but we don't tell our story often enough or loud enough.

"We could do a great deal since in Ottawa than is now being done. Minority government? They've got more to work with than we had in 1945."

STRESSES EDUCATION.

Turning to education, he said "Everything depends on education. We need skilled people these days. We had a good year than $800,000,000 in grants for education this year, compared to $14,000,000 in 1945."

Regional Government

A geographical — rather than political — view of the requirements of regional government in the Central Lake Ontario region which includes Belleville, is one outcome of a meeting in Sherbrooke, Quebec.

Dr. Hans Carol, chairman of York University's geography department, told the annual convention of the Canadian Association of Geographers that the 10 areas where Ontario has set up associations to promote economic growth "are not the best regions for the purpose the government has in mind."

Because studies have revealed that the Central Lake Ontario region "has no uniformity whatever" (for example, with regard to agricultural, forestry, mining and recreational resources), Professor Carol proposes that instead of one unit for regional development in the area there should be at least two. These would be centred around the growth areas of Peterborough and Belleville.

The York professor envisages Peterborough, Belleville and Kingston each being the regional centre for three counties, while Oshawa, because of its proximity to Metropolitan Toronto, should be incorporated in the latter region.

Professor Carol believes if this principle is followed throughout Ontario, 15 to 20 regions might result instead of the present 10 "and might eventually replace the 53 counties and hundreds of townships in which the province is presently divided."

The geographers have performed a useful service in bringing their views on regional government to public notice. Their findings are indicative of a need for greater co-ordination between government and professional bodies such as their own.

When the boundaries are finally defined they are likely to reflect some compromise between political and geographical interests, but it is clear that geographical considerations cannot be ignored.

Professor Carol indicated as much when he said he considered it "a genuine geographic task to designate the cities which are best suited to fulfil this function and to define their tributary areas," and the same time acknowledging any decisions must be left to the government.

Auto Safety

Ontario's assumption of powers to require safety devices on motor vehicles and minimum standards for tires is a step in the right direction in face of the mounting dangers on the province's highways.

The powers will not be put into effect right away, but are contingent upon auto manufacturers agreeing to install devices suggested by the Department of Transport.

"If they (the manufacturers) don't move quickly enough in this way, then the province can act," a department official is quoted as saying. Ontario Transport Minister Irwin Haskett has been discussing with auto company presidents the possibility of building into their cars such safety devices as four-way flashers to flash all stop lights and turn lights when a car is stopped on the highway and a back-up system of brakes if the main system fails.

Amendments to the Highway Traffic Act introduced by the minister the other day also require vehicles approaching from both directions to stop for school buses, and make it illegal to operate a motor vehicle when the windshield or windows are covered by snow or frost.

These are all useful provisions, but the one great problem seems to be the increasing number of cars on the roads, allied to recklessness on the part of many drivers, particularly those in the younger age groups. Until these problems are solved, possibly by the further improvement of highway facilities and by greater emphasis on driver training, so long will the accident toll mount.

Broken Glass

Dandelions are not the only thing that abound in the early summer days.

Everywhere one goes, the streets and sidewalks are littered with glass. Well maybe not everywhere, but the stuff is scattered around in sufficient quantity as to constitute a definite hazard to motorists and to children who may happen to pick up some.

Quite obviously the glass just does not fall from the sky. Indeed, its location at intersections and other strategic spots suggests it has been placed there deliberately in what borders on acts of vandalism.

Even recreation areas like parks and beaches are not free of it. Things may have improved this year (in any event, opportunities to visit such areas thus far have been limited), but at the sandbanks, near Picton, early last season, at least one section was littered with broken beer bottles.

This sort of thing is not good enough. It can be controlled only by a more responsible attitude on the part of everyone, due respect for the community, and by a firm resolve not to be party to any deliberate breakage such as has been described above.

Potash Deposits Out West

Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce

The first evidence of the potash deposits which lie beneath the Saskatchewan plains was recognized in 1943, in the core of an oil well drilled in the southeastern part of the province. Subsequent discoveries incidental to the search for oil and gas led to extensive exploration and core drilling programme by a number of potash companies. At present, there are three mines in production with a total capacity of 3.3 million tons of product per year. In addition, there are five mines under development, the completion of which, together with expansions at existing mines, will triple capacity in a few years. World requirements for commercial food output suggest that demand for fertilizer materials, including potash, will increase greatly in the future. This market potential together with the proven existence of very large reserves of rich potash ore in Saskatchewan and the demonstrated ability of mining companies to exploit them clearly signify the establishment of a very large new industry.

Potash is a generic term for soluble salts of the element potassium. It was first applied to potassium carbonate crystallized in iron pots from a solution of wood ashes. This material was used extensively in the manufacture of soap. Its value as fertilizer was established experimentally by the German chemist Justus von Liebig during the middle of the 19th century. Potassium is one of the three major elements that must be available in adequate amounts to sustain plant growth, the others being nitrogen and phosphorus. The principal function of potassium has not been determined, but it is known that it is present in all plant and animal life and that in its absence no life could, for long, subsist. The principal uses as fertilizer, a small part (between five and seven per cent) of total production is used in the chemicals industry for the manufacture of other compounds of potassium, also have a wide variety of industrial uses.

Soluble potassium salts occur widely throughout the world. Although large volumes are present in solution in surface and sub-surface waters, the most significant.

In addition to the present producers, five other companies have begun development of properties and construction of refining facilities or have made firm commitments to do so. These are within 75 miles of Saskatoon and all will be conventional mines. Three of the proposed sites for the commercial making of two shafts so that with the incision of a second shaft being constructed at the Esterhazy mine, there are at present a total of nine shafts on which work is under way or will soon begin. A further half a dozen companies are engaged in more or less active exploration programs and it is possible that one or two of these will lead to development in the near future.

The present annual capacity of the three producing mines has grown from 1.3 million tons of product in 1958-59. Current plans indicate further increases during each of the years from 1960 to 1970. Assuming that all projects under way are completed on schedule, annual capacity will exceed 30 million tons of product in 1970. Depending on market conditions, further substantial increases in productive capacity are likely during the following decade.

Actual production in 1965 totalled about 2.4 million tons of product valued at $24.4 million. This compares with 1.4 million tons in the previous year and one million tons in 1957. As a result of additions to capacity during 1965, production in the current year is expected to more than three million tons with a value of some $70 million.

Pitcairners Prefer Home

St. Catharines Standard

It was some ten years ago that the United Kingdom and Pacific Commission decided that Pitcairn Island was not worth the effort of keeping it going. The decision was made to resettle the islanders to less than a mile off the Pacific. The islanders moved but within 32 months they had returned to their lonely home about 2,500 miles south of Honolulu.

Again in 1964 the commission launched another program of resettlement, but the old folks refused to leave, and in recent months the younger generation also declined to depart from the island they knew as home. The views was that the economy of the island had improved, revived by the issue of a Pitcairn postal stamp which was much sought after by collectors and others. A move had been made to find a market handicraft produced on the island.

At present the islanders appear to be riding out the storms of hard times. A broadcasting station has been inaugurated, the government of New Zealand is providing pensions for the elderly and contributing to scholarships. In addition, shipping companies are lending their assistance in order to improve communications between Pitcairn and the outside world. As a result, the South Pacific Commission has decided Pitcairn will not be abandoned this year after all. It all goes to show that where there is a will, there is a way. The descendents of the mutineers of the H.M.S. Bounty have demonstrated they have a will to remain on the island.

Strictly Personal
A Pox on Early Risers

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

People are always inventing — but just as often as not the wrong things! Like Patent No. 2604752, which was granted to a man who invented an electric alarm clock to broadcast messages in the morning.

The right before, you record on a moving strip of film the messages you want the clock to deliver — such as "Hey, it's late!" or "Don't forget to shave, stupid!" or "Pick up your suit at the cleaner's, or he'll sell it!"

As a man who dearly loves his sleep, I maintain that what we need is a record to answer the people who insist on waking us up before we are ready. The world is teeming with cheerful oafs whose greatest pleasure in life is waking up others, either in person or by phone. They all seem to take a sadistic delight in telling you what a glorious morning you're missing.

For this pernicious breed, I'd like an answering mechanism of my own, which would growl "Go-gosh your head!" to any caller before 9 a.m., without disturbing the serenity of my chamber.

And members of a family who hound into the bedroom at ungodly hours and sing out such sickening salutations as "Rise and shine!" would be answered by a record whose message I cannot faithfully transcribe in a newspaper of relentless respectability.

"A man who rises early," said Walpole; "is conceited in the morning and stupid in the afternoon." The code nonetheless which I passionately concur. But what I really object to is the fact that the conceited early risers, who somehow can not reach the summit of their happiness without first wishing hailing distance is bullied out of bed and condemned to premature decrepitude.

Like the exercise nut and the food faddist, they assume that all people would thrive on the habits which are so meaningless dangerously close to the cruel dogmas of the totalitarians. We late sleepers, on the other hand, are models of the democratic virtues, never trying to enforce our own code upon others. "Sleep and let sleep" is our motto—possible on the sage assumption that people are much nicer asleep than awake.

If the rise-and-shine people will only learn to stay abed, set every alarm clock in the country to playing "The Star Spangled Banner" at 6 a.m. and execute for treason those who did not jump out of bed and stand at attention at reveille, we late sleepers, as though God heads over the would do to the forces of evil every day promptly at noon.

Why can't someone invent an alarm clock that would sound a warning whenever such pests approach a sweetly sleeping figure — a warning to shock the approacher without awakening the sleeper? Now there's a real invention for you.

Spread-Out Infection Cellulitis Is Serious

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is cellulitis, its causes and treatment? Does this infection return after it has been cleared up? Will anything serious develop from it if not properly cared for?

Is it a form of blood poisoning? — E. H.

Cellulitis is not the commonest affliction, nor is it the easiest to describe. Specifically, it is an infection which invades the tissues under the skin, but does not tend to localize like a boil or furuncle. It is a "spread-out infection." It can be quite diffuse, with a substantial area of the skin showing presence of the infection by being firm, red and hot.

The essential cause is usually streptococcus of staphylococcus, although less common organisms may be involved.

We must keep in mind that germs do not always behave in the same way. Some streptococci, chickenpox, mononucleosis and so on generally follow an identifiable pattern. The other influence being in the severity of a case.

Yet in many instances — and this applies to ailments other than cellulitis — germs can have widely differing forms. Strep can take the form of scarlet fever, strep throat, rheumatic fever, tooth decay, cervical cysts and others. Staph can be a mascerader likewise: eye infections, boils, sores, or "blood poisoning."

It depends on the strain of germ and also on the patient's physical condition.

Asking whether cellulitis will return after once being cleared up is something like asking whether when you have gotten over a cold, you will ever have another one. Yes, a reinfection can cause cellulitis again.

Perhaps the best way to think of the matter is this: A doctor doesn't really "cure" most ailments. Rather, he does something or is possible to help the body return to normal. Even a cast on a broken leg doesn't "cure" the fracture, but makes it possible for Nature to knit the bone together.

Thus with invasion of germs, (as in cellulitis) rest, heat and antibiotics of suitable type are the basic treatment. They help the body overcome the germs. Try to think of it that way, and you will have less trouble understanding why relapses occur if treatment stops too soon.

There's another point to remember: cellulitis can result from a wound, injury or infection of deeper structures of the body, as bone (osteomyelitis), veins (phlebitis) and the like. Obviously such an underlying cause, if it exists, must be treated.

Cellulitis is not related to blood poisoning, but it can be a serious ailment if not promptly treated. The infection, if it overwhelms, can spread or even migrate to other parts of the body.

Bed airsake up the leg or arm are an ominous sign. Don't regard cellulitis lightly, but don't get panicky. Immediate and effective treatment can usually be expected to bring it under control, although this takes a bit of time.

Dear Dr. Molner: When my wife sleeps her mouth gets very dry, and the tongue gets red and swollen. What could cause it? — J. P.

I presume she is a mouth breather. Perhaps she needs treatment for sinus trouble or some nasal congestion. If the house is particularly dry, that will accentuate the troubles of a mouth breather.

Explanation to J. K.: Hypertension is another way of saying high blood pressure.

Jacques Cartier explored Baie Ide des Chaleurs ages ago in day—in 1534—on his second voyage to Canada, his first on an official mission for the French king. On this expedition, which lasted only for the summer months, he explored the mouth of the St. Lawrence without discovering that there was a river extending far inland. But on his next, in 1535, he explored the St. Lawrence itself as far as Hochelaga (now Montreal) looking for a route to Asia and its treasures. These he did not find, though he brought back the Gaim of the kingdom of the Saguenay, which spurred further exploration.

Economics Under Fire

New York Times

Economic nationalism has strong emotional and political appeal in Canada. If threatens to become more heated as the result of demands for greater economic independence from the United States made by Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp and his predecessor, Walter L. Gordon. They want to promote Canadian control of industry through the establishment of a development corporation to purchase Canadian subsidiaries from foreign companies, chiefly American.

American investment is huge in Canada. The very size of that investment as well as its concentration in consumer goods makes it a vulnerable target for resentment. Mr. Gordon is concerned that Canadian subsidiaries of foreign firms are not subject to control by "made policy" in Canada and suggests a series of discriminatory tax measures to limit their freedom. Mr. Sharp is opposed to discrimination, favoring instead measures that will encourage the "Canadianization" of foreign subsidiaries.

The problem of American subsidiaries in Canada needs attention but most of these proposals inflame rather than cure. Canada's growth has been enormously aided by the influx of investment from the United States. It has meant jobs, raised incomes, opened markets and created opportunities for development. If foreign capital investment is prohibited or discouraged, Canada's economy will grow more slowly. And if Canadian resources are developed mainly to the purchase of American companies operating in Canada, it would create domestic capital that could be used to enlarge and accelerate development.

Unquestionably, Canada's smaller population and less concentrated markets put it at a competitive disadvantage. The remedy, however, is not in an unrealistic and emotional demand for Canadian independence but in a better economic balance between the United States and Canada. Such a balance cannot be realized by erecting new barriers to investment already in place. Resort to protectionist measures is an attempt to get rid of the alleged domination of American firms would hurt Canada much more than the United States.

American firms operating in Canada have a part to play in the catching-up process; but Canadians can do most to achieve a fair economic balance by exploring ways to generate a faster rate of investment, not by seeking to slow it down.

No Peace

Vancouver Province

How many watery gems of peace, solitude and beauty are shattered by the whine and roar of outboard motors as soon as a road reaches their shores? Certainly boatmen, a large segment of the population, should have waterways in which to cruise, troll or waterski. Yet how many who seek quiet with their fishing, picnicking or meditation also warrant consideration — and official recognition.

Stuart

Mr. Keate said, adding that this is the point that producers maintained was violated when the corporation made its decision to drop the co-hosts from whatever reign of Seven Days may appear next fall.

The written agreement was one of the key negotiative side points noted by Mr. Keate.

The other was the CBC announcement that it is "ready to go on a trading program that would include refresher courses and seminars for management personnel as well as funds for recruiting and training new blood. The program would start with an annual budget of $100,000, rising to $2,000,000 in five years.

JOB FOR WATSON

He also gave these other points in his assessment:

—Patrick Watson is regarded as the best English-language producer to handle the planned bilingual program Quarterly Review and can have the job if he is willing to work under "terms of reference decided by the CBC."

—Laurier LaPierre will not be back on Seven Days or its equivalent, but he does regards him as a program personality and would be willing to consider him for a less controversial show.

—Executive producer Douglas Leiterman, of course, has been held together his program unit but the future of the show "is uncertain and will probably be determined by the board," said President J. Alphonse Ouimet including that in Mr. Leiterman's testimony before the Commons committee and statements made to the press constitute "an entirely new set of circumstances" and there would have to be an assessment whether "the damage done is irreparable."

—The cases of Ross McLean and Wilder Penfield, two producers whose contracts have not been renewed, are subject to review. Mr. Keate insisted it has no blacklist and is keeping an open mind on the future of the two men, whose talent it recognized.

Mr. Keate also placed his finger squarely on a lack of communication between top management and the television producer level as a key factor in the dispute.

LACK RAPPORT

The top management level is inhabited by men who made their way up the ladder on the basis of their knowledge of radio, he said. This left a gap in rapport.

With only 14 years of CBC television behind it, no man could closely tied to the problems of producing TV programs had reached the top management level.

To cover this gap, he suggested immediate appointment of a vice-president, "with particular responsibility for this area who will have the confidence of both groups."

Time eventually would solve this communication problem, he added, but there is evidence enough of strife within the CBC that the board should look at the "serious personnel problem at its earliest opportunity."

Mr. Keate offered some observations in outlining his history of the dispute:

—He found little evidence of "genuinely stultifying censorship" in connection with Seven Days. It was hard to understand why the CBC had rejected, without seeing it, film a Seven Days crew had taken on man-in-the-street reaction to the Queen's visit to Quebec City which produced demonstrations and club-swinging attacks by police. The CBC attitude seemed to be "let's not talk about the Queen while she's among us."

FINDS EITHER/OR

—Most metropolitan newspapers would have given a bonus for reporting enterprise of the type that a Seven Days crew showed in smuggling cameras into an asylum to film Fred Fenerstein, a Ontario farmer who later was released when it was decided he had been incarcerated improperly. "Much had been made" by CBC management of this incident.

—Most Canadians probably would have found their way to Pierre Sevigny, former Conservative associate defence minister, after he answered his doorbell during the Gerda Munsinger affair and found he was being filmed by a Seven Days crew. Mr. Sevigny beseed the interviewer with his cane.

But Mr. Keate found the most valid criticism of the program in its interviewing technique. The art of interviewing once had been described as asking shrewd questions in a friendly way.

"In my opinion, the genuine concept was abused on Seven Days. Too often, the interview descended to the level of a brutal, almost savage, inquisition."

The "hot seat" technique on the program during the campaign for the Nov. 8 federal election had "quite rightly, in my opinion," been boycotted by Mr. Pearson and Opposition Leader Diefenbaker.

CHALLENGE 'BRASH'

The program hosts had "quickly challenged party leaders to sit in 'hot seat,' leaving many viewers wondering whether the program had arrogated to themselves the right to run Canada."

Mr. Keate offered these other views in his report:

—Mr. Leiterman viewed the program as an "electronic magazine", complete with cover girl Dinah Christie, a satire comic section, in-depth reporting on such issues as drugs and nuclear bombs, hand-holding interviews and an editorial line against such things as violence and capital punishment.

—CBC management complained that the program overstepped the boundaries of good taste and good manners, used inappropriate methods of gathering news and departed from the corporation's principle that it should illuminate the various points of view but never offer an editorial opinion.

—Friction between creative people and management existed in every day on Canadian newspapers in the country reached through the "mutual respect, confidence and trust of reasonable people can be resolved easy rapport and quick communication. No equivalent system seemed to exist in the CBC.

LEITERMAN BOSS

—Mr. Leiterman was the undisputed boss of Seven Days and the "generalissimo" of the current producer-management battle, he pushed his staff to work 90 hours a week and was in the forefront of the "move to expand the responsibilities of television and eager to test management at all levels. As much he has been stubborn, prickly and relentless in the cause of his show.

—It was difficult to believe that Mr. LaPierre "was disciplined because of a single hard-hitting interview and as an excruciatingly banal interview (not his) with the mother of Rene Trudeau.

. . . Mr. Jack Pear cried every Thursday on American TV, and remained fortune in the process."

Mr. Keate was called in May 1 to study the dispute. In a report that covered a lot of ground, he may have summed up the whole matter in one sentence:

"It seems obvious that there have been mistakes made on both sides of this debate."

Drag Racing On Pinnacle St. Proves Costly

What started out as a drag race on Pinnacle St. ended up in court this morning.

Peter William Fleming, 20, R. R. 3, Belleville, was fined $100 and costs by Magistrate T. Y. Wright after pleading guilty to a charge of careless driving.

Police testified that at 12.50 a. m. May 9, a cruiser on patrol near the A&P parking lot on Bridge St. spotted two cars racing north on Pinnacle at a high rate of speed.

They gave chase to the lead car, which was driven by Fleming, Fleming's car turned left on Station St. and crossed over the upper bridge. Police said he turned right onto E. Moira, followed along East Moira and turned his car's headlights out as he did so. He then proceeded along East Moira at a high ra'e of speed until the police car-lost sight of him. He was then seen by police cruiser on the road when he made the turn onto East Moira.

Fleming later turned his car parked along East Moira Street and apprehended Fleming.

Acting Crown Attorney Ralph Graham said, "You're lucky you're not in here on a more serious charge."

Magistrate Wills told Fleming that we can't tolerate that kind of driving.

Start Erection Of New Hall For Athol Twp.

PICTON (Staff)—The Athol Township's Centennial Project is soon expected to be under erection. It will replace the present steps at the front of the Township Hall with a modern building of cement block and brick construction, with inside steps, a cement vault for important storage area and smaller room for meetings of council, school board and others.

In charge of this project is Keith Brunwell as chairman and Bill Main, George (Lolile) Wilkinson, John Whitecord and Keith Perry, Tenders close Saturday, June 4.

The township will receive $1069 from the provincial and the same from the federal government with the township assuming the balance. When the committee met on May 16 they advised that in attendance the township was forunate in having its proposed plans approved as many local municipalities either did not plan one or were turned down by government.

It was also pointed out that no other suggestions could be considered. Any late hand-ins of the proposed area school or purchase of a present school for storage area would not be considered by those in charge of centennial grants.

A storage vault of fireproof construction is highly desired for storage of records of the past years. This is a township councils, school boards and others.

The modern front, built with $2,036 assistance from governments will provide at as little cost as possible to local people a centennial project of lasting importance and pride in commemoration of Canada's Confederation.

Orchards Will Be in Bloom This Weekend

PICTON (Staff) — The first big indoor affair of Easter which who make the pilgrimage every year to see the orchards in bloom, is expected this weekend.

The most popular route is again expected to be the Bethanevville Road through the heart of Ameliasburg Township.

Ameliasburg has gone out of its way this year to make the trip even more attractive for visitors.

Taking up a suggestion by the Homeowners' Association, Township Council has declared Sunday to be Apple Blossom Day. It is hoped that trees will be in full bloom by then.

No special display will be set up in the orchards of Reev Harold Bonter, Warden of Prince Edward, one of the county's best-known apple growers.

The event, to be expanded as part of the County's centennial project in 1967, was suggested first by the township's homeowners' association. More than 100 government and civic leaders and their families from various points in the province have been invited to attend along with the general public. Only a number of 100 miles of the Bonter orchards.

Visitors will be given the opportunity to mingle with the blossoms and enjoy their fragrance from tractor-drawn trailers with seats on them. Regular tours down the long rows of apple trees will be conducted throughout the 100 acres. Applications will be available for young ladies interested in entering the township's annual Centennial Princess contest to be judged later in the year.

Families are being encouraged to bring lunches with them for picnics at rustic tables in the grassed orchard at the water's edge. Apple pie, cheese and ice cream will be available in large quantities at a booth convened by the Home Owners Association and Albury Church choir.

The township plans to make the event an annual affair to promote tourism in the entire area.

Centennial Committee Meets at Town Hall

MARMORA — Plans for centennial year's celebration for the Marmora area were outlined recently as ladies of organization members met at the Marmora town hall.

Chairman of the Marmora and District Centennial Committee, S/L Gordon Bennett outlined plans now under consideration, while the group was also addressed by Mrs. Doreather Howell, head of the Women's Activities Centennial Commission for Belleville and District.

The improvements to the town hall were completed yesterday and Mrs. Howell was agreed to collect other well - tried recipes that could be used during centennial year.

Mr. W. Shannon, the Reeve, then spoke to the ladies stating it was encouraging to see so much interest in the Centennial, and he hoped this would set a pattern for the future.

Projects already in hand are Eastern Star - to raffle a basket of groceries, the proceeds to go to the centennial fund. The Senior Citizens had a card party last week and the money from it will go to the , centennial fund. Mrs. B. O'Connor suggested that the High School students make and sell to repeat their play "Our Gal Sal" which was so successful at the Town Hall, the proceeds from this to go to the centennial fund. The Home and School would have a Bake sale and other projects.

Mrs. Ritchie Wells had a good recipe for pork cake available for large functions and agreed to collect other well - tried recipes that could be used during centennial year.

Mr. W. Shannon, the Reeve, then spoke to the ladies stating it was encouraging to see so much interest in the Centennial, and he hoped this would set a pattern for the future.

Valoris Wins Oak Stakes At Epsom

EPSOM, England (Reuters) Irish - trained Valoris, owned by English millionaire Charles Clore, easily won the Oaks Stakes horse-racing classic today.

Valoris, son of the Italian sire Tiziano, started as 11-10 favorite.

Second was Berkeley Springs, owned by United States sportsman Paul Mellon. She started at 6 1.

URGES BEAUTIFICATION

Operation Cosmetic was another project stressed by Mrs. Howell. This could involve individual or groups working for the beautification of homes, vacant lots and the general picture of the community.

It was stressed that it is important for residents to use library activities as possible with other groups and communities to assure maximum participation in all events.

It was hoped that everyone would make a costume for the centennial as it does have to be expensive material, and patterns are available. Many of the ladies from Marmora in the schools are taking this on as a project next year.

Mrs. Clare Walker thanked Mrs. Howell.

In a discussion period, it was decided that:

1. A Centennial Ball (costume) to be held Jan. 11 on Sir John A. Macdonald's Birthday.

2. If possible three art shows exhibits would be shown at the Fall Fair this year.

3. Plaques should be presented to the families still living on the original homesteads in houses 100 yrs. old. It was suggested that perhaps a centennial tea could be arranged at such a location.

4. Several craft shows stressing the centennial will be arranged.

Captain J. Buchanan of the society was on hand to help and take moving pictures as the children busily planted the flowers.

Ann Landers

Husband's Army Buddy Stages Drinking Bouts

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A few months ago an Army buddy of my husband's telephoned to say he is now a patient in the veteran's hospital 10 miles from here. He said he had a weekend pass and asked if he could come to our home. I agreed, thinking it would be a pleasant treat.

Well, it has been a series of drunken orgies every weekend since January. I told my husband that I cannot stand it anymore and he said, "Shut up. This is my house, too."

Our three children are ashamed to have guests over and I am a nervous wreck. Last weekend the men got so bombed they couldn't ANN LANDERS make the scene. I heard them falling down and getting up all night long. This morning I found them asleep on the floor.

My husband used to enjoy a few quiet beers but he never got drunk until this friend showed up. Please tell me what to do. — LOST WEEKENDS.

DEAR LOST: Go to the director of the veteran's hospital. Ask him to speak to the doctor in charge of your husband's friend. Describe the weekends.

When the patient is restricted to the hospital (as he surely will be) everyone will be a lot better off.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Every day my husband grabs the newspaper before I do. He reads only two things — the sports page and your column. This takes about 15 minutes.

But he doesn't hand the paper over when he has finished reading it. No siree. He spends another 15 minutes droving moustaches on all the pictures — then he puts Stone inn all the mouths. It makes me boil to have to read a paper after he has marked it up.

Just once I'd like to see what you look like without a moustache and a pipe, Ann. Say something to the big mut. — H.L.A.

DEAR H.L.A.: I have nothing to say to him but I do have something to say to you. Order a second subscription. Enjoy the paper with your coffee and let him decorate his foolish head off.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our daughter who is a senior in college became engaged to a young sailor. Harvey is assigned to the ship as a navigation officer.

When Harvey is in port, he sleeps on a cot in the basement and keeps his civilian clothes in our closet. I like Harvey but I don't think he ought to be sleeping here weekends and cluttering up our closets with his clothes.

My wife, daughter and I have been having some bitter arguments over this. We all need your opinion. Think you are a fair-minded person. Please settle it. — RICHIE.

DEAR RICH: You are backing the strongest union in the world — a wife and daughter.

I assume Harvey is sleeping on that cot — by himself. Since he is going to be a member of the family, soon, I say it's OK to let him spend occasional weekends at your home.

Following a reception at Hargrave Park in Winnipeg, the couple left for a wedding trip to Minneapolis. The bride chose for travelling a camel hair suit with black accessories.

Susanna's Family Fare

WHAT-HAVE-YOU?

Dear Susanna: Anyone interested in a brand new, dainty combination fluffy scrubber and lint brush?

The version I have in mind ends up looking like the nose cone of a space ship, as the nylon is gathered into a detergent bottle top topped by a round bead and rick-rack braid for handling.

The cap or top acts as a practical handle when used for a lint brush — all the girls at the office keep one in their lockers.

Or, if yours is doing duty in the bathroom or kitchen, the protective top helps keep fingers clear of the water and muss.

As a matter of fact, we were not able to keep up with the demand at our craft sale last month, and are busy making up more for the fall.

The instructions are enclosed, Susanna, and I know you are always glad to forward them on to other readers who are interested. — Penny

More than glad, Penny, especially when they are so interested that they send one of their suggestions in exchange . . . Guess I slipped that one in Hm! — SUSANNA

Readers' Friday Column

QUESTION:

Sometimes we can buy a "special" of lovely fresh-looking chicken livers but I am not confident enough of my cooking to take advantage of the bargain. Would you tell me exactly how you cook them in true Emem style? Mrs. I. N.

ANSWER:

I would be delighted.

SAUTEED CRUMBED CHICKEN LIVERS (serves 4):

¾ pound fresh chicken livers, ½ to ¾ pound side bacon, corn flake crumbs, salt, onion salt (optional).

With scissors cut chicken livers in half at the natural centre and cut off connecting tissue and discard it. Drop livers into corn flake crumbs to coat them. Fry bacon in frying pan until crisp and golden, tipping off excess fat (but saving it) as it collects to facilitate crispening. Transfer cooked bacon to paper towel. Keep warm. Add crumbed chicken livers to pan, adding a little bacon fat if necessary and sprinkle with a little salt and onion salt if desired. Over medium heat saute the livers until golden and set. Incidentally the crumbs on the livers prevent spattering of the melt livers while they are sauteing. Transfer livers and bacon to hot platter and garnish attractively. This combination is sometimes served with apple jelly.

Neighbors Offer Date To Confused Girl

DEAR DORIS: I'm 18, have no mother, don't get along with my dad, have no interest in school, have quit church since there seemed no point in it.

I have some neighbors next door who want me to get out and date. But the thing is I have never met Don (24 years old). I'm not very good looking, I get along only with boys and am poor; I think we're on social aid or something.

DORIS CLARK

My friends wonder why I'm not interested in boys. I really am but I don't think anyone would want to take me out, except Don. The neighbors say he could be a stepping stone but I think he's too old for me. Yet I hate being on the shelf. I'm afraid anyone would hate me if they knew how unsure of myself I am and what a home I live in.

My questions are:

1. Should I go out with Don?
2. Where can I find someone to help me with all my problems?

Right now I'm desperate. Life is just starting and I dread each new day. — CAN'T GO ON.

DEAR CAN'T:

1. Yes, just once, as a stepping stone. If you are quite sure your neighbors, and Don, are good reliable people. Look on Don as an older brother. Don't make a practice of dating anybody more than two years older than you are.

2. Back in that church you quit; or by visiting the family agency where you are.

Most girls are unsure until they strike out and find what fun they can have. I'm sending you my leaflet "Are You Really Growing Up?" to give you some ideas about looking your best.

Don't end any account quit school; your letter was well written and shows you are bright. Get all the education you can. Life will improve for you.

Council Offers Ideas for Project

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canada centenary council offers 67 ideas for private centennial projects that cost anywhere from $1 to $200,000.

The suggestions, aimed mainly at business or voluntary organizations, range from providing lunch for a refugee child for a month (cost $1) to building a floating art centre ($500,000).

Kenneth Macmillan of the Royal Ballet is ready to provide an original, full-length ballet for the National Ballet Company of Canada, if someone pays the $100,000 tab.

A 15-day canoe expedition for 30 boy scouts costs $30,000 and a centennial midget hockey tournament, with travel and lodging for 12 teams, $24,000.

BUILD A RINK?

A covered skating rink can be built for $60,000.

Sending a scientist to the Arctic for one season costs $7,000.

Bringing a world famous scholar to a Canadian university for one year is a $35,000 job.

A minimum basic museum goes for $30,000.

A centennial toque is priced at $2. Wearing one in 1967 is a suggestion almost everyone can afford.

Use Rink Funds For New Park

DESERONTO — Once upon a time, in 1945, to be exact, enthusiasm for a covered rink for Deseronto resulted in the accumulation of a considerable fund for its construction. Nobody but members of the committee is sure what it amounts to now, lying at interest for 21 year.

The plan fell through, and now citizens are wondering why money raised for one public project cannot be used for the present project, creating Centennial Park.

The question was raised at the park committee meeting Tuesday evening, and was put to Hubert Howard, chairman of the rink committee. Mr. Howard said he was in full accord with other members of the park committee. Personally, he is of the opinion that the fund should be transferred from the dormant rink project to the support of the living Centennial Park project. He will call a meeting of the rink committee in the near future, and will report to the members at the next meeting of the park committee, he said.

Children Now Using Beach At New Centennial Park

DESERONTO — Centennial Park may not be officially opened before Centennial year but as far as the kiddies are concerned, it opened as soon as the first 200 yards of sand made a small beach for them. Attention was focused on this area at the meeting of the committee Tuesday evening, with the chairman, Albert Marks taking the initiative and everybody else co-operating.

Chairman Marks suggested that the cleaning up of the beach should be completed right away, and a further 300 yards of sand be brought in, immediate action in this respect will be taken.

The question of safety followed automatically. Mr. Sidsell was authorized to complete the beach area and to see that a portion was roped off for the use of small children.

The question of supervision arose, and Mrs. Don Detlor volunteered to ask the Girl Guides and the Red Cross Society to co-operate in this supervision.

WANT DITCHES REMOVED

Chairman Marks outlined the progress that had been made. He reported the delivery of the sand, and said that the bulldozer had put in 12 hours. Clearing had cost $300 and drainage $400. Representatives of the County Roads committee had met with representatives of the Centennial Park Committee regarding installing storm sewers to replace the open ditch which borders the park. They were considerate but had not committed themselves.

Representatives of a lighting firm had also approached the committee with estimates of the cost of installing flood lights for the park. Each upper lamp would cost $275. Plans were being made to have both the hydro and the telephone poles removed to the north side of the street, away from the park edge.

Another welcome report was to the effect that three springs had been found on the property. Samples of water from each have been sent to be tested, and if these are good, the one which tests best will be tidied and kept in condition for drinking, with an engineer advising as to the correct procedure.

DOCK PLANNED

William Higgins was requested to draw up plans for a landing dock for small craft and submit them at the next meeting. Similarly, Robert Howard and A. P. Brooks were asked to prepare plans for two swan rooms, with toilets, wash basins and running water.

All sorts of suggestions were made proving that people of the town have taken over the park as their own. Mrs. Kay Hood and Mrs. Carl Griffiths offered to try to secure the co-operation of the ladies of all the town —Transport Minister Irwin Haskett defended auto manufacturers, saying it has "become an 'in' thing to criticize" them and claim vehicles are the major cause of accidents.

—A. H. Cowling (PC—High Park), speaking on his private member's resolution that debates be limited to 20 minutes a speaker, told members they all too much and there is "too much repetition" in speeches.

—Mr. Wishart proposed an amendment to his Loan and Trust Corporations Act in the legal bills committee to assure there is no restriction on the percentage of municipal debentures than can be held in loan and trust company portfolios.

—Education Minister William Davis said the government doesn't intend to increase during the current fiscal year its $100,000 grant to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

—Premier Robarts said he intends to implement the program for medical centres he announced two years ago.

On the free legal aid issue, Mr. Wishart told a news conference the bill will be "implemented very quickly, and I hope by fall." He said he had no idea how much the plan would cost and that any estimate would be "just guessing."

The government now pays an annual grant of $35,000 to the Law Society for its own voluntary free legal aid plan.

Under the system a director of legal aid will be appointed by the Law Society and the province will be divided into districts under area directors. An advisory committee will be established to ensure "an independent view regarding the administration of legal aid."

Tone Before Tanning For Preconditioned Skin

By REBA and BONNIE CHURCHILL

Start those sun-toning sessions early. Whether you surf, swim or just splash about, precondition skin against such exposure. One of Hollywood's best known preparations can be blended in your kitchen by mixing equal portions of olive oil and melted cocoa butter. Designed for normally healthy skin, many beach beauties use it as a pre-surf rub-down. For quick application, keep liquid in a wide-mouth jar.

Always pay special attention to the eyelids, for this delicate area is thinner than other facial sections. It dehydrates fast and is more susceptible to solar rays. When sunbathing without glasses, actress Ulla Stromstedt of the MGM-TV series, "Flipper," protects eyes with cotton pads that fight dryness and prevent spectacle "rings."

Lips also need sun-proofing. The newest technique is using colorless lip glaze. Blot mouth, to moisturized cover-up preparates, instead of merely "surfaces" area. Next, add a touch of brightness with one or perhaps two shades of lipstick. Finally, powder, and that's it — no parched lips or slide-around color.

P.S. Now you can discover how Hollywood make-up experts beauty-proportion the lips for glamor and symmetry. Send for our cosmetic chart on how to make-up the mouth. Seven Escape Possible Death In Plane Crash

FORT FRANCES, Ont. (CP) — Seven men escaped possible death Wednesday when their single-engine Norseman aircraft crashed and burned on the shores of an isolated lake in northwestern Ontario.

Pilot O. J. Mallery of Fort Frances had just taken off from Lake Pegasaring, about 40 miles northeast of here, when the engine failed. His six passengers were fishermen from Milwaukee, Wis.

Edward Pegata was the most seriously injured with a fractured arm, broken toes and facial lacerations. Mallery sustained cuts to his forehead and throat.

When the party did not return on schedule, Canadian Voyageur Airways of Fort Frances, which owned the Norseman, began a search.

Fort Frances is about 200 miles southeast of Winnipeg.

Treaty Act of 1911 insist bound ary waters "shall forever continue free and open" for commerce. Tolls probably were illegal.

Liberal James McNulty, through whose Lincoln riding the Welland Canal passes, opposed lockage charges that would start at $140 per vessel each year and work up to $800 by 1971.

The charges would encourage diversion of cargo to shipment by rail through the U.S. and hurt captive industry along the canal route, he said.

New Democratic Party members said a toll increase would kill annual traffic of 1,000,000 tons of iron ore that now passes through the seaway and Lake Erie to Pittsburgh. It would be transferred to U.S. Atlantic ports.

Frank Howard (NDP-Skeena), speaking of "virtually unanimous opposition" in the country to higher tolls, criticized the seaway authority for keeping secret surveys and studies by independent consultants on traffic development and the impact of toll increases.

Mr. Diefenbaker recalled that his Conservative government had removed Welland tolls in 1962. The increase in rates was "just part and parcel of the ever-increasing endeavor on the part of the authorities in Washington to control phases of economic development in Canada."

Mr. Turner said this argument "couldn't be more specious."

Only the CPR supported higher tolls during the authority's two-day hearings, which ended Thursday a few hours before the Commons debate.

The U.S.-Seaway Authority holds hearings in Chicago June 8-10 and both bodies will then make reports to their governments. Any changes will be confirmed to go into effect for the 1967 season.

One speaker offered conditional support for toll increases. A. A. Mongerin (ind — Trois Rivieres) said they would be all right as long as ships under the Canadian flag were subsidized to offset the extra levies.

Sixty Blind Broom-Makers Walk Off Jobs

TORONTO (CP) — About 60 blind broom-makers walked off their jobs at the Canadian National Institute for the Blind Thursday to join 25 others on the picket lines since Wednesday.

The men, demanding a 10-cent-an-hour wage increase, say they have been offered less than half of that. Piece workers average $85 a week. Hourly-paid employees receive $48 to $52.

W. M. Mayne, CNIB personnel director, said he is in sympathy with the worker's demands, but the broom operation is heavily subsidized and the CNIB cannot afford to raise the wages. An increase might be possible in December after efficiency improvements are instituted.

'The Cause of Death'

By CLARENCE W. CRANFORD

Just as a doctor performs an autopsy to discover the real causes of a person's death, so Malachias examines the life of a defeated people to determine the causes of their down fall. This is what happens to a nation. If it as a sacred writer probes the reasons for the defeat and destruction of the northern kingdom of Israel. The apparent cause was military defeat at the hands of the Assyrians but behind the military failure, the prophet finds many cancerous spots that led to the spiritual downfall long before the nation fell before the armies of Assyria.

The historic facts are relatively simple. Hoshea was the king of Israel. Shalmaneser, king of Assyria, threatened to invade Israel. Hoshea tried to buy peace by paying tribute to the Assyrian king. Behind the scenes, however, Hoshea sought military aid from Egypt.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for May 30: "The Fall of Samaria." II Kings 17; 18:9-12; Hosea 13; Amos 3.

When Shalmaneser heard of this, he invaded Israel, and captured and imprisoned the king. The province known as Samaria held out for three years. Finally, it, too, fell in defeat. Its best people were carried away into captivity in Assyria. Assyria sought to resettle the land by bringing in people from the eastern part of her empire. But the land had been ravaged by war. Wild beasts roamed in abundance. Though Judah was to last 100 years longer, the glory of the northern kingdom was gone. The ten tribes were heard from no more.

MALIGNANT SPOT

When the author of Kings probed the reason for Israel's defeat, he did not dwell on its military weakness. Like a well-trained doctor who knows how to examine the diseased spots, he turned his attention to Israel's disregard of God. "The people of Israel said, 'did secretly' not the Lord their God things that were not right." (II Kings 17:9 RSV)

At two points particularly, he noticed cancerous spots. First, he said, "They went after false idols, and became false." (II Kings 17:15 RSV)

In other words, they became like the gods they worshiped. If they had worshiped the God of righteousness, they would have remembered His righteous demands. But worshiping gods they themselves had made, they made up their own rules for life.

People do tend to become like that which they worship. Hitler decided to replace the Christian God with the old Teutonic War gods, and the Nazi followers became like the gods of race and violence they worshiped.

Millions of Americans worship success, and are willing to sacrifice honesty and character to get it. Others worship sex, so that instead of it being their servant, it has become their master. When people worship false gods, their values become false. They bow down to the things they have made rather than to the One who has made them.

SECOND SPOT EXPOSED

Many try to keep up the pretense of worshipping the true God. In this they reflect the second diseased spot on which the sacred writer put his finger. They "feared the Lord, and also served their graven images." (II Kings 17:41 RSV)

In other words, they tried to ride two horses at the same time, each going in the opposite direction. They made a pretense of worshiping God, but actually were serving idols. They were like the man who went to a revival meeting. The village bully got drunk and decided to break up the meeting. So he dressed up like Satan and rushed shouting into the meeting. Everyone fled except one old man who had a bad leg and couldn't run. He yelled out, "Don't bust me. I've really been on your side all the time."

This is the dilemma many people face. They worship in church on Sunday but live on the side of the devil. They give lip service to God, but life-service to idols. They fail to hear Jesus' warning, "No man can serve two masters." (Matthew 6:24) The Apostle James called them "double-minded" men unstable in all their ways." Such people, he says, cannot expect to "receive anything from the Lord." (James 1:7, 8 RSV)

Yet, this is the dilemma the entire world faces. Nations want peace, but are unwilling to take the steps that "make for peace." (Luke 19:42 RSV). They want justice, but refuse to give up national prejudices.

Men cannot have it both ways. They cannot have peace and hate, or justice and prejudice, at the same time. They need to be warned lest the autopsy report of our age read: Died from disregard of God."

Killex kills more lawn weeds than any other lawn treatment

We guarantee it.

Used as directed, Green Cross Killex guarantees results—or we will refund the full purchase price.

We can make this guarantee because Killex contains a triple combination of components which kill more hard-to-kill lawn weeds than any other lawn treatment. Even where famous 2,4-D has failed, Killex has provided outstanding control over such problem lawn weeds as: Chickweed, Clover, Bedstraw, Black Medick, Heal-all, Ground Ivy, Knotweed, Shepherd's Purse, and of course Dandelions and Plantains.

Killex is economical, too. One ounce of Killex to one gallon of water weed-treats 250 sq. ft. of lawn. Yet for all its effectiveness, Killex is safe on most lawn grasses.

Even the best weed killers can fail sometimes. Killex is an exception.

MUSHMOUTH REPORTS ON GOLF

Dear Sons:—

They are closing the Zwick's Island Royal and Ancient Red and Clam Country Club and this might be the time to air some of the trouble we had with our hoss-and-pickerel ball chasers.

Since the finances of the club went mainly to the maintenance of supplies for the 1965 bake, we could not afford the services of a professional. We had two octagenarian barkeeps who took their wages in trade.

The majority of these waterfront Sam Sneads and Arnold Palmers knew more about the love-lives of muskies and garfish than greens, fairways, and hazards.

They were as frustrated as the centenarian who had a habit of chasing girls—but didn't know why—and the only help they could get was from those syndicated golf columns by Jack Nicklaus, Palmer and Player — and the television shows.

They were as mixed up as a fur salesman at a nudist convention, because, they said, the columns ignored the beginner and played up to the golfer who was beyond the point where he thought a four-iron was something you used to press pants.

The play was pathetic. The only hole-in-one in the club records was made when an irate golfer angered beyond control at the back-seat driving of his caddy, the wife, drew a gun and shot her through the head.

With the Fisheries Championships coming up we had to sort the golfing minnows from the sturgeon so we prepared a set of questions to be answered in writing.

Here are the questions and answers with apologies and thanks to Ted Blackman of the Montreal Gazette.

Clubhead — The president of a golf course.

Grip — Slang spelling of an influenza type of disease prevalent in late winter.

Fade — Experts claim it takes years to perfect but if your legs are out of shape or your spiked shoes don't fit you'll begin fading as you walk up the sixteenth fairway.

Tee — A refreshing drink served iced in summer.

Par — Word used in cliches as—"not feeling up to par" and "that's par for the course."

Lies — There are good and bad lies depending on the liar. A good lie is saying you shot a 72 when you have kept score and a bad lie is saying you shot 78 when someone else kept score and knows better.

Pitch and Run — Two baseball expressions that have nothing absolutely nothing to do with golf.

Rough — A word women use to describe missed three-foot putts. Men express themselves with much more abandon.

Handicap — Ranges from a bad grip to too much swinging or even a wife who calls the club to fetch you home loud as you arrive at the 19th tee.

Swing — The most enjoyable part of the game. It's something all golfers like to do well. And often, if their wives would allow it.

Hole-in-One — Something that causes swelling of the chest; a large dent in the wallet and a source of delight to bartenders.

Fourth Shutout ★★★★★ ★★★★★ Outduels Bunning

Marichal Magic Wins Ninth In Row

By MIKE RATHEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

About the only thing Juan Marichal hasn't done this season is pitch two shutouts in one day.

But he's working up to it.

The unbeaten San Francisco right-hander pitched 14 innings Thursday before recording his ninth victory and fourth shutout as the Giants' 1-0 triumph over Philadelphia Phillies.

"I think I could have gone a few more innings," Marichal said afterwards.

He surrendered only six hits while striking out 10 and walking only one.

Leading the majors in virtually every pitching department, Marichal's hurling borders on the astonishing when it's broken down into categories:

His 1.31 earned run has allowed only 51 hits in 93 innings, the equivalent of a five-hitter for every game he's pitched.

Runs—He has allowed only nine earned runs in his 10 starts, has 11 runs in 14 games, three scoreless innings, has allowed only one run in the last 42 and has given up two runs in only one game this season.

HAS FOUR SHUTOUTS

Shutouts—He has pitched four shutouts, two in a row, and has lowered his earned run average to an infinitesimal 0.36.

Walks—He has permitted only eight walks—less than one a game—while striking out 60, a ratio of more than 7 to 1.

And he has beaten every club in the league at least once with the exception of Atlanta Braves.

But then he hasn't pitched against them.

Only two other games were played in the National League, Pittsburgh Pirates edged Houston Astros 3-2 and St. Louis Cardinals defeating Chicago Cubs 3-2.

Marichal was locked in a brilliant duel with Jim Bunning until the 11th inning when the Phillies starter left for a pinch hitter after allowing only four hits.

Then, in the 14th, Jim Davenport lined one to right centre off reliever Darold Knowles, Johnny Callison tried for a backhand catch but the ball got by him for a triple.

TURN COMES UP

Hal Lanier drew a walk—and it was Marichal's turn to bat.

"I didn't want Herman (manager Herman Franks) to let me hit and then be sorry for it," said Marichal; "so I went to him and told him I've been hitting well but I'm not a good hitter, yet."

Franks tapped Jesus Alou infield hit and Knowles walked Jim Ray Hart, forcing hitter Bob Barton then lifted a fly to centre field, Davenport raced home with the game's only run and Marichal had a 9-0 record.

Manny Mota's third inning homer proved decisive for the Pirates. The victory went to Steve Blass but he needed Pitt Mikkelsen's relief help in the eighth inning after Jim Gentile twisted.

Mikkelsen was tagged for a run-scoring double by Lee Maye, eventually got out of 2 bases - loaded jam by retiring Felix Mantilla to hit into a double play.

S. Warners Shade Cementmen

Stewart Warner chalked up their second Commercial Softball League win in as many nights by shading the Point Anne Cementmen 5-4, at the Point, last night.

A single run in the sixth won the game after the winners had jumped ahead 3-0 in the first and fell behind 4-3 in the second.

Junior Day pitched the victory, allowing eight hits, whiffing four and walking but one.

Ron Marcele gave up eight hits in defeat, fanning six and passing a pair.

Chuck Rowbotham slammed a two-run homer for Stewart Warner in the first and Eric Maher capped the Centremen's four-run rally with a three-ply circuit clout in the second.

Rod Turner and Pat Glancy collected two hits apiece for the victors. John Trendall, Gow, Chuck Rowbotham and Junior Day had the others.

Eric Maher, Ron Marcele and Rick Rowbotham each logged a pair in defeat. Glen Marcele and Bob Detlor got the others.

Johnny "Potts" Neat 64

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Johnny Pott, a tour veteran, seared the Quail Creek Golf and Country Club course with a record-tying, eight-under-par 64 for a four-stroke lead Thursday in the $57,000 Oklahoma City open golf tournament.

In second place with 68s were Australian Bruce Devlin, Tom Weiskopf and amateur Craig Metz.

Pott's round led a bevy of golfers who broke par of the 7,130-yard course. He tied the course record set in the 1963 tournament by Jerry Edwards.

Two of the pre-tourney favorites — Gary Player and Jack Nicklaus — ran into trouble. Nicklaus four-putted the first green from 26 feet and ended with a 72. Player shot a 76.

KASKO DISABLED

BOSTON (AP)—Boston Red Sox placed veteran infielder Eddie Kasko on the disabled list Thursday, trimming their roster to 24 players. Kasko is undergoing treatment for back ailment.

Beliveau, Howe Next Hull Wins Second Hart Trophy

MONTREAL (CP) — Bobby Hull, Chicago Black Hawk's Golden Jet, was named winner Thursday of the Hart Memorial Trophy as the National Hockey League's most valuable player for the second straight year.

Hull collected 145 points in the voting by hockey writers and broadcasters in the league's six cities.

Hull, who scored 54 goals to break the record of 50 and a record-breaking 97 points last season, is the first player to win two straight Hart trophies since Howe did it in 1956-57 and 1957-58.

The Black Hawks' left-winger rolled 79 points in the voting for the first half of the season and 66 in the second half. Beliveau was a close second in the second half with 56 points.

Hull will receive $1,000, plus $200 for leading the voting in each half of the campaign.

Glenn Hall, Chicago's veteran goalie, was fourth in the balloting with 21 points. Norm Ullman, Detroit centre, was fifth with 14.

Minor Baseball Results

In Belleville Minor Baseball Association play, Mead Johnson topped Mel Barriages 5-3 in bantam, IBEW whipped Sine's Shell 21-3 in peewee and Little Oven Bakery dumped C.N. Firemen 31-14 in tyke.

Jim Potts hurled Mead's bantam victory, allowing four hits, fanning 14 and walking none. Mead's had five runs, four hits and two errors, Barriages got two runs, four hits and two errors. Wayne Farrell was the losing hurler, whiffing twelve but walking six. All the losers' hits were singles while the winners had a double and three singles.

The peewee tilt saw IBEW scores their 21 runs off 13 hits and they committed one error. Sine's got five runs on seven hits and six errors. Allan Wood and Art Wellesley handled the losers' pitching, fanning five and walking nine, allowing six singles and a double. David Barry, Barry Culkin and Rick Meagher struck out seven and walked nine on the losers' rubber, giving up two triples, two doubles and nine singles.

Only the score was available in the tyke game. Names of hitters in all contests were missing.

Morrison Named Top Defenceman

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Veteran Jim Morrison of Quebec Aces edged Rochester Americans' Al Arbour in winning the Eddie Shore plaque as the American Hockey League's outstanding defenceman for the 1965-66 season, the AHL announced today.

Morrison polled 23 points in the voting by the league's hockey writers and broadcasters. Arbour, last year's winner, collected 24 points. Duane Rupp, also of the Americans, was third with 12.

Second Win In Row

Bobcats Defeat Madoc

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

Belleville Bobcats made the most of a bad sixth inning by the opposition to grab a 3-1, 8 and D. Softball League victory over Madoc at the Alemite Field last night.

The victory was the Bobcat's second in as many starts.

Madoc appearing stronger than last year with the aid of a couple of ex-Tweed players, nursed a 1-0 lead from the first inning until the fifth when the Cats tied it.

Rick Locke bunied for a single to ignite the winning rally in the sixth. Stewart grounded to short but an attempted force at second was too late and both runners advanced on Whyte's ground out.

McKibbon grounded to second and Masters elected to try for a play at home. The lead run scored on the fielder's choice and the insurance tally on the throwing error.

Clar Leahy got off to a shaky start on the Bobcat rubber but settled away to have a strong game. He allowed only one single after the first inning and wound up with a three-hitter. He struck out 10 and walked only one.

Big Darryl Kramp toiled well in defeat, allowing five hits, four of them from the fifth inning out. He struck out nine, walked one and hit one.

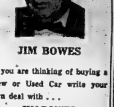
Hughes bloooped a ball to left that was misplayed into a triple for Madoc in the first. Gray followed with a clean triple for the quick 1-0 lead but from there out Leahy slammed the door. He got help from Locke at first when the centre fielder raced deep to grab Gray's blast.

The winners only hit in the first four frames, was McKibbon's hard triple but he was cut down at the plate bidding for a homer.

Zakos got an infield single, stole second, advanced at Carter's grounded out and came home to tie it on Leahy's two-out single in the fifth.

Solid singles by Rick Locke and Paul Zakos were the key Bobcat hits. John McKibbon had his triple, Clar Leahy and Jim Whyte a single each.

Bill Hughes and Eldon Gray hit triples and Ab Reid a single for Madoc.



Several hotly disputed calls helped excite a fair crowd.

Madoc: Masters 3b, Hughes 3b, E. Gray lf, Shaw cf, Gorr c, A. Reid ss, Kramp p, McMurray rf, Sickwood 1b.

Bobcats: Meraw 3b, Locke cf, Mosaw 2b, Whyte lf, McKibbon c, Zakos rf, Gee ss, Duggan 1b, Leahy p.

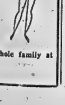
THE ARNOLD Palmer Method
by GOLF'S 4-TIME MASTERS WINNER

A TRICK SHOT TO IMPROVE YOUR GAME

Here is a trick shot that any golfer can master with practice. It will not only give him a way to delight his fellow-players, but it will also vastly improve his ability on pitch shots.

Take your wedge or 9-iron and line up three balls in a row (see illustration). Practice trying to make all three balls fly on the same shot.



You will find that to make this trick shot work, you must strike the first ball while your clubhead is descending—just before it reaches the bottom of its arc.

This is the same technique all good golfers employ on short iron shots. They always "hit down" on the ball, contacting the ball first and then the turf.

If you practice this trick shot until you have it mastered, I'm sure your short-iron game will improve immensely.

CAHA Ups All Minor Age Limits

Juniors To 21

By AL McNEIL

MONTREAL (CP)—The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and the National Hockey League, at odds over the current pro - amateur agreement, put their differences aside Thursday to enjoy two social engagements.

President Clarence Campbell of the NHL tendered a reception for the CAHA delegates attending their week-long annual meeting, while the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association held a jubilee dinner in their honor with Campbell a head - table guest.

Fred Page of Vancouver, CAHA first vice-president, said his organization and the NHL "are all part of a hockey family, and even in your own family you have differences."

Page, expected to be named today to succeed president Lionel Fleury of Quebec City, said the CAHA does not expect the NHL "to offer a peace pact or do they expect us to offer them one.

"We hope to sit down with the NHL and discuss our differences."

He was referring to a proposal by the CAHA that amendments to the pro-amateur agreement be forwarded to the NHL for study at the NHL meeting in discuss the differences within 60 days.

WANTED PACT ENDED

Last year, at its annual meeting in Victoria, the CAHA voted to terminate the 10-year agreement which has been in force since 1958. However, the contract contains a clause whereby two years notice of termination must be given by either side, and the NHL decided to hold the CAHA to the terms. The contract now is scheduled to end in June 1967.

Both the CAHA and the host branch — the QAHA — used the dinner to honor past presidents.

Art Potter of Edmonton and W. B. (Baldy) George of Kemptville, Ont., were the CAHA award winners from the West and East. Both were cited for "long and meritorious service."

Henri Crochetiere of Sherbrooke, QAHA president, named Marvin Conway, Bob Lebel, Aurele, Chequette and Jimmie De Lanne, of Montreal and Clyde McCarthy of Trois-Rivieres, as recipients of the Quebec honors.

At a plenary session Thursday the CAHA approved a motion from the minor hockey committee that will raise kinks by five months in all player categories ranging from juvenile down to the pee wee level.

This was accomplished by changing the registration date for all categories to Dec. 31 instead of May 31.

APPROVE AGE RAISE

On Tuesday it approved raising the junior age limit by the same degree and ruled that any player who reached his 21st birthday on or before Dec. 31 of any playing year will be eligible to play a complete season as a junior.

The age changes, which all become effective for the 1961-62 season, allow juveniles to be under 18, midgets under 17, bantams under 15 and pee wees under 13 years of age as of Dec. 31 instead of May 31.

The minor committee also moved to strengthen control of teams below the junior level when it received concurrence from the meeting to refuse permission for such teams to take part in any international matches at home or overseas.

They ruled that effective Sept. 15, 1960, no minor team will be allowed to play outside Canada without the special permission of the CAHA.

Gordon Juckes of Melville, Sask., CAHA secretary - manager, reported that the organization has more requests from foreign clubs wanting to tour Canada than it can probably handle.

Leafs Lose To Chiefs, Bisons Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The International League went on a home - run binge Thursday night with three games producing 14 of them.

Syracuse Chiefs used four homers to subdue Toronto Maple Leafs 10-4. Buffalo Bisons connected for three in a 7-1 victory over Rochester Red Wings and Richmond Braves had two en route to a 7-2 triumph over Columbus Jets. Rochester and Columbus added one each.

Toledo Mud Hens and Jacksonville Suns were rained out at Jacksonville.

Country Club Championship

Men's Qualifying Round

Seventy Bay of Quinte Country Club golfers go to the tee on Sunday on the first leg of the quest for the club championship.

They will be shooting for the crown won last year by Art Bridge.

The field includes the top golfers of the club, some of them ex-champions.

The top fifteen golfers emerging from the qualifying round — with the 1960 champion — will enter the championship flight.

The next sixteen will qualify for the consolation flight. The course is in fine condition and with the weathermen co-operating excellent golf is anticipated.

The first foursome tees off at 8 a.m. — the last at 10:30 a.m.

Birds' Bowens One-Man Show

Indians Claw Tigers; Bosox Bump Twins

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Manager Hank Bauer, in the market for another pitcher, placed his classified ad in Baltimore Orioles' dugout when he posted the line-up.

And Sam Bowens, perhaps wanting he was in the showcase, didn't waste his chance to impress Bauer's potential customer. Chicago White Sox. He stroked four hits and drove in four runs in a one-man show in Baltimore's 7-1 victory Thursday.

It was hardly endearing to the White Sox, but certainly impressive.

The Orioles, hoping to entice an extra pitcher away from Chicago, are reportedly dangling Bowens as the bait. In two games against the White Sox he reaped six hits in nine trips.

Bowens delivered a two-run single in the fourth and then drove in two more with a double in the seventh. He had two other singles and also stole a base.

It could be the White Sox will make the deal for him just to keep him from hitting against them.

The victory moved the Orioles into a second-place tie with Detroit. Tigers who suffered through a nightmarish ninth inning and lost 8-4 to American League - leading Cleveland. In the only other game, Boston Red Sox downed Minnesota Twins 7-2.

Bowens' hot bat could be the most persuasive tactic Baltimore has in its negotiations with the White Sox. Harry Dalton, the Orioles' director of player personnel, has been dickering with Eddie Short, the White Sox general manager.

Dalton is reportedly after one of three young Chicago pitchers —Bruce Howard, Tommy John or Joel Horlen—with Bowens and possibly Jerry Adair the main lures.

Short is content with his own second baseman, Don Buford, and seems a uninterested in Adair. But Bowens could be another story.

The Tigers were tied at 3-3 going into the ninth inning against Cleveland. But a walk, a fielder's choice, a wild pitch and another walk loaded the bases with none out.

Chuck Hiller singled for two runs. Then with two out and the bases still loaded after Vic Davalillo's single, Hank Aguirre uncorked a wild throw to Fred Whitfield's dribbler and three more Cleveland runs crossed the plate. That gave the Indians five runs on just two hits.

Jim Ray Hart hit a two - run homer had tied the game for the Tigers in the eighth.

Earl Wilson stingled for two runs. Then with two out and the bases still loaded after Vic Davalillo's single, Hank Aguirre uncorked a wild throw to Fred Whitfield's dribbler and three more Cleveland runs crossed the plate. That gave the Indians five runs on just two hits.

Jimmie Hall's home run and three singles improved Angels of his shutout in the ninth.

City Hotel Shades Belvedere

City Hotel scored a lone run in the bottom of the seventh to slip Belvedere 3-2 in a Commercial Softball League battle of the Hotelmen, at Prince Charles School, last night.

The winners led 3-0 until the top of the last frame when Belvedere got tied it. Doug Hull singled home the winning run, with none out, after Feeney's BB, a walk and hit batter loaded the bases.

Dave Feeney was the winning pitcher although hurling only a third of an inning in relief of Harried L. Hull. Hull gave up two hits, struck out three and walked two. Feeney walked one in hitless relief.

Reid's hit, a misjudged fly, and wild pitches helped Belvedere tie it.

J. Nichols allowed just three hits in a route-going losing cause. He fanned one and walked three. Six errors made his task difficult.

Doug Hull, Doug Morsan and Dave Feeney had the City hits.

J. Muir and D. Reid collected two apiece for Belvedere.

David McCallum Gives Up U.S. Personal Appearances

By BOB THOMAS

PORTOVINO, Italy (AP). David McCallum was experiencing a rare moment of repose over dinner at an open-air restaurant in this Mediterranean village.

"I have never been more tired in my life than I am at this very moment," he said.

He had just finished a long days shooting on his new movie, Three Bites of the Apple. It is a spy chase which has had him racing over Italian scenery from here to Venice to the Alps.

But it seemed to be not merely physical fatigue that was affecting him. He is pursued everywhere by his alter ego, Ilya Kuryakin, television's U.N.C.L.E. agent, and isn't sure how to cope with the clamorous following he has attracted.

"After my last appearance at Macy's in New York, I decided I would do no more personal appearances in America," he said.

"WHY TAKE RISKS?

"Such things simply can't be controlled any more. Why should I continue to run the risk of seeing people maimed and injured, including me?"

Then he went to England two months ago. His reception: "A hundred times worse than Macy's!"

As soon as McCallum finishes the film, he returns immediately to MGM in Hollywood to commence 10 months of shooting U.N.C.L.E. He said he seriously considered quitting.

He finally decided to return to portraying Ilya. But, he added, "I have decided that all outside activities must be eliminated—it is a matter of survival."

TV Winter Personalities Making Hay in Summer

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Television's winter personalities turn into summer actors—wherever possible, for the rewards are great.

"Personalities" is a word covering performers with hard-to-define assignments—host, master of ceremonies, panel or game show regular and, of course, variety stars who can sing, dance or do comedy monologues.

Long ago nightclub owners and summer-stock producers learned that the public turned out in droves to see in the flesh who people it had been watching on television sets.

It now is big business with big money established and popular stars. The going rate starts at $5,000 a week, sometimes with a guarantee of 30 to 50 per cent of gross receipts when the box office returns go over a predetermined amount. Some famous stars have earned more than $115,000 a week in summer theatre assignments.

During the next few months three of the four panelists on To Tell the Truth will be making personal acting appearances.

Tom Poston will star in The Well-dressed Liar in Miami. Orson Bean will take on How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying in North Carolina. Kitty Carlisle has some singing engagements.

Betsy Palmer of I've Got a Secret will tour in Peter Pan. Steve Allen has nightclub dates on the West Coast.

Gene Raymond of Match Game will play with his wife Helen and daughter Lynn in a Rocky County production of The Impossible Years.

Arlene Francis of What's My Line? takes time out for a Philadelphia production of The Time of the Cuckoo.

Judy Williams arranges his variety show's shooting schedule so he can spend the summer months making a fortune playing state fairs from one end of the country to another.

Quebec Police To Strike

MONTREAL (CP)—A meeting of 400 members of the Quebec Provincial Police Association voted by a "strong majority" early today to go on strike next Thursday if their demands are not met by the Quebec government.

The association, which claims to represent 1,800 of the force's 2,300 men, issued a warning to the government Tuesday that the vote would be held. The poll was carried out by secret ballot.

Meanwhile, it was learned in

Trenton Planes Move Van Doos To Prison

MONTREAL (CP) — Some 180 troops were deployed at the St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary today.

The men, members of the 1st Battalion of the Royal 22nd Regiment (Van Doos) stationed at Camp Valcartier near Quebec City, were moved by four G-130 Hercules aircraft from Trenton, Ont.

Two cargo helicopters were also used to help move the men and 16 jeeps from Quebec's Ancienne Lorette Airport. The shift began at 8 a.m.

A department of national defence spokesman said the deployment of forces at the penitentiary was routine and co-incidental with a decision Friday by Quebec Provincial Police to strike Thursday.

"We have made seven such deployments of troops in the area of St. Vincent de Paul since the major riots took place in 1962," said the spokesman

Ottawa Friday night that three companies of the Royal 22nd Regiment—about 450 men—and four RCAF Hercules transport planes were standing by near Quebec City for possible police duties if the strike occurs.

The association is asking immediate recognition of their organization, source deduction of union fees from pay cheques and submission of any problems between the association members and the Justice department to an impartial body for consideration.

The exact figures of the balloting were not immediately available. However, Robert Burns, legal adviser to the association, said the vote was "about 80 per cent" of those attending voted in favor of strike action.

It is expected a committee will be named today, Mr. Burns said, to consider strike plans for staffing essential services only. These would include the homicide, traffic and robbery services.

Stankovic said he had been working at Hudson's Hope in northern B.C. but was fired after two weeks. He said he stole a car and drove to Vancouver.

Police were chasing him, he claimed, and Friday morning he went to a Vancouver police station to get help. They told him to go away. He wandered around all day Friday, until at 8 p.m.

Then police said, he grabbed Teddy, Two elder boys told Stankovic to leave Teddy alone. The man left Teddy and started chasing them, but they got away.

The man returned, caught Teddy again and stabbed him.

Hundreds Stand Helpless As Crazed Man Holds Tot Hostage at Point of Knife

VANCOUVER (CP — A 42-year-old man held a terrified girl hostage at knifepoint for two hours Friday night, then suddenly released her unharmed, plunged the knife into his stomach and toppled to the ground.

Hundreds of spectators and dozens of policemen watched helplessly at a busy downtown intersection as the man fatally used to stab the four-year-old girl, Debbie Tess, Earlier, Theodore Kacsor, 55, and his six-year-old son Teddy were stabbed by a knife in the city's quiet west end.

Condition of the man who stabbed himself was not critical. Police said later he was a recent mental hospital patient.

The father and son were in fair condition in hospital.

The man, who said he was Jiro Stankovic, a Yugoslav, talked in garbled tones while holding police at bay with threats against Debbie. He spoke of his misery, unemployment and growing bitterness about society.

Sometimes he used an electronic loudspeaker provided by the police. Most of the time he bellowed hoarsely.

Backed against the concrete wall of a building under construction, he told how he day before he had asked the Yugoslavian consulate for a free ticket home but his pleas refused.

The child's father pulled his bleeding son from the man's arms and was slashed across the hands, chest and back.

"My husband and the other man were fighting," said Mrs. Kacsor, 48. "Then my husband fell down to the ground. He was huddled under the boy.

"The man with the knife grabbed my other boy (Frankie, 5) and I ran up to try and get him. . . The man said, 'don't come closer or I'll kill him'. . . . Then he dropped my son and ran down the lane."

Several blocks later Stankovic reached Debbie's home. She was playing on the front porch of her home with some friends.

Debbie screamed as the man scooped her into his arms and headed up the street. He carried her to a partly-finished building at Bidwell and Robson streets and it was there that a two-hour wait began.

The man squatted on his haunches, pot one arm around Debbie's neck and pressed a knife with a six- to eight-inch blade across her throat.

All available detectives were soon at the scene, joining 25 constables and four sergeants. Police co-ordinated control of the surging crowds with walkie-talkies.

The man asked for a cigarette, and a policeman threw a pack near his feet.

"I want to tell my story," he cried in broken, faltering English. "I want to tell about the people who are after me."

Detectives brought a doctor and interpreters and promised him he would be placed in the doctor's care if he let Debbie go. An interpreter asked for reporters and several went to the man, assuring him that his story would be told.

A priest from the Serbian Orthodox Church tried to approach, but the man pressed the knife closer to the breast of his young hostage.

"I want to finish my story," he growled.

He started to shake, speeded his story and shouted: "Get back! Everybody get back!"

He stood up and let Debbie go. She stumbled, tears streaking her face, toward the crowd and the arms of her mother.

The man stepped back at the same instant, grasped the knife with both hands, and plunged the blade into his stomach. He fell on his face.

Labor Minister Continues Talks on Que. Dock Strike

OTTAWA (CP — Emergency talks aimed at settling the strike by longshoremen at three Quebec ports resume in Montreal Sunday following a seven-hour session in Ottawa Friday night.

Labor Minister Nicholson made the announcement early today after the lengthy meeting with representatives of the International Longshoremen's Association, the Shipping Federation of Canada and Judge Rene Lippe, government - appointed mediator.

Mr. Nicholson said the talks had adjourned at 11:15 a.m. were "useful" and would resume at 3 p.m. Sunday in Montreal in an effort to end the dispute which started May 9 and since has tied up shipping at Montreal, Quebec and Trois Rivieres.

"There were some difficulties," he added. "They haven't all been solved."

The talks started at 5:59 p.m. when Judge Lippe arrived from Montreal to join the 18-man ILA delegation, half a dozen shipping federation officials, three cabinet ministers and a dozen labor department officials.

Industry Minister Drury stayed through to the end but Privy Council President Favreau left early in the evening for a prior engagement.

Watson and LaPierre Will Not Be Returned To Show Says Board

OTTAWA (CP) — The CBC board of directors said Friday that Patrick Watson and Laurier LaPierre, co-hosts of the television program This Hour Has Seven Days, will not be returned to the program. But it left the door open for them to work in other corporation productions.

The board said it regrets that management bypassed executive producer Douglas Leiterman in making the decision not to renew the hosts' contracts, but added that it "still believes" the reasons for the decision "are cogent and that the action based on them . . . was justified."

In by-passing the producer, the board said management broke an unwritten rule between producers and management.

In Vancouver, Stuart Keate, whose report on the dispute between CBC producers and management prompted the directors' statement, said it seems management has "incited a few feet forward toward a consensus" and "is now back at square one."

He was pleased that "the CBC

Fine Nun For Slapping Altar Boy

TORONTO CP — A woman described as a lay nun of the Old Catholic Church was fined $15 Friday on a charge of assaulting an altar boy by slapping his face April 25.

Mary Elizabeth Wilson, 24, also known as Sister Mary of St. Joseph of the Metropolitan Mission, pleaded not guilty.

James Riley Etwell, 12, told Magistrate Donald Graham he was in the mission's recreation room when Sister Mary accused him of drinking sacramental wine.

He said that when he denied it Sister Mary swore at him and slapped his face, giving him an earache that kept him from school for a day.

Constable David McEachern said the woman admitted when questioned that she swore and slapped the boy's face. She said she had done it after the boy had kicked her in the stomach.

Cubans Placed On Alert

By ISAAC M. FLORES

HAVANA (AP—Prime Minister Fidel Castro said Friday night he is convinced the United States is planning "armed aggression" against Cuba and ordered a state of alert for Cuba's 100,000-man armed forces.

In a communique read over radio and television, Castro accused Gen. Curtis LeMay of Russ of "practically threatening us with war" over armed clashes between U.S. and Cuban troops in southeastern Cuba.

President Osvaldo Dorticos immediately called in the Ambassadors of Communist countries and asked for volunteers willing to aid Cuba against the threat of aggression by Yankee imperialism."

The ambassadors present included those of China, the Soviet Union and North Viet Nam and the representative of the Viet Cong guerrillas who control Viet Nam. There was no report on the response to Dorticos' request.

Castro said the U.S. defence department lied in claiming that its Cuban soldiers penetrated the U.S. base Monday and exchanged fire with American guards.

Rusk told a press conference Friday the United States had protested the incident and demanded that such actions stop.

Defence department spokesman said so far as is known no one was injured in the exchange of gunfire.

CONTAINS NO TRUTH

Castro said the U.S. version "does not contain the slightest element of truth."

"Maybe by such improbable and false declarations they are trying to create psychological conditions to unleash an aggression against our country," he said.

Cuba will never "abandon custody of our territory, which is virtually what Rusk is demanding." Instead "what we will do immediately is put our revolutionary armed forces and all the people of Cuba in a state of alert."

He said the United States should not even bother to send a diplomatic note on such allegations because it would not be accepted.

Channel Ports In Chaos

By JIM ANDERSON

LONDON (CP)—Hundreds of holiday-bound motorists, stalled at the ferry docks by Britain's shipping strike, have turned England's channel ports into chaos.

More than 400 carloads of people headed to the continent for this Whitsun Holiday weekend were waiting at Dover Friday night for places on ferries operating with French, Belgian and Netherlan crews.

Many families slept in cars at Dover and New Haven while others undertook a 12-hour detour to Southampton in hopes of boarding a ferry there.

Although British housewives have nervously watched the rise of food prices during the strike, which enters its 13th day today, the holiday tieup was the direct encounter between the general public and pickets of the 65,000-member National Union of Seamen.

Prospects of an early settlement dimmed as William Hogarth, general secretary of the union, told a meeting in Southampton, "If will be a long, drawn-out battle."

He said the strike would last at least another three weeks and could be on for six.

INQUIRY TO SIT

A court of inquiry named by the government Thursday will hold its first meeting Tuesday, but Hogarth said the strike "won't end once the official inquiry is over—unless someone is prepared to do something."

The union said Friday ships were tied up by the strike and more than 18,000 men idle.

The strikers are seeking reduction of the work week to 40 hours from 56 hours. The Shipping Federation, representing owners, has offered the shorter week in stages over a three-year period. Present weekly wage of the seamen is $36 ($45).

The traffic jam at the channel ferries followed rejection by the union of a plea by a ferry company for a seamen's peace.

Townsend Car Ferries offered to meet union demands in full if it were allowed to operate its ferries from Dover.

A union spokesman said other shipping firms had also offered to meet the union terms but "we only negotiate nationally."

As many as 5,000 cars normally leave Dover on the Friday before the three-day Whitsun Holiday. Only about 1,400 made it this year as only nine of the 18 scheduled sailings left the port.

Worried Tone In Debate

By DENNIS ORCHARD

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's labor turmoil must be blamed on fast - rising living costs, New Democrat MPs told the Commons Friday.

Workers are striking for higher wages because they "simply cannot keep up with the increased cost of living," said Reid Scott (Toronto Danforth).

Labor negotiators are winning the best agreements in history but workers are rejecting them "because they know what is happening to the cost of living," said David Orlikow (Winnipeg North Centre).

Conservative, Creditiste and Social Credit MPs lined up to give the commons a worried tone for its debate on Labor Minister Nicholson's department-tal spending estimates.

Mr. Nicholson suggested prosperity—not living costs—have produced labor difficulties.

Unemployment was just over the national target of three per cent set by the Economic Council of Canada and available figures—14 years old — showed wages making a seven-per-cent rise while the consumer price index increased 2.4 per cent.

CBC to Show Youth Film By Beryl Fox

TORONTO (CP) — Youth in Search of Morality, a CBC show recently the subject of controversy after reports that a CBC camera crew filmed a girl under the influence of a drug in bed with two youths, will be televised Sunday at 10 p.m. EDT, the CBC said Friday night. It will not show the sequence of the girl in bed with the youths.

The show, produced by Beryl Fox, will be shown on the series The Human Camera which replaced This Hour Has Seven Days at the end of its regular season.

But Mr. Watson said in Edmonton the directors' statement is "unacceptable and disappointing."

CHANCE RULED OUT

He told a press conference that he would not accept an invitation from the CBC "if the circumstances do not change," adding that the statement "seems to rule out change."

But he said by wanted time to study the statement and consult with his colleagues before making any decisions.

Mr. Watson said it now would be for the CBC producers association to decide whether to take any action on the statement.

Pentagon Contradicts General Saying Reds Mass in Cambodia

WASHINGTON (AP)—A number of military officers said privately today the U.S. defence department jerked the rug from under Maj.-Gen. Stanley R. Larsen in contradicting his statement that up to six North Vietnamese divisions — numbering more troops — are massed in Cambodia.

But Larsen, a field commander on leave, from South Viet Nam, told a reporter: "I am just a soldier. I stand corrected. I'm not going to question my superiors about what they say. The defence department has a lot more information to go on than I have."

But in Saigon, intelligence reports available to military commanders supported Larsen's statement. Some reports indicate as many as 12,000 North Vietnamese are massed in the Cambodian mountain Saigon sources say two of the six regiments based in the Chu Phong Mountains are the 32nd and 33rd of the North Vietnamese 325th Division. Both regiments fought in a big battle last November in the Ia Drang Valley across the border from where the North Vietnamese now are reported gathered.

The reports also indicate the North Vietnamese plan to move into South Viet Nam in early fall after the rainy season passes in mid-summer peak.

State Secretary Dean Rusk said later he knew nothing about Larsen's report.

But Rusk said North Vietnamese forces have been abusing Cambodia's neutrality. He added that the United States favors international action to assure that Southeast Asian country's neutrality and territorial integrity.

Bobby Hull Enthralling to All As 'Y' Family Dinner Speaker

By RETA LAWRENCE

In previous years two separate YMCA dinners have been held here, one for mother and daughter, the other for father and son. On Friday evening, the Belleville Family YMCA held a Family Banquet, sponsored by The Y's Monettes and the Y's Men, at Club Cedars with Mr. Bobby Hull as guest speaker.

Mr. Hull has never had a finer attitude than that which the children silently paid to him as he made his way to the head table. It was sufficient to look into the young eyes, out-sparkling the Victoria Day fireworks, for Bobby and everyone else, to know how completely all of them idolize this man.

Grace was said by Miss Mary-Jane Britton, after which Misses Margo and Rhonda Chapman presented corsages to the mother and the wife of the guest speaker.

Following dinner Mrs. Bert Messacar furnished the piano accompaniment and led a very lively sing-song of specially written lyrics for the occasion.

Mr. Glenn Salter, president of the Y's Men's Club, presided over the program for the evening.

Mrs. John Hayman, president of the Y's Monettes, introduced the head table — Mrs. Bert Messacar, Mr. Graham Gold and (Tony's and mom's program secretary) two lively, love-headed future right-wingers, Masters Bobby Hull, Jr., and Blake Hull. Mrs. Robert Hull, Sr., Mr. Jack Sisson, (chairman of the program committee for the Board of Directors), Susan Sisson, Mrs. Jack Sisson, Anne Sisson, Kay Ellis, Faye Ellis, Miss Mildred Grey (women's and girl's secretary), Don Lonsdale, Mrs. Hugh Watson, Kathy Watson, Mr. Terry Marson (chairman of youth work committee for Y's Men), Mrs. Jack Ellis, Mr. Hugh Watson (president of Board of Directors of YMCA), Mrs. Bobby Hull, Mr. Glenn Salter (president of Y's Men's Club), Mr. Bobby Hull, Steve Burtch, Mrs. John Hayman, His Worship Mayor Jack Ellis and Mr. Bert Messacar (general secretary of YMCA).

MAYOR SPEAKS

Mr. Hugh Watson brought greetings from the Board and Mayor Jack, good wishes from the City Council, "which is a big family effort." Mayor Ellis said, "and all members of City Council consider the 'Y' program very fine and very necessary to the welfare of our city." He also stressed that, even though a young person shows ability in athletics, he or she should not neglect to procure a good education.

Mr. Bert Messacar welcomed the guests and gave an outline of the YMCA summer activities. He suggested immediate registration in the swimming classes and in "Day Camp" in order to be sure that the children may enjoy the very extensive program. Instead of the usual program, "Day Camp" will consist of trips to beaches, provincial parks, historical and conservation areas, nature lore, camp crafts, overnight camping, cookouts, and hikes.

FRIENDLY CHAT

Mr. Terry Marson introduced Mr. Bobby Hull. Modest and magnetic, Mr. Hull proved to be a very unusual guest speaker. With much ease he drew his audience to him in a manner which created the illusion of a friendly chat. He gave an insight into his family life and his life as an N.H.L. star and as a member of his Chico go hockey club. He cited the predictions of his secondary school teachers that he should study more and play hockey less if he ever hoped to become a success in life.

"They were right," he said, "for you should not neglect your education. If anyone among you should show great promise in hockey you should contact colleges and endeavour to obtain a hockey scholarship."

He continues, "Though all you children are applauding because there is no school tomorrow, always remember that these are the best years of your lives. Make the most of them."

In a question and answer period following Mr. Hull's talk, it was interesting to notice that the girls were even more interested than boys. Children's questions are very forthright and their hero was quizzed about his diet, his anticipated years in the game, his muscles in general to view same, his skates and his hockey stick, and his choice of a team to best the Russians. All these questions he answered with great grace and many interesting anecdotes.

Mr. Don Lonsdale thanked Mr. Hull and presented him with a gift. Miss Mary Ellen Nurse proposed a toast to the parents, which was responded to by Mr. Terry McCabe.

Mr. Jack Sisson announced the presentation of awards. Miss Mildred Grey and Mr. Graham Goldart asked the winners to come forward and these awards were personally presented by Mr. Hull. The awards numbered in the hundreds. Those who did not receive their crests at the dinner are asked to contact Mr. Goldart at his office or telephone or in person.

Mr. Steve Burtch thanked the Y's Men and Y's Monettes for sponsoring this delightful dinner.

Miss Fern Baker is greeted by English Department Head Mr. Trumble at a party thrown yesterday afternoon by the Quinte Secondary staff for Grade 13 students.

Hold Party for Grade 13 Quinte Students

The memories of five years came back to the Grade 13 students of Quinte Secondary School yesterday afternoon as their teachers threw a party for them to say goodbye and wish them well. In a few days the students will begin their departmental exams and will graduate so this was the last bit of encouragement their teachers could give them.

Mr. E. A. Orr, Superintendent of the Bay of Quinte High School District, spoke to the Grade 13's. Grade 13 students were also invited.

RETIREMENT GIFT of Manly Macdonald painting is admired by Ontario School for the Deaf home economics teacher Miss Kay Daly and school superintendent J. G. Demeza. Miss Daly is retiring after 40 years at OSD.

OSD Teachers Honor Miss Katherine Daly

The Ontario School for the Deaf Teachers' Association bade farewell to 16 of its members Thursday evening as it held its annual banquet and retirement party at the Holloway Street United Church.

All 16 teachers leaving the OSD at Belleville were honored with presentations, but the one the evening had special significance.

For Miss Katherine Daly, home economics teacher at the school, it meant retirement — after 40 years as a teacher of the deaf.

Approximately 135 persons, including members of the teaching staff, their wives or husbands, former teachers and special guests, attended the retirement party, which saw Miss Daly presented with a Manly Macdonald painting.

A number of speakers, teacher Mr. A. J. Clare, school superintendent J. G. Demeza and W. K. Clarke, administrator of schools for the deaf and blind, and Dr. John Boyd, former teacher spoke in tribute of the retiring staff member.

Special guests at the dinner included Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Cunningham and personal friends of Miss Daly, Miss Joy Nichols, Miss Grace Tucker, Miss Lillian Hart, Miss Marjorie Hegle and her mother, Mrs. E. Hegle, S. Alec Gordon and Miss Florence Fitzgerald.

MAKE PRESENTATION

Roger Rawlings, chairman of the 20-member OSD Teachers' Association, acted as chairman for the banquet party, while Mr. Clare gave the presentation address. Mr. W. J. Morrison, former school superintendent was one of the guests.

Presentations to the other 15 teachers leaving the Belleville school were made by Mr. Demeza and Mrs. Ruth Bates.

Miss Daly joined the OSD staff in 1926, following graduation from Toronto University and from Ottawa Teachers' College. She taught a junior academic class until 1930, left the city briefly during the war to teach in the deaf at Hamilton, and returned following the war to revamp the present home economics room at the school.

It was under Miss Daly's direction that the policy of serving birthday dinners at the school was established, thus filling the dual role of honoring senior students and also giving practical training in meal planning.

Seven of the teachers leaving OSD at the end of the present school term are being transferred to the Milton School for the Deaf. They are Miss E. A. Bonter, Miss M. J. Gibson, Miss D. M. Savage, Mr. D. A. Schiller, Miss D. McDonald and Mr. and Mrs. D. Rowbotham.

Eight of the teachers are leaving for other schools or for personal reasons. They are Miss O. M. Sevilla and Miss D. Ventura, Philippines girls, who are transferring to a deaf school in Florida. Bryan D. Davies, Mrs. Marion Goulah, Mrs. Dorothy Cameron, Mrs. Mildred Bowers, Mrs. Edna Cameron and Mrs. Mary Vincent.

IN MEMORIAM

FORSEITH, Arnold — In memory of a dear husband and father who passed away May 28, 1965.

We watched him suffer day by day
And longed to take away
The pain that slowly grew worse.
But God knew best and gave us more
Than we could bear and days of pain
His troubled nights are passed;
He has no fear of death or pain
He has found sweet rest at last.
Dearest Dad, we will meet you
Over there.

Where parting is no more,
Over there, over there,
Has only gone before.
Dear Dad, how much I miss him,
He counts the tears I shed,
But I'll see him over there,
over there.
Your husband is not dead —
Gone from your sight, 'tis true,
He is not dead,
He is just gone as well,
where we shall meet and hand
In hand
I'll clasp,
And never, never, farewell,
Always remembered by wife
Connie.

FORSEITH, — In loving memory of our father Arnold Forseith who left us one year today, May 28 1965.

Please God, forgive a silent tear,
Dear Father, if it falls,
For we are always with you, dear,
But in our memories.
Dear Dad, how much we miss you,
To our father in heaven above,
Some day we'll meet you,
And give him all our love.
Sadly missed by son Gerald and family.

THOMPSON — In loving memory of a dear mother, Mabel F. Thompson, who passed away May 28, 1960.

In a quiet country graveyard,
Where the wild flowers grow,
Lies the one we loved so dearly,
But God loved her so
He laid her head among heaven,
Where the angels sing,
To our father in heaven above,
Some day we'll meet you,
And give him all our love.
Sadly missed by son Gerald and family.

THOMPSON — In loving memory of a dear mother, Mabel F. Thompson, who passed away May 28, 1960.

Sweet memories linger around her,
Gentle and kind and dear,
What it meant to lose you,
No one will ever know.
When we are sad and lonely,
And everything goes wrong,
We look up to the heavens above,
Cheer up and sorry no.
Dear mother, you are gone,
But memories linger on,
Sadly missed by daughter Phyllis, son-in-law Jim and grandchildren Ronnie and Brenda.

THOMPSON — In loving memory of a dear mother, Mabel F. Thompson, who passed away May 28, 1960.

If I had all the world to give,
To give it you and more,
And if I had the power,
And greater far to do,
But all I can do dear mother,
Is go and remember you.
And leave behind tokens of love,
To you the best mother God ever made,
Like to think when life is done,
We'll meet where no parting is said.
Shall be there to welcome me,
Up there to welcome me.
Sadly missed by daughter Phyllis, son-in-law Jim and grandchildren.

Those days in the same old way,

Or how the tears we often flow,
Sadly missed by husband Ernie and family.

No one will ever know,
How much we remembered and

EMBURY — In loving memory of our husband and father Rudolph Embury, who passed away May 28th, 1964.

But memory is found.
Sadly missed and remembered by wife Edith and family.

BROWNING — In loving memory of a dear son, Ronald Browning, who passed away May 28, 1964.

He heard our prayers,
He saw our tears,
He said goodbye to none,
One heavenly gates were opened,
A loving voice said "come",
He bravely turned and smiled,
We thought he'd stay with us,
We wonder now he went so far,
Why he left us we'll never know,
Though out of sight, you're ever near,
And always will be in memory,
Until we meet.
Sadly remembered by Harold, Val and Laura Lee.

BROWNING — In loving memory of Robert Browning who passed away May 28, 1964.

They who think that you are gone,
Do not know your love lives on,

And always will, in memory,
Sadly missed and remembered by Mae Turner and family.

BROWNING — In ever loving memory of a dear husband, father, and dear grandad who passed away one year ago today, May 28, 1965.

As I loved you, so I miss you,
Only memory is left to me,
Loved, remembered, longed for always,
Treasured with a love sincere,
Now I'm gone you must remember,
Time can't change or alter you,
Yet I know you will remember,
Never always and ever.
—Always remembered by wife Evelyn.

BROWNING, Robert — In ever loving memory of a dear dad, who passed away one year ago today, May 28, 1965.

We treasure still, our love sincere,
Beautiful memories of so dear,
Never forgotten by Bob, George, Eddie and Elaine.

31-FOOT SLOOP VICTORIA II was lowered into the water yesterday afternoon as Belleville Marine Yards, Limited. The buyer, John Hilton, a Toronto lawyer, was on hand to view the launching. The auxiliary fibreglass sloop, designed by Cuthbertson and Cassian, Port Credit, was named after Victoria College and is scarlet and gold, the college colors. By the end of July, seven more of the M-31 series sloops, now on order, are scheduled to be completed at Belleville Marine Yards, according to T. P. Morch. Said he: "We're going to have a real production line going." Mayor Jack Ellis was also on hand for the launching.

Crown Grant Found In Attic Will Be Presented to Museum

An 1804 Crown Grant, deeding Belleville's East Hill to its first owner, came to light in a local attic last winter. Monday night it will be presented to Hastings County Museum by a great-great granddaughter of its pioneer owner.

The sheepskin document, issued during the reign of George III, deeded to John Taylor 100 acres of the east hill district, from John St. east to Ann Street and from the bay shore north to Victoria Avenue.

Taylor fled to Canada from New York State after the American Revolution and was among the pioneer settlers of Thurlow. His farm was one of the first along the front to be cleared. It was said to have, by 1816, "fine buildings and an orchard."

The old gentleman is remembered chiefly in the city's annals for three acts. During the laying out of Belleville in 1816, he threw the opening party of his land. When troops were mustered during the War of 1812 he provided billets in his house. And he put his Scottish reverence for education to practical use by serving as one of the three members of Belleville's first school board in 1816.

The Taylor homestead survived until this spring. It was the white frame house on Dundas St. East just west of Deacon's shirt factory. The rear wing of this house formed the original Taylor kitchen.

SEAL STILL ATTACHED

The Crown Grant, with its great wax Royal Seal still attached, is in an excellent state of preservation. Its presentation to the museum will be one of the highlights of the Hastings County Historical Society's annual meeting on Monday night at 8 p.m. in Corby Public Library.

This meeting is also the Society's tribute to the 150th anniversary of Belleville's birth. A giant birthday cake, decorated to form a map of Belleville in 1816, has been prepared for the occasion.

Presiding at the punch bowl will be a descendant of Margaret Simpson, owner of Belleville's first tavern, the meeting place where the city was named. Also to be on hand to blow out the 150 candles on the birthday cake will be descendants of some of the men responsible for changing the settlement's name from "Meyers Creek" to "Belleville."

Nick Mika, author of the new book "Mosaic of Belleville" will speak on the sources material and problems he encountered in producing his book.

GUEST SPEAKER Lee Grills congratulates Douglas Crosier as the trainee making most significant progress in "Program 5". Ed. J. Buckley, (right) program co-ordinator, looks on.

Present Diplomas on Friday To 169 Program 5 Students

Re-training of the unemployed and workers wishing to upgrade their technical skills, has been encouraging progress since the Canadian Vocational Training Program "5" was started in the city three years ago.

Friday evening at Quinte Secondary School a total of 169 Program "5" trainees were eligible to receive diplomas — a greater number than there were trainees two years ago.

During the past term a total of 300 persons were enrolled in the various courses. Of this general number approximately 34 percent were "drop-outs", another 22 left their studies to take jobs, and eight were arbitrarily dropped from the courses.

Training co-ordinator Ed. J. Buckley said the number graduating was encouraging in view of the comparatively high employment level.

TOP STUDENT

Of the 169 people graduating, 23-year-old Douglas Crosier of Ameliasburg was judged to have made the most significant progress.

On four papers Douglas rang-ed between 70 and 96 percent and had an average of 81 per cent to lead his class at the Grade 11 level. He received the Quinte Secondary District High School Board award for the highest standing in Level III and the Belleville Chamber of Commerce Trades and Labor Council award for the most significant gain.

In a brief talk to graduating students, Mr. Buckley said that Program "5" was intended only for those who have control over their ambitions and energies or who have developed them.

"It is only for those who can or will learn, to direct their efforts and to be responsible ones. It is only for those who come with determination — to stand on their own feet and be people with purpose and pride," he said.

He said that Program "5" was an educational program designed to provide training for unemployed persons with the purpose of improving their employment opportunities by increasing their basic education, trade, technical or occupational competence.

It was also designed to assist-ing the trainee financially during his period of trial and at the same time taking advantage of unemployment to upgrade his educational abilities to a point where he may be accepted by industry or be able to further develop trade skills.

Now during the past training season on a course for certified visiting homemakers. Four-teen local women took the course and last night received their certificates.

Guest speaker for last night's graduation exercises was Lee Grills, federal member of Parliament for Hastings West.

Mr. Grills said that Program "5" was doing a great service to Canada and more particularly to the individual concerned. He said there was a continuing shortage of highly trained persons in Canada.

"It is said, with some justification, that parliament is in a bad way," Mr. Grills said, "that it spends-too much time at parliaments wrangling and not enough on the country's business."

He agreed that to some extent this was true but said there are a few things which should be kept in mind.

Parliament, Mr. Grills said, had always been an institution with strong political overtones, this perhaps being inevitable under a party system. In the past, however, there has usually been a period of relative calm during which parliament was able to perform its legislative duties.

In recent years with minority governments in effect, parliament has been fighting a continuous election campaign and too often the first consideration has been partisan or political expediency rather than the public interest, Mr. Grills declared.

He said too that parliament collectively had failed to keep pace with changes in public attitude.

Another problem was that the current parliament had failed to establish a geographical concen-sus.

An added complication was the fact that regional alignment of parties has taken place at a time when the country was faced with social, racial, constitutional, cultural and economic problems of a difficulty and complexity unequalled in history.

"The instability within the House of Commons is perhaps no more than a reflection of the instability within our society generally," Mr. Grills said.

"Once we come to grips with these problems and solve them — and I won't do over-night — the results will be reflected pretty quickly in parliament."

United Church Favors China Being Admitted

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Warning of its "deep sense of impatience," the Rev of Quinte conference of the United Church of Canada called on the federal government Friday to take every available step to bring Communist China into the United Nations.

The resolution was endorsed by the conference after amendment of an earlier draft that used such words as "dismay" and "disgust" and described the government's actions so far as a "cowardly abdication."

The conference also called on the government to continue seeking peace in Viet Nam on the basis of the 1954 Geneva accord "even if this is an impudence and total disassociation from the American policy in Viet Nam."

A third resolution urged the government to dobible its foreign aid spending to an amount equalling one per cent of the gross national product—the total value of all goods and services. This resolution also recommended the government for increasing foreign aid spending over the last decade.

Rev. J. A. Davidson of Kingston was installed as president for the 1966-67 conference, succeeding Rev. Harry M. Davis of Belleville.

United Church Meet Favors End of Religion in Schools

KINGSTON (CP) — Delegates to the annual Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church of Canada have voted full support to a recommendation to discontinue Christian religious education in public schools.

The conference's Christian education committee recommended that a new course in social studies and literature be prepared. The course would include the history and literature of the Judeo - Christian heritage and its influence on the development of civilization.

The recommendation was approved by the 400 delegates attending.

The new course would replace the present religious instruction course. Other similar recommendations called for the present practice of denominational and religious instruction at Ontario teachers' colleges to be discontinued.

The education committee asked that specialists prepare student teachers to appreciate the influence of Judeo-Christian history and literature in shaping western and Canadian society.

Also tops on the popular list for this morning were cucumbers at 75 cents, pound mushrooms, 50 cents, potatoes, 55 cents for sacks and 75 for bushels, and snapdragons, 55 cents. Cut tulips sold for 50 cents per bunch. Tomato plants brought 45 cents for 15 and $1.50 for 30. Seed potatoes sold for $1.25 a half-bushel. Eggs were selling for 50 cents per dozen for medium, 55 cents for large, and cents for extra large.

CBC Dispute

Vancouver publisher Stuart Keate, in his report on the recent CBC dispute, says he believes the grievances of producers and supervisors in the broadcasting organization's public affairs section are genuine, "and compounded by a sense of frustration."

"Trained in the arts of communication, they find themselves unable to communicate within their own organization," he observes.

Mr. Keate confirms the widely-held view that the CBC is top-heavy with executives, and hamstrung by the absence of clear-cut administration. "Television executives, with only 14 years behind them, and still groping their way towards mastery of the new instrument, have found themselves blocked off from key posts in the sprawling CBC hierarchy."

Still outstanding is the key issue behind the dispute — the dismissal of Patrick Watson and Laurier LaPierre as co-hosts of the public affairs program This Hour Has Seven Days. And it appears that this matter is closed.

"On the reopening of the case of the two hosts, the CBC will not negotiate," the report says.

However, Mr. Keate makes it plain that the CBC's peremptory dismissal of the two producers left something to be desired. He says the press release the CBC issued on the dismissal "was not satisfactory to me," and that it owed the public a fuller explanation of its stand.

With the Seven Days issue apparently closed, there still remains the possibility of a strike by the Toronto Producers' Association, of which Watson and LaPierre are members. However, Mr. Keate suggests the association suspend its walkout threat pending the organization's review of the firing process and tabling of the government's White Paper on broadcasting.

Mr. Keate's investigation has served to pour oil on troubled waters. All to not well yet with the CBC, but the report gives grounds for belief that administrative problems within the organization will be eliminated and a more satisfactory relationship effected between staff and management.

Still Some Room

With so much talk about the population explosion it is interesting to reflect that some countries, including our own, still have plenty of room to spare.

Canada's population is approaching the 20 million mark, yet in the midst of an area of 3,621,616 square miles the wide open spaces still rein supreme.

Compare this with China, which with a land mass only slightly larger than that of Canada boasts a population of some 700 million. Even the populous United States (3,548,193 square miles) currently supports its 200 millions with ease, not forgetting the pockets of poverty that do exist in that affluent land.

As for space, well you can drive through the southwest, through desolate tracts of Arizona and New Mexico, or along the 49th parallel, in Montana and Wyoming, and not see a soul. Regions like these are the last frontiers of our world, places where one neither expects nor wants to see people. Instead, one gazes at such marvels of nature as the Grand Canyon and suddenly man's relative insignificance in the universal scheme of things becomes apparent.

In such places man is the intruder and it is difficult to imagine the standing-room only prediction of some observers actually coming to pass.

Consider Australia, the island continent which covers almost three million square miles and has a population of only ten million or so. One reason why Australia has a sizeable force in Viet Nam is that it now considers itself part of Asia and fears its unpopulated regions are vulnerable to attack from the north. Yet its population is currently on the decline — a combination of revolutionary new methods of birth control and emphasis on material things rather than on family life.

Tasmania, Australia's island state, covers an area of 26,215 square miles, and has a population of some 300,000, while Ireland, which is not much larger, is also considered under-populated with four million or so people.

One more interesting comparison. Sweden, with nearly twice the area of the United Kingdom (94,279 square miles and about 70 million people), has less than a seventh of the population. And Denmark, covering only 16,556 square miles, has some 4,500,000 people, while Norway, with an area of 124,580 square miles, has only 3,500,000.

Thus, the world still has lots of room in places. Where the problem lies is in the under-developed and over-populated countries of Asia and Africa and Latin America. It is this imbalance which must be corrected if the dire predictions of scientists concerning population and dwindling food reserves are not to come to pass.

Ottawa Offbeat

Mackenzie King's Positive Leadership Missing Today

By RICHARD JACKSON

From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Odd, isn't it, the way they still talk in the Commons, after nearly 20 years, of Prime Minister William Lyon Mackenzie King?

Liberal, Conservative, New Democrat, even Creditiste — for Real Canada was here in force at the Prime Ministerial years—all regard him with a certain awe something approaching reverence.

The veterans of the House, the Past Martins, Jack Pickeringills, John Diefenbakers, Tommy Douglas' and Stanley Knowles' remember him in life.

The newer Parliamentary recruits, especially the freshman class from the last election, know him in legend.

Perhaps it is because this is an era of uncertain, minority, crisis-ridden governments—first Conservative, and now Liberal — that the King years are remembered warmly, always with respect, often with affection.

The very solidity of his administrations, those from 1935 to the end of his years, have a strong appeal to the politically unstable Parliaments of these last three minority elections.

DAYS OF DECISION

Now, never knowing what the new crisis, scandal, deadlock or upset the day may bring to convulse the Commons, the MPs, veteran and rookie alike, regard Macking as, above all else, a man of decision, and his time, even in the war years, as one of stability.

"You always knew," recalls Conservative Leader Diefenbaker with unconcealed admiration, "where things flood — usually exactly where Mr. King wanted them."

After Sir John A. Macdonald, surely his Parliamentary idol, Diefenbaker regards Mackinzie King as the greatest of them all.

He collects and decorates his Centre Block offices and the lobby of his Rockcliffe Village residence, Stornoway, with relics of the life and times of "Old Tomorrow."

But it is in the image of the "Old Master," as he calls Mackenzie King, that he likes to see himself reflected in the Commons.

"Mr., King," he remarked with some relish during last year's opening day of the sessions snapshot Lucien Rivard's long reach into High Parliamentary Finance, "would never have gotten himself into such a mess as that!"

And you could almost hear Paul Martin sitting there nodding in silent agreement as he thought back on how it used to be in the days when Mackenzie King ruled and reigned to run the Minister's East Block office as though it were a throne room.

They like to swap stories in the Liberal lobby back at the Commons these days about "the old Mackenzie-charge-guy," as they have taken to calling him, and Macking must have been.

Though the record have two days before the Royal Visit to Ottawa in 1939, Mackenzie King remembered to remind the National War Memorial into Confederation Square.

NO WAITING TIME

There was the great statue, now familiar to all Canadians, but then new and standing in solitary grandeur with nothing behind it.

Sod the square, plant trees and flowers, ordered Macking, late in the day, and have it done by morning.

Trees, what kind and size, were they to be?

"Big elms," he told them, "I haven't got time to wait for small ones to grow."

And so it was done — it had better be, since wearing two administrative hats, he not only was Prime Minister but person-al boss of the Federal District Commission which landscaped Federal Ottawa — as directed, by morning.

Mackenzie King was always where the action was — but he made sure that he was in charge, long the time, place and situation for inaction.

Like to the Commons the other day when one of his noted pupils, Transport Minister Pickersgill, was asked, as Acting House Leader, what the day's business for tomorrow might be.

Well, he replied, in reflection, if it wasn't this, it would be that, or maybe something else.

With such impeccable credentials for adequate qualification, he beamed in triumph, "Mackenzie King would be proud of me."

It is for somebody in the Mackenzie King mould of political know-how and administrative do-it that both Liberals and Conservatives are suddenly looking as new leader-designate.

Natural Gas Found in U.K.

Montreal Gazette

A Canadian oil company last week struck natural gas in the Yorkshire moors of northeast Britain and this discovery has set off speculation that the discoveries in the North Sea of the last few months find what is likely to be the future of the British economy.

The size of the various discoveries is not known in every detail. It is natural the companies involved are reluctant to give information until their areas have been tested fully.

Still enough information has been released both on the Canadian find (the first one on the British mainland) and those of the other companies to indicate there are considerable supplies of gas to significantly change the structure of the fuel-supply outlook in Britain in the next decade and beyond.

When it is remembered that one of the fundamental problems of the economy of Britain in the post - war years has been the fuel and energy question, the potential in these discoveries takes on a practical importance.

Spasms Involuntary Contraction of Muscles

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes spasm of the diaphragm? — A. S.

Dear Doctor: After a dozen painful attacks, my trouble was diagnosed as a cardiac spasm with blocking of the esophagus, so that during the spasm I cannot swallow anything, even water.

These seem to occur only when I drink something alcoholic, even a small amount. Is there any treatment other than abstinence? — L. L.

These are different types of spasms but having in common somewhat similar areas. A spasm is an abrupt, involuntary contraction of muscles. Common hiccups is spasm of the diaphragm, and there are several causes — dehydration, irritation of the stomach, irritation of the diaphragm itself as from infection or following surgery. Less commonly, there are chemical derangements which can cause it.

Now let's move a few inches upward and discuss spasm of the esophagus, or gullet. This can occur anywhere along that tube, or even at the lower point at which it enters the stomach. This is cardiospasm.

It can occur in highly nervous persons who often describe the condition as a "lump in the throat," although the trouble really is a bit lower.

Irritating food or drink can cause such a spasm — in the burning case, the lyrical ing drink is alcohol. The treatment is obvious: Avoid alcohol. I do not know of any alternative.

Other familiar causes of spasm on the esophagus include hiatal hernia; defects of the esophagus such as narrowing, scarring, a diverticulum or pouch; and pressures from outside the organ. A chest tumor, for example, could press against it. In some individuals with "nerves," the spasm can be a hysterical manifestation.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 17 and 5 feet 4½ inches tall and weigh 104 pounds. I hope to be accepted by a nursing school, and want to put on some weight so they won't think I'm sickly.

I don't eat much for breakfast because my stomach has shrunk and eating a good balanced breakfast sickens me unless I am really hungry. I make up for it at lunch and dinner and eat like a horse, but I still don't seem to put on a pound. — K. K.

The nursing school is interested in brains, not weight, so just be sure your grades are good.

And stop making excuses that aren't pertinent. A nurse has to be a hearty eater. Your excuse is "shrunk" at breakfast, it is "shrunk" at lunch and dinner, too. So that's not the real reason why you skimp breakfast.

My guess is that you've just acquired a habit and you're a breakfast. Start eating a better breakfast, and that will help. Try four meals a day, adding one afternoon or evening snack.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is hemolytic anemia? What causes it, and can it be cured? — Mrs. H. F. M.

It is an anemia in which the red cells are very fragile and break up or hemolyze.

There are different types. Some are familiar, or inherited, and removal of the spleen is curative. Other types result from poisoning or severe infection, and treatment depends on correcting the underlying cause, plus supportive therapy.

Children's Library

UNESCO Features

The exciting new building of the Children's Library of Ghana, a Paris suburb, stands in splendid space in the middle of a huge modern housing estate. Surrounded by tall, red-bricked apartment blocks, the low white building is in the form of nine squat interlocking cylinders painted white, and with flat projecting roofs.

The library, reserved for children only, is the first of its kind in France; already more than a thousand young readers between 6 and 14 have registered there. When they use the library, they have to take off their shoes — as in an Eastern temple — and walk around on the heated floors in their stockinged feet.

Two large circular rooms with light wood panelling — the reading room and the lending room — contain 4,000 volumes. Among them are some 250 books in foreign languages (English, Polish, Danish, and even Japanese); the children "read" them by listening to a recorded translation over headphones.

Another room is reserved for younger children between 4 and 7: here, chairs, tables and shelves are all specially built to their scale. There are plenty of picture books for children who have not yet learnt to read, and there is a "story-room" where, once a week, one of the librarians tells them a story and shows them lantern slides, or arranges a marionette performance.

Yet another large room has been turned into a studio where the children can paint, model or make lino-cuts under the supervision of an assistant from the Paris Museum of Decorative Arts.

The children see also borrow pictures — reproductions of famous works of art especially chosen as being likely to appeal to the young: mediaeval miniatures, Van Gogh landscapes, colorful abstracts by Klee. The children can choose one from the reproductions available, all filed in cellophane covers in large drawers, fit it in a wood-en frame supplied by the library, and take it home to hang it on their bedroom wall for a fortnight.

Ocean Fleet Impractical

Victoria Daily Times

Another call has gone out for the creation of a Canadian deep-sea merchant fleet, this time from the Shipyard General Workers' Federation, which wants to move the provincial cabinet to marshal support for the idea.

The demand that the Federal Government take action to recreate a Canadian Merchant marine — which would admittedly require heavy subsidization both to build the ships and run them — is such a perennial that Ottawa's predictable reaction is to brush off the idea as impractical and uneconomic.

Given the fact that Canadian shipyards cannot compete with a number of foreign yards in construction costs, and that Canadian deep-sea sailors years ago priced themselves out of the labor market, there is considerable reason to believe that Ottawa is correct.

Merchant marine proponents are not satisfied with this answer, however, and they raise the points that a Canadian merchant fleet would supply many jobs in ship building, maintaining, and running the system, with the taxes on their wages offsetting to some degree the cost of subsidizing.

Additionally it is pointed out that Canada could save millions of dollars annually in foreign exchange which is now paid to other countries in shipping charges, thus helping to ease the balance of payments deficit.

This sounds logical enough but there are some additional factors which the merchant marine boosters fail to take into account.

One of these is that the experience of the United States shows that even with heavy subsidies — $400 millions last year, four times what it was 19 years ago — the American flag fleet's share of United States trade has slumped to less than nine per cent — and this with a law that states that at least 50 per cent of any government-sponsored cargo (foreign aid, for instance) must be shipped in American bottoms.

Another consideration is the effect on Canada's export trade if, in an attempt to keep the merchant fleet afloat or to compete with foreign vessels, there were any requirements for using Canadian ships to carry Canadian goods. With most of production in this country steadily rising there is enough danger that Canadian goods will be priced out of foreign markets without increasing the risk.

It is distressing to see shipyard workers on this coast bring bold off because of lack of new contracts. But the recreation of a Canadian merchant marine as a makework project is not the long-term answer to this problem.

May 25, 1966 . . .

The Turkish and Russian empires signed a peace treaty at Bucharest 154 years ago today—in 1812—much against the wishes of Napoleon, who had scheduled the Turks to keep Russia busy and out of Europe. But the treaty of Bucharest ended Russian backing of the Serbian independence movement, which had thrown out Turkish troops in 1806 under Karageorge. The Turks moved back in 1813 and were faced with a second rising in 1815 led by Milosh Obrenovich. This began a blood feud between the Obrenovich and Karageorge families which led to the assassinations, in 1868 and 1903, of two Obrenovich kings of Serbia.

1945—A fire at Qebec took 30 lives and destroyed 3,500 buildings.

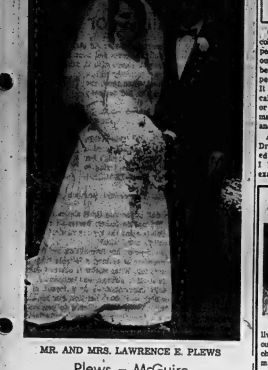
Teaching Overseas

External Affairs

Canada has more teachers abroad at present under its various aid programs than ever before. For the academic year 1966-67 there are 154 teachers and university staff assigned to 48 overseas jurisdictions. Six years ago there were only 16 teachers serving abroad, compared to 432 today.

Mathematics, 73 and teaching languages, 27 technical subjects and 21 general subjects. More than a third of the total members are teacher - trainers. The largest number comes from Quebec (124); from Ontario there are 116, from British Columbia 49 and from Alberta 43.



There are now six Canadian teachers and university staff in Nigeria and 60 in Ghana, out of a total of 154 in the Commonwealth countries of Africa. There are 154 serving in the French-speaking African countries and 11 in Cambodia, Laos and South Viet Nam. In the Colombo Plan countries of Pakistan, India, Malaysia, Singapore and Thailand there are 57 Canadian teachers and university staff. There are 87 in the Commonwealth countries of the Caribbean and two in Samoa.

White Line Guide Only

Ottawa Journal

A motorist with his eye on the broken white line in the centre of the road pulled out and hauled a car on a straight stretch of Ontario highway the other day. He got a ticket. His defence that the white line permitted passing was no help at all, for he had passed a vehicle within 100 feet of an intersection, which is provincial law. Depending on the road was misleading.

The Highway Traffic Act of Ontario is clear that white lines merely a guide. Almost every driver can think of places where the centre line of the highway is broken but to pass is risky. There are roads where broken lines later change to solid ones, after the highway people tallied up accident statistics. The white line is usually a motorist's best friend but infallible it is not.

MR. AND MRS. LAWRENCE E. PLEWS

Plews – McGuire

Mary Ann McGuire, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McGuire of Belleville and Lawrence Edward Plews, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Plews of R. R. 1 Londale, were united in marriage by Rev. T. J. Boyle in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel on Saturday, May 21, 1966 at 11.00 a.m.

Sister Mary Avila played the wedding music and Mr. Clifford Hunt was soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown of peau de faille trimmed with re - embroidered Alencon lace around the scoop neckline, down the fitted bodice to the waistline and extending to the back. Additional lace appliques were centred on the lower edge of the front and chapel train fell from the peplum at the back waistline. Her headdress was a three - tier elbow - length veil held by a crown of flowers and seed pearls and she carried a crescent cascade bouquet of pink sensation roses and white Shasta 'mums.

The bridal attendants were Mrs. Daniell Dotzko, matron of honor, and Miss Marlene Durand and Mrs. Elmhe Cruickshank, sister of the bridegroom, as bridesmaids. They were floor-length dresses of a sheer pink-lish - coral organza overlay covering pink brocade, styled with fitted bodices, low rounded neckline, elbow - length sleeves, and skirts with soft flat pleats. Their headpieces were wedding rings centred with organza roses and tulle netting. Their flowers were colonial bouquets of nonfragrant sweetheart roses, white pom - poms and lily-of-the-valley.

Mr. Raymond Plews was his brother's attendant and the ushers were Mr. James McGuire Jr., brother of the bride and Mr. Elmer Cruickshank.

The St. John Ambulance Brigade Cadet Nursing Division of Belleville formed an honor guard as the bridal party left the church after the ceremony.

Readers' Saturday Column

QUESTION: I enjoy your column so much and your recipes have been so popular with our family. I am sure you will be able to help me find a recipe which I am anxious to have. It is a marshmallow cream cake with a type of shortbread or wafer-type bottom. The marshmallow top has cherries and nuts in it.

ANSWER: Marshmallow Dream Squares (below) appeared here December 4, 1965 and I believe fit your description exactly.

SATURDAY
Dinner Menu
by Mary
Moore

Sauteed crumbed chicken livers with bacon (see Fri.), curried rice, cauliflower in cheese sauce, sliced tomatoes and cucumber salad, sour cream dressing, orange jelly roll (see Thurs. for orange jelly for filling), coffee.

MARSHMALLOW DREAM SQUARES

Base:
¾ cup soft butter
1½ cup lightly packed light brown sugar
1¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour

Topping:
2 envelopes (2 tablespoons) unflavored gelatine
½ cup cold water
2 cups granulated sugar
½ cup warm water
1 cup chopped red or green maraschino cherries (or ½ cup each chopped cherries and mixed peel)
½ cup chopped almonds, blanched or unblanched
1 teaspoon almond flavoring
10 or 12 drops red food coloring
¼ cup

To make base: Cream butter, blend in brown sugar. Add flour and combine well. Press dough evenly into a 9" x 12" pan; prick well. Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for 20 minutes, or until golden. Cool.

To make topping: Soften gelatine in cold water. Combine sugar and warm water in saucepan; bring to boil and boil 2 minutes. Remove from heat. Stir softened gelatine into hot syrup. Beat with rotary beater or electric mixer until very stiff. Add cherries (or cherries and peel), almonds, flavoring and coloring to tint a delicate pink. Pour over baked shortbread layer. Allow to cool for several hours until surface gloss disappears. Cut into 2" squares. Use within 2 or 3 days of the time this is made.

QUESTION: Could you give me a meringue that would stand up, after taken from oven? Mine seems to keep getting thinner as time goes on. Many thanks. — Mrs. C. D.

HOW TO MAKE MERINGUE (that does not fall, weep, toughen, or become sticky)
2 egg whites
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
6 tablespoons sugar

Add the salt and cream of tartar to the egg whites and beat until quite foamy. Then while beating, add the sugar gradually and beat until all sugar is added and meringue is very stiff. When putting meringue on filling on pie (if think filling should still be quite warm) be sure to seal it carefully all round the crust edge by piling the meringue on the centre of the pie, then working it out toward the edges. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr for 18 minutes.

Age of the Enormous Jets About Ready to Blast Off

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

Now that the first grasp of shock has subsided over the Boeing 747, an skytrains that will carry nearly 500 passengers, the inevitable questions arise. And some of them are staggering.

Will the impossible commonplace these days, at least on the technical level, the head-shaking is little more conservative than it was when the first passenger jets were introduced.

Then we wondered how long it would take to build runways to accommodate them around the world. And whether pilots could be trained to operate the planes twice as fast and technically far different from what they were used to. And what effect greater speeds and altitudes would have on passengers.

All these questions have been answered satisfactorily in the past eight years. But Pan American Airways' Commitment of more than half a billion dollars — with a quick follow-up by competing airlines — has opened a whole new can of peas.

Some of the problems are being efficiently tackled by the manufacturer. Baggage will be speeded, theoretically, by dehydrated suitcases (Jetsam, incidentally already in use with only moderate success.). Passengers will be whisked with fair speed through four extra-wide doors, two on each side of the fuselage, and then seated in aisle-and-or boarded alphabetically. Present runways are said to be adequate for the take-off of the plane, nearly twice that of present large jets.

BEYOND HORIZON

But the answers to some other questions still are beyond the horizon.

One of the first that comes to mind is that of terminal facilities. Throughout the world, even in the modern airports, checking-in even now is a long, nerve-wrecking experience.

An absolute of 120 passengers is requested to check in one hour before flight time. How will they cope with 500 have to arrive? How will they all get to the airport at the same time? Where will the buses and taxis unload? Will there be enough of them?

How long will passengers have to wait for transportation on arrival? How long will they have to wait on line to check in, dragging their bags along the floor to the counter? Where do they all stand? Where will they all sit after check-in?

How long will it take to go through customs and immigration on arrival, a process that even now can take an hour or more in New York, where international flights arrive as if each passenger were a hot tip on a smuggler? What happens when several planeloads of 500 arrive at the same time — something that will inevitably occur?

The greater capacity of the planes is expected to lead to lower fares and hence more business. Fine. But what happens when 500 passengers are scheduled to arrive at once in cities like Copenhagen, Oslo, Buenos Aires or New Delhi, where first-class accommodations — sometimes any accommodations — are scarce under the best of conditions?

Of course there will be fewer flights, but not all passengers will be arriving on the superjumpers; many will have arrived by other means, and still be occupying hotel rooms. How will travel agents be able to arrange itineraries? What happens when a big flight is cancelled and hotel managers leave turn-out halls all over the lobby floor?

Within two years after the giant jets go into service, twice-as-fast supersonics will be making the scene. Fares will probably be lower on the Lowlands, but that didn't keep prop plane seats from going begging a few years ago.

If the big jobs turned out to be white elephants, the economic consequences to the travel industry could be disastrous. At $20,000,000 a plane, the airlines will be a lot deeper in hock than they were for today's jets — a hole which, it must be admitted, they have been very adept at digging. But then they'll have finance supersonics also.

Surely, naturally, is in the back of everyone's mind. The new planes will have incorporated into them everything that has been learned over the years and will certainly be as safe as man can make them.

No one, of course, wants to think about the traumatic effect of 500 persons dying in a single accident. Could it ever be? Well, Ever is a long time. Would it set back the travel industry more than a lesser catastrophe in a smaller plane? It might.

The only answer is this one is, simply, that progress will not be stayed. More people are eager and able to travel than ever before, and they must be accommodated. Everything humanly possible will be done to protect them. But no one has ever been able to guarantee 100 per cent safety in any form of transportation, from a baby buggy on up.

Anyway, we'll see, 1970 should be a very interesting travel year.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN PETER MORAN

Moran – Montgomery

Rev. George Asbury officiated at the double ring ceremony in Victoria United church recently, when Margaret Joy Montgomery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harmon Montgomery, Carrying Place RR 1, was united in marriage to John Peter Moran, Trenton, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Moran.

Mrs. William Faulkner as pianist played appropriate wedding music and accompanied the soloist Mrs. Gordon Fox, cousin of the bride.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length semi-sheath bridal gown of organza over taffeta featuring a Chantilly lace bodice with long lily-point sleeves and a Sabrina neckline. The skirt was enhanced with dainty appliques of Chantilly lace and highlighted at the back with a wetteau train edged with Chantilly lace. A finger-tip veil of silk illusion was caught by a crown of pearls and crystals. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink Sweetheart roses and white baby 'mums.

Miss Mary Montgomery, sister of the bride, as maid of honor and the two bridesmaids Miss Margaret Onderdonk and Miss Pat Townsend were identically attired in street length dresses of nylon organza over taffeta enhanced with short sleeved jackets of Chantilly lace in cotillion blue. They wore matching headdresses and carried nosegays of pink Sweetheart roses and white baby 'mums. The little flower girl was Miss Carolyn Montgomery, sister of the bride who wore a pink bloom nylon organza frock with matching headdress and she carried a tiny wicker basket containing pink carnations and white baby 'mums.

Mr. Paul Greer of Trenton attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Brian Montgomery, brother of the bride and Mr. Jacob Vandervelde, Belleville B R 1, were the ushers.

For the reception in the church basement, the bride's mother received the guests, wearing a silk and wool ensemble in soft aqua shade with matching hat of silk petals, and a corsage of coral tinted carnations.

Before leaving on the honey-moon trip, the bride donned a three-piece sea foam suit with a corsage of coral tinted carnations.

The couple will reside in Belleville.

Overmantel paintings were sometimes painted in the New England homes of the eighteenth century. This painting is in the bar-room of Bump Tavern. (New York State Historical Association, Cooperstown, N.Y.)

Ornamental Paintings Were Not Always Local Scenes

By RALPH and TERRY KOVEL

When an early 1 a n d scape painting is uncovered on the wall of an eighteenth-century house the scene was often thought to be of a local spot. Research has now shown that most of the overmantel paintings popular from about 1750 to 1800 were often inspired by other pictures known to the artist. A few of the paintings depict a local scene, often the house itself.

Most of the overmantel paintings are interpretations of prints or engravings that had been made in Europe. The travelling artist in America has been shown to be a copyist and not the folk artist of great originality he was once considered.

Q. What is an "Old Hickory, Andrew Jackson chair?"

A. About 1900 the Old Hickory Chair Company of Martinsville, Indiana, offered the Andrew Jackson chair for sale. They claimed it was a copy of the chair used by the President. The chair was made from hickory, and had a woven rush seat. The back was curved with three rounded pieces reaching from the back to the upright arm. It cost $2.75 when new.

Q. Can you tell me how to remove an old mirror? I understand it is done today by electroplating. How was it done years ago?

A. The ancient Romans knew how to back a piece of glass with a metallic film. The Venetians were the ones who really perfected the process. The glass makers of Venice had a monopoly on the production of mirrors starting about 1500. By the early seventeenth century an English firm began making looking glasses. The French began in the late seventeenth century.

One of the biggest problems in the manufacturing of mirrors was the making of large flat pieces of glass. The glass was not silvered. A sheet of tin foil and mercury were used as an amalgam until about 1840. A German chemist discovered a method of chemically depositing silver metal on the glass. This is basically the same method used today.

It would be almost impossible for you to resilver your mirror by the tin and mercury method.

Q. Is it true that vaseline glass is not made anymore because it contains uranium?

A. Vaseline glass is a colored pressed glass that was popular after the Civil War. It had the yellow to blue color typical of vaseline petroleum jelly. It is the same refers to almost any glass ware of a similar color made after about 1925.

Uranium was used in some types of glassware with Burmese glassware the most famous. Uranium was not used in all vaseline glass, it is say it is not the reason for the color of vaseline glass. Reproductions of the old yellow glass are being made today.

Women's Institutes

MELROSE W.I.

Mrs. Donald McLaren and Mrs. Harold Buckley were hostesses for the annual meeting of Melrose Women's Institute. Mrs. Gerald Stratton conducted the opening exercises and Mrs. Arthur Loag read the correspondence. During the business period it was decided to look into the possibility of purchasing a trophy to be presented to the Tyrendinaga Calf Club. A generous donation is being given to both the Mental Health and the Cancer Fund. The Tweedsmuir curator gave a report on the progress of the history of the community and stated that pictures are worth more than 1000 words.

Mrs. Jack McLaren conducted the election of officers. They are: past president — Mrs. Gerald Stratton; president — Mrs. E. Pascoe; 1st vice-president — Mrs. Donald McLaren; 2nd vice-president — Mrs. Roy McLaren; secretary-treasurer — Mrs. Arthur Long; district director — Mrs. Gerald Stratton; alternate district director — Mrs. Roy McLaren; pianist — Mrs. Kenneth McMechan; pianist — Mrs. Charles Bales, Sr.; assistant pianist — Mrs. Ivan Badgley; auditors — Mrs. Jack Sherman and Mrs. Harold McAvoy.

The program was in charge of the historical committee convener, Mrs. A. English covered a wide range of subjects when she reported on current events. She mentioned the terrific need for blood donors at the clinic, the food content and manufacturing of the new butter product being produced and alerted the ladies to the facts of L.S.D. Mrs. Jack McLaren read an appropriate poem and Mrs. Raymond Carley gave a reading. Mrs. Clarence Hagerman favored with a number keeping in line with the topic.

The highlight of the evening was a fashion parade which featured styles from the years to the presently popular granny gown. The creations were fashioned from newspapers, tea towels and other such common, everyday materials, making each fashion original and novel. Mrs. Lee Gnaedinger proved to be an excellent commentator as she described each model in an amusing manner.

Successful Living

Little Girl's Doll Now Alive for Her

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS: We have a nine-year-old girl who comes to school every day with a doll at recess and noon she plays only with this doll. She eats with it, sleeps with it, takes it to town. Why does this child live constantly with a doll, and especially at school, when there are so many children her own age and so many interesting things to do?

She does come from a broken home, the father has not been in the home since she was four years old.

My second question is this: This child's mother is a dreadful liar. She has caused a lot of mischief in the community through her lies. What could she possibly be trying to prove? What makes her do this?—TEACHER.

DEAR TEACHER: The second problem suggests the answer to the first.

Perhaps this little girl's doll is the one thing she can count on, in an upset world. She has no father; her mother does not think straight. Can you imagine the type of fabrications such a mother fills the child's mind with?

So our nine-year-old pours her love out on her doll. Her imagination works overtime at making a reliable little companion out of a lifeless toy. What matter if others think her strange? To her, life itself is strange, and unfriendly.

The mother seeks importance — or a means of protecting herself — or both — through her lies. For her child's sake, and her own, she needs guidance to professional counselling. Is there a friendly person who would tackle the heart-to-heart talk with her, in the hope of getting her to the help she needs?

Lines on Life

Accept Life Hurts

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

The spiritual man is mindful of death in the face of life, aware of sorrow in the midst of joys. But why pale beauty with the shadow of sorrow? And yet this spiritual way is the way of wisdom. To know the meaning of sorrow even in the midst of life's joy — is to be ready! And if we are ready — we will appreciate life and know that the very rules which govern the joys of life apply to the sorrows.

Are we capable of giving approval to life even when it does not bring us joy but only sorrow. We do this regularly with our own children. We do not reject our child when he brings his burdens to place them upon our own shoulders in order to lighten his load. We teach our children not to expect that life will be smooth or unhindered, without jet or obstacle. The wise parent teaches best when he transmits the ability to approve of life, to affirm life, even, or especially when difficulties arise.

If this be our way with our children, shall we, as grown-ups, not learn to approve and to affirm life — and not extinguish our light — when our own hearts are darkened?

And we need to accept, in active ways, not only life's goodness but his hurts as well. One cannot easily speak to friends about the passing of a loved one if death has entered their household. Yet we must and we do speak, if we are to be human. What shall we say? What to tell our friends? To accept what has befallen them is not to be unaware. But if those who speak this way only speak this way to others, without themselves accepting life's hurts their verbal sensitivities slip through their own facile speech. When we tell a widowed mother that she must think of her children now that her husband is gone, we accept this truth as truth for ourselves? When we urge mourners to stand up to life are we not fooling ourselves if we are deceiving them? Do we accept, as part of our own way of thinking, what we tell others to accept?

There is a way to build these attitudes into our lives. We learn to do this when we understand appreciation.

What is the meaning of appreciation?

Spiritual people appreciate life, are not destroyed by trouble, because they are not made insensible by their happiness. Their wisdom is larger. They can appreciate life as a man appreciates color. The light rushes into their spirit and they are aware of its many shades and hues. But they appreciate darkness as well — they can experience hurt even in the midst of their ecstacies. Thus, they are forever prepared to live — and prepared to die. They have not been so deceived by life's pleasures that they have become forgetful and mindless of its thorny jagged pains.

Spiritual people appreciate life, too, because they are grateful for it as a loan. It is ours for a short time — a short time, indeed. With a gift we are at leisure to do what we please; it is ours to keep. But life is only a loan, then we realize how temporary and impermanent are our possessions. Sometimes may say with pride: This is my house, I built it! Others may proclaim: This is my store, I have made it. Still others may point with pride to their fields, proclaiming them the lands of their very own.

But spiritual wisdom, the true wisdom of life, suggests other proclamations. Men should rather say: I live in this house, though it seems to be mine; I am only its temporary tenant. I work in this shop; though I would appear to be my very own, I am only temporarily in charge. And this earth, a man should say, the fields I till I have not created them, they are only mine to love and to nurture, not mine to keep.

Do we appreciate the loans of life? If we do, we know that they are not ours to keep. We are grateful for gifts, yet still we will affirm life, because we have appreciated the loans of life while we have had it!

We live in a world which ignores us. But that world also speaks us. Ours is a world which brings pain and hardship, suffering and despair. But it is a world which also sets in motion ingenious and even miraculous cures which quietly but steadily repair the damages. We may go through life limping but there is a way to walk even with a limp.

There is a healing available; but only to those who wish to be healed. And who are they? Those who still appreciate life long after the laughter is over, and even the morn on and on, even when there are tears in their eyes.

A Lift for Living

Nothing Is Better for Life Than a Well-Used Memory

By REV. HAROLD E. KOHN

A well-used memory is a holy thing. It is an instrument for bringing the best hours and influences of the past into the present to bless "the here-and now," and to inspire noble conduct.

Dr. Edward C. Rosenow known throughout the world as one of the greatest bacteriologists, decided, while still a small boy, to become a doctor. What prompted this early decision? A lighted face influenced his choice. Rosenow grew up on a farm in an isolated area of Wisconsin. One night Edward's brother became critically ill and the lad's parents were frightened and in despair because the nearest doctor lived many miles away. But the physician was sent for, and he came as quickly as possible.

Little Edward followed the doctor into the room where his brother lay near death. Hiding behind a big chair, Edward watched in awe as the physician ministered to the sick child. Soon the doctor turned to the parents and declared, "Have no fear. The will get well." At this glad news the parents' faces brightened in a way Edward could never forget.

SACRED MEMORY

At that moment, Dr. Rosenow later testified, he decided that the one thing he wanted most in the world was to do the things that would cause such a light of joy and gratitude to illumine the faces of people. All of Edward Rosenow's days, and the days of thousands of his patients, were blessed because of that sacred memory.

Doctor Rosenow's experience illustrates what Dostoevsky once said: "You must know that there is nothing higher and stronger and more wholesome and good for life than a nice good memory, especially a memory of childhood."

Individuals, nationally, and culturally, we are rich or poor according to the abundance of good things we have stored in our memories. Our present civilization would be little or nothing if it were not for memories. Memory makes all learning possible; without it we would all need to begin each day as empty of knowledge as was the first infant born on earth. Without memory no lessons from the past could be passed on to us. The great reformers, prophets, and evangelists have always insisted that they were but reminding men of precious truths that had been forgotten.

Christmas, Easter, and all other holidays consist largely of the celebration of lovely and holy things we hold in our memory. Especially is this so of the holiday millions of Americans celebrate at the end of May—Memorial Day, otherwise known as Decoration Day, is a special time many Americans set aside for gratefully remembering how much their dear dead have meant to them.

SPECIAL RECOLLECTION

Now, when this holy time of special recollection returns, they gratefully recall names, faces, voices, pictures, sacrifices, and happy moments they have known in years that have gone. Some of these dear ones abruptly left their home to die heroically on far-off battle-fields, on the high seas, or in the air for a cause they believed to be just. Their sacrifices were great and spectacular. Others lived quietly in man's midst saying the right word, the encouraging, heartening word, performing the gracious deeds so that life was richer, sweeter because they had been among fellow men. They are remembered with gratitude.

George Gilbert Murray, the British classical scholar and long-time professor of Oxford University, said that during the First World War he walked around the quadrangle at Oxford, heavy in spirit because he remembered that brave men were dying for him in France. Every day of the year, all sensitive souls have memories enriched by thoughts of those who have sacrificed, and suffered ungrudging toil, pain and death, that we might live.

We can never repay them. Yet we can demonstrate great trade. The one gift we can all give to the dead is to be better people because they once lived among us. A monumental life lived in their memory is better than any monument stone we can erect on their graves.

Lighting the Way

By Walter S. Cross

YOU CAN DEPEND ON THIS

An amazing story comes from the Prairie Creek Fish Hatchery, of Eureka, California. It has to do with a two-year-old, Chinook silver salmon. This fish had been spawned at the hatchery, and the workers there named him "Indomitable". He also bore the official identification mark of the hatchery.

Indomitable had been released in the Pacific Ocean. But when spawning time arrived, Indomitable swam from the ocean into Redwood Creek, then into Prairie Creek, up a drainage ditch, and through several other drains. Continuing, he went straight up a 4-inch pipe with a 90-degree turn in it, knocked a wire screen cover off a 2½-inch stand pipe, cleared a nearly impassable wire net, and came into his original spawning tank.

When Our Creator has placed such guiding instinct within his lower creatures, we can not doubt that He has made adequate provision for directing the steps of His masterpiece, man. God is our Pilot, and by following the laws of His Word, in the power of the Holy Spirit, our lives will be directed to fulfill His will for us.

TEXT FOR TODAY: "Thou shalt guide me with thy counsel, and afterward receive me to glory." (Psalm 73:24)

Bank Stocks Lead Advance As Market Snaps Losing Streak

By LARRY DWORKIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Paced by a rising New York market, Canada's stock markets this week snapped a five-week decline.

The New York market started its upswing Monday on reports that a narrower U.S. budget deficit is expected for the fiscal year beginning June 30, and by easing the chances for a tax increase.

A number of analysts feel the market is levelling off and they point to the fact the market weathered a mid - week announcement by the U.S. auto industry that mid-May sales suffered a 12 - per - cent decrease compared with the same period in 1965.

However, others say the sales drop had been anticipated and that investors discounted the decline last week.

At Toronto, volume continued to be on the light side totalling 13,393,002 shares compared with 16,970,885 last week. The market was closed Monday because of the Victoria Day holiday. Volume at Montreal was 4,598,346 shares compared with 5,910,264 last week.

BANKS ADVANCE

Banks led the advance on the Toronto market following reports that revisions of the Bank Act are to be made to Parliament shortly with a partial lifting of the six-per-cent interest ceiling considered likely.

The bank index was up 4.63 to 143.52. Montreal climbed 3¼ to 62. Toronto-Dominion rose to 63¼, Imperial-Commerce 2¼ to 68, Royal 1¼ to 76½ and Nova Scotia 1¼ to 71.

Among other industrials, Bell Telephone gained 1¼ to 53½ on 67,500 shares following an announcement by the company Wednesday of an eight-cent increase in its latest quarterly dividend and that it expects to pay $2.50 annually in the future instead of $2.20. It was Bell's first dividend increase in more than six years.

Massey-Ferguson moved up 1¼ to 36¼ after the company announced a record profit for the first six months ended April 30, of $21,200,000 or $1.37 a share from $8,100,000 or 54 cents a share a year earlier. CPR increased 2¼ to 60, General Motors and B-A Oil 1 each to 97 and 30¼, Dofasco 1 to 34 and Distillers Seagrams ⅛ to 20¼.

Losers went to B. C. Telephone, down 3¼ to 61¼ and Atlantic Sugar ⅛ to 26¼.

RIO ALGOM UP 2¼

Uranium stocks regained most of the losses suffered in the last few weeks as Rio Algom rose 2¼ to 24¼ and Denison 2¼ to 47¼.

Norands, which purchased a 30 per cent interest in 6,000,000 acres of petroleum leases in the Arctic from, Bankeno Mines Ltd., advanced 2¼ to 53½. Inco was up 2¼ to 97½ and Falconbridge 4 to 85½. Pine point fell ¼ to 61¼.

Golds made the largest group gain with the gold index jumping 7.79 to 172.39. Dome climbed 4¼ to 47¼ to account for most of the increase. Giant Yellowknife added 1¼ at 12½.

Western oils were fractionally higher with Souray Rainbow up 2¼ to 28¼, Hudson's Bay ¼ to 19½ while Home A dropped 1 to 18¼. Spooner, which plunged 67 cents last week, added 15 cents at 1.10 in speculative oils. Dynasty was ahead 35 cents to 3.90.

In speculative mines, New Mylamaque gained 4 to 37¼ cents on 955,867 shares and Jaye Explorations 15 to 50 cents.

Employment News

By J. R. STAVELEY,
Employment Relations Officer

The past week saw a continuation of the same trend, established during the month, as regards the distribution of the local labor market demand. This is best illustrated by the fact, that only one third of the local job opportunities listed at the National Employment Office called for the female worker. The demand for male applicants was good, and especially strong in the construction and allied fields. During the week a number of High School students visited the NES Office to register for both permanent and temporary summer employment. The past period of real spring weather has enabled the local farmers to complete most of the season's planting. However, several local farmers are still looking for experienced farm hands, etc.

The following job opportunities are a few of those now listed with the NES Office:

In the female division locally, bring forth a public statement outlining the reasons behind the dismissals, was made public Saturday.

Mr. Keate was also encouraged that:

—The CBC seemed "well disposed" to his suggestion for appointment of a vice-president for news and current affairs;

—Nothing would prevent hiring of either Mr. Watson or Mr. LaPierre for other programs;

—The board of directors specifically states that it wants to see Seven Days continued;

—The board has confirmed a new agreement with producers which should ensure "more respect" and prevent a recurrence of the unhappy events of last month.

The board said in its statement the dismissals of the Seven Days hosts violated an unwritten agreement that changes in performers or artists on a program would be made only after the producer concerned was consulted.

The board remained "seriously concerned" about this breakdown in "due process." For that reason it had agreed to turn the unwritten agreement into a written one.

son and Mr. LaPierre, the CBC statement said:

"Mr. LaPierre's contract was not renewed because it was management's opinion that he did not acquiesce to the principle that the CBC had no point of view on controversial matters. As co-host of Seven Days, he was identified with CBC and because, whether he wished to or not, a spokesman for it.

"He often let his own opinions and his own feelings in controversial matters show on the air with the result that he tilted the balance of the program."

The statement said management's decision not to renew Mr. LaPierre's contract had to do with "his on-the performance and nothing else."

SHORTCOMINGS HIT

The decision not to renew Mr. Watson's contract "was directly related to management's concern about the shortcomings of This Hour Has Seven Days. Management believed that, in the interest of the program and the CBC as a whole, and to make the best use of the staff concerned, Mr. Leiterman and Mr. Watson should be separated."

Douglas Leiterman is executive producer of Seven Days.

The directors' statement said CBC management regards both Mr. Watson and Mr. Leiterman as "highly talented."

Mr. Watson, commenting on the reasons given in the statement for the dismissals, said Mr. LaPierre's "behavior was closely supervised by the producer (Mr. Leiterman) and the public affairs department" and the same applied in his own case.

Mr. LaPierre said in Montreal it seemed life situation "is just where it was in April" when the matter first came to a head.

Mr. Keate, who took a two-week leave of absence from his post as publisher of Vancouver Sun to mediate differences between producers and management, expressed satisfaction at several elements in the directors' statement.

He was appointed by Prime Minister Pearson to study the controversy when producers in Toronto said they would go on strike. His report to the prime minister, in which he called for the producers to call off their strike and for management to

SPORTSLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

It is beginning to look as though the gods who occupy the box seats in sports' Mount Olympus are thumbing their noses at their arch enemy the weather man.

The guy that controls the panel of pushbuttons that control rain, sunshine, hail and other atmospheric gimmicks, ordered a late start on athletic calisthenics telling spring to take an extension on its southern vacation.

He tossed his legion of low temperatures, his platoons of growth-halting minions and other retarding forces at the golf courses of the district.

But he was hoist by his own miserable petard because — what happened? Two golfers in season-breaking records entered below-the-par and teased his game defying efforts down his pea-pickin' gizzard.

True he had a change of heart for the "Queen's Birthday" holiday was bathed in warm sunshine and soft springy breezes that swept over courses trying to make up for lost growth.

But he forced his winter buddy to retain a tenacious hold on the lake-dotted, creek-ribboned fish fastnesses of the northern areas. Early-May fishermen reported that the lovers of the livest and pickerel were shackled in ice irons at that date and I'm told that as late as last week you could secure enough shoreline ice-cubes to cool off a thousand highballs.

And nature lovers told me that the northern pussywillows had attained kittenhood at the time they should have been photo models for tiger-in-the-tank commercials.

But warm-hearted old Mother Nature flung the old tempest back on his haunches, apologized to the tulips, crocuses, and other early harbingers of vernal life for the delayed start and, it seems, has taken over frost, centre and wings.

And so, to use the Glessonian quipe "How Sweet It Is" and "Away We Go."

The playgrounds of the lawn bowlers and golfers are livening with new greening. Northern and other trout and pickerel hounds are scratching their yields from deep icy bottoms. Upper-brackets softballers are cavorting on the brand new layout of the face-lifted Alemite Park and cadmiptera and cabinocera are forgetting about oil and wood supplies.

And up there in the Fair Grounds where "For the Want of a Charter, the Harness Season is Nearly Lost" the racetrack has a new 1966 look with truck-length lights and new trackside fence. As far as we know the season has been restricted to four racing nights plus one reserved for the Black Diamond Cheese Stakes.

The Belleville Minor Baseball and Softball Associations are away to a flying start and everything augurs well for the coming season.

The Commercial, Departmental and other softball leagues of the city and district are away and running. Incidentally I attended the opening Departmental League game between The Intelligencer and City Public Works teams the other night at Hillcrest school grounds.

Area-wise the grounds appear to be ample for what they are intended to be, but any resemblance, outside of the backstop, to a softball field is purely accidental.

R. I. P.

Quinte district sportsmen and the Intelligencer sports staff (edy) mourn the passing of a colorful and talented baseball and softball star for many years, Point Anne's Murney Green. Deepest sympathy is extended to sons Murney Jr., John, Peter and Gordie, daughter Audry and the entire Green family.

Charge Denied ★★★★★ Crothers Says Percival Gave Drugs ★★★★★ Will Investigate

TORONTO (CP) — Lloyd Percival of Toronto denied Friday that he ever gave his athletes stimulants and sedatives and a growing list of supporters backed him up.

The charge against Percival, one of Canada's best sports trainers, were leveled by Bill Crothers of Markham, Ont., considered among the world's top half-milers, in a letter to the Central Ontario Track and Field Association March 31.

The letter says Percival gave his Don Mills Track Club athletes stimulants and sedatives and that the athletes had taken them.

Dr. John Palmer, physician for Toronto Argonauts of the Eastern Football Conference, termed the whole affair "nonsense."

"Both desodrine and tuinal are commonly used by prescription and this whole affair is a lot of nonsense," Dr. Palmer said in an interview Friday night.

Two of Percival's associates, Dr. Hodson Kerr and George Arnold, both denied knowledge of drugs being given the athletes.

NEVER PRESCRIBED

Dr. Kerr, the Don Mills club's physician, said that to his knowledge Percival had never prescribed drugs for his athletes.

Arnold, who coaches the club with Percival, said he had no knowledge of athletes ever being told to take drugs.

Jim Mousmm, coach of Canada's Olympic paddlers in 1960 and 1964, said:

"Lloyd not only helped us 100 per cent on latest training methods that put us ahead of our field. . . . He never at any time advocated stimulants."

Meanwhile, Fred Foot, chairman of the Central Ontario branch of the Amateur Athletic Union and Crothers's coach, confirmed that Crothers had written the letter and that an investigation is under way into the charges.

The case has been forwarded to Pete Beach of Toronto, national track and field chairman of the Amateur Athletic Union.

Percival said he is being guided by legal counsel.

"I'm not interested in anything but complete clearance of these charges concerning my associates in the Don Mills Track Club and my athletes of the Don Mills Track Club, and I intend to pursue this to the ultimate."

Fred Page New President
CAHA Grants $28,500 To Minors

MONTREAL (CP) — Minor hockey clubs across Canada are $28,500 richer today thanks to grants approved by the executive committee of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

Fred Page of Vancouver, new president of the association, said Friday night the group had approved grants of $3,000 to each of its nine established branches for minor hockey and one of $1,500 to its newest member—Newfoundland.

Canada's 10th province became a full member at the week-long annual meeting of the association, which wound up Friday.

Page replaces Lionel Fleury of Quebec City. Art Potter of Edmonton was named chairman of the CAHA's rules committee.

Earl Dawson of Rivers, Man., former chairman of the rules group, was elected second vice-president to replace Lloyd Pollock of Windsor, Ont., who was named first vice-president, the position previously held by Page.

Gordon Juckes of Melville, Sask., secretary-manager, said the executive had decided Dezinhiker Mixers, this year's Allan Cup champions, will defend the Abearne Trophy in Sweden Dec. 28 to Jan. 2, 1967. In addition, the Miners will play 11 games in Europe after the Abearne Trophy tournament.

Sherbrooke Beavers won the trophy last year.

REGALS NEXT IN LINE

Juckes said M Drumheller is unable to go to Sweden or a second European tour is available, Guelph Regals will fill in.

The executive agreed to ask the Polish national team to visit Canada next December or January and Canada will play six or eight games with a visiting Japanese team sometime in February.

At the request of the North American Ice Hockey Federation, Juckes said the CAHA is nominating Page for the position of second vice-president of the IIHF.

Page and Juckes said they will be interested to see how the National Hockey League will approach a proposed meeting with the CAHA to negotiate differences in the pre-amateur agreement.

"Nov. 27, 1964 was the last date we negotiated with the NHL," Juckes said. "If they still feel there is no common grounds why would they ask us to negotiate?"

Executive members said they were happy with the selection of Kingston, Ont., as the site for their 1967 centennial project — a Canadian midget hockey championship to be held Easter holiday week.

Page said legislation raising the age limits by five months in all categories below the junior level was a major step forward.

Also the new rule to have two goalies dressed and three available for all inter-branch playoffs will help streamline playoff competition.

He said the executive was pleased with the rise in revenue for both the AAan and Memorial Cup playoffs this year.

The CAHA realized $64,000 as its share of the senior and junior playoffs with $40,000 of that money coming from Memorial Cup competition.

Saskatoon will be the site of next year's annual meeting, May 22-27.

Pott Leads Tony Lema By Four

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Long-hitting Johnny Pott continued his torrid pace in the $37,000 Oklahoma City open golf tournament Friday by shooting a three-under-par 69 in the second round.

Pott, whose 64 Thursday set a course record at the 7,173-yard Quail Creek Golf and Country Club course, held a four-stroke lead at 133 over veteran Tony Lema who shot 68 and young Tom Weiskopf, with 69.

OshawaMan Lands Giant Lake Trout

TORONTO (CP)—You won't believe it.

Robert Turnbull says in his Globe and Mail outdoors column that Clayton Bryant of Oshawa hauled in a 27¼-pound lake trout while trolling in Moore's Lake in the Haliburton area last Sunday.

Clayton was fishing with Bill Godfrey.

Cottager Chris Wahiroh of Toronto said:

"You should have seen those guys when they came in with the fish. They were shaking and no wonder. What a mouth that fish had on it. Seemed like you could push your arm halfway down its throat. . . ."

The fish had a two-pound sucker in its belly.

Bait? Turnbull doesn't say. But he does try to locate the lake.

"It is, approaching from the south on No. 35 highway, the first lake in Haliburton, up the hike from Norland and roughly between Coboconk and Minden."

Road maps don't show the lake.

Indians, Birds Win; Yanks Pass Sox

Stottlemyre Hot

Sadecki Battered; LA Wins

Slipping Giants Crushed By Phillies

The sagging Chicago White Sox nosed past the surging Yankees into eighth place in the American League Friday night as Mel Stottlemyre pitched a three-hitter for a 4-1 New York triumph.

It was the 10th loss in the last 12 games for Chicago, and they made it easy for New York with three errors helping the Yankees to two unearned runs.

That was all Stottlemyre needed as he set the Sox down on just three singles and retired 19 in a row at one stretch. He lost his shutout with two out in the ninth when Roy White dropped a fly ball for a two-base error.

Stottlemyre also struck out eight and walked only two to lower his earned run average to 1.91 and give him a 5-3 record for the season.

The victory was the seventh in the last eight games for New York and gave manager Ralph Houk a 13-4 record in the three games Keach has managed for Johnny Keane. Stottlemyre has turned in four of the victories.

TWINS BLAST HOME

Elsewhere in the league Friday night, Cleveland Indians edged slumping Minnesota Twins 5-4, Baltimore Orioles downed Kansas City Athletics 6-3, Washington Senators nipped Boston Red Sox 4 and Cal-ifornia Angels shaded Detroit Tigers 3-2.

Tom Tresh homered for the final Yankee run in the eighth.

Rocky Colavito's ninth-inning single drove in Cleveland's winning run as the Tribe dropped their seventh in the last eight and Cleveland won its fourth straight.

Andy Etchebarren drove in two runs and scored another as Baltimore downed Kansas City. Stu Miller saved the victory for Wally Bunker, who won his fourth.

Washington rallied for two runs in the bottom of the ninth to beat the Red Sox. Bob Stevens and Don Lock delivered the run-scoring hits that wiped out a 4-3 Boston lead. Rookie George Scott had put the Red Sox ahead with a two - run homer in the eighth.

Chuck Hinton had a hand in all three California runs, driving home two with a double in the first and scoring the final one after singling in the fourth.

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

In four starts with the Giants he has lasted only 13 1-3 innings while allowing 11 runs for an astronomical 7.62 earned run average.

Take away his first start in which New York Mets scored three unearned runs off him in five innings, and his ERA is an even more astronomical 12.38.

His latest effort ended before he could get anyone out in the fifth inning. The Phillies already had scored three runs in the first four innings, and when John Callison and Dick Groat singled in the fifth, manager Herman Franks decided Sadecki needed help.

The Giants may need some, too. They've won only five of their last 13 games, and they must do without their No. 2 pitcher, Gaylord Perry, for the next 15 days. Perry, suffering from a sore ankle, was placed on the disable list Friday night.

In other National League games, Los Angeles Dodgers blanked New York 4-0, Pittsburgh Pirates whipped Houston Astros 6 - 0, Cincinnati Reds edged St. Louis Cardinals 4-3 and Atlanta Braves defeated Chicago Cubs 5-3.

McCOVEY, HALLER HOMER

Willie McCovey and Tom Haller homered for the Giants.

Claude Osteen broke a personal four-game losing streak, gaining his first victory in a month with a three-hitter over the Mets. Osteen struck out four of his runs in the sixth inning with the help of errors by Ed Kranepool, Ken Boyer and Dick Stuart.

Bob Veale and Pete Mikkelsen combined for a five-hitter against Houston. Bill Mazeroski and Willie Stargell led the Pirates' attack, each hitting a homer and driving in two runs.

Cincinnati's first three hits off St. Louis' Curt Simmons were homers—two by Vada Pinson and one by Tommy Helms.

Atlanta out-homered the Cubs as Hank Aaron, Joe Torre and Mack Jones connected in support of Wade Blasingame. Aaron's homer was his 10th. Billy Williams and Ron Santo homered for Chicago.

Guidolin Leaves Oshawa

OSHAWA (CP) — Armand (Bep) Guidolin, coach of Memorial Cup finalists Oshawa Generals of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, resigned Friday.

A former player with Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League, Guidolin said he is leaving his hockey post to take a job with a brewery in his home town of Timmins.

Guidolin guided the Generals to fourth place in the OHA Junior A standings this season, then led the team to the playoff title and into the Canadian junior hockey final against Edmonton Oil Kings. Oshawa lost the best-of-seven series four games to two.

Last week, general manager Wren Blair of Oshawa resigned to become manager of Minnesota North Stars, the Minneapolis NHL entry scheduled to begin play in 1967-68.

No successor has been named for Guidolin or Blair.

HANSON WINS

CHANTILLY, France (AP)—Eric Hanson of Toronto defeated William Castleman of Monte Carlo 5 and 4 Friday in the opening round of the French international amateur golf tournament. Louis Molmer of Toronto was defeated 7 and 5 by David Symons of South Africa.

How About A Title Fight ?

MILAN, Italy (AP)—Sandro Lopopolo, world junior welterweight boxing champion, suffered a black eye and bruised lip Friday in a street fight after a minor traffic accident.

"The other driver beat me up," the champ told police. "I only tried to defend myself, but a couple of wild haymakers landed on my face just the same."

His car and another brushed in traffic.

Lopopolo and witnesses said the other driver was about the same size as the champion but somewhat thinner.

Jets Grab Top Spot; Leafs Win

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Columbus Jets broke a four-game losing streak Friday night and climbed into first place in the International League baseball standings.

The Jets clipped Toledo Mud Hens 5-4 to move 10 percentage points ahead of Jacksonville Suns, who lost 3-1 to Richmond Braves.

In other games, Toronto Maple Leafs used a 10th inning home run by Owen Johnson for a 5-4 victory over Buffalo Bisons and Syracuse Chiefs downed Rochester Red Wings 5-3 with the help of former Rochester pitcher Cotton Clayton collecting four hits, including a three-run homer.

Jack Damaska had three hits to pace the Jets who broke a 3-4 tie in the seventh inning.

WALK FORCES RUN

Jim Beauchamp drew a bases-loaded walk with two out in the 10th inning to force in the winning run for the Braves, who won their fifth in a row. Jacksonville reliever Bob Johnson was the victim.

Clayton eighth - inning homer, his second of the season, broke a 2-2 tie. The Chiefs got a homer from Tom Murphy and the Wings got one from Mike Epstein.

Johnson's game-winning blast went 400 feet over the centre-field fence and sent the Bisons down to defeat in their first extra-inning game of the season. Buffalo manager Red Davis used 18 players and the Bisons got three unearned runs, but the Leafs outhit their opponents 12-6. Mike Andrews had a homer and a double for Toronto.

HONOR CLAY

CAIRO (AP) — Heavyweight boxing champion Cassius Clay was made an honorary life member of Al Ahli, Egypt's leading sporting club, Friday.

Ottawa Signs Seven Players

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders of the Canadian Football Conference Friday announced the signing of six veterans and a rookie.

The veterans are fullback Jim Dillard, halfback Bo Scott, defensive halfback Al O'Billovich; cornerback Mike Blum; linemen Moe Racine, the team's placekicker, and Marshall Shirk.

The rookie is 22-year-old fullback Don Underwood of Paul Valley, Okla., and Tulsa University. Underwood is the 11th import signed for the 1966 season.

Outdoor Tips And Tricks

BY BOB BLAND

Fish by the hundreds were taken in all sections of the country this past week-end. Those avid of fishermen and their families enjoyed the beautiful weather combining fishing or just lying around relaxing.

Every local resort in Prince Edward County was packed with visiting fishermen, mostly from the other side of the border.

This year the Prince Edward Pickerel Derby registered the best catches of these fish in its history. Over 400 pickerel were entered in the annual contest with an 11 lb. fish taking first honors.

Most of these fish came from West and East Lakes caught on Rebels, Rapala, Mapps and Yellow Sallys.

At Moira Lake fishermen were standing shoulder to shoulder on the road and railway tracks dividing the lake, and if you moved to change lures or land a fish you lost your spot.

Over 200 pickerel were caught to this section of the lake in two days. These were taken on worm nows, worms, and a solid black fly.

The General are on a feeding spree so now is the time to catch them.

The lake trout fishermen had very good luck in the north country, with many of the better fishermen having to quit fishing early as they easily caught their limit.

The black flies are on the prowl. If you are going to a local creek or into the north make sure you have a good repellent.

Sporting goods dealers around the country have reported this year seems to be a family fishing year, instead of just father and son going on a fishing trip now the whole gang is enjoying the great outdoors as a group, combining camping trips with fishing. In a lot of cases locally the little women are catching more fish than the male members of the family and a contest is developing between them.

The speckled trout fishermen in our part of the country have been having a field day with their fly rods and flies in the last couple of weeks, but now will be the time to separate the men from the boys.

The water is going down in most of the creeks and the trout are becoming more wary than they were at the beginning of the season and therefore harder to catch. The black flies and mosquitoes are out in full weather canceling fishing or just lying around relaxing.

Italy's Andretti 500 Favorite

By DALE BURGESS

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — One of sports' biggest crowds began filing Indianapolis hotelsmotels and side streets today, chattering about what baked Mario Andretti more so fast and whether he can do it for 200 miles Monday.

A nationwide poll of 68 auto race writers established the little Italian-born driver as the favorite, a status he already enjoyed on the basis of a record - breaking qualifying of 185.980 miles an hour for the Golden Anniversary 500-mile auto race.

There were plenty of skeptics, however.

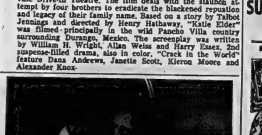
Against Andretti's 30 votes, defending champion Jimmy Clark of Scotland received 16; Dan Gurney of California 11; two-time winner A. J. Foyt of Houston, 7; and former winner Parnelli Jones, 7.

Lloyd Ruby of Wichita Falls, Tex., and Gordon Johncock of Saginaw, Mich., received two votes each, and Cale Yarborough of Charlotte, N.C., one.

Fans, possibly 300,000 hoped for a better contest than the 1961 race. Clark and Foyt were the only leaders, and Clark had to squabble after the former U.S. champion's engine failed.

The only Canadian qualifier is Billy Foster of Victoria, at 159.49 miles an hour.

The odds were heavy against the rookies, who included England's Graham Hill, a former world road racing champion and Jackie Stewart of Scotland, the Monaco Grand Prix winner last Sunday.



Rodger Ward of Indianapolis is the only former winner in the field besides Clark, Foyt and Jones. He and Jones will be driving cars with supercharged Offenhauser engines, new power plants which haven't been as effective in practice as the special Fords pushing Andretti, Clark, Gurney and most of the other high rankers.

The 2nd Feature is Columbia Pictures' production of "Women" starring Ann Sancrof, Joan Metcalfe.

AT THE BELLE DRIVE-IN — The tough and the tender — John Wayne and Dean Martin star with Martha Hyer in Hal Wallis' "The Sons of Katie Elder", a Paramount release in Technicolor and Panavision opening tonight at the Belleville Drive-in Theatre. The film deals with the staunch attempt by four brothers to eradicate the blackened reputation and legacy of their family name. Based on a story by Talbot Jennings and directed by Henry Hathaway, "Katie Elder" was filmed principally in the wild Pancho Villa country surrounding Durango, Mexico. The screenplay was written by William H. Wright, Allan Weiss and Harry Essex. 2nd feature, Dana Andrews, Janette Scott, Kieron Moore and Alexander Knox.

AT THE PARK — A scene from the suspense drama "SPY IN YOUR EYE" in Color starring Bret Halsey, Pier Angeli and Dana Andrews". On the same program the second thriller in color "WHITE FRIGHT FOR HONG KONG" stars Brad Harris and Dorothy Parker. Both thrillers are first Belleville showings. Parents Expect Thanks, Ann Says It Will Come

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The letter from the 18-year-old girl whose parents could not afford to get her teeth straightened struck both my husband and me as very interesting.

Our daughter is also 16. We couldn't afford to get her teeth straightened either but we did it anyhow — at considerable sacrifice. We wanted Carol to have every chance in life. We felt we should do everything in our power to give her confidence.

The braces came off last week and now Carol has a radiant smile. But did she say, "Thank you, Mom and Dad," even once during the three years that we have been paying big, fat dental bills? Forget it.

ANN LANDERS

The odd thing is that Carol is not alone. This letter could have been written by the parents of thousands of teen-agers all over the country. They are all, selfish and grabby. Gratitude isn't the "in thing" these days — even when the gifts run into thousands of dollars.

Please print my letter and your comment. I'm sure other parents would be interested. — MRS. MARY G.

* * *

DEAR MRS.: Did you and your husband put braces on Carol's teeth so she would say, "Thank you, Mom and Dad." Or because you didn't want her to go through life with crooked teeth?

One of these days Carol will say "Thank you, Mom and Dad." And do you know when that will be? When she has children of her own.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a widow in my middle 50's. My father was an English professor and my husband was a polished gentleman, too. Our children were taught manners from the cradle. They grew up graciously and married well.

I have been going with a widower for almost two years. He has other women friends, mostly widows like myself. I had always thought this man considered me only a pleasant person to escort to civic and social affairs. When he asked me to marry him I was surprised.

The problem is this: The man is very successful in business. He's self-made, and like most businessmen who came up the hard way, he talks about himself a great deal. He lacks the social graces of my late husband and his grammar leaves much to be desired. I hold an executive position and frankly I would hesitate to introduce him to some of my better friends.

On the positive side, he is respectful, a non-smoker, a non-drinker and is a person of good character. What do you think? — CAN'T MAKE UP MY MIND.

* * *

DEAR MRS. CAN'T MAKE UP YOUR MIND: Do Mr. Self-made a big favor and say no. I would hope that he would then ask a woman who will introduce him to her "better" friends.

It would be a dirty trick to marry a man you obviously consider inferior. He'd be miserable and you would be miserable, too. Don't do it.

* * *

Confidential to VICTIM OF INJUSTICE: I agree that some ability rags are unjust, but this comes under the heading of the high cost of leaving. The law must favor the legally wed and not the illicit lovers. You said you wanted him more than anything in the world. So now you have him. Don't complain.

Gaels Hold
Usual Spot

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Oshawa Green Gaels, winners of the Canadian junior lacrosse championship the last three years, are back in their usual spot—first place in the Ontario Lacrosse Association Junior A standings.

They got there on the strength of a 19-16 victory Friday night over Brampton and did it without two regulars, Don Stinson and Brian Thompson. The two were suspended for rough play in a game last Monday in which the Gaels dumped Huntsville Terradocs 22-6. Stinson is out for six games and Thompson for two.

In the only other game, St. Catharines scored 11 times in the second period for a 17-9 triumph over Milton.

Ross Jones counted five goals for Oshawa while Phil Clayton and Gaylord Powless each scored three. Neil Armstrong, Jim Higgs and Charlie Marlowe added two apiece and the balance went to Fred Greenwood and Dwight Davies.

4 Buddhists In Struggle Burn Selves Against Ky

SAIGON (CP) — Two more Buddhists burned themselves to death today in the struggle to force South Viet Nam's military regime from power. A Buddhist leader warned of more suicides unless Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's government stops.

A 17-year-old monk burned himself to death at the Buddhist Institute here and another monk took his life by fire at Danang, report 35 miles from this South Vietnamese capital.

A Buddhist girl was reported to have cut her wrists and died at Dalat today. A later report said the girl survived but there was no confirmation.

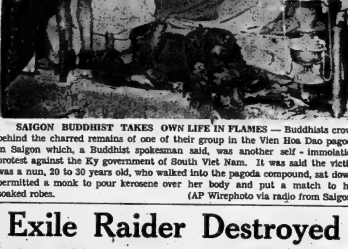
Two Buddhist women burn themselves to death Sunday.

Thich (venerable) Tam Chau the Buddhist Institute's moderate chairman, appealed to monks and nuns for an immediate halt to such "self - sacrifice." But later the 21 - year - old monk told correspondents self immolation is not a contradiction of Buddhist principles of non-violence. He added:

"We hope the general (Ky) realizes the situation. Today is only the beginning. I will try to do my best to use diplomatic means. If not, there is no other way but to struggle with suicide and blood."

NO DEADLINE SET

Tam Chau gave no deadline for Ky's resignation, but in talk of more suicides as a means of forcing the United States to withdraw support for Ky indicated the monk was under pressure from extremist members of the Buddhist hierarchy.



While the Buddhists gave their lives in the struggle against their government, the U.S. infantry fought regular North Vietnamese troops near the Cambodian border Sunday crippling the equivalent of a full battalion.

The new wave of Buddhist protest suicides began Sunday with two women who burned themselves to death in the Hue, the Buddhist northern stronghold, and in Saigon's main pagoda.

They were the first immolations since seven monks and nuns burned themselves to death in the months before the overthrow of the late president Ngo Dinh Diem in November, 1963. The new suicides are believed to reflect despair among Buddhist extremists of rallying enough support in the street to bring down the junta.

Tam Chau is considered far more moderate than his principal

It was said the victim was a nun, 20 to 30 years old, who walked into the pagoda compound, sat down, permitted a monk to pour kerosene over her body and put a match to her soaked robes. Exile Raider Destroyed By Cuban Navy Vessel

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The Cuban navy said today that one of its torpedo boats fought and destroyed an exile raider craft in Cuban waters, Havana Radio reported.

The broadcast, monitored in Miami, said the announcement was in a special communique of Fidel Castro's navy department.

The communique reported the exile vessel fired on the government boat, wounding three crew members. In combat that followed, said the communique, the navy craft captured two of the six anti-Castro "pirates" and listed the others as missing.

The broadcast did not identify the exile craft or any of its crew.

Exile "action groups," most of them with headquarters in Miami, have mounted many raids on Cuban installations which they say they operate from secret bases outside the United States.

Thirteen Cars Pile Up in First Lap

INDIANAPOLIS (CP-AP) — A flaming smashup marred the first lap of the 500-mile race at the Indianapolis motor speedway today. At least 11 cars crashed and the race was stopped.

Smoke and flames covered the first corner.

The accident happened shortly after the 33-car field neared off in the golden anniversary running of the event.

Another car escaped and limped through the back straightaway.

The cars had just started the first lap when the flaming pile-up took place in front of the grandstand, just yards from the starting line.

Quebec Liberals to Back Ontario Move for Control Over Members of Commons

TORONTO (CP) — Maurice Lamontagne, former secretary of state, says members of the Quebec Liberal party will support an Ontario Liberal resolution calling for greater membership control of the parliamentary wing of the party.

The resolution, approved at a recent policy conference of provincial Liberals, asks the parliamentary section of the party to follow policy decisions made at membership meetings.

Mr. Lamontagne told the Toronto and District Liberal Association Saturday that "leadership can degenerate into absolute autocracy."

He said the party needs active participation of its members because "work at the intellectual grass roots is essential to the vitality of the party."

In an interview, Mr. Lamontagne said he was certain the newly-formed Quebec wing of the federal party would support Ontario resolutions at the national convention in Ottawa next October.

With Ontario and Quebec unified, he said it is almost certain the resolution will become national party policy.

Walker Gordon, former finance minister, said Ontario and Quebec Liberals have reached much the same political position.

He told delegates the control resolution approved in Ontario did not bind the parliamentary section of the party but instead forced it to explain detail any policy changes.

During an evening session, Mr. Lamontagne told delegates that economic affluence in Canada has brought its share of labor-management problems.

"If we go on as we now are, the battles will continue," he said. "There is a definite need for more research in the field of labor."

A permanent scientific revolution in Canada has made planning more than a socialistic dogma, Mr. Lamontagne said. Ideas must be given a stake with management in Canadian enterprise if current disputes are to be resolved.

'The Greasers' Touch Off Riots Of Teeners in Yorkville Village

TORONTO (CP) — Teen-age regulars in Yorkville Village, Toronto's coffee-house district, said Sunday a weekend fight that attracted a screaming crowd of 2,000 all started with a haircut.

A 17-year-old youth, who described himself as a villager, said 20 members of a gang called "The Greasers" descended on the village Saturday night to cut the hair of long-haired youths.

Police believe the riot was touched off by a fight between Alan Eggleton, 17, of Toronto and a member of The Greasers.

John Shaw, 17, of Toronto, said the fight was part of a standing battle between the villagers and The Greasers. "This is simply the North American style of a feud between the British mods and rockers."

He said a greaser was a hood who comes to a Bohemian area looking for a fight. Another youth said the greasers "strut around" and mock passing villagers.

After the fight started between Eggleton and the other youth, police attempted to break it up. Constables James Hickles and William Owens arrested Eggleton but the other youth escaped.

Before they could get him into a waiting patrol wagon, a crowd of about 200, screaming teen-agers trapped the two policemen and forced them to climb on top of a car.

Witnesses said shouts of "kill the fuzz" came from the crowd and bottles were buried through the air.

The noise of the crowd attracted other teen-agers and an estimated 2,000 persons jammed the narrow street before a special squad of 30 police fought their way through the crowd and escorted the constables and their prisoner to the station.

Police charged Eggleton with causing a disturbance and arrested Gunter Wenzel, 19, of Toronto for assaulting and obstructing police. Two other Toronto youths were charged with assault.

During the affair, a bottle struck Maureen Rainbird of Toronto, knocking her unconscious. She was taken to hospital and later released.

About 30 teen-agers followed police to the station and set up a picket line. They returned Sunday afternoon, carrying signs charging police brutality. After about two hours of orderly demonstrating, police sent the group on their way.

Dockers' Strike Still On

MONTREAL (CP) — Nine hours of meetings Sunday between representatives of the International Longshoremen's Association (CLC), the Shipping Federation of Canada and Labor Minister Nicholson resulted in no progress toward ending the three - week dockworkers strike in Quebec, Mr. Nicholson said early today.

He said he would report to the federal cabinet today on the failure of the talks and that another move probably would be made today. He said this would be up to the cabinet.

Mr. Nicholson and industry Minister Drury came to Montreal for meetings after a meeting with ILA and federation delegates in Ottawa Friday failed to make any progress. The first session here Saturday also was fruitless.

Some 4,250 dockworkers have been on strike in Montreal, Quebec and Trois-Rivieres since May 10 in support of demands for more pay, better working conditions and no cuts in the number of men working in gangs. The union is seeking a two-year contract.

JUDGE ALSO FAILED

Judge Rene Lippe, who was named federal mediator earlier this week in an attempt to bring the two parties to any agreement, also attended Sunday's meetings.

A conciliation attempt earlier this month by Judge Lippe, also named by Mr. Nicholson, also failed.

An ILA spokesman said Sunday night the federation has failed to make "even a single counter proposal" to demands made by the union. He said the union had modified its demands once but that the federation had not made any sort of counter-offer since that December before this last working agreement expired.

"We are still open for counter proposals," he said.

More than a hundred ships are tied up here because of the strike and shippers say they are losing about $1,000,000 a week.

Meanwhile, in Halifax a meeting of some 400 longshoremen failed to reach an agreement on whether to obey an order from the ILA headquarters in New York that all longshoremen in North America refuse to work ships diverted from Montreal.

A spokesman said further meetings will be held today.

Polish Catholics On Prowl

By GENE KRAMER

GDANSK, Poland (AP)—Government workers during the night removed all traces of a burned and twisted government signboard after it was wrecked Sunday by hundreds of Polish Roman Catholics.

Riot police dispersed the crowd of some 300 persons, who had just come from a rally cheering the visit of Gdansk' Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski. No one appeared to be hurt, but more than 20 persons who helped storm the huge signboard were believed under arrest.

In Warsaw, the U.S. embassy complained to the Polish foreign ministry about the five-hour detention of Associated Press correspondent Gene Kramer. He was released but officials confiscated his film of the incident. Two other Western reporters were held for two hours.

The incident began shortly after a sermon by Cardinal Wyszynski to a congregation of 22,000 inside the Basilica of St. Mary. Loudspeakers relayed the sermon to a cheering crowd of 100,000 in the streets.

Fresh from the flower-throwing ovation for the Polish Catholic primate, a crowd of homebound worshippers stopped and attacked a signboard in a square opposite the main railway stations. They ripped its two wooden signs from the steel frame and burned them, then

'Surveyor' Speeds Towards Attempt At Lunar Landing

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A spidery Surveyor spacecraft with a revolving camera eye rocketed toward the moon today, aiming for the first U.S. lunar soft-landing on a dry, crater-pocked plain where U.S. astronauts may explore within three years.

A powerful Atlas - Centaur booster rocket thundered away from Cape Kennedy at 10:41 a.m. EDT to start Surveyor on its intended 231,483-mile voyage.

● If the complex moonship survives its 63-hour journey, it is to touch down gently on the moon's Ocean of Storms about 1:36 a.m. Thursday.

Surveyor could transmit hundreds of clear closeup pictures and scientific data which could determine whether that area of the moon is safe for manned expeditions. History first lunar soft-lander, Russia's Luna IX, showed last February that at least one area is firm enough for landing.

WILL TRY AGAIN

The launching triggered a two - pronged U.S. assault on space as the space agency quickened the pace of the moon race. Wednesday, Gemini 9 cosmonauts Thomas P. Stafford and Eugene A. Cernan are to try again to rocket into orbit on their twice - postponed rendezvous and spacewalk mission.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said five hours of tracking would be required to determine whether Surveyor was on the correct course.

The flight plan called for the 2,194-pound craft, which resembles a giant spider, to execute several intricate manoeuvres.

The flight control centre reported after four minutes of flight that the Atlas shut down and the hydrogen - powered Centaur upper stage separated and ignited.

If there are no hitches, Surveyor will be transmitting pictures from the lunar surface Thursday when Cernan takes a lengthy space walk.

The flight plan calls for the 2,194-pound craft to touch down in the Ocean of Storms about 1:36 a.m. Thursday.

TAKES 63 HOURS

The journey was to last 63 hours.

The landing impact was to be cushioned by crushable foot

Coup Attempt Fails

LEOPOLDVILLE (Reuters)—The Congolese government today claimed to have foiled a plot by a former premier and three other ex-ministers to assassinate President Joseph Mobutu and overthrow the government.

An announcement over Radio Leopoldville said a number of foreign embassies were involved in the coup attempt and that relations with the countries concerned would be broken as soon as a full investigation was complete.

A government spokesman told a press conference the alleged plotters asked for aid from four unidentified embassies in Leopoldville.

"Two of these said no. The two others agreed to go along, one giving 1,300,000 Congolese francs to the plotters to buy the allegiance of army officers."

The spokesman said the four arrested men would be tried for high treason before a military tribunal.

"If they are found guilty it is most probable they will be executed in a public hanging in the city's main square."

The radio broadcast said factional rival, Thich Tri Quang,

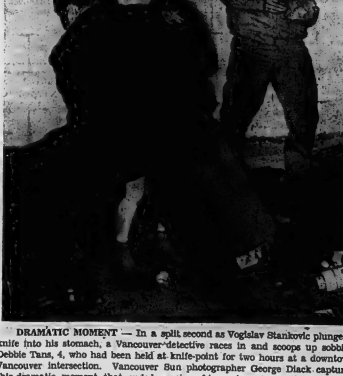
Girl, 4, Has Nightmares After Rescue

VANCOUVER (CP) — Four-year-old Debbie Tann dreams of her ordeal Friday and when a man held her hostage with a knife at her stomach for two hours.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Tann said Sunday night their daughter is still frightened and is unusually silent. She refused to leave her parents' side. She still awakens screaming.

Debbie's ordeal began minutes after a man and his son were slashed by a man wielding a knife and fleeing incidentally.

The man then grabbed Debbie and, on a busy street corner and with police and crowds gathered, pressed a knife to the girl's stomach demanded that his "story" be told.



He rambled incoherently about losing his job, about nobody wanting to help him return to his native Yugoslavia. He then released the girl and plunged the knife into his stomach.

Vogislav Stajkovic, in fair condition in hospital, was charged Saturday with two counts of attempted non-capital murder. Also in fair condition with stab wounds were Theodor Kocnor and his son, Teddy, 6.

Police said Stankovic was released recently from a nearby mental hospital.

Census Takers To Start Work On Wednesday

Commencing on Wednesday, June 1st, the census takers will be knocking on your door.

This year's head counting, however, is only a partial census and for the city residents will be asked only five questions by the enumerators.

In the rural areas there are more than 200 possible questions to be asked although few farmers will have to answer this number. In the urban areas the census takers are expected to complete their job in two weeks or less, but in the country with the additional questions to be asked, the job will take a bit longer.

The five short questions the enumerators will ask at each urban home shouldn't take more than ten minutes to answer.

The questions you'll be asked: name, sex, marital status, and relationship to the head of the household. If you're a householder, you will be asked whether your residence is owned or rented.

L. Vigodda's Trial Date Set, Sept. 19

Leonard Vigodda, 18 Leslie Dr., Belleville, charged with theft of cobalt from Ontario between the dates of May 1, 1964, and February 28, 1965, appeared before J. C. (Jack) Anderson in Hastings County Court today.

Vigodda re-elected to face trial by judge alone rather than his original election of trial by judge and jury.

He was not prepared to plead. Date for the trial was set for September 19.

He remains on his present bail of $10,000.

APPROVE PROGRAM

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Communist party approved a 10-year program Friday to create millions of acres of new farm land in the shores of newly larger, more stable crops. The program could eventually increase Soviet wheat crops to the point where the Russians will no longer have to make huge purchases in Canada, Australia and other foreign countries. The program calls for irrigating millions of acres of dry land and draining millions of other acres of marsh land to create new farms.

Bank Staff Cannot Identify Any of Accused as Robbers

The trial of four Montreal men charged with the armed robbery of the Bank of Montreal, Frankford on March 30, opened today in Hastings County Court before Judge J. C. Anderson

Maurice Laoie, 31, Armand Blanco, 29, Victor Tessier, 41 and Gilles Gaudette, 27, had elected trial by judge and jury but they re-elected trial by judge alone today.

They pleaded not guilty.

Henry John Funk, a manager with the Attorney General's Laboratory, Toronto, testified this a brown button, tagged by Belleville O.P.P. as being found on the floor on the drivers' side of a blue Oldsmobile, was found to have orange-brown wool fibres and black fibres entangled underneath it.

He said he made a comparison of the button and a pair of brown trousers belonging to Maurice Laoie.

"I found the left rear pocket of the trousers didn't have a button on the flap and there was a small tear of the cloth where there is normally a button.

"I noticed the same type of button on the right rear pocket of the trousers," Mr. Funk added that the button and thread are not uncommon types. He said the trousers were more common than some and more common than others.

He said there are other trousers such as these, and if the circumstances were as they were in the case, then the button could have come from another pair of trousers."

Sidney Joseph Anderson, ballistics examiner with the Attorney General's Laboratory, testified that all the weapons, a total of four, found by O.P.P. in a duffle bag near Glen Miller, were in firing condition.

He said one was a sawed-off 20 gauge Cooey shotgun, a sawed-off 32 calibre M1 carbine with two clips attached together and capable of holding 60 rounds, a possible .38 calibre Colt police positive model revolver, and a .38 special Colt revolver with the serial number obliterated.

Mr. Anderson testified he examined 47 rounds of ammunition, all live, and all but one suitable for use in the exhibited weapons. The cartridges were tagged as being found loose in the duffle bag, in the chambers of the weapons, in the pockets of a raincoat or received by O.P.P. constables. One cartridge, a live 9 millimeter calibre cartridge, found loose in the duffle bag, was not suitable for use in any of the weapons.

"My conclusion is that all the firearms are in firing condition and were tested by me in the laboratory."

He said under cross-examination that "none of the weapons did blank, or accidental discharge with normal precautionary use."

MANAGER THREATENED

Joseph McDonald, manager of the Frankford Bank of Montreal, testified he was interviewing a customer when the door opened and a masked man came in and threatened me with what appeared to be a sawed-off shotgun.

"He ordered me to the floor of the bank. There I was taken into the vault and ordered to open the combinations to the safe.

"When I was at the back of the office I saw three other masked men in the bank. One of them took me into the vault and threatened me with a revolver."

He said he believed the revolver was a police revolver.

"I noticed one of the masked men in the teller's cages raking the bills." He said $15,940.94 was missing from the bank.

Mr. McDonald said he could not recognize any of the accused.

Thomas Harold Kirktown, accountant at the bank, said he was standing just outside the manager's office when "I heard some shouting and I saw four masked men come through the front door. One went to the first teller's cage, one went to the other teller's cage and one went into the manager's office.

"I saw the manager come out by my desk, along with a customer and a masked man. The customer went to the back of the office and the manager went to the vault.

"I went to the back of the bank and saw a man in the first teller's cage raking money out from the drawer into a white cloth bag."

He said he saw one sawed-off gun.

Mr. Kirktown said that three days after the hold-up he was in the Belleville O.P.P. headquarters and saw a brown button in a duffle bag. He said there was $15,211 Canadian currency, $1,255 consisting of twenty $62 U.S. money, and $380.94 pound Sterling. There was also a $25 postal money order payable to Frankford Fuels.

He said the U.S. money had a slip wrapped around it with the branch stamp on it.

He admitted under cross-examination there was no way which he could identify any of the accused as the men who robbed the bank.

Mrs. Mary Rankin, an employee of the bank, said she was at her desk next to the manager's office when "I heard a commotion and some shouting. One man went into the manager's office. I noticed Mr. McDonald starting to rise and put his hands up in the air.

"Next thing I knew there was a man at my desk with a sawed-off gun and a pistol and a dark mask with holes for the eyes and mouth.

"I saw one man in the first teller's cage, then he went to the second teller's cage. He had a light coloured bag and was stuffing money into it."

She said there were four masked men in the bank but she could not identify any of them.

Mrs. Alice Sharp, first teller in the bank, said "A man was standing in front of me at the other side of the counter pointing a gun at me. The gun looked as if it was sawed off. The barrel had been shortened down."

DROPPED TO KNEES

"I dropped to my knees and then saw Mr. McDonald coming down the aisle. When I got up there was a man behind me. He was telling me to move over.

"He took all the money out of the drawers. It looked to me as if he put it in a pillow case or sugar sack."

Crown Attorney John Pringle showed Mrs. Sharp the sawed-off shotgun in the court's possession. "Is this like the one that you saw?"

"It couldn't say for sure," she said. "It looks similar."

She noticed the dark mask of one man who was wearing khaki army trousers. "Also I thought one man had on a light coat."

Under cross-examination she said she couldn't be sure of the colour of the coat. "I'm sure about the khaki pants. I just wondered why someone in the world would be robbing the bank."

Mrs. Ada Dalman, a customer in the bank at the time of the robbery, said, "I didn't realize anything was wrong until I turned around and saw one of the tellers looking pale.

"There was tape on the front of one of the guns; a light coloured tape. It looked like a toy gun.

"I went behind the counter and got down. I saw someone raking money out of the teller's drawers. He appeared to be wearing a light coloured coat."

MOTOR WAS RUNNING

Herb Rankin, a bus driver for Rathbun Bus Lines, testified that he drove up Highway 14 to Vill St. and saw a late model Oldsmobile parked by the bank on the south side of the road facing north.

"It was a light blue car and the motor was running.

"He said he turned the corners and saw the bank manager's wife standing at the apartment door by the bank waving frantically and shouting.

"I backed my station wagon around the corner and pulled up behind the Oldsmobile and the parked Oldsmobile to sort of block it in.

"I was there about 30 or 40 seconds when four men came out of the bank. They were wearing dark jackets and dark colored clothing.

"The first man got in behind the wheel of the second car and got into the rear seat and the fourth man went around the front of the car and got in the front seat beside the driver. My car was parked too close to the Oldsmobile so he couldn't get in. He took a long stride back and held up the gun, I think it was a revolver, and pointed it at me.

"He held the gun towards my face. My car was parked so I took my foot off the brake, rolled onto the seat, and the car rolled back about 15 feet or so feet. Then I pushed it into drive and moved forward, ramming the Oldsmobile."

He said the Oldsmobile took off and he stopped forward and found a piece of plastic and bullets on the ground after it left.

He said he could not identify any of the masked men.

Constable Ross Frankford businessman, said he had left his store with Gerald Harrington and Mr. Treston. "I saw the manager's wife coming out of the bank waving her arms and shouting.

"As a result of what she told me, I got my car in front of the Oldsmobile. The police placed his car behind the Oldsmobile.

"I got out of my car and crossed the street. I observed four masked men coming out of the bank. Just one gun was pointed at us from the rear of the car. It seemed to be a sawed-off gun with some type of reel apparatus on it, like a cylinder.

"When the Oldsmobile proceeded to pull away, Mr. Rankin brought his car forward and I got into the license number of the car and went into my car and my store to call the O.P.P."

He said the Oldsmobile went straight north.

The trial continues.

OVER THE TOP — Alan Rutherford, of Parkdale 18 Cub Pack, demonstrates his high jump style as he participates in athletic events at Saturday's Cuboree at Belleville Fair Grounds.

23 Cub Packs Hold Cuboree At Fairgrounds

Approximately 325 Cubs representing 23 Belleville cub packs, with their leaders and group committeemen converged on the Belleville Fair Grounds Saturday afternoon for their annual cuboree.

The Cuboree got underway at 1.30 with a Grand Howl opening. Dag break and marchpast, followed by program of athletic events based on the requirements of the wolf cub athlete's badge with qualifying participants to receive their badge. Among the events were an obstacle race, broad jump, climbing, ball throwing, ball catching, head standing and carrywheeling sit ups and push ups.

Following the athletic events the boys enjoyed refreshments before the day's program ended with appropriate wolf cub ceremonies.

Chairman of the cuboree committee was Howard G. Rainbird.

Presbyterians To Hold Service At Lake Simcoe

Scotts who rallied in hidden glens for secret worship nearly 300 years ago will be remembered at special Presbyterian services at Lake Simcoe on June 5.

For those secret meetings or conventicles, held in defiance of English domination, eventually won the conventeers freedom of worship.

Those descendants will be proud of this heritage when they gather at Glen Mhor Camp, five miles north of Beaverton, for the 10.30 consecutive conventicle there.

SIMILAR SETTING

The spirit, purpose and the outdoor chapel provide a setting similar to the meeting places Covenanters held in Scotland.

Presbyterians from 280 churches in Toronto and Kingston Synod will attend.

They will pay tribute to ancestors who risked death if they owned a Bible, but who persisted in their meetings until they got freedom.

Their resistance came to a head in Edinburgh nearly three centuries ago, when they stood in line and drew blood from their veins to sign a covenant for free worship.

Within a few years a defiant flock of faith was established for all time, and they won religious freedom.

FOR THOUSANDS

The June rally is considered a great service of witness for thousands of Presbyterians when officials from across Canada join with other worshippers in voicing loyalty of their denomination.

They will bear a massed choir from Toronto churches and the surrounding synod area. There will be the skirl of the pipes, provided by McIntyre Pipe and Drum Band of Lakefield. Professor W. Stanford Reid of the University of Guelph will preach.

BEAUTY IN THE BLOSSOMS — The Apple Blossom Festival in Ameliasburg appealed to hundreds yesterday. Margaret Onderdonk of R. R. 1 Carrying Place posed in a backdrop of floral profusion as the trees in the Harold Bonter orchards were in full bloom for the occasion. HAPPY VISITORS — Among the many visitors to view the blossoms in Ameliasburg yesterday were: Mayor H. J. McFarland of Picton, left, Group Captain and Mrs. G. R. Thompson of CFB Trenton and Mayor and Mrs. Jack Ellis of Belleville. They enjoyed the free tractor drawn trailer ride as one of the highlights of the festival.

First Apple Blossom Festival in P.E. County Brings Many to View

As the Apple Blossom Festival became an annual event for Ameliasburg township officials pleasantly surprised at the inaugural ceremony at Warden Harold Bonter's orchards on the Redmerville road attracted Sunday afternoon sightseers by the hundreds. One interested family drove in from Vineland west of Toronto. A number of people from Toronto made the trip to view the blooms and enjoy rural hospitality in a farm setting.

The procession of cars stretched the popular apple blossom route between Rossmore and Carrying Place started at 1:00 p.m., and was still moving west, bumper to bumper at times, four hours later. Traffic was directed and kept moving by the Picton OPP detachment.

While cool weather discouraged picnic lunches among florid profusion in an area along the bay shore, an estimated 1,000 stopped for generous helpings of apple pie and cheese and rides through the blossoming trees on tractor drawn trailers. More people dropped in to compliment the host and members of the township organizations, who assisted with the promotion of the project. They continued to come and go all afternoon.

Mayor Jack Ellis of Belleville with his family, brought a message from the Belleville people. He said he looked for the festival to become a bigger success each year if the enthusiasm and interest expressed could be used as a base for predicting the future.

WELCOMED BY WARDEN

Picton's mayor H. J. McFarland, Hasting County's warden Clyton Hall and Hastings South MP Lee Grills all praised the sponsors calling the festival a very progressive step and an example of what can result through the efforts of energetic and enterprising people. "The Niagara Falls district has nothing on Prince Edward County at apple blossom time," mayor McFarland remarked.

The visitors were welcomed by Prince Edward County Warden Harold Bonter and Mrs. Bonter.

One of the attractions along the route east of Redoerview was a turn out of the nucleous of the English Riding Stable on border type horses. Six of the club members in colorful riding habit put on a display of horsemanship in the paddock of the Bob Dawson farm that appealed to the sightseers.

Applications for the Apple Blossom Princess contest sponsored by the Ameliasburg centennial committee numbered 14. The winner will be judged by the homecowners' association at a date to be announced. At Picton Fair this fall the Prince Edward County Centennial Queen will be selected from princesses representing the county's seven townships.

Brighton Jokers Place Dummy On Railway Line

BRIGHTON — An unidentified motorist who hurried to remove what he thought was a man lying on the main CNR Toronto-Montreal railway line Saturday night is credited by police and railway employers with preventing what could have been extensive damage to a freight due to pass the point in a few minutes. What the motorist saw was a dummy which Brighton Police Constable Ray Grogan describes as being "so realistic it startled me". Dressed in jeans and a sweater and with a green plastic face, it was about five feet long and had been left by what police describe as pranksters with a weird sense of humor a few hundred yards west of the level crossing where four fatalities occurred in a train car crash the night of May 20. Police who are investigating the incident, on returning to the scene with the motorist are convinced that the freight engineer, seeing what looked like a person lying helpless on the tracks, would have reacted by jamming on all brakes and using sultant damage to the engine unit and wheels on all freight cars behind.

Constable Grogan said Sunday night it appeared to be an example of the kind of behavior that has caused police considerable trouble and time recently tracking down complaints of stone throwing and general trouble making by small groups of teen agers and younger children in the community. One Prince Edward St. family returned from an out-of-town shopping trip last week to find a large stone between two panes of a large front window in their home. Another elderly man who found a heap of old newspapers on his doorstep two weeks in succession nabbed a pair whom he identified as the culprits. After questioning them he admitted stored a lecture plus an old fashioned hot seat brand of discipline, then reported the incident to police.

Educational Boom

"Our choice as a nation in the world of today is whether we try to keep abreast of what is going on in the leading universities of the world and in the leading countries of the world, because all the world is our industrial competition whether we fit ourselves to compete with them, or whether we just sit back and slip behind."

These and other observations by Northumberland M. P. George Hees on the subject of the "education explosion" are worth pondering. His message is one that cannot be emphasized too often. For instance he cites the Atlantic Monthly as saying there is no place in the modern world for the uneducated and the untrained.

Mr. Hees, addressing Belleville Chamber of Commerce the other day, said the highest form of education is a must for today's youth. "Out of all these young people going to university, perhaps 10 per cent may emerge on top who will graduate with the highest standing, and will be fitted to proceed further in scientific and cultural studies.

"The crux of the matter is that we cannot discover these brilliant ten unless we let the 100 have a try too."

Business, Mr. Hees went on, depends on our being willing to accept the fruits of research and the new sciences, which can show the way to develop new uses for raw materials, and so on. He said that such is the pace of today's development of science that if what a graduate engineer learns will be obsolete in a decade. Keeping abreast of such an explosion of knowledge is the task of the universities and of the graduates.

For the general public this can mean only one thing — still higher taxation as the years pass. Mr. Hees predicts a vast capital expenditure, but is convinced it will be a capital investment which will be very profitable by ensuring that Canada keeps its place in a competive world.

One suggestion we might make in this proliferating sphere of education is the need for harnessing and concentrating the accumulated knowledge of university-trained Canadians. For example, we lose too many graduates to better-paid positions in the United States. Again, many women graduates finish their training, only to marry, and their knowledge is not put to practical use. Moreover, we cannot afford to waste or lose the talents of either 90 per cent who must be trained in order to sift the top ten per cent Mr. Hees cites as being vital to the future of this country, particularly as the top ten are the ones most likely to end up in the United States.

Still Together

The Hollywood marriages one hears least about are the successful ones, but now and again a glimpse is afforded into the happily married lives of well-known stars.

One such couple is singer Tony Martin and Cyd Charisse, actress, dancer and one of Hollywood's great beauties.

Mr. Martin has been appearing at the Royal York Imperial Room in Toronto. Each night, after the show, he phones home to tell his wife what he sang, how the audience received him, and how it went. "She is full of interest," he told an interviewer.

The Martins, incidentally, have been married 18 years. "We respect each other," said Mr. Martin. "There is nothing she would do to me that would hurt me or put me in disrespect. We are not fighting each other to see who will do the best."

Surely a statement that all husbands and wives should have engraved on their hearts.

For others the divorce court is still the sad end of the trail, and a notable visitor to its precincts in recent days was Kim Novak, who until her marriage to British actor Richard Johnson, was perhaps Hollywood's most famous bachelor girl. Now, after only a brief time together, they have parted and Miss Novak has returned to the lonely cliffside retreat which is her home on the California coast.

Fire Inspection

The home inspection program being undertaken this summer by Belleville Fire Department is one that merits the co-operation of every householder.

Citizens are not obliged to submit their homes to inspection. The program is a voluntary one; however as Fire Chief Ted Poste points out, such an inspection can do much to reduce the number of fires.

The program begins June 13 and only the basement, yards, sheds and garage will be surveyed. All findings will be confidential and the fire department will merely point out any hazards they may encounter.

Belleville has been relatively free from fires of late, and outbreaks in private homes are rare. To maintain this record, however, requires constant vigilance, and the Fire Department's initiative is a welcome lead to the community.

Censorship Issue in Quebec

Vancouver Sun

It is not easy to bill if speaker Guy LeChasseur of the Quebec legislature was speaking for the Lesage government when he advocated control of the press in a recent speech.

With a great deal of circumlocution and grandiloquent language, Mr. LeChasseur said that because of the need for exact information and the development of what he called the science of "social communication" — whatever that means — he believed there would soon be created "a department of information and public affairs and a higher council of social communication."

These are meaningless terms without precise definition. But the way the matter was put by the speaker it would appear that he, as was clear to the Lesage government, has inside knowledge that some steps toward the direction of censorship are contemplated in Quebec.

However, later in his speech Mr. LeChasseur is quoted as saying these were personal opinions and did not reflect the feeling of the Quebec government. Still, they are remarkable enough from a politician who lists himself as a Liberal. Liberalism is indeed going through a change in the French language province when a politician so prominent can leave himself open to interpretation (we hope mistaken), that he advocates a controlled press.

For this is what it seems to be. A ministry of information, of course, can be innocent enough affair, provided it is just that, a means of getting information about government activities to the public with the least delay and confusion. Normally, government seeks to make it difficult for the news media to get facts. It is the nature of the beast to be secretive — but anyone dressed in a little brief authority is apt to act this way. Fortunately — as a rule — our democratic system does not foster such tendencies; but obviously there are politicians, or groups of them, even in Canada, who can become carried away by the heady wine of temporary power and imagine themselves appointed of God.

More dubious than a ministry of information is the suggestion for a "higher council of social communication." Behind this high - sounding title is the sensitive may suspect the possibilities of directing newspapermen and editors in the way they should present "information" to the public. Mr. LeChasseur says, for instance:

"Information must be directed, planned and rigorously dealt with.

"It must evolve parallel with the context of liberty, but the latter must not serve as a pretext to open the door to a great unconditional liberalism which would serve those who like sensationalism and scandal."

"Under such conditions, surveillance of the profession becomes a necessity and in a milieu of a plethora of information and public affairs and that of a higher council of social communication."

The word "liberty" in this context isn't oddly against the word "surveillance" — but down... Perhaps Mr. LeChasseur's meaning has been twisted a little in translation, for he has probably made his speech in French. We can only hope so.

Liberty cannot be diluted.

Women's Role in the World

UNESCO Features

The U.N. Commission on the Status of Women has just unanimously adopted a draft "Declaration of the Elimination of Discrimination Against Women." The draft is to be passed to the Economic and Social Council for submission to the U.N. General Assembly next September.

Affirming the principle of "the full and complete development of a country requires the maximum participation of all women," the preamble of the declaration states that "it is necessary to ensure to the universal recognition in law and fact of the principle of equality of men and women . . . the principles of the declaration deal, among other matters, with the abolition of discriminatory laws, customs and practices, the education of public opinion to this end, the right to vote and to be elected and the right to exercise all public functions, equal rights in the field of civil law, equality in marriage and the right of a wife to retain her nationality after marriage, equal conditions of access to education, professional training and careers, the right to work and to social security, and finally the responsibility of governments in promoting the observance of these principles.

The importance which the Commission on the Status of Women attaches to educational problems is underlined by the unanimous adoption of a resolution submitted by the British and French representatives, which "notes with satisfaction that the General Conference of Unesco will have before it at its fourteenth session a draft convention" on the advancement of women through their access to education, scientific culture and "progress" and see the hope that Unesco will be able to carry out this project in close collaboration with the United Nations . . ."

The adoption by the United Nations of such a declaration could certainly lead to a number of governments modifying their laws in order to give a real and genuine equality. It may be recalled that after the adoption of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights 18 years ago, several governments granted certain political rights which had previously been withheld.

Vanished

London Free Press

It was just a few years ago that revision of the Unemployment Insurance Act was deemed imperative. A special committee recommended a return to actuarial principles and an enlarged system of benefits. An overhaul of the act was a commitment of the Diefenbaker government, was once an urgent commitment of the Pearson ministry. Now the subject has vanished from Liberal program and throne speech.

Alberta's New Contacts

Edmonton Journal

Premier Manning—and Quebec Prime Minister Lesage as well—must frank, refreshing notes in opening Alberta House in Montreal's Place Ville Marie.

Tiresome pleas about bilingualism and biculturalism, got short shrift. Instead, the talk was of realities.

Premier Lesage frankly acknowledged Alberta is far from Quebec, different in nature, and the two have had little contact. But was there handwringing about that fact of life? No, it simply underscored the current opportunity for Alberta to move into the province next door—and Quebec to invest in Alberta — thereby each getting to know the other.

Neither is Alberta House a lonely outpost in French Canada. Quite frankly, it is the super and communications centre. Besides it has good access to the Maritimes, the New England states, New York and the rest of Central Canada.

And Alberta House is going to be intelligently staffed to exploit that position, just as has been done with Alberta House in Los Angeles, no more, no less.

What happened? The premier and his party wowed Montrealers.

After this, it is going to be hard to paint Ernest Manning as an opponent of French Canada. Mr. Lesage, for his part, with Ottawa's more precious Bi and Bi posturings.

Behind it capped it agressive economic development, he talks the real language of Quebec and the rest of the West, and no nonsense about it. With economic foundations solidly in place, the problems of unity will look after themselves.

Critic Praised

Regina Leader-Post

Although music critics take up a good deal of space in the world's newspapers, they rarely, themselves, make the news.

The unusual happened the other day in Britain when the great 20th century music critic, Neville Cardus, was praised in a speech at the Royal Festival Hall in London by Sir John Barbirolli, conductor of the famous Hallo Orchestra.

"Hon. would you believe nineteen million, five hundred an' eighty-nine thousand . . . and one?"

Twenty - five years ago today — in 1941 — Allied forces on Crete retreated to the south coast; pro-Nazi rebel Premier Rashid Ali of Iraq fled to Iran as a British column neared Baghdad; deposed King Carol of Rumania arrived at Havana with Elena Lupescu.

Job Situation in the U.S.

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

In the United States today, we have hundreds of thousands of jobs that need to be filled, and hundreds of thousands of people who need jobs. Little, if anything is being done to bring the two together.

The people who need the jobs don't have the background or training that would qualify them to fill the jobs that are going begging. And neither the government nor private enterprise is doing much about it.

There is a desperate shortage of technicians, mechanics and repair men for electronics, automobiles, radios, television sets, appliances of all kinds.

There is an equally desperate need for cooks. It is shameful that the most important industry in the world has one of the lowest standards of public cookery in largely because we don't provide the facilities to train and turn out cooks to the European scale of proficiency.

Household help is another vast gap that needs to be filled. Tens of thousands of families who could afford full-time or part-time help find it difficult, if not impossible, to obtain qualified persons.

One sensible suggestion along these lines was made recently by Prof Eli Ginzberg, chairman of the President's Nation al Manpower Advisory Committee, who called for an organized effort to train and provide reliable household help.

He recommended that "profit-seeking enterprises . . . formalize this casual labor market by taking responsibility for recruiting, screening, hiring, supervising and paying household help." Just as some firms today, provide secretaries and stenographers, others would supply household help that is professionally recruited and trained.

What we call "unemployables" today include a large number of persons who would be eminently employable if somebody took the trouble to teach them skills. But most of our present vocational guidance programs are inept, skimpy, and not geared to the realistic needs of the economy or the society.

Public welfare rolls increase from year to year, with no end in sight, until we recognize that it is more efficient (and more humane) to pay people to learn a trade or trade than simply to supply them with welfare funds to live in hopelessness.

And, since automation is inevitably going to reduce the number of workers needed in industrial occupations, such persons must be trained for the service industries — repairing, barbering, cooking, selling, housekeeping, and all the other service shortages that make our magnificent technology a mockery so far as ease of living is concerned.

Mentally Ill Persons Are Often Rehabilitated

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

To me it was an important item although it contained only three or four paragraphs — an announcement by the Health Insurance Institute that last year 18,000 mentally ill people were rehabilitated to the extent of holding useful jobs again.

The figures were based on data from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and evidently apply to people who were helped by state vocational agencies. It is fair to assume that a good many others with emotional illnesses were rehabilitated under other circumstances and are not included in these figures.

The Institute remarks: "Mental illness is one of the most widespread and disabling disorders in the United States. An estimated 19 million persons — 10 percent of the nation's population — suffer from some form of it."

True. It is a very large problem. But I think the recoveries will increase in number as more people are made aware that folks do improve with proper treatment. Such figures as the 18,000 going back to work in 12 months may dispel some of the hopelessness which still too often exists.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any hope for a person with ulcers who can't drink milk or cream? I am sending 20 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for your booklet, "How to Heat Peptic Ulcers and Keep them Healed." — Mrs. H.

Why can't you drink milk or cream? Taste? Allergy? Or are you worried over your weight?

If it's a matter of flavor, some vanilla or other flavoring can be added. If you are genuinely allergic to milk, as some people are, then you will have to avoid it.

There's more to controlling ulcers than just drinking milk, although for most patients, it is good for a variety of reasons. Milk is mildly alkaline, but you can use predicated wafers or antacids in liquid form between meals. Other foods and vitamin capsules can be substituted for the nutritional content.

Yes, there certainly is plenty of hope for the sufferer patient who can't drink milk, but I suggest that you pay attention to your emotional attitude, living habits and so on, as described in my booklet.

Dear Dr. Molner: This may seem foolish to some people but not to me. What can be done about ears that stick out?—Mrs. G.

This is one of the many things that plastic surgeons can correct. Have your regular physician refer you to such a specialist.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband has diverticulosis. Would he be allowed to drink milk? Also what laxative can I give him? He needs one every day. — Mrs. T. H.

I see no reason why he should not drink milk unless there is some special factor — hypersensitivity, for one — that you have not mentioned.

What laxative do I advise? I'd advise Dr. Bakwin's Cereal Laxative, which is a mixture of bran and senna. When someone tells me that a person "needs a laxative every day," I want to know why he thinks so.

His normal bowel pattern may be such that there is no need for a movement every day. There are many such people, and there is no medical reason for believing that everyone needs a daily movement.

Thus this laxative habit, instead of being necessary or helpful, is actually irritating the colon into abnormal activity. This alone could cause the diverticulosis more annoying.

The young woman the Polish tourist agency supplied as a guide and interpreter led the way into a cathedral in Warsaw. She blessed herself with holy water, knelt at the altar and prayed. Asked later if she were a Communist she said: "Yes." Asked if she were a Catholic she gave the same answer. Asked: "All Poles are Catholics." Even the Communists? she was asked. "Of course," she said. "They're Poles, don't they?"

The C.N.R. station at Belleville was a busy spot just at the crack of dawn this morning as 24 overseas brides and 22 dependents stepped off the special train to be greeted by anxious husbands, or to be otherwise directed through the local Red Cross organization.

The flow of traffic on city streets 24 years ago presented a vastly different picture from the congested conditions of today, and accordingly street islands must go. Hillier Renews Fire Fighting Agreement

HILLIER — Hillier Township renewed its firefighting agreement with Wellington Thursday night. The township will pay the village a flat retaining fee of $500 per year, plus $150 every time the fire department answers a call to the municipality.

Attending the regular township council meeting on behalf of Wellington were Reeve Robert Boyce, Fire Committee chairman Hewitt East and D. C. Armstrong.

Council also passed a by-law allowing Thomas Ould to close part of a township road so that he may seal access to the sub-division on Lot 34, Concession 3, at North Roy. Four summer cottages have already been built in the area.

The contract for gravelling township roads has gone to the Coyle Company of Lakefield. It is planned to use calcium chloride for keeping roads free of dust in residential areas. Liquid from the Damtar Newsprint plant in Trenton had been used previously.

The township is still awaiting approval on the application to build an addition to the township hall as a Centennial Project.

Asset Thought Worthless Now Valuable

TORONTO (CP) — Victoria and Grey Trust Co. says it has recovered more than $1,700,000 from an asset which was given no value at the time of last year's merger with British Mortgage and Trust.

This is worth about $6 per share of British Mortgage, the Stratford company which ran into financial difficulties following the collapse of Atlantic Acceptance Corp. in June, 1965.

The merger gave British Mortgage shareholders one Victoria and Grey share for each six British Mortgage shares held.

At the time, Victoria and Grey shares were selling in the $15 ranges' posting an equivalent valuation of $2.50 on each British Mortgage share.

The $1,700,000 was recovered from securities of Commodore Business Machines (Canada) Ltd. which Victoria and Grey thought were worthless at the time of the merger.

"Looking back on it, I would not call it a mistake," said Walter Harris, president of Victoria and Grey.

British Mortgage held $2,800,000 face amount in Commodore debentures, valued preferred shares. In addition, the Stratford company held Commodore common shares.

PLEDGED AS SECURITY

Those holdings arose partly from direct investment in Commodore, and partly because Commodore securities had been pledged as security for some loans which were never repaid.

Mr. Harris said: "We simply concluded we'd receive nothing for these securities."

But, by an agreement made April 7 this year, Commodore said it would buy back all the securities held by Victoria and Grey with the exception of the common shares.

The price paid by Commodore for these securities was $1,500,000 plus 30,000 Commodore common shares.

The same day, the president and vice - president of Commodore agreed that Victoria and Grey's holdings of 135,738 Commodore shares would be bought for $1.50 each, or a total price of $203,607.

This meant that in total, Victoria and Grey would get back $1,703,607 plus 30,000 Commodore shares.

Mr. Harris said it is still difficult to estimate what recovery will be made on British Mortgage's portfolio of investments.

He added that the recovery on the Commodore securities does not in any case make up the deficit position of British Mortgage at the time of the merger last Sept. 30.

Can young people under 20 handle money sensibly?

London Life believes that many young Canadians should brush up on the financial facts of life. How about you? Test your knowledge with the 9 true and false statements below. (They cover everything from cars to rock'n'roll singers to marriage.) Then read the surprising answers:

	TRUE	FALSE
1. A salary of $50 a week is enough to raise a family on.	☐	☐
2. It is a mistake to borrow money.	☐	☐
3. Ten years from now our most popular rock'n'roll singers will be flat broke.	☐	☐
4. A life insurance policy is worthless until you die.	☐	☐
5. Clothes and cars are a good way to invest your money.	☐	☐
6. A college graduate will probably earn at least $50,000 more in his lifetime than a high school graduate.	☐	☐
7. If you don't have $1,000 in cash you should forget about university.	☐	☐
8. A life insurance policy costs more the longer you wait to buy it.	☐	☐
9. Young people should live for today and forget about tomorrow.	☐	☐

1. A salary of $50 a week is enough to raise a family on. FALSE

If you are like many young people, your first job when you leave school will pay about $50 a week. A fortune to spend on clothes, dates and fun. You live at home. Mother does your laundry and cooks your meals. If you pay "board," it's often a token amount.

But think about even $60 a few years from now. You meet somebody. You marry. You have children. That $60 a week works out to $3,120 a year.

You need furniture, baby clothes, life insurance. You want a car, and eventually a home.

Normally you should apply about ¼ of your salary to pay for your home or apartment. That works out to $65 a month. What kind of house or apartment can you get for $65 a month? If you should decide to buy a car, you'll borrow from a bank. For a $2,000 loan, you'll pay back about $65 a month for three years. You can't afford it.

Didn't rush out to earn $50 a week. Make education and training help you up the salary ladder so you'll be able to support a family comfortably.

2. It is a mistake to borrow money. FALSE

Thoughtful borrowing is often wise. It can help a young man go to university. It can help a couple start a home.

But remember that word "thoughtful." Don't rush into foolish borrowing. Don't borrow more than you can afford to pay back with 10% of your monthly income. Don't borrow at excessive rates of interest.

3. Ten years from now our most popular rock 'n roll singers will be flat broke. FALSE

Young singers today can make a lot of money. Most of them are smart enough to put this money to work to earn more money. For example, $1,000 invested annually in stocks or bonds that earn 5% each year will grow by $30 in the first year (before taxes). And so on.

When their singing days are over, these young people will have a good income from their investments.

4. A life insurance policy is worthless until you die. FALSE

A permanent policy gives you protection and builds savings at the same time. (London Life Jubilee policies are profit-sharing plans that bring you dividends every year. In fact, with a Jubilee policy, a young person can more than double his money before he retires at age 65.)

Many people use permanent insurance to protect their families and also build savings for retirement.

5. Clothes and cars are a good way to invest your money. FALSE

Clothes are a necessity of life. But a third sports jacket or fourth angora sweater is pure luxury. A car is often a luxury (and drops in value very quickly.)

You're kidding yourself if you think excessive clothes or a car are wise investments. They're for fun—if you've got the money.

If you want your money to grow, you should be looking at bank accounts, life insurance, stocks and bonds. Talk to the experts. (Your father is a good place to start.)

6. A college graduate will probably earn at least $50,000 more in his lifetime than a high school graduate. TRUE

Don't fall in love with the idea of making $50 or $60 as soon as you can escape school. You'll regret it. (How often have you heard that?)

The prospect of four years in university frightens many young people. They want money in their pockets. But education pays off later—when you really need money to support your family. Statistics show that university graduates do much better financially. Right at the top of the salary scale are doctors, lawyers, engineers: men who gave up a modest income for a few years to earn a good deal more later on.

7. If you don't have $1,000 in cash you should forget about university. FALSE

If you can get the marks, you'll usually find the money. University scholarships and bursaries are awarded on the basis of marks and need. University loans are available at unusually low interest rates. Government loans are waiting for deserving students.

Life insurance can also help you. Examples: London Life permanent insurance builds up a cash value over the years. You can borrow up to this amount from the Company.

Give some thought to part-time jobs. It's surprising how much you can make in a couple of evenings a week and on Saturday. Many summer jobs also pay well. Talk to your high school principal or guidance teacher.

8. A life insurance policy costs more the longer you wait to buy it. TRUE

Consider the example of a $10,000 London Life Jubilee whole life policy.

A father who insures his newborn son will pay $82.60 a year. If the boy purchases the policy at age 20, he will pay $131.50 a year. If he delays until he is 30, he will pay $176.70 a year.

The longer you wait, the more you pay.

Early purchase of life insurance has two important advantages.

First, protection. Every man wants insurance to protect his family—to give them an income if he should die. But to get this protection, you must pass a medical examination. This becomes more difficult as you grow older. (You can arrange with London Life—when you buy your first policy—to add more insurance at regular intervals without a medical.)

Second, savings. The sooner you buy, the more money you'll save. Example: A $10,000 Jubilee whole life policy purchased at age 20 will require, to age 65, total premiums of $5,917. But savings at age 65 will amount to $15,900. More than double the money paid in. (This is made up of $5,760 in guaranteed cash value and the balance in accumulated dividends. While dividends are never guaranteed, the Company has had an outstanding record of dividend payments.)

9. Young people should live for today and forget about tomorrow. FALSE

Youth is the time for fun. It's also the time to prepare for adult life. Money is not a source of happiness. It is not the beginning or end of any life. But it is a fact of life.

The sooner you grasp the basics of earning, spending and saving, the sooner you can enjoy more important things.

London Life hopes that this article has been of some help. If you would like to learn a little more about life insurance, send for a free copy of our handbook, PLAIN TALK ABOUT LIFE INSURANCE. Write to Dept. W, London Life Insurance Company, 255 Dufferin Avenue, London, Ontario.

IODE Starts Conference For Canada

MONTREAL (CP) — The IODE must start publishing itself and its good works and Canada as the country most keen to do the same, the group's national president told delegates to the 66th annual meeting of the national chapter on the weekend.

"Canada has often been accused of having an inferiority complex, but perhaps that is because we don't talk much about ourselves," Mrs. J. Neil Gordon suggested to some 300 members attending the opening ceremonies here Saturday night.

The Toronto woman said it is time each IODE member became an individual ambassador for her country, and also for her organization.

The five-day meeting, bringing together members from across the country, continues until Wednesday. Claire Kirkland-Casgrain, Quebec minister of transport and communications will address delegates today.

Successful Living
Dislikes Husband's Sloppy Living Habits

DEAR DORIS: My husband smokes one cigaret after another. He has very large hands, with the nails full of grease from mechanic's work and stained yellow from smoking. He keeps one hand in front of his face all the time, with his thumb under his nose while the rest of it is spread out to hold the eternal cigaret.

I sit by a register (the warmest place) and it draws all the smoke into my face while I'm trying to read or watch a TV program. He takes off his shoes, chews gum, and sprawls with ashes dropping.

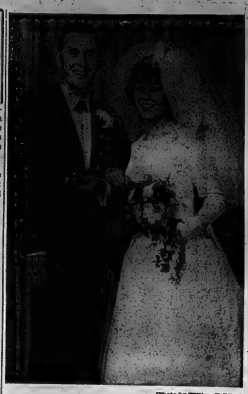
He is good in many ways, and I feel petty letting this sort of thing bother me so much, but I can just see us in our old age, doing exactly the same thing. Is there something I can tactfully do in the meantime? We are both 50, and have only been married a few years.

I have managed after a big blow-up to get him to put his top plate in and comb down his hair, before coming to the kitchen, on getting up, to have his first cigaret. But do we have to have blow-ups for this sort of thing? — BUGGED.

* * *

DEAR BUGGED: It depends. Some husbands want to please the Other Half and readily react to a suggestion. Others think they are being nagged at when a wife is merely trying to be proud of them.

I'd say that if the blow-off is essential to get action, fire away!



P.S. Do you keep him well stocked with laundered shirts and after-shave lotion, and bestow an affectionate kiss when he's clean?

* * *

Confidential to RIGHT OR WRONG: Sometimes a light bleaching is enough to make the hair unnoticeable. Perhaps if you were to send in ten cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope for the leaflet "Removing Unwanted Hair," both you and your mother would find it helpful.

MR. AND MRS. BRUCE K. JARVAH

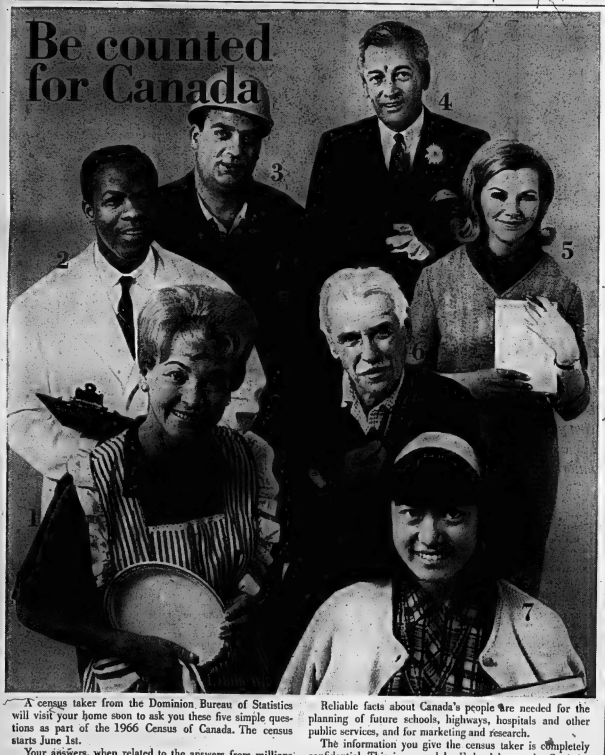
Jarvah – Trapnell

Judith Elinor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Trapnell of Belleville and Bruce Kevin Jarvah of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Jarvah of Bramalea, were united in marriage by Rev. J. A. Carley at St. Joseph's Church, Belleville on Saturday, May 21 at 12 noon. Sister Mary Pollycarp was organist and Mr. W. Mann, soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an Empire style pure silk faille gown with a princess skirt. Alencon lace bordered the scoop neckline, skirt and detachable Watteau train. Her full veil of illusion was caught by a lily-of-the-valley and rose cluster. She carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses intermingled with white gardenias.

Mrs. Sheran Gordon, sister of the bride was matron of honor and Mrs. Heamena Lucas and Miss Diane Jarvah were bridesmaids. The attendants wore floor - length gowns of aqua brocade in a semi - fitted, sleeveless style. Their headdresses were aqua peau-de-soie roses and veils and they carried colonial bouquets of pink and white poms.

The flower girl, Miss Bonnie Gordon, niece of the bride, wore a short white organza over taffeta dress accented with an aqua sash and hair band. She held a carrying basket of white baby 'mums and pink carnations.



Mr. Bruce Alexander was groomsman and the ushers were Mr. Richard Bedford and Mr. David Gordon.

At the reception at the Shrine Club the bride's mother received the guests, wearing a two-piece ensemble of blue crepe with Chantilly lace over-blouse, white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. The bridegroom's mother assisted, wearing a pink faille dress and jacket ensemble with white accessories, and a white carnation corsage.

For her wedding trip to Coral Island, Bermuda, the bride chose a beige wool three-piece suit, green and gold accessories and a corsage of green cymbidium orchids.

On their return, the couple will live at 74 Lewis Street, Belleville.

Ann Landers

Topless, Backless Thing Big Fat Bore for Men

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I would like to add to the letter from the man who wrote about the members of his social set who spend whole evenings at mounted telescopes — looking at what went on in the neighbor's apartments. The writer added this comment: "Of course the Kinsey girls who don't pull down their shades are a little sick, too, because they obviously get their kicks from being observed."

That part is absolutely right. All you have to do is open your eyes and you will see that today's females are crazy to show off their bodies.

Everywhere we look we are assaulted by ANN LANDERS transparent blouses, plunging necklines, thigh-high hems, bare midriffs and naked backs. I recall that some people were shocked when the bikini was first introduced. At least the bikini has two pieces. Beginning two years ago, in almost every major city, some girl was arrested for appearing on the beach with no top at all.

The topless go-go reviews are considered old stuff now. It's the bottomless shows that attract the customers.

What is happening to our society, anyway? It's obvious that the women are willing to go as far as the law allows — or farther. Do you really feel that men find this flaunting of nakedness exciting? What word do you get? — ROOTSOUND.

DEAR ROOT: The vast majority of men I've heard from find the whole topless, bottomless, backless, frontless thing a big fat bore. It's like being served the whole cow when a filet was all that was wanted.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Boy, have I got trouble! And over nothing at all. Today I took a deck of cards to school because I wanted to show a new trick to some kids. I am sort of an amateur magician.

During sixth period, which is music, nothing important was happening. The teacher was playing a dumb record and half the kids were asleep, so I decided to show the card trick to the guys in the back of the room.

Well, you'd have thought I had committed a murder or something. The teacher spotted me, rushed up and grabbed the cards and yelled, "Nobody gambles in my room!"

I told him I wasn't gambling, that I was just doing a trick. He hollered, "Cards are tools for gambling!" Then he took the whole deck of cards and threw them in the wastebasket. Now I am out a darned good bicycle deck. Is this fair or unfair? — VICTIM OF A HOT TEMPER.

DEAR VIC: No matter how you figure to play your hand, the cards are stacked against you when you play against the teacher.

If this was your first offence, he might have let you off with a warning, but obviously he doesn't believe in warnings so get smart and don't bring any more Bicycle decks to school, Bub.

* * *

Confidential to WANTING TO KNOW ABOUT YOU: My teens are staying exactly where they were last year — kneecap covered. I'm not going for any of this nonsense — no matter what the rest of the world does.

VARIETY IN MUFFINS

We are slightly daft from making muffins. We made two kinds of orange muffins and one batch of lemon muffins — the idea being to select one for today's column. But they are all so good we cannot make a decision to omit any so here are all three. Make them for three different meals and you make the decision.

Food for Guide Camp To Be Typically Canadian

By JEAN SHARP
Canadian Press Women's Editor

TORONTO (CP) — When you're planning menus for 2,000 girls, including 300 from 14 other countries, the trick is to make the food interesting but not so off-beat that many will turn up their noses at it.

And so you rule out octopus, even if you could get enough to go round. And after thinking about broccoli for a while, you decide that a majority would probably not like it.

Since February, 1965, this sort of problem has been occupying Dr. Florence Farmer of MacDonald College, Ste. Anne de Bellevue, Que.

Dr. Farmer is quartermaster for the Girl Guides National Heritage Camp to be held on the St. Lawrence Seaway in July, 1967.

In Toronto on a buying trip, she said she and her committees have planned menus for the two weeks with definite standards in mind.

The foods are to be typically Canadian, easy for inexperienced cooks to prepare over a campfire; they should include Canada - wide favorites — items because cooking isn't to be stressed—it's just one of many activities; and the menus must be acceptable to most of the girls most of the time because they won't be able to switch.

The hundreds of guides from all parts of Canada will be accompanied by 100 guides from countries that have contributed to Canada's culture, mainly Britain.

The Heritage camp is the guides' major centennial project and the two weeks on Nelson and Morrison islands will be broken up with day-long trips to such places as Ottawa and Upper Canada Village near Cornwall, Ont.

The girls will live and cook their meals in patrols of nine. Supplies will be prepackaged in the right quantities for each patrol. Some, such as the 450 pounds of sweet and 1,120 quarts of milk needed each day, will have to be supplied fresh.

The guides will get a list of menus with a book of recipes and directions on how to store food and a skillet supplied. Among the recipes will be six typically Canadian meals which each patrol in a contest held among guides and guide leaders. That's where the octopus recipe came from.

Lynds Loucks, a guide from Hiawatha Reserve, Ont., and Jo Slyks, a guide from Trail, B.C., won the contest.

A sample menu for July 15 includes grapefruit juice, rolled oats and a poached egg for breakfast; cream of mushroom soup, bologna, potato salad, lettuce, cucumbers, celery, radishes and strawberry ice cream sundaes for lunch; apple juice, spaghetti with meat balls and tomato sauce, shallots, French bread, fresh cherries, date squares for supper. Snacks will be marshmallows and sweet biscuits.

The menus have already been revised once and will be tested at a camp this summer and possibly changed again. The guides will cook on two charcoal burners for each patrol, and each girl will have a kitchen box of utensils supplied by her province.

Dr. Farmer is assistant professor in the home economics department at Macdonald and although she has had no experience in buying in such large quantities she can call on the knowledge of one member of her committee who has.

U.C.W Meetings

HOLLOWAY STREET U.C.W.

At the general meeting of Holloway Street United Church Women held on Tuesday evening Mrs. J. Fred Wilson presided over a short business period. Plans were made for the salad tea and coffee party to be held on June 1, 2, 4.30 and 7.30-8 p.m. Announcement was made of the Vacation Bible School to be held in the Church hall during the first two weeks of July. Mrs. C. Wesley thanked all who had donated articles for the bale which is to be packed soon.

Mrs. M. Miller's unit had charge of the program and supply and social assistance. Mrs. G. Dobbs conducted the devotional.

The skit "Packing the Bale" was introduced by Mrs. D. Richardson with the following taking part: Mrs. I. Knight, Miss Rosslyn Robertson, Mrs. K. Chambers, Mrs. R. Thompson, Mrs. H. Hubbs, Mrs. J. Jeffs and Mr. J. Hamelink. Dressed in long gowns of years ago and wearing large hats trimmed with big flowers and veils, they chatted as they received, sorted and packed a barrel for a home missionary. The moral of the skit was "We cannot judge a gift by its size, shape or color. The true value of an article is not always apparent."

Refreshments were served Refreshments served by Mrs. T. Poste and members of her unit concluded the meeting.

BLESSES CROWDS

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—Pope Paul gave a Pentecost blessing Sunday to crowds of Roman Catholic pilgrims in St. Peter's Square. In an apparent reference to the lot of Christians in some Communist countries, the pontiff said that thoughts went especially "to the faithful who are impeded in the free and just profession of their faith."

Dear Susanna: If a dripping faucet is having fun robbing you of your sleep one night, take your turn to have fun with it.

Tie a string to the tap so that it is hooked around underneath where the water is dripping out. Place the other end of the string in the sink (or in a pail in the sink and go back to sleep.

The water will run quietly down the string until you can fix leakage the following day. — C. A.

Hi Su: Running cold water over perspiring hands is rubber gloves just before you try to take them off, makes them easier to remove. — Mrs. Mude McM.

Dear Sosann: If you are one of those incredible women who come downstairs all dressed for the day first thing in the morning, don't bother to read this. The other ones, my sisters-under-the-skin, take note.

Apply three dashes of cold water to the face, two sweeps of a hair brush and one sweep of lipstick, then, knot a softly colored chiffon ascot at the neck of your bedcoat before descending to the kitchen, and just see if someone doesn't say how nice you look.

I've found it's that lovely tie at the throat that gets to them every time — change the color often, and they'll keep thinking you've all dressed up! — Jane McM.

Lorraine Foreman, Actress, Performed Many Duties

VANCOUVER (CP) — Disposable diapers, television commercials and duties as a janitor all figure in the career of Lorraine Foreman, actress, show business wife and mother.

The Toronto actress visited here as a star of Lock Up Your Daughters and spent most of her off-duty time renewing old acquaintances and barking back to her acting days in Vancouver, her home town.

"Those were the good old days —that weren't actually so good," said the vivacious, freckle-faced actress.

"We had lots of fun but little money and certainly no sense of security. We borrowed costumes, pinned and tacked them, painted scenery and we'd even double as janitors on some occasions.

"It was great experience but it's wonderful to be playing here now in this new theatre with beautiful seats."

Lock Up Your Daughters was presented in the modern Queen Elizabeth Playhouse, a marked change from Lorraine Foreman's days in Theatre Under the Stars and in creaky auditoriums more suited to basketball games than theatre.

After her initiation into the theatre here, she spent four years in London and Rome, doing musical comedies and making night club and television appearances. She returned to Canada to win a $1,500 award on the Toronto show, Pick the Stars, which also won her a principal spot on Country Hoedown.

That connection was severed when she married Tony Hodgson, who does documentaries for CBC. They have three children. Son David was born shortly before Tony and Lorraine took off again—this time on a seven-month trip around the world.

Highlight of the journey was a mountain of disposable diapers—disposed-of instead of rinses of canned baby foods — consumed.

While expecting her second child, Lorraine returned to Vancouver to appear in Hotful of Music, a TV show that ran through the summer of 1961.

Mrs. Hodgson-Andrea was born two years ago, Lorraine decided to make TV commercials—and she says the idea of considering them beneath her talents is absurd.

"As far as I'm concerned any experience is good and no job demeans you if you give it your best," she says. She notes that in the United States "it's not unheard of for a performer to make $100,000 from a commercial."

Coup

mor premier Evariste Kimba and his three confederates tried to persuade a number of high-ranking army officers to join them in an attempt to return The Congo to what they called "legal government."

REPORTED THE PLOT

The plot was foiled when the officers reported the attempt to their superiors, the report said.

It added the plotters intended to kill both Mobutu and army chief of staff Leonid Mobamba.

It was Mobutu, who then held the post of army chief, who led a coup Nov. 25 that overthrew the government of Premier Kimba.

Radio Leopoldville identified the three others as former defence minister Jeremy Amasy, Alexandre Mahamba, who held a number of posts under various governments, and Senator Emmanuel Bamba, a former finance minister.

The radio said the arrested men prepared a "coup proclamation" relieving Mobutu and the army commander of their posts and appointing Amasy as head of a committee instructed to return the country to legality.

To achieve this task Amasy was to be appointed temporary premier, with Bamba as foreign minister. Mahamba was to become interior minister and Bamba finance minister.

Mobutu, 33, was installed as president last November in place of Joseph Kasavubu in a bloodless coup. Mobutu appointed Colonel Leonard Mobamba premier but himself ruled by decree.

ALMOST A NEW CANAL — Two massive projects which would almost replace the present Welland Canal have been proposed by Transport Minister Pickersgill. If both projects are approved it would mean an end to the present program to twin the existing locks. One project which has been approved is the $107,000,000 new channel around the city of Welland. The second project, which is still to be approved, would cost at least $250,000,000 and would be a complete replacement in a new location of the seven-lock system at St. Catharines. Longer and fewer locks would allow bigger ships and a faster traffic flow. The canal handled a record 54,000,000 tons of cargo last year. Authorities predict it will have to take 64,000,000 tons by 1970 and 79,000,000 by 1980.

The two posters displayed Communist slogans against the Catholic hierarchy's campaign for forgiveness for the Germans. The government has conducted a determined campaign against the Polish bishops wrote to the German Catholic bishops last November proposing Polish-German reconciliation.

One of the posters showed a broken statue of Christ, said to have been cut in the gutter by the Germans. Printed across it was the information that more than 6,000,000 Poles were killed in the war and the words "we do not forgive."

The second poster condemned as a Nazi collaborator Karl Maria Spieth, the last German bishop of the historic city of Danzig until his death in West Germany in 1964. He had been forced from the city in 1945 and was not allowed to leave Poland for three years.

Cardinal Wyszynski is visiting a different diocese each week-end to celebrate Poland's Christian millenium.

What's your stand on pre-paying college education for your children?

Mrs. Jarry: I didn't even know you could do that!

Interviewer: Well, you can. Thousands of Canadians have provided college education for their children through The Mutual Life of Canada.

Mrs. Jarry: Some special plan?

Interviewer: Many use Mutual Life's Investment Builder. It's a plan that lets you set aside dollars now, to accumulate over the years and earn interest.

Mrs. Jarry: So that when the children are old enough —the money is there.

Interviewer: That's true. And this particular plan will guarantee to return a specific sum of money — say 15 years from now.

Mrs. Jarry: So you know exactly where you stand.

Interviewer: Exactly, at any time during the period of investment. In case of emergencies, the same plan offers excellent collateral — should you need money in a hurry.

Mrs. Jarry: You should really be talking to my husband about this. What would he have to do to get an Investment Builder plan for us?

Interviewer: The first step is to have him call his nearest Mutual Life of Canada representative.

68-year-olds Asked to Apply For Pensions

OTTAWA (CP)—All Canadians reaching age 68 during 1966 should send their application for old age pension payments to the government as soon as possible the health department said Friday.

It said 73 per cent of the 80,000 Canadians who will become eligible by the end of 1966 have not yet filed applications to receive the $75-a-month pension. Applications should be in by July in order to ensure that payments to eligible persons will start next January, the department noted.

Lowering the eligible age for the pension to 68 effective next Jan. 1 is the second step in a five-year program that by 1970 will make the pension available to citizens 65 and over. A citizen must have a minimum of 10 years residence to qualify.

Application forms are available from any post office and should be mailed to the regional old age security office in the capital city of the applicant's province, the department said.

Trade Unions Oppose Govt. Campaign to Limit Wages

By LOUIS NEVIN

LONDON (AP)—British trade unions are increasing their opposition to the Labor government's campaign to limit wage increases.

As the merchant seamen's strike entered its third week, union leaders and left-wing Laborite legislators assailed the government for associating emergency powers to meet a threat to Britain's food supply.

The union heads and legislators warned Prime Minister Wilson of working man and his unions brought him to power and they could also turn him out. They charged the government was infringing on labor's rights to bargain collectively.

Some leaders said Wilson seemed determined to make the seamen's strike a test case of his battle to control wages and prices.

Britain's economy has been unhealthy for years. Rising prices were losing traditional export markets for British industry while, with imports booming, the British were buying abroad more than they were earning.

An inflationary situation has existed for years, brought on by a shortage of workers resulting in a steady stream of wage increases followed by price increases to pay them.

The Labor government said the vicious circle had to be broken if Britain was to survive economically and get the balance of payments out of the red.

DRAFTED PLAN

A national five - year plan was drafted with a cardinal point that wage raises should be held to between three and 3½ per cent in any year, except in cases of manifest inequality or hardship.

A prices and incomes board was set up and both labor and management agreed, grudgingly, to submit to the board's judgment.

But every union felt its case for a raise was one of hardship or manifest inequality and chafed under long investigations by the board.

The government held the line until April, when it gave a 33-per-cent pay increase to the doctors working under the state medical program. That was the break in the dike and the seamen's demand for a 17-per-cent raise came flooding through with more demands expected to follow.

The seamen's strike is being felt by many.

The housewife is paying seven cents more a pound for lamb roast and five cents a pound more for her roast or beef. Hundreds of families are stranded on the beach in Dover this Whitsun Day (Pentecost) holiday, unable to get aboard one of the regular ferries of French ferries for a long weekend on the continent. Vauxhall, the General Motors subsidiary, lost the sale of 1,200 cars to Canada because they were unable to deliver.

No one denies that British seamen are underpaid at a basic wage of $43 for a 56-hour week. But the government says the line must be drawn somewhere for the sake of the nation as a whole.

RED SHIELD CAMPAIGN

NAPANEE — Returns from the Red Shield campaign for this area are coming in very slowly, Envoy Frank Phelps reports. The objective is $3,100, and so far slightly over $1400 has been turned in. This should have followed the appearance of the Scarborough Salvation Army Band, which gave so much pleasure to the Napanee area over a weekend. Canvassers in the town have not yet finished, he reports, and says that he and Mrs. Phelps are busy every day in the rural areas.

Now Fina makes it safe to save money on tires!

We make tire-buying safe and simple by limiting our tires to just three basic lines — and all three give you more strength and safety — for less money!

Every one of these Fina tires—the Fina Executive, the Fina Flyer, the Fina Superline—is as safe or safer than standard original equipment tires—(tires installed on new cars at the factory). And every one is offered at a price lower than the price of tires of equal or better quality.

How can we do it? By limiting our lines to only safe tires, we have made huge savings on handling costs.

Fina tires were compared with original equipment tires by a scientifically-engineered test used by the government to determine carcass strength—the most important factor in tire safety. Results proved that our premium tire, the Fina Executive, is 70% stronger than most original equipment tires. Our near-premium tire, the Fina Flyer, is 50% stronger, and our first line tire, the Fina Superline, is 20% stronger.

In addition to the superior strength, safety and realistic prices of our tires, every one of them comes complete with whitewalls—at no extra cost!

From now on, you can stop worrying about car tire safety. Because Fina now offers you the assurance and peace-of-mind you've been looking for: honestly good value in three honestly safe tires. Remember, even if you buy our lowest-priced tire, you'll be able to bet your life on it.

SPORTSLICES

MADOC — I don't think King Solomon wrote it — he was too busy counting hair-do's. It could have been Methuselah after he sighed out the candles on his 850th birthday cake. Anyway, someone once penned "A woman is only a woman — but a good cigar is a smoke."

But unless you've your insurance paid up and are at peace with the world — don't breathe that observation in this sports-dinner-mad village.

The Sports Celebrities Dinner, scheduled for Wednesday night has created more village and district interest than any event since southern sourdoughs invaded the area in a nearly-forgotten gold rush, and Mitch Hepburn gave an election speech from the soapdeck of a fertilizer spreader in a pasture-field meeting place.

The Hepburn backfeat recalls the story of after Mitch quadrupled his pasturized podium, a hardboiled Tory in the background shouted, "It's all right Mitch. It's got the biggest load it ever carried."

But back to the distaff side of the story. Up to now the village and the rural area from the mopsets to the pensioners have been getting the news media kudos. And deservedly so.

The three musketeers of the dinner committee, Kel Kincaid, Gerry Nickle and Harry Brown, aided and abetted by platoons of fellow burghers with the Kiwanis Club playing financial defence, have brought the village first sports dinner venture to the thresh, old of success.

Behind every successful man, the saying goes, there is a woman. Even Ottawa will admit that. And you'll find that in the shadow of community ventures such as the dinner, there hovers a galaxy of gals who contribute largely to success.

When the first word of the dinner got around, the question came up — what is the menu, and who will do it? It got beyond the perimeter of the community into the outlying districts.

There's one thing about the madames and madamoiselles of rural communities — they never become National Hockey League stars, astronauts, or members of the senate, but as sure as shooting they can cook a dinner.

Not the gourmet kind, with glazed fish eyes, whale under glass, pineappled seal flippers, or broiled bearer tails, but the ribsticking roast beef and trimmings that in early days sent threshing crews home ten pounds heavier.

So when Mrs. Ed Armstrong, Mrs. Ken Gordon and Mrs. Reta Kincaid sounded the cooks call-in, nearly ninety yields of the district kitchens attended the figurative parade.

As was noted these matrons and misses hail from all parts of the area. "The response was wonderful," Kel Kincaid told the other day. "I'm not giving away any secrets but those attending the dinner will go home still licking their fingers."

"I'm not saying this to prning the cooking abilities of these ladies, they don't need that," Mr. Kincaid said, "but to point out the wholehearted efforts they are putting forth to help the community and committee in making the dinner the success it will be."

The dinner is being held in the Moira Recreational Centre, the former village gymnasium, which will seat 400. Up to this point some 365 tickets have been sold.

"No tickets will be sold at the Centre on the night of the dinner," he pointed out. "Anyone requiring them can get in touch with me; (Kel Kincaid) at 473-4340 or Glen Nickle at 473-2467."

Twins' Batter, Two Jims, Stop Tribe

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Earl Battey means an earmuff for protection against opposing pitchers. What the pitchers need is some protection against Battey.

The stocky Minnesota Twins catcher pounded decisive hits in each game Sunday as the Twins swept a doubleheader from American League-leading Cleveland Indians 3-1 and 1-0, snapping the Indians' winning string at five.

Battey's clutch hitting and the strong pitching of Jim Kaat and Jim Grant pulled the Twins out of a long tailspin. They had dropped eight of nine games on a road trip, including two straight to the Indians.

Phil Ortega pitched seven hitless innings and tied a sixth-round record as Washington Senators edged Boston Red Sox 3-2. Rick Reichardt's two - run homer lifted California Angels past Detroit Tigers 2-1, Chicago White Sox blanked New York Yankees 2-0 on Tommy John's three-hitter and Kansas City Athletics downed Baltimore 6-3.

In Saturday's action, Boston edged Washington 4-3, Minnesota lost 2-1 to Cleveland, Chicago and New York were tied 2-2 after five innings when the game was called by rain, and Baltimore trounced Kansas City 8-2.

ALLOW 12 HITS

Kaat scattered eight hits in the opener and Grant allowed only four in the nightcap, each nailing Minnesota's first shutout victory of the season.

Battey, who pinchered the protective ear-plate on batting helmets after being hospitalized by a stray fast ball six years ago, rapped a pair of run-scoring singles in the first game and knocked in the only run in the nightcap with an eighth inning single.

His three key hits placed Battey among the league's top ten batters with a .286 average. His hit .297 last season, second only to league-leader Tony Oliva on the Minnesota club.

Harmon Killebrew walked in the eighth inning of the Twins-Indians nightcap but was forced at second by Sandy Valdespino. But Valdespino then stole second and Battey broke up a scoreless duel between Grant, 4-5, and Luis Tiant, 4-3, with a single to centre.

Oliva hit his 10th homer in the first inning of the opener and Battey singled in what turned out to be the winning run in the fourth. Max Alvis homered in the sixth for Cleveland.

Ortega, backed by Don Lock's three-run homer off Jerry Stephenson in the first inning, sent two Washington hits in the game-recreated through the Red Sox until the eighth, when he needed relief help from Ron Kline. The Senators starter became the fourth pitcher in AL history to strike out seven consecutive batters.

Reichardt's two-run blast off Hank Aguirre in the sixth inning gave Jack Lamabe his first win and George Brunet checked the Tigers on three hits. The homer was No. 12 for Reichardt.

The White Sox, losers in 10 of their previous 12 starts, gave John Buzhardt Del Rice support in the second inning, scoring twice on Wayne Causey's single, Buzhardt's triple and a single by Tom McCraw. John scattered three singles, walked none and struck out six batters.

Jim (Catfish) Hunter held Baltimore hitless through four innings but needed seventh inning help from reliever Jack Aker to register his first victory of the season over the Orioles. A two-run double by Joe Nossek and Ken Harrelson's home-run homer were the big blows for Kansas City.

By ROBERT SNEFJELLA

MADOC — Trudeau Motors swept through their second field in as many starts to beat young B. and D. Softball season as they easily defeated Madoc 5-2 here Saturday night.

In the Madoc half of the fourth, catcher Garry Gore and Darryl Kramp both got on base and Elton Reid connected with a two - bagger to drive in Madoc's only two runs.

Muirhead lined a home run in the seventh, and Wannamaker rounded the bases after singling in the ninth to complete the scoring.

Bill Baldwin worked on the Belleville mound for seven and two - thirds innings, allowing eight hits, walking none and striking out one. Pat Maracle retired him, giving up one free pass, whiffing three and allowing no hits.

Wayne Shaw buried the distance for the losers, being pounded for 13 hits while striking out nine. He did not walk a man.

Defers Percival Charges Hearing

TORONTO (CP)—Fitness expert Lloyd Percival of Toronto, anxious to clear himself of charges that he gave stimulants and sedatives to his athletes, will probably have to wait until July or even November to present his defence.

Pete Isaacs of Toronto, chairman of the Canadian Track and Field Association, said Sunday he does not intend to deal with the case until the group meets in Edmonton July 15-16.

The case will probably be referred to the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, which could wait until its annual meetings at Niagara Falls, ont., on Nov. 12-14 before dealing with it, Isaacs said.

Percival, one of Canada's best-known fitness counsellors and coach of the Don Mills Track Club here, has been charged with recommending and giving his track and field athletes drugs in a letter written by middle-distance runner Bill Crothers of Markham, Ont.

Foot said an investigation is now under way and that the case has been forwarded to Beach.

Beach said from his home that he had heard nothing officially on the matter.

He said both the Canadian Track and Field Association and the AAU of Canada do not

Wins 1-0 Mound Duel

Bloomfield Nips Juniors

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

An unearned run in the first inning stood up for an exciting 1-0 Bloomfield triumph over Ellis Juniors in a B. and D. softball battle before a big crowd at Alemite Park Saturday night.

The game featured another pitching duel between the two top hurlers of last season, Bloomfield's Ken DeMille and Ellis' Bob Ehlier.

Only the unearned run marred their combined record although control honors went to Ehlier in hot water most of the night.

Bloomfield greeted Ehlier with back-to-back singles by MacDonald and St. Denis to open the game. After a force at third, Boyle failed to make a play on Ostrander's ground ball, loading the bases with one out.

DeMille lined a ball to second but Gardiner dropped it, then threw wildly to home as St. Denis raced in with the game's lone run on the twin bobbles. A alert double play ended the inning.

Ehlier allowed only singles in the eighth and ninth after that to pitch a four-hitter. He struck out 16 and walked nine.

DeMille topped his opponent's effort by tossing a three-hitter, 10 gunned third strikes past 18 and walked only two.

Bob Boyle had two of the losers' hits, both lined doubles, but back-up play by Bloomfield left him stranded on second both times.

Carl Casey, with his left arm in a cast, played left field for the short-staffed visitors. Wearing his glove on his right hand, he grabbed Jerry Ely ball and Boyle doubled with one out in the fifth, dropped the glove and threw to third in time to prevent an advance. Ellis' only walk was a single by Jerry St. Denis.

The winners failed to score in the eighth, despite three walks and Carson's hit, as Bob Moon cut Ostrander off at second on a steal attempt with a perfect throw and tag by St. Denis.

Trackmen Set Marks

LONDON, Ont. (CP — Five Canadian interscholastic records were bettered and one tied in the Ontario High School Track and Field championships Saturday at University of Western Ontario.

Mike Mercer and Zozon Andruszyshyn of Oakville Trafalgar bettered two Canadian schoolboy marks in the shot put and javelin respectively.

Mercer, who weighs 225 pounds, tossed the 12-pound shot 62 feet, 2¼ inches, surpassing the previous record of 58 feet, 1½ inches set in 1961 by Lorne Peterson of Vancouver.

Andruszyshyn, a 19 - year - old Grade 13 student, threw the javelin 230 feet, one inch, bettering his own Canadian record of 212 feet 11½ inches set last year.

Setting the pace to win the pole position was Italian-born Mario Andretti, 26, the national driving champion from Nazareth, Pa., who finished third in his first Speedway start last year. He set a four-lap qualifying mark of 163.280 this year.

Four former winners shared favoritism with Andretti. They were Scotland's Jim Clark, who won in 1965 with a record 150.686 m.p.h.; A. J. Foyt, 1961 and 1964; Parnelli Jones, 1963, and Roger Ward, 1959 and 1962.

Clark, 30, world driving champion of 1963 and 1965, would be the first driver to repeat in successive years since the late Bill Vukovich in 1953-54. Only four others have done it—Mauri Rose in 1947-48 and Wilbur Shaw, 1939-40.

Andretti, Clark and Foyt were among 24 contenders driving rear-engine cars powered by Ford V-8 dual overhead cam engines, such as Clark used to win in 1965. Jones and Ward have four - cylinder super charged Offenhauser plants.

Billy Foster of Victoria will start from the fourth row in a Volstedt Offenhauser. He qualified with a speed of 159.490 m.p.h.

He became the first Canadian last year to qualify for the 500 and was running in 11th place at the 200-mile mark when a burst water jacket forced him out of the race.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)— A 33-car field streaks off today in the Golden Anniversary 500-mile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Qualifying Golf Round Postponed

The Bay of Quinte Country Club's qualifying round for the club championship slated for yesterday was postponed until next Sunday.

The weatherman got his panel signals crossed and pushed the "football" button instead of that tabbed fair-weather.

Early bird entries arrived at the course, shivered, shuddered and shook off any inclination to tee off.

The mercury hovered around the forty-minus mark, skies were cloud-scudded and the atmosphere was more Grey Cup than club golf.

So the event was laid over and will tie in with the opening round of Tip Top Trophy play scheduled for next Sunday.

Club pro George Balazs said club qualifying round tables will count for the Tip Top tournament which is a 36-hole net score event.

The draw for the club championship qualifying round will be published again next Friday.

Parsons Turn Back Crusaders

Building a 3-0 lead by half time, Belleville Parsons trimmed Kingston Crusaders 4-3 in a Kingston District Soccer League match, in Kingston, on Saturday.

Parsons' next game is June 7, against the Flying Dutchmen, at the Belleville Fairgrounds.

Belleville dominated play in the first half, missing several great scoring chances before Bob Rutherford opened the scoring on a low penalty-shot kick.

Five minutes later, Pete Cvetkovic upped it to 2-0 with a neat back-heeled shot off Alan Brown's pass.

Parson goalie Ray Hore pulled off a couple of great saves and the losers' Norgard hit the crossbar.

Seconds before half time, Brown's good pass put Ron Gale into the clear, and his drive made it 3-0.

Play toughened up in the second half and Jesperson's good shot put the Crusaders back into the game. Parsons ripped back and only fine goaltending stopped them until Sathey Madiezo scored on a solo rush up the right side for a 4-1 score.

Seconds before the end, Jesperson netted his second goal for Kingston to close the scoring, on a breakaway.

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

One picture might be worth a thousand words, but Leo Durocher prefers both pictures and words.

Durocher used the words first, then the pictures Sunday and was convinced that the latter justified the former.

The words came in the ninth inning of Chicago's game with Atlanta and were the reason Durocher wasn't around to see Ron Santo hit a home run in the 10th inning and give the Cubs a 3-2 victory over the Braves.

Durocher was ejected from the game for the way he tried to explain to umpire Bob Engel why Eddie Mathews' leadoff home run should be ruled the game 3-2 actually was foul.

After the game was over, the Cubs' manager looked at the pictures—the video tape from the telecast of the contest.

"It was foul," Durocher told Engel. "I'll bet the guy along the right field line, and the ball is about a foot away from the foul line. There's no way it could have been fair."

Durocher said the Cubs would have the film for National League president Warren Giles if necessary.

The ejection was Durocher's second this season.

In other National League games, San Francisco topped Philadelphia Phillies 6-5 in 10 innings, New York Mets trimmed the Los Angeles Giants 7-4, Houston Astros edged Pittsburgh Pirates 4-3 in 11, and St. Louis Cardinals topped Cincinnati Reds 3-2 in 10.

In Saturday's play, Chicago defeated Atlanta 5-3 in 12 innings, Philadelphia blanked San Francisco 2-0, Houston edged

James Garner Not Getting Fat at Gambling Tables

By BOB THOMAS

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (AP)—The man who did not break the bank at Monte Carlo was the American actor James Garner.

It was strange indeed to find Garner in the frescoed, high-ceilinged roulette room of the legendary casino. After all, wasn't he the fastest draw-poker man of the West at Bret Maverick in the television series that brought him fame?

But he wasn't even noticed. The grim-faced players were too intent on watching the fickle numbers.

It may be just as well that no one observed Garner's play. Oddsmaker Maverick fame would have distressed many of his conservative style. Having started in 36 Hours, he favored 36, which turned up surprisingly often.

"Now I'm only behind a thousand," said the actor as he cashed in his chips after the night's winnings.

The casino provides welcome diversion for Garner while he is here for beginning scenes of MGM's Grand Prix, a $6,000,000 racing epic in Cinemascope.

WILL SEE ACTION

He will be seeing plenty of action in Grand Prix. Director John Frankenheimer has planned the film as the definitive work on European car racing. Of course, director John Sturges also has the same plans for Warner Brothers' Day of The Champion, which will also be shooting in Europe this summer, with Steven McQueen as star. But he's not out to mention that on the Grand Prix set.

The movie will take Garner to racing courses all over Europe, and he is looking forward to that aspect of his stay on the Continent. He has long been a speed - car fan. He eyes glow as he speaks of working with such racing stars as Phil Hill, Lorenzo Bandini and Bob Bondurant.

"I broke in back in Riverside," said Garner, referring to the California raceway. "We were forcing camera cars for the picture, and Frankenheimer asked me if I'd like to try one of the cars. I said, 'Why not?'

"I got in a racer with one of the professional drivers and we started speeding over 100 miles an hour. My face started going all awry from the wind stream. Then we drove behind some other cars, and I watched them threw gravel in my face. I realized that I stuck up over the windshield, unlike the other drivers."

Champion drivers generally come in more compact sizes, and special seats had to be constructed in the movie's racers to accommodate Garner's six-foot, three-inches.

Tony Hnas 17-Under Record

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Tony Lema fired a seven-under-par 65 Sunday, tying the all-time largest victory edge on the Professional Golfers' Association tour this season, to capture the $37,000 Oklahoma City Open.

Lema, who started the day one stroke behind Saturday's leader, young Tom Welskopf, finished with a four-day total of 271, 17 strokes under par. He wound up six strokes ahead of Welskopf, who was second.

Lema's victory was collected $5,300, wiped out the old record of 277 for the 7,175-yard, par-72 Quail Creek Golf and Country Club course, set in 1954 by Arnold Palmer.

Welskopf shot a 72, 11 strokes under par with a 277.

Masters champion Jack Nicklaus finished with a 71 for the day and a total of 279—good for third place money.

New Shows Will Replace Winter Variety Programs

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AT THE BELLE — Misspelling headlines Miss Mauriceau (Jeanne Moreau) specializes in Mem-o-ladies' Women" also starring Sue Lyon, and Margaret Leighton, four-time Academy award winner for "Separate Tables," Tuesday, Friday and Saturday. The latter also features Shirley Jones and the "Goldilocks" girl, Diane Shockman in "The Secret of My Success."

NEW YORK (AP)—Variety shows, according to a wide-spread belief in network television, are as passe as fickle fanne—good for one use only.

While it is considered routine to use the summer months for rerunning such lesser efforts as My Mother The Car, Danny Ramsmack and The Smothers Brothers Show, most of the winter variety programs will have substitutes for the hot weather months.

Singer John Davidson will take over as star of a show to replace the Andy Williams hour. Singer John Gary will substitute for Danny Kaye. Comedians Bowman and Martin will head up a cast of regulars while Dean Martin takes a holiday.

A collection of taped foreign variety acts called Hippodrome will be seen in Red Skelton's time slot. Jackie Gleason will be away to another series of taped foreign acts under the title Comedians Abroad.

ABC thinks differently. It will drop three months worth of Hollywood Palace shows.

Jack Webb is shooting a two-hour television show built around his old Dragnet character, Joe Friday, Friday. His comrade at arms, Officer Frank Smith, will not be in the cast. Ben Alexander will repeat the part in the long-playing police action series will be busy elsewhere, still playing a TV crime fighter.

Alexander will play a career officer on Father of a Soldier in a new ABC series, Men Against Evil next season. Co-star will be Gene Evans, whose last television series was Mr. Adams And Eve," when he co-starred with his wife, Ida Lupino.

CBS' 20th Century has been on the air for nine years documenting events of importance, ranging from the Second World War to Pope Paul. But next season it will give way to a new Sunday night series called 21st Century.

It will be produced by the same team that turned out the old shows but instead of looking backwards, will look ahead, predicting the future of medicine, transportation, communication, education and other facets of human existence.

Twin Bids Fail To Break Tie

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A pair of doubleheaders Sunday failed to break up the tight three-way battle for top spot in the International League as Columbus Jets split with Toledo Mud Hens and Jacksonville Suns lost twice to Richmond Braves.

Jacksonville leads the league at the moment, but Toledo and Jacksonville are only half a game behind.

Cold weather postponed a doubleheader at Rochester between the Red Wings and Syracuse Chiefs and a game at Buffalo between the Bisons and Toronto Maple Leafs.

In Saturday action, Buffalo downed Toronto 6-5, Rochester trounced Syracuse 9-5 and Toledo defeated Columbus 5 - 2 and Jacksonville was rained out of a doubleheader in Richmond.

WON SECOND 8-4

Columbus won Sunday's opener 2-1 and lost the second 5-2 while Richmond rode a four-run rally in the ninth inning to take a 6-5 victory in the first game and followed with a 5-0 decision in the nightcap.

History-Making Comeback

Hurled Defiance At Death

LONDON (AP)—Less than a year ago he was given only an hour to live. Now they rate him the next world champion.

It is a bare eight months ago since they hauled John Surtees's crumpled and bleeding body from under a wrecked racer at Mosport, Ont.

Today, fully recovered apart from a slight limp and a few more grey hairs, he is set to make the greatest comeback in the history of international motor racing.

The 32-year-old Briton has already ranked himself among the all time greats of the speed world.

"For as long as I can remember machines and speed have been part of me," says John.

STARTED ON MOTORCYCLES

He won his first race—on a motorcycle—at 17. He went on to take eight world cycle titles before switching to cars.

In 1964 he won the world auto racing championship to become the first man ever to win both the car and motorcycle crowns.

Then came the crash last September.

While practising in his 200 mile-an-hour sports racing car at the Mosport circuit 60 miles east of Toronto, a tire burst. He flipped over at high speed and was trapped under the wreckage.

He suffered spinal injuries, a crushed hip and internal damage, which included a ruptured kidney.

Doctors toiled all night with only faint hope of saving him.

TOUCH AND GO

For weeks he lingered between life and death. Few, it say, thought he would ever be able to race again if he survived.

Then the internal injuries began to heal. Eventually they were able to fly Surtees home to a London hospital. There, even now, he still encased in braces and bandages, he was preparing his comeback, doing secret exercises to tone up his arm and neck muscles.

When the day came to leave the hospital, he hobbled out on crutches.

"The real test," he said in a recent interview, "was myself. The mind was okay but was I still a racing driver? Could I relax behind a wheel? Had my reactions been affected?"

With the backing of his wife Pat, Surtees took the last at the Modena circuit in private. He still could drive. Slowly at first but the confidence came quickly and before long he was moving at near record speeds.

The final test would only come in a race.

COMEBACK A SUCCESS

The event chosen was the tough 1,000 kilometre classic around the rugged Monza circuit April 25.

The rest is history—a triumph in his first grand prix race and a lap record in the bargain.

Six days later came the Syracuse Grand Prix, another championship event but against a world class field. Result: another victory and another record, this time in a V-12 Ferrari, like the one he will drive in the title chase.

The world Grand Prix series opened last Sunday at Monte Carlo and Surtees and his Ferrari did not finish but it was the machine, not the man, that failed.

Mystery Malady Hits 'Gump'

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens defenceman Lorne (Gump) Worsley told The Canadian Press Saturday he has been suffering aches and back pains which have been getting progressively worse since last Wednesday.

"The docs don't know what's wrong," he said in a telephone interview from his nearby Beloeil, Que., home. He said x-rays were taken Saturday morning at Montreal General Hospital, after various other tests Thursday.

"I can't keep anything down. If I have a cup of coffee I have it in no time," he said.

"I haven't been sleeping well, consequently—since the pain started. I wish they could prescribe something, even if only sleeping pills. But they can't because they don't know yet what the trouble is.

Gal Golf Title To Carol Mann

BATON ROUTE, La. (AP)—Carol Mann's second straight one-under-par 71 gave her a two-stroke victory Sunday in the $10,000 Baton Rouge Invitational golf tournament.

Her 54-hole total over the Sherwood Forest Country Club course was 208. She opened with a record 67. Her share of the purse was $1,500.

It was Miss Mann's third tournament of the year. The previous victories were in the Caracas Invitational and the Raleigh, N.C., Open.

LESS COST
CONTINUOUSLY! OIL HEAT
Almost everywhere in Ontario and Quebec oil costs less to heat your home than gas or electricity.
So if you're interested in savings in home heating...

Phone the oil supplier of your choice and let him explain why oil is the lowest-cost heating fuel you can buy. Depending on where you live, you can save $50 or more every year on fuel bills by choosing oil instead of gas—and save much, much more by choosing oil instead of electricity. This is one of the reasons most Canadian homes heat with oil. Another is the dependability of oil. Your dealer is on the job 24-hours a day to give you personalized, no-cost service.

Clean—extraordinarily! Dark streaks above vents and radiators occur with all systems—oil, gas, electricity—but not because of the heating fuel. The cause is dust and grime entering the house and circulating in heated air.

Safe—unquestionably! Oil is non-explosive. You could safely extinguish a lighted match in it. Of course, all fuels are safe—if handled and consumed with proper care. Oil, however, is safe under all conditions.

When you are considering a new heating system, remember the known dependability and economy of oil heat.

Producers Set Strike Deadline In CBC Dispute

TORONTO (CP) — A spokesman for the Toronto Producers' Association said early today the 70-member association has directed a statement to the Commons broadcasting committee refusing to withdraw a strike threat against the CBC.

The seven - page statement, released after a lengthy meeting in a downtown hotel, asked that the dismissals of Patrick Watson and Laurier LaPierre, co-hosts of the CBC television program This Hour Has Seven Days, be submitted to binding arbitration.

The association spokesman said a new strike date would be announced later. It had been reported on the CBC national newscast Monday night that a strike deadline had been set, but no date was given.

The union's original strike threat had been handed to CBC senior management in April. Prime Minister Pearson averted a May 1 walkout when he appointed Stuart Keate of Vancouver an informal mediator in the dispute.

Mr. Keate, on leave of absence from his post as publisher of The Sun while acting as mediator, reported to the prime minister last week.

The producers' statement today said Mr. Pearson's intervention in the dispute had been in vain. It said the association was disappointed in the stand the prime minister by the CBC board of directors in connection with Mr. Keate's report.

WANT A REVIEW

The producers said they wanted to preserve Seven Days from disintegration. A review of the firing of Mr. Watson and Mr. Lapierre was a prime demand of the association.

Meanwhile, about 30 members of the Toronto public affairs department of the CBC

Surveyor Right on Course

By RALPH DIGHTON

PASADENA (AP) — Surveyor I cruised today toward a smoother landing site on the moon after a tricky steering manoeuvre 97,000 miles out in space.

Jet Propulsion Laboratory officials, who are guiding the 2,200-pound camera - carrying craft toward a hoped-for soft landing in the dry Sea of Storms late Wednesday, said Surveyor responded properly to all commands during the intricate change of course.

They said it would take several hours of tracking to be sure Surveyor's new course will bring it down, as now planned, about 20 miles north of the point picked prior to Monday's launch.

The new site was chosen to give the spacecraft the smoothest possible landing area in the 62-mile diameter target circle at the western edge of the 1,240-mile long commercial strip selected for future Apollo astronaut touchdowns.

As was the Russian Luna IX which soft - landed and televised pictures from the lunar surface Feb. 3, Surveyor is pioneering a technique planned to deposit manned craft gently on the moon.

Hue Girl Sets Self Afire; Students' Surrender Ordered

HUE, South Viet Nam (Reuters) — The Saigon government today ordered rebellious students in this northern university city to surrender—soon after a 17-year-old Buddhist high school girl burned herself to death in the street.

Nguyen Thi Van was the fifth Buddhist to commit suicide in flames in South Viet Nam during the last three days.

Shortly after she died in hospital the students were ordered to hand over the radio station, surrender illegal weapons and dismantle road blocks.

Observers here saw it as possibly foreshadowing government action against the students who have virtually controlled Hue for two months.

Meanwhile, the student struggle committee threatened to put into operation the fourth stage of an anti-American campaign, calling for attacks on American property and possibly physical assaults on Americans in the streets of Hue.

About 100 Vietnamese employed at American installations stayed away from work for the second day, obeying a 48-hour boycott ordered by the struggle committee.

The dead high school girl's suicide followed by a few hours that of a 19-year-old girl in Saigon and a Buddhist monk in the mountain resort of Dalat, 140 miles northeast of Saigon.

President Johnson, in a Memorial Day speech in Washington deplored such suicides as "acts of desperation that obliterate progress toward constitutional government."

Monday two Buddhist women chose the same form of suicide to dramatize their opposition to the Saigon government. One victim was a nun in Hue, the other a 35-year-old woman in Saigon. An Influential Buddhist leader, Thich Tam Chau, called Monday for an end to political suicides by fire. But at a press conference later he said his appeal was conditional on the resignation of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's military regime.

He said that although the suicide campaign did not have the approval of the Buddhist leadership, it also did not run counter to Buddhist ideas of nonviolence. South Viet Nam's Buddhists had been compelled to fight because their temples were destroyed and monks and nuns killed, he said.

Ottawa Man Implicates His Chauffeur

OTTAWA (CP) — A wealthy Ottawa businessman identified one of two defendants and implicated his chauffeur Monday in the $35,000 money and jewelry robbery of his apartment last Sept. 11.

Christopher Thomas, 50, testified at the preliminary hearing of Marcel Claude Dupuis, 36, and Jean Paul Heppell, 30, both of Montreal, charged with armed robbery.

Magistrate C. E. Cartwright with Crown Attorney Arthur Cogan after the day's testimony that there was sufficient evidence to commit both men.

Magistrate Carter granted defence counsel the right to examine further witnesses and adjourned the hearing to June 6.

Mr. Thomas said he could positively identify Heppell as one of two men who entered his apartment, tied up Mrs. Thomas said he believed the chauffeur tipped off the robbers. No charges have been laid against him.

Jacques Faubert, who testified he was Heppell's partner at the time in a Montreal blacksmith business, said he saw Heppell and Dupuis removing jewels from the gas tank of Heppell's rented car on Sept. 15. The jewels were sold for $2,000, he said.

Liberals Ahead By Two Seats But Recounts Possible

By IAN DONALDSON

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — Premier Walter R. Shaw and Liberal Leader Alex B. Campbell emerged from Monday's Prince Edward Island election uncertain which of them will head the government in Canada's smallest province.

Election night results, based on government-tabulated returns, gave the Liberals a two-seat edge but three recounts appeared probable and the election in one two-member riding was deferred until July 11 because of the death of a candidate. That election — in Kings 1st — is expected to be the hardest fought in the Islands history.

Standings election night:

	1966	1962
Lib	16	11
PCs	14	21
Deferred	2	—
Total	32	32

Mr. Shaw, at 78 Canada's oldest premier, was trying to lead his Conservatives to an unprecedented third straight term. He said he was disappointed by the outcome, particularly the defeat of four of his eight cabinet ministers.

"Nothing has been settled today," he said. "I'm still premier."

PLEASED BY GAIN

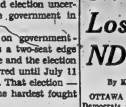
Mr. Campbell, 38, son of a former Liberal premier, said he is pleased by the strong party showing and the loss of three seats from the Tories but he said the election was "definitely in doubt."

The vote for the two parties—it was a straight PC-Liberal fight—was as close as the outcome. The Liberals polled 51.1 per cent of the total vote for councillors and 50.2 per cent of the vote for assemblymen. The PC share of the vote was 46.9 and 49.8 per cent respectively.

Recounts appeared almost certain three ridings and two other seats were comparatively close — but in the relatively small island constituencies tight results are not uncommon.

Conservative J. C. Sinnott had a one-vote edge over Liberal incumbent Arthur J. MacDonald in Kings 5th. Liberal Horace Willis defeated industry Minister Lloyd MacPhail by only two votes in Queens 2nd. In Kings 5th, Liberal George J. Ferguson had a 15-vote edge over Conservative Henry McConnell.

In Queen's 4th Liberals Harold F. Bagnall and Stewart Ross had margins of 44 and 78 votes, respectively, over their Conservative opponents.



Besides Mr. MacPhail, other cabinet ministers defeated were Agriculture Minister Andrew MacRae, Works Minister J. Philip Matheson and Welfare Minister Robert B. McNeil.

SHAW WINS SEAT

Mr. Shaw re-elected personally in Queens 1st, the seat he has held since his party swept the Liberals out of office in 1958. The Conservatives were re-elected in 1962, winning 19 seats to the Liberals 11, but

3 Votes Lost by ND Party

By KEN CLARKE

OTTAWA (CP) — The New Democrats struck out on three wings in the Commons Monday. They proposed three amendments to legislation and none was accepted.

All were aimed at adjusting a 44-clause government bill to reorganize several federal departments.

An amendment by Andrew Brewin (NDP—Toronto Greenwood) sought to keep the RCMP under the justice department instead of transferring it to the solicitor-general.

Despite some Conservative support, the NDP lost that one 98 to 41. Social Credit sided with the Liberal government.

The NDP came back with an old platform plank when Grace MacInnis (Vancouver - Kingsway) suggested changing the name of the new-look registrar-general's department to the consumer affairs department.

Guy Favreau, president of the privy council, said the MacInnis proposal would not fit the broad scope of the new department, which would handle a wide range of business-oriented activities. These would include bankruptcy administration, trademark registration, anti-combines investigation and patents.

URGE NEW POWERS

The amendment went down 28 to 8. Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) then proposed another amendment to give the registrar-general power to review prices and "matters of concern" to consumers.

The Knowles amendment was ruled out of order first by Deputy Speaker Herman M. Batten and then by Speaker Lucien Lamoureux when Mr. Knowles applauded the ruling.

In between the NDP consumer talk, Erik Nielsen (PC—Yukon) accused the government of "exceeding its powers" by sending him two letters inviting him to turn over information about fraudulent bankruptcies.

He said the letters, dated May 4 and May 11, caused undue pressure on him to divulge information that had been given to him in confidence as an MP. The letters were from Justice Minister Cardin.

He hinted that some of the people who give him information fear for their lives.

Amplifying remarks in the House, Mr. Nielsen said four cases re-

Bear Stalks Man

Prospector Reaches Camp and Safety of His Rifle

EDMONTON (CP)—Death in the form of an angry black bear stalked a 60-year-old man for seven hours across the Arctic barrens last week.

Fred Lypka of Edmonton told Monday of the ordeal in which he retreated miles across the tundra toward his tent and the safety of his rifle.

Lypka, a prospector working several miles from his camp him 250 miles north of Yellowknife, was armed with only an ax.

About 7 p.m. he sensed, rather than heard, the huge bear which had come silently up behind him.

Lypka's yell startled the bear, which backed away a step, it's gleaming claws ready to strike. The prospector yelled again as he picked up his ax, but the bear would retreat no farther.

Lypka had often faced bears but in 23 years in the north, this was the first one he was unable to frighten off.

Cautiously, Lypka began moving backwards.

"At about 50 I was yelling, the bear would hang back," said Lypka. "But the minute I stopped it would rear up and take a swipe at me."

Finally, he realized the bear wasn't going to give up and began backing toward his only hope—a rifle in his tent, miles away.

Reaching a survey line in which tall grass was growing, he began dropping matches and fire flared. The bear backed away.

He ran until he gasped for breath. He looked back. The bear was almost upon him again.

The duel resumed, Lypka yelling, swinging his ax, and backing up a step at a time. The bear was stalking, slashing and waiting for its intended victim to make a wrong move.

Hours dragged by. Lypka began losing sight of the bear.

At about 2 a.m., after seven hours of terror, he reached his camp. He turned, dashed for the tent and reached for the loaded rifle just inside.

The bear charged around the corner of the tent just six feet away as the prospector raised the rifle and fired. The bear dropped, its back broken.

"Lypka said he was "just lucky" with the shot. His glasses were steamed up from the sweat pouring down his face.

"Go" Light Flashes Brightly For Probing Space Unknowns

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The "go" light flashed brightly to tracking stations around the world today for Gemini 8 to embark on a three-day exploration of some unknowns of space travel.

"We're ready to go," said air force Lt.-Col. Thomas P. Stafford. His rookie pilot, navy Lt.-Cmdr. Eugene A. Cernan, who aims to become the world's champion cosmic stroller, agreed.

They hope to ride a mighty Titan rocket into space at 12:30 p.m. EDT Wednesday to search the skies for a stubby target satellite, then latch Gemini 8's nose to it.

Their target, known as an augmented target docking adapter (ATDA), will be put into a 185-mile-high circular orbit by an Atlas booster one hour and 38 minutes before the Titan sets off.

The weather forecast called for satisfactory conditions at blastoff time, both at Cape Kennedy and ocean recovery areas. If all goes as planned, while Stafford and Cernan sleep their first night in space, a Surveyor spacecraft will try to gently settle its three spidery legs on the lunar surface.

Thursday morning the world may be seeing television pictures of the moon's landscape shortly before Cernan sets out on a record - breaking space walk.

Cernan, 32, plans to ease himself out of Gemini 8 hatch for a stroll through the cosmos that will whip him 11 times around the world at 17,500 miles an hour. For 2½ hours, he will be at the mercy of space.

He first will be fed oxygen through a 25-foot umbilical cord from the spacecraft. Then, with a rocket pack on his back, he will attach himself to a 140-foot rope and shoot about for an hour.

All he needs to survive—pressure for his body and space life—will be fed from the highly sophisticated maneuvering back pack.

Navy League Cadets Corps Holds Annual Inspection

The 44-member Navy League Cadets Quinte Corps held its annual inspection last night at its headquarters on South Front St.

Inspecting officer Lt. Cmdr. W. A. Douglas, who is on staff at the Royal Military College commended the boys on their fine showing. The cadets are 11 years to 14 years old.

"I was impressed with your turnout," Lt. Cmdr. Douglas said, "especially those of you who have been in for a short while as they say in the navy.

"This is the first opportunity I've ever had to see the Quinte Corps and I'm most impressed. You have a nice building and good training facilities, and you are obviously very enthusiastic.

"I just hope you keep your enthusiasm.

"I understand you are going to camp this year. I'm glad to hear that because that's where you learn the fundamentals of being a good sailor, that is, to work hard and play hard.

"I hope that all of you keep on with your navy training through Sea Cadet corps and that the Navy itself when you get older."

The inspecting officer presented the three top awards to the cadets. Cadet Petty Officer Douglas Curzon, 13, won the Outstanding Cadet award but unfortunately was home sick and not able to accept the trophy last night. Cadet Dropped Cadet was awarded to Petty Officer First George Lloyd, 12 and William Pearson, 11, won the trophy for the best attendance.

Andre Mercier, chairman of the sea cadet corps also congratulated the boys. "You're all navy boys," he said. "It take care of your ships with you. And you work with me and the officers.

"I hope in the next few months you work as hard as you have in the past. You're doing a good job.

"When you go to camp this summer, I hope you do honor to the corps of Quinte.

Navy League Commanding Officer Lt. Jack Chase and Navy League president Jack McFarlane also took part in the inspection ceremonies.

Prizes for boys' par ts in were on hand to watch. The Navy League is a United Appeal agency.

Mrs. Bradford New Principal Retarded School

At their regular meeting last Wednesday The Belleville Retarded Children's Education Authority appointed Mrs. Vivian Bradford to the post of principal of The Belleville Retarded Children's School on John Street. Mrs. Bradford has been acting principal for the past few months but will assume the post on a permanent basis in September. She has taught at night school for the past three years, having previously taught for seven years in public schools. Mrs. Bradford has taken one special course in training retarded children.

The Authority approved a salary scale for teachers and the renewal of teaching contracts for the other teachers, Mrs. Leona Gibson and Mrs. Doris Durand.

Mrs. Mary McBride, a former "helper" at the school has been engaged as a permanent teacher's assistant commencing September, 1966. It is expected that Mrs. McBride will assume responsibilities particularly in training the children in kitchen duties, where, as part of their training they assist in lunch making, cleaning, et al.

Due to anticipated increase in enrolment of full day children, together with some reorganization within the school in an effort to allow teachers more uninterrupted time with their respective classes, the Authority gave direction to the hiring of an additional teacher.

Mr. J. R. Blackbourn, chairman, reported on a conference which he attended in Hamilton Fall at which were representatives of Retarded Children's Education Authorities from across the Province. Mr. Blackbourn told about an address given by Mr. Fred Reynolds, Administrator, Schools for Retarded Children Division, Department of Education, who discussed anticipated increases in teacher qualifications, salary scales, admission costs, transportation costs, compulsory attendance and capital expenditure policy. Mr. Blackbourn advised that, prior to the conclusion of the conference, a "steering committee" was appointed to prepare a feasibility report on the formation of an association of Retarded Children's Education Authorities. An association of this nature would probably function in a manner similar to the various school trustee organizations which play an important role in public education. As a result the Authority members should certainly play an equally important part in the area of education for retarded children.

Robt. L. Porter Tells Rotarians Of UCS Role

United Community Services of Belleville and District aims to unite the financial campaigns of all health, welfare, and recreational services and the donor of the United Appeal is given one open for saw organizations, Mr. Robert L. Porter, Executive Director of UCS reported to yesterday's weekly Rotary luncheon.

Mr. Porter stated that there are usually several planning committees under the direction of a board of directors while the maintenance of the vehicle is provided by professionals hired by the board. These divisions at large, are in the driver's seat and the members of the committees are the passengers of the vehicle, he said, comprising the planning.

The speaker mentioned that United Community Services is not a "complaint bureau", he continued. "We like to see some effor t to help and knowledge given by those who have perceived a need in the community. He stated that it is the ability to be involved in decision making must be in it at the "grass roots" level.

A study action committee's work is done, Mr. Porter declared, as it examines, analyzes and discover things, not when the report is published. The report will show nothing new to them because people have been aware of the things all along.

The objects of United Community Services, the speaker stated, are to plan, integrate, coordinate, and evaluate health, welfare, and recreational facilities.

It also encourages high standards of efficiency in such services, promotes liaison with similar provincial services, provides information on these services, and guides and stimulates public opinion, and operates central information services.

With the passage of the Canada Assistance Plan now before the Federal House, the volunteer worker will no longer be used for direct relief, the speaker said.

Pensions are at present supported by UCS only to the extent to which they cannot raise their own funds.

Mr. Porter announced that UCS hopes to provide a Christmas Basket campaign which is to prevent duplication of aid or lack of aid for needy families. His organization will not be involved in distribution, he said, but will just provide information.

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian Stan Johnson and thanked by Rotarian George Lanning.

Holdup Trial In Second Day

The trial of four Montreal men charged with the $16,000 armed robbery of the Bank of Montreal at Frankford on March 30 continued into the second day today before Judge J. C. Anderson.

The trial of Maurice Langis, 31, Armand Bisson, 29, Victor Tessier, 42, and Gilles Gaudette, 27, is expected to end later today.

Sgt. Harold B. Howting, identification officer Belleville O.P.P., testified that a piece of grey plastic material found at the scene of the bank robbery matched a coat found in a duffle bag located by police in the woods near Glen Miller two days after the robbery.

Sgt. Howting also testified that a latent fingerprint found on the left rear door armrest of a light blue 1963 Oldsmobile found abandoned in the woods was tested by him. "I believe that latest print was made by the left index finger of Maurice Langis. I charted 13 points of similarity and pinpointed five or six others"

(Sgt. Howting explained a latent fingerprint is one that is invisible to the naked eye and needs some form of treatment to make it visible. He said he treated the print in the car with powder.)

PRINT ON BATTERY

Sgt. Howting also testified that a print lifted from a flashlight battery found inside a flashlight that was in the duffle bag matched the right index finger of Gilles Gaudette. "I charted out 14 similarities and pinpointed 18 others."

Defence counsel Robert Temple asked Sgt. Howting if he found any dissimilarities in the prints. "I would look for dissimilarities," he replied. "I look for similarities."

Sgt. Howting said that the courts have accepted nine similarities as positive identification. Mr. Temple asked "what authority is there to specify a certain number of similarities as positive identification?"

"None that I know of sir," Sgt. Howting said.

Sgt. Howting also testified that three screws found in the pockets of Langis' coat were similar to the type missing from the left tail light of the 1957 Chevrolet that the four men were driving when apprehended at a roadblock at Cobourg March 31.

He also said that a heel seat from a shoe, found in the woods about 30 feet from where the duffle bag was found, "corresponded to the heel seat found in a shoe worn by Victor Tessier." The heel seat in Tessier's shoe was worn down.

The witness also said he found a book of matches near the heel seat. The matches carried advertising for Bo-Peep Restaurant, Kingston.

Under cross-examination by Mr. Temple Howting said the heel seat could possibly be worn down from any size seven Slater shoe.

IDENTIFIES MAN

Yesterday afternoon, William Henry Reynolds, a employee of the Village of Frankford and an auxiliary policeman there, identified Tessier as the man operating a road grader on the day of the robbery.

Reynolds said his car speeding up Mill St. When it went past me a person in the back looked out the window."

"Do you see that person here today?" Crown Attorney John Pringle asked.

"Yes."

"Where is he?"

"The chubby man with the high forehehld." He then pointed at Tessier.

Reynolds said he was within eight feet of the car as it passed and that it went by him at 60 miles per hour.

Robert Temple said, "You saw a man for approximately three seconds and you can positively identify him. Have you seen him since that time?"

"I've seen him in court."

"Yes, in court, but are you positive you've seen the same person?"

"I'm not positive that I've seen the same person."

Harry Wickson of Frankford said he was driving his fuel truck near the bank when he saw four men running out of the bank and get in a car.

"They sped away north on Trent St. and turned west on Victoria. I turned the corner and went west on Mill St. I saw the car coming south on Wellington.

"I was about 20 or 25 feet away from the car when it was at the corner of Mill and Wellington.

SAW SIDE OF FACE

"I saw the side of the face of the driver."

"Do you see that man here today?" Mr. Pringle asked.

"Yes I do."

"Where is he?"

Mr. Wickson pointed to Langis.

Under cross examination Mr. Wickson said his intention was to try to ram the car when it came back out to Mill St.

"I believe you had the opportunity to see the occupants of this car for one to three seconds," Mr. Temple said.

"That's right sir."

"You've never seen this man before and you only saw the left side of his face for one to three seconds. Isn't it possible that you were mistaken?"

"Anything is possible."

"Well, were you mistaken."

"No"

Mr. Wickson said that he had picked Langis out of a group of photos shown to him by police.

BOUGHT CAR

William H. Fader, owner of Fader Motor Sales, Ottawa, identified Langis as the man who bought a 1957 grey Chevrolet from his lot two days before the robbery for $195.

He said that Langis used the name of Roland Pelletier, 412 Rideau St., Ottawa. Mr. Fader also identified Bisson and Tessier as the two other men with Langis when they came on the lot to purchase the car. He admitted under cross examination that he picked Langis, Bisson and Tessier out of a group of photographs shown him by police.

"You aren't sure that Tessier, Bisson and Langis were there that day now are you" Mr. Temple asked.

"Yes, I am."

George Oldford, partner in the ownership of the Diplomat Motel, Kingston, testified that Langis and Gaudette registered in the motel March 29.

"Two men came in and registered two rooms in the name of Rolland Pelletier, 412 Rideau St., Ottawa."

He said there were four men altogether and they left the motel about 7.30 a.m. March 30.

He said under cross examination he feels he's seen these men before. (Referring to the four accused).

"Can you tell me where you've seen these men before except here in court?" Mr. Temple asked.

"Yes, I've seen them before."

"Where?"

"In my hotel."

Mrs. Eunice Goodsell, Kingston, testified that she went to work March 30 and noticed a car, a 1963 Oldsmobile, on William St. before going to work. She said the car was gone when she returned at noon.

Harvey Robert Martin, a truck driver employed by Warren Whitley, Belleville testified he was driving w 4 along Highway 401 at 12.30 p.m.

"I observed a grey 1957 Chevrolet on the right shoulder of the road on the west side of the railroad overpass by Cobourg. I saw two men come up over the bank and over the guard rail and get into the car. "The last man had a dark coat on and dark cap. When they passed me about three-quarters of a mile up the road I noticed he had a grey sweater."

Mr. Martin said he took down the licence number of the car.

"You have been a truck driver for a number of years haven't you?" Mr. Temple asked.

"Yes sir."

"Don't you often see people stopping their cars along the sides of highways to relieve out of the car and back in for purely natural reasons?"

"Quite often sir."

STOPPED CAR

Sgt. Gordon Grey, Cobourg O.P.P., said that he was at the roadblock March 31 just east of Highway 45 and 401 when he stopped a 1957 Chevrolet.

He said Langis was the driver. Bisson was beside him in the front seat, Tessier was in the rear right seat and Gaudette in the rear left seat.

He said the men were driven to Cobourg and questioned, and, after being informed they were going to be charged with armed robbery, they were driven to Belleville.

He said they all appeared to have about one day's growth of beard, seemed drowsy and complained of being hungry. He said Gaudette's trousers appeared wet and he had his shoes off at the time.

Mr. Temple asked "If you hadn't eaten since 11 a.m. wouldn't you probably be hungry too?"

"Yes sir."

"And wouldn't you mention it if you weren't in a position to get food for yourself?"

"Possibly I would sir."

Hastings and Prince Edward Beef-Producers Form Body

A new area beef producers improvement association, taking in two Quinte district counties, was formed last night as producers from Hastings and Prince Edward staged a "beef" banquet at the Club Canaire in Belleville.

President of the new Hastings-Prince Edward Beef Improvement Association is Griffin Ketcheson of Tanbern, with Ralph Richards of Demorestville as vice-president. The secretary-treasurer is Douglas Wyer agricultural representative for Hastings county.

The association also named ten directors—five from each county. They are Ralph Richards, Howard Bellwood, Keith Gilbert, Harry Hudson and Erwin Roth from Prince Edward, and Griffin Ketcheson, Stu Cook, David Franks, Farleigh Vermilyea and Fred Preston from Hastings. Charles Fargey of Stirling, past president of the Hastings association, is also a member of the directorate.

Although Hastings beef producers have had their own county association for a number of years, this is the first time that producers from Prince Edward have been organized. Of the 35 members in the combined association, about one-third are from Prince Edward.

It was suggested that the new association's program for its first year be confined to an annual banquet meeting, a bus trip or field day in the summer, a winter meeting or livestock conference and promotion of beef work at fall fairs and through 4-H clubs.

GUEST SPEAKER

The guest speaker for last night's banquet meeting was George Morris of Kent County, past president of the Ontario Beef Improvement Association.

Speaking on the economic production of cattle meat, Mr. Morris stressed the value of grain as feed, noting that it had a higher feed value than hay and grass, and could be grown more cheaply.

One of the reasons for the high cost of producing hay and grain was the machinery with which Mr. Morris said was approximately three times the cost of that required for corn.

"Is it any wonder that farmers are going broke growing hay and grass?" he said.

Mr. Morris admitted that corn was low in protein and in phosphates, but said both these could be added to the corn ration much more cheaply than they could be grown.

The importance of feeding adequate feed units produced was stressed by the speaker who said that corn cobs and stalks had good feed value.

"A big silo is the best machinery a farmer can have," he said.

Census Takers Ready to Tackle Job

OTTAWA (CP)—About 30,000 men and women start today on the biggest mass visitation of Canadian homes since the 1961 census.

Over the next week or 10 days they will conduct a count of the population, collect information on the agricultural community and lay the groundwork for a census of merchandising establishments later.

The information they seek is less detailed than the major census taken every 10 years. The last one was in 1961.

The census - takers will list household locations, size of land-holdings, type of dwelling and whether the householder owns or rents the premises. They will collect names, relationship to the head of household, sex, age and marital status.

In agricultural areas, greater detail will be sought such as value of land, areas sown to various crops, market value of machinery, poultry and live-stock population, milk sales, part-time work, employment of hired hands, value of farm products sold and spending on wages, rent and taxes.

Wife Says Khrushchev Fit and Well

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Former Soviet premier Nikita Khrushchev is fit and well, enjoys walking in the countryside for relaxation and reads a lot, his wife Nina said Monday night.

"We live quietly these days, but our old friends come to see us from time to time and we have the family, of course," Mrs. Khrushchev, 67, said in an unusual interview.

Three British reporters saw Mrs. Khrushchev by chance at Moscow's Sheremetyevo Airport. She was there to say goodbye to a niece leaving for Cuba.

Mrs. Khrushchev said her husband, 72 last month, made a full recovery after a long bout of kidney trouble.

Khrushchev, Russia's leader for 10 years, has not been reported seen by foreigners for more than a year. He was ousted from the premiership and Communist party leadership in October, 1964, and now lives in retirement on a state pension.

Living Cost

Two contrasting views of the cost of living were presented in the Commons the other day.

Canada's labor turmoil, according to New Democratic Party members, must be blamed on fast-rising living costs. Reid Scott of Toronto Danforth said workers are striking for higher wages because they "simply cannot keep up with the increased cost of living."

David Orlikow of Winnipeg South put it this way. Labor negotiations, he said, are winning the best agreements in history, but workers are rejecting them "because they know what is happening to the cost of living."

The NDP was not alone in its concern about living costs. Conservative and Creditiste members voiced similar sentiments. They were speaking in the course of a debate on Labor Minister Nicholson's departmental spending estimates.

Mr. Nicholson suggested prosperity — not living costs — has produced labor difficulties. Unemployment, he said, was just over the national target of three per cent set by the Economic Council of Canada and available figures — more than a year old — showed wages making a seven percent gain while the consumer price index increased 2.4 per cent.

On the face of it, this seems a reasonable argument, but the consumer price index has increased considerably in the last few months. Taxes and costs have increased in the last few months to an extent that is placing heavy pressure on consumer resources. There has been a flurry of wage demands, and so the spiral continues.

While in some cases wages are raised, as the result of union bargaining, in others they are not, and this leads to the kind of inequities which have been evoking expressions of concern in the Commons. Canada, prosperity is not a universal thing in Canada.

Can all the farmers be described as prosperous? Or all the small businessmen, or the thousands on fixed incomes, including the pensioners?

In some countries — Sweden is an example — the government keeps a careful rein on the relationship between wages and costs, according to the level of the cost of living. This is not the case under our system of private enterprise, and the result is inequity and sporadic labor disputes.

Dairy Month

June is Dairy Month and it is interesting in this context to reflect on the origins of this essentially rural celebration.

Oxford County and Woodstock, the county seat, are generally regarded as Canada's top milk shed. Certainly Oxford has a long dairy tradition, and its productive land supports many of the country's best herds.

Canada's first cheese factory (and incidentally the first dairy plant of any kind) was established in Norwich, near Woodstock, and a year later cheesemaker Andy Smith made a 4,000 lb. cheese which was exhibited at the New York state fair. The following year Hiram Ranney of Salford and his son-in-law James Harris of Ingersoll teamed up to produce a 7,000-lb. cheese.

Oxford, according to the Canadian Dairy Foods Service Bureau, was also the site of Canada's first milk powder plant, established at Brownsville in 1904. Five years earlier the first Borden's condensery began operating in Ingersoll. Much of the country's milk production now goes into the fluid milk markets of London, Brantford, Hamilton and Toronto.

Woodstock, incidentally, is probably the only community in Canada which boasts a statue of a cow. Thomas Ballantine, dairy farmer and one of the late thirties was owner of Springbank Snow Countess, a Holstein which set a world production record. Mr. Dent commissioned a sculptor to recreate his prize cow in marble, and the statue stands outside the Dent farm which today is located within the city limits.

The Beatles Again

So the Beatles are coming back. The popular British entertainers will visit Toronto August 17.

This will be the Beatles' third North American visit, and their popularity has not mellowed slightly they are still a big draw. Since their first sensational appearances three years or so ago they have maintained an extraordinary hold over a vast audience around the world.

The compositions of John Lennon and Paul McCartney are sung by other vocalists and they have been turned into orchestral arrangements by such distinguished musicians as Arthur Fiedler of the Boston Pops. At least half-a-dozen Beatles' numbers are near-classics in the field of light music.

In Britain their fans include Princess Margaret and members of the so-called Establishment. Fan mail, according to a recent news item, has even reached them addressed c/o Buckingham Palace. An Australian fan simply drew four mops of hair and the letter arrived at its destination.

The Beatles today are the elder statesmen of their particular sphere of entertainment. Their "Liverpool sound" has many copyists, but no peers. It will be interesting to see if their earlier impact will be repeated in Toronto in August.

Pressure Causes Corn, Thick Skin Pushed In

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes a corn on my left toe to reform every three months? I wear proper footwear and keep my heels renewed.

Could this corn be the result of my stride or gait? I do a great deal of walking. — F. R.

* * *

I'd doubt if your stride or gait have anything to do with the problem

You know what a corn is. There has been excessive pressure at some point, and the skin thickens as a protective measure.

Were thickening of the skin — callus formation — painful. People who go barefoot develop callus on the soles as tough as leather, but it doesn't hurt. It protects.

However, when this thickening occurs at one small point, and when it is beneath (or by your shoe, it becomes a different matter. This small, hard bit of callus behaves about the way a small pebble would. It is pressed into the flesh by your shoe (or sometimes it is between two toes). The skin underneath begins to thicken to protect it against the painful pressure of the original speck of callus.

So — presently you have a corn, a small area of hard callus which grows thicker and thicker, and presses deeper and deeper. It has to. Because of your shoes, it can't be pushed painlessly outward. It is pushed inward.

I presume from your letter that periodically you use some of the commercially available "corn removers." Your foot feels fine for a time. But the corn later appears again.

Because it is virtually impossible to remove all of a corn by yourself. A podiatrist, using surgical methods, can go deeper into the flesh. You obviously can't. If even quite a small speck of that hard callus remains, it feels, to the flesh underneath, like a tiny pebble or bit of grit. Protective thickening starts in the skin underneath. You have the whole process over again and a new corn builds up.

The only answer is to keep off that small remaining speck of callus until it has had time to soften and to be replaced by soft new flexible skin. This doesn't happen quickly. Those little doughnut-shaped pads can be used to keep pressure off. The usual error is in thinking that a few days will be long enough. They won't. You may have to use the protective gadgets for weeks, or longer. But you've got to. Pressure off the spot, and until no hard speck remains to start another corn.

Of course, the quicker way is to have a podiatrist do it.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 60 and my doctor has prescribed hormones for me. As there is a history of cancer in the family, I don't like to take them. Is that an old-fashioned idea? — L. B.

I won't say it's an old-fashioned idea, but I think it misses the point. Hormones in proper doses will not cause a cancer; however, they may accelerate growth of a cancer if it already exists. Should you ever develop cancer, your doctor would stop the hormones, but I can see no reason for concern about taking them now.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please tell me about a secretion from bees to cure arthritis. — J. H.

At one time, bee venom was thought to help arthritis. It has been tried many times and it doesn't work.

Reason and Faith Are Twin

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Perhaps the most dangerous thing that anyone can do is to take one word and try to construct a philosophy out of it. Life is too large, and too various, to fit into even the most exalted word.

Throughout the ages, the words "Reason" and "Faith" have been the rallying cries of different factions. I am convinced, from my reading of history, that neither of these words alone is sufficient as a philosophy of life.

The French Revolution was based on "Reason" — but reason soon ran wild, and the reasonable men of France suddenly found themselves committed to unspeakable tyranny, as vile as the despotism they had rebelled against.

Today we hear a great deal about "Faith" — but faith alone is not a way of life, any more than reason is. Faith in Hitler encouraged Nazism; faith in the plausible nonsense of the Marxist bible brought about the cruel totalitarianism of the Russian and Chinese Communist states.

Man is a creature of both reason and faith; these are, so to speak, like a pair of scissors that must work together to accomplish any constructive purpose. Take one blade away and the other is merely beating the air, aimlessly and often harmfully.

As Einstein himself put it, shortly before he died: "Science without religion is lame, religion without science is blind." Without a deep faith, reason soon sets into self-serving expediency or stiffens into arrogant imperialism; without a cool reason, faith can quickly become inflamed into ignorant bigotry or harden into a smug defense of the status quo.

Mere "faith in God" is not enough to prevent war or ensure social justice; it never has been, for each nation hypnotizes itself into the delusion that God is on its side. Without a scientific understanding of social, technical, and economic forces, faith can do little to bring the brotherhood of man into concrete existence.

Likewise, a merely "reasonable" approach to society does not contain the moral fervor and spiritual strength to resist corruption and compromise with the truth. Man's unaided intellect has not grown enough to cope with the problem of evil, of cruelty, of self-seeking: only faith can provide the ideal support.

Reason must be pushed as far as it can go; only then may faith take over. The former may not to be pushed too far, nor may the latter be used too soon. We have been given both reason and faith to move together with, just as we have been given two legs. The devout person who lets his leg of reason atrophy is as insolent toward this gift of God as the skeptic who amputates the limb of faith.

Cemeteries Are Costly

Vancouver Province

Of all the rites practised by civilized society, none is more illogical than sacrificing choice tracts of land and great sums of money for cemeteries.

This is a predominantly Christian society. A basic tenet of Christianity is that the flesh is inconsequential — that in death, the spirit leaves the body and only clay remains. Why should this clay forever alienate land badly needed by the living, for playgrounds, parks, or home sites? What kind of sentiment perpetuates the anachronism of the graveyard?

Psychologists have said the main function of current elaborate funeral and burial ceremonies is to assuage the grief of the mourners: obviously they don't help the departed. Is the salutory effect of paying tribute to the dead increased by a more sensible means of disposal of the remains?

Undoubtedly the operators of burial grounds would say yes. But the answer directed by logic, most religions, and by proper concern for present and future generations of the living, is a definite no.

Sharp, Soft-Shoeing Hees Wows the College Crowd

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Man! You should have seen him. Like sowie.

The Honorable George Harris Hees, P.C.

In the halls of learning at McMaster University.

Strikingly — and maybe you find this hard to believe, if you follow the swinging ping of a character George Hees has been and still is — it was like old home week for him.

There, smagnishy, among the eggheads.

They loved him. It was mutual.

A real communication between them.

And what' a smashing change from the George Hees the House of Commons has been watching so quiet, so subdued, so shorn crushed since Gerdi Munsinger put him on her list of favorite people.

My such a thing were possible for his kind of a swinger, George Hees in the Commons has come close to making the downgrade in the Parliamentary sad sack, sitting there with bowed head.

Seldom saying much, and when getting around to it, coming out with the wrong thing.

Like when the Young Progressive Conservatives asked him down to their "Thinkers' Conference" the other weekend at McMaster.

SWITCHEROO

And, astonishingly, he instantly found this was his kind of country.

Of course, perhaps by accident, the stage was sort of set for him.

Preceding him at the lectern was Dr. George Grant, member of McMaster's faculty and author of the recently published book "Lament for a Nation."

Professor Grant made his book — a sort of requiem for Canada — the theme of his talk.

His nation was about done, he infoned in voice sepulchral, sold down the Potomac for the Yankee Dollar.

Then when everybody was pretty thoroughly washed and probably wondering when would be a good time to apply for the inevitable American citizenship, on came George boy.

In slim black, grey and yellow hound's tooth sports jacket and flannel slacks.

Sort of soft-shoeing it across the stage.

Large economy half-moon glasses and a little moustache just made for any man's toothpaste ad.

Hi ya, he saluted them, great to be here.

Eggheads all, PhDs down, they sat there for a moment wondering.

But not for long.

Back of the hall our boy spotted five cheerleaders.

"Pretty girls," he beamed, waving chummily, "I just love pretty girls."

"Come on up to the front where we can all enjoy the view."

A BUCK'S A BUCK

And he popped down to dust off five empty chairs for them and five more for himself.

Now you know college girls — not all of them necessarily that bright — but all of them with a kind of cool sparkle.

Cool for me, and cool for you all.

But not cool for you-know-who. There was a mutual warmth. And someone has flipped a switch.

Guess George hasn't changed much. Over the years, though, there were 4,179 drivers with less than three months experience and 5,536 with three to six months experience, involved in accidents.

Police and insurance firms have long considered young drivers as a group to be poor drivers. The department's 1967 figures illustrate how poor. Inexperience and carelessness were listed as the two chief causes of accidents and percentages for drivers in each group were quite startling. Found to be at fault in crashes in which they were involved were 14.6 under-18 (too young to drive legally) 97.13 percent, the 18-19 group 70.4 percent; the 20-24 group 61.6 percent.

Motorcycles are beginning to challenge the car in the affections of many teen-agers, a fact that is especially cause for alarm. In 1956, 354 motorcyclists 15-19 were injured; last year, that total was 1,100.

Mr. Hees' proposal for a double driving test may appeal unfair to those who say it cannot deny that their sorry traffic record has justified some such restriction. A driving examiner cannot possibly evaluate the applicant under all traffic conditions during a 15-min test. The idea of making a young driver prove himself over a three-month probationary period has much to recommend it.

Nursery Proposal Sparks Questions

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

It would be appreciated if you would publish this letter in your newspaper.

This is all open letter to the Mayor and the members of the council of this City of Belleville, regarding the latest Belleville municipal budget approval, specifically the $5,000.00 voted for the daytime nursery.

Would you explain to the general public:

WHY?

What is this nursery all about? Who is entitled to use it?

Under what condition, if any?

Is it a general free baby-sitting service subsidized with the taxpayers' money, while some mothers can go to work and earn extra money for the sole purpose of keeping up their social standards or to buy a second car, a larger boat, or an extra fur coat like mink?

Is this day nursery for the children of poor mothers or widows who are required to work in order to support their young children?

It would be interesting to know the answers or explanation for the reasons mentioned.

"Speak up!, Mr. Mayor, we are listening".

Reference to Alderman Joss' statement published in your paper, it seems obvious that this type of day nursery is not required.

Married women who are working for the reasons mentioned such as, for keeping up social standards, etc., and leaving their young children with strangers, become almost strangers to their own children.

Mother's care and love for her young children cannot be given or replaced by babysitters regardless how dependable they might be. The lack of such love and care, are, in a way a causes the roots of the so-called teenagers problem.

East Hastings MP Lived in Roslin

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Dear Sir:

I am preparing a study of the members of the second parliament of Canada and am anxious to obtain two pieces of information about Archibald Hees of Roslin, Ontario — his religious affiliation and the exact date of his birth or the year of his death. John White, M.P., represented East Hastings from 1867 to 1872. He was born in Ireland about 1833 and was a Conservative. If this information can be forwarded to me it will be of very considerable use and very much appreciated.

Yours sincerely,
Donald Swainson,
Assistant Professor of Canadian History,
Queen's University, Kingston.

Young Drivers Are Inspected

Brockville Recorder and Times

Hon. George Hees, in a recent speech at Smith Falls, proposed a new plan to check on the young and inexperienced drivers. The temporary driving license good for a year would be issued with a second test necessary before a full licence would be granted. Further, he would make it mandatory for all new drivers to be trained in either a high school driving course or by a qualified driving school.

Release of the Ontario Department of Highways statistical report of accidents for 1967 has added weight to Mr. Hees' suggestions. Briefly they show there were 4,179 drivers with less than three months experience and 5,536 with three to six months experience, involved in accidents.

Former Head of Company Pleasant to Deal With

TORONTO (CP)—C. Fowell Morgan, former president of Atlantic Acceptance Corp., was very pleasant to deal with, advertising man John Rodkin Monday told the royal commission investigating the collapse of the corporation.

Mr. Rodkin of Toronto was called as a witness before the commission because he was one of many persons and corporations who borrowed money from Atlantic that was not repaid.

After he borrowed $30,000 from Atlantic in April, 1963, Rodkin's advertising agency went out of business and he went into personal bankruptcy.

He testified that he formed Ay-Jay Advertising Ltd. in 1964. He held the bulk of Ar-Jay's shares himself, but had paid for them by borrowing money from the Ar-Jay treasury.

NEEDED MONEY

His firm needed money to undertake some radio broadcasting tracts, and a friend told him this type of loan was available from Atlantic and gave him Mr. Morgan's name.

He telephoned Mr. Morgan, and the loan was arranged.

Rate of interest on the $30,000 four-year loan was 30 per cent per annum, he said. The loan consisted of common and preferred shares of Ar-Jay.

As additional security Rodkin handed over a mortgage for $50,000 face amount his insurance policy.

Rodkin paid back $11,000 on the loan, but went into default about a year after getting the loan. The amount outstanding, including service charges, was $42,685.

In other testimony Monday, the commission was told only $4,000 will be available to be covered from $3,176,639 loaned to two groups of companies by Investment Sales Corporation Ltd., subsidiary of Atlantic.

The commission was investigating loans made by Atlantic to the Bond and Cosman companies which were operated as the Lisbon Bond group.

DEBENTURES GIVEN

Evidence showed debentures amounting to $2,625,000 and personal guarantees of Gerald Grosbie, president of the Bond and Cosman companies, were accepted by Atlantic as security for the loans.

All are without value, the commission was told, with the estimated recovery of $60,000 will be from inventory, including office equipment and furniture. The Bond and Cosman companies now are in bankruptcy or receivership.

Graham F. Bartlett, a Toronto accountant hired by Mr. Grosbie in 1962, said he was satisfied instinctively that the companies were not making money.

"Was Commodore Sales aware of the situation?" commission counsel asked.

"They must have been through the cash returns," Mr. Bartlett said.

The Little Scot group included Highlight Distributors Ltd., Mart Buying Service Ltd., Precision Lake Stores Ltd., Province Wide Stores Ltd., Celtic Discount Stores Ltd., Scottish Discount Stores Ltd., Saxon Discount Stores, Chatsworth Enterprises Ltd., and Kelton Ultra-sonics Ltd.

Interested applicants should be between the ages of thirty and forty-five, enjoy good health, be active in their personal and community relationships, and possess as a very minimum, secondary school education. Needless to say, they should be genuinely fond of young people and sympathetic to their problems. They will be expected to work as part of a team, take supervision and participate fully in staff training programs. Consideration of the duties of these items will be considered.

The many advantages offered should make this position attractive to young professional people, for example; an elementary or secondary school teacher and his wife. The commensurate salary (which includes full maintenance) will be dependent upon the academic qualification and/or experience, etc. of the applicants. Full staff benefits including medical, surgical, hospital care, group life insurance, OMERS pension plan, three weeks annual vacation will apply. Duties commence on or about the 1st of September, 1960.

Jaycees Hold President's Ball, Present Awards

NAPANEE — Saturday night saw the closing event of what has been a busy year for the Jaycees, who received their charter only last June. It was the night of the president's ball and awards banquet, with about 160 members and guests present for a turkey dinner on the main floor of the Napanee Armoury.

At the head table, in addition to president Ernest Leaver and his guest, Miss Grace Delong of Belleville, were: Douglas Alexsyszyk, M.P. and Mrs. Alexsyszyk; Mayor Lorne Smart and Mrs. Smart; Mr. and Mrs. Eric Bartlett; the Rev. A. F. Dowdell and Mrs. Dowdell of Deseronto; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Morrison; Mr. and Mrs. Herb Knuth; Mr. and Mrs. Ronald McPherson, and president-elect Jim Elliott.

In his welcoming remarks, president Leaver praised the community for the way it had supported the organization in its every project throughout the year "Our success is due to you," he affirmed, "and you must be reaping your reward tonight as you look at these silent young men and know that you have played such a large part in the training for leadership which this year has given them." He proposed a toast to the community.

There were many awards, all made by committees according to points. Certificates of appreciation were awarded in four organizations: the Rotary Club, the Lion Club, the B. and P. Club and the O.S.T.O.C.'s and to the press: the Napanee Beaver and the Kingston Whig-Standard, and two Beaver reporters, Jack Brett and "Red" Miller.

HONORARY MEMBERS

Honorary membership was conferred on Douglas Alkenbrack, Mayor Smart, Earl Morrison, Herb Knuth and Mr. MacPherson and 10 Jaycees received "spoke" awards.

An award of merit, plus a certificate of appreciation went to four members.

President Leaver played a personal part in making the remaining four awards, but again he uses the point system. To Peter Ganas went the award for being the outstanding Jaycee of the year.

Jim Elliot and Lorne Vreeboloff were presented with the president's award of honour. Constable Elliott is safety officer of the local detachment of the O.P.P. Mr. Vreeboloff teaches in the secondary school.

To Wayne Tod went the highest award of all, a certificate, and the right to hold the charter president's trophy for one year as an award of honor. Mr. Tod is the accountant of the local branch of the Bank of Montreal. He has been the secretary treasurer of the unit for the year, and will continue as treasurer next year.

The Jaycees themselves looked after all arrangements for the evening, with president Leaver heading the catering committee. The Junior Farmers, including the boys, served and looked after final arrangements following the banquet.

12-Year Old Wins Junior Fishing Derby

NAPANEE — Timmy McPherson had the thrill of his life last Saturday when he pulled in an eight - pound pickerel during the Rod and Gun Club Junior Fishing Derby. Ronnie, who is 12, won the Club trophy for his catch, of the biggest fish, plus five silver dollars donated by Everett Ferguson, officer in charge of the local Lands and Forests Department branch. A second trophy went to him for catching the biggest pickerel. Timmy is hanging on to the silver dollars, and to the fish, also, which will be mounted.

Over 150 youngsters under 16 had a wonderful time of it, thanks to the cooperation of the weather, and to their hosts of the Club. Boats came from runners up and down the river and along the bay, two of them from the Department of Lands and Forests. Participants came by boat and by car to the Ralph Denison farm, with its docks large enough to accommodate at least 90 of the youngsters should they prefer to fish that way. Ralph and Mrs. Denison donated the use of a cottage near the dock for cooking, and Mrs. Denison prepared for the hungry kiddies.

Rod and Gun Club members were on hand to assist officers of the bank's Ontario division, which is directed by Edward A. Royce, general manager for Ontario, resident in Toronto.

Mr. Lesslie has "been an assistant general manager of the Ontario division since 1964. He was previously superintendent of the British Columbia division of the bank, following service at numerous branches in Ontario and Quebec, and as assistant superintendent of the Ontario division.

IODE Will Work With All Agencies

By LINDA CRAWFORD

MONTREAL (CP) — The dependence of volunteer organizations on one another was stressed Monday as business sessions began at the 58th annual meeting of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire.

"If you can do something better by joining with another organization, is this not more sensible and more economical?" asked Mrs. T. W. McGibbon, a past president of the IODE.

More 300 of an estimated 500 delegates from across Canada discussed a recommendation from an IODE report on its national services at home and abroad.

A controversy arose over a recommendation giving the national council power to forward money for emergency assistance to foreign countries through the Save the Children Fund or other accredited agencies.

Many convention delegates objected, saying that the IODE lost its identity by working through such agencies.

Mrs. William T. Atkins, secretary of the national services division, which collects one-quarter of its budget in foreign countries, explained that today there is "no other way."

NEED ADMINISTRATOR

"When there is a Canadian high commissioner in the country concerned, we can work through him. But if not, we can't just send the parcels without an organization such as the Save the Children Fund or the International Red Cross. for us, people to administer them."

A recent example of the work of national services emergency assistance was a $2,000 gift to Mrs. Indira Gandhi, prime minister of India, for famine relief.

The recommendation passed with a majority vote after the discussion.

Mrs. Atkins reported $447,131 was spent by her department in 1965. Donations went to national services, clothing and bedding, food, anesthetics, recreation, the Overseas Relief Fund, Korea project, civil defence, administration and special donations.

Earlier, Mrs. H. G. Chant, the IODE's national treasurer, reported more than $1,021,000 was raised by the IODE in Canada last year through the national, provincial, municipal, primary and junior chapters.

RESPOND GENEROUSLY

"And all chapters responded generously to our centenary fund, contributing to date $39,500," she said.

In an interview, Mrs. Atkins said national services at home and abroad did not have any "new" projects.

"That would involve dropping something we already are doing and we couldn't in all conscience drop anything."

Successful Living

Family Counsellor Works a Miracle

DEAR DORIS: I am 17. My parents separated a year ago, and I had many questions about growing up but couldn't turn to my mother. I became very wild, got a bad reputation, and caused my mother worry. When our fighting became so bad that we couldn't live with each other, she sent me to live with my sister.

Meanwhile, she had me go to a family counsellor, although I thought this was a silly idea. The counsellor was very understanding and didn't force me to tell her anything, but if I wanted to, and did tell her everything. She pointed out the reasons for my actions and I felt less guilty.

Later, my mother joined in our discussions, and for the first time I realized how hurt she had been by her unhappy marriage and the effect it had on us. Through the counsellor we have broken the barrier between us, and I confide in her completely. There's nothing I can do to change my past and my reputation, but now I've got my mother to help me face up to it, and I wouldn't change this wonderful relationship for anything in the world.

Please print this letter, because there are so many teenagers and parents in similar confused positions, and my experience proves the miracle that a family counsellor can perform.— REFORMED.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR REFORMED: A miracle indeed. And one that is happening every day. Thank you for taking the trouble to write it down for us.

* * *

Confidential to CONFUSED TORONTO: It is completely out of the question that a mother who has adopted a daughter when she was little would consider disowning her at 18. If this threat is being used over your head, you must refuse to remove it. The very idea could make her panicky enough to change on bad behavior.

When you return to your home city seek personal counselling as to how to handle your daughter's difficulty from the child care agency there. And if you should write to me again, identify yourself.

DEAR DORIS: I'm 17 and in grade nine. My parents say that I'm too young to go out with boys. I would like you to smarten them up a bit. They think that you're to start dating at the old age of 21. They say if I go out now I'll become pregnant in a month's time. Whenever you mention anything about going out they always think about pregnancy.

Sure there are some sex problems, but not if you choose a boy that is your friend. I would want a boy that is not fresh, and believe me I have one but we haven't had a chance to be with each other too long. I've sneaked out on my parents with him six times in my love life.

I could just scream my head off telling my parents that I'm NOT TOO YOUNG.

DEAR YOUNG: When you get a little older, you will be surprised yourself at just how arrogant you sound. I must say I had to grin a little at the sentence in the P.S. which says, "Doris, if your help really helps me, I'll send you a tip!" Tell me, Young, do you think a columnist like me should accept bribes?

As a general rule, I'd just about right for having a great old time with members of both sexes. But screaming your head off is not going to accomplish anything except to make us all think you are still young enough to have childish tantrums.

Sneaking out, and saying "I love him," are two more evidences of immaturity. But I think you should be making. Try to think up some ways of showing your parents you can shoulder responsibility.

* * *

Confidential to LONELY TWENTY-FIVE: Can't quite see why you'd "feel like a fool jigging around on a dance floor." Many a good citizen has found just true love occasionally jigging around; or through some similarly sociable physical activity. If you want a pal, you're going to have to go half-way. Don't you think the best agers were shy too, at first? Come on, Mr. Milquetoast!

DEAR DORIS: I am 16 and never been on a date. Every one of my friends have been on many dates. Girls even 13 years old had dates, and here I am three years older and never had one.

Boys seem to have no interest in me whatsoever. It is probably because I am very short and look younger than I am. I am also very shy. What would you do in a situation like this? — LONELY.

DEAR LONELY: Be comforted, Little One. You'll catch up. A shorty can be cute, and popularity is more a matter of happy friendliness than height.

You have the courage to write to me, but not enough to sign your note. Growing up calls for the nerve to identify yourself and to have some self-confidence. If you can bring yourself to writing me again, this time saying who and where you are, I might just be able to send you some good practical hints.

* * *

(Doris reserves the right to ignore anonymous letters. If you have a legitimate beef, sign your names to your note about it. All names are kept confidential.)

Susanna's Family Fare

ANXIOUS CANINE

Dear Susanna: "Rum don't walk, to the nearest wide open space!" is the thought uppermost in the canine minds of our two greyhounds.

As this is a several-times - a-day operation for my wife and me (sometimes we feel as though we're training for the Olympics) we wear comfortable shoes and try to be as unencumbered as possible.

More than once we have locked ourselves out because of the way the dogs bang to get going — who can think of keys on days when they're that anxious?

Recently my wife hooked a house key onto the end of one of the two leashes. It is left there permanently, and since the leashes are the first thing they bring in when they want to go going, we couldn't forget the key now even if we tried. — Breathless

Dear Susanna: It was hot and humid at the lake last weekend and I didn't have a grain of rice on hand to put into the salt shakers.

In place I added a bit of crumpled up paper toweling. Believe me it kept the salt every bit as dry. — Miss Betty

If you have any hints for running a successful household — or any problems — write to Susanna, in care of this newspaper. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope when requesting pamphlets.

Carnaby Street in London Is Home of the Mod Look

Written for The Canadian Press
By MARGARET NESS

Carnaby Street in London's West End is the home of the mod look.

Three years ago this two-block street behind Liberty's and just off Regent Street was known only to the mods themselves. Now it's often jammed with tourists peering at the latest in fashions for young men and, more recently, for young women as well.

Three years ago the word mod was used for youngsters who aimed at being super-elegant. It was the opposite word to the rockers, the leather-jacketed toughies with their motorcycles and their feuds. A true mod then was under 18 years old.

Carnaby Street then had only a few shops devoted to young men's fashions. Tight velvet-collared suits and longish curled hair were the mod fashion. Colored shirts were newly popular.

The first of these Carnaby boutiques was called His. It was started several years earlier by John Stephen as one of his chain of London stores. Stephen since has opened 19 others on Carnaby Street under other names, such as Male West One (so named because the address is London West 1).

EXTENDED TO WOMEN

A characteristic of the mod is that he discards a fashion once it becomes accepted. Three years ago they had just moved from frilled shirts to colored ones with contrasting collars and cuffs. Later the switch was to flowered designs.

The word mod now has become international and covers both young men and young women. It is interpreted to mean way - out styling, with an English influence, designed usually with the under-25 group in mind.

But anyone, regardless of age, can wear mod clothes provided he or she has the courage. Some of the original styles, once considered extreme, have been adopted by conservative dressers. Examples are the narrower trousers and the shorter overcoat.

* * *

The boutique His has developed to become His Clothes and Her Clothes. Stephen has a definite flare for the off-beat. The tiny dressing rooms on Her Clothes side of the boutique were panelled with three blown-up photographs of handsome males wearing only a short shorts.

ADOPTED BY CANADIANS

John Stephen, 29 years old and an old man by original Mod standards, was born in Glasgow and has never actually been a mod. He still isn't long and his clothes are almost conservative. His salesclerks on Carnaby Street aren't really way-out either, although they dress in the latest style.

The mod look has infiltrated Canadian men's fashions, especially in sportswear. Canadian males have accepted new color combinations, such as coffee and blue plaid in a jacket. Young dandies are appearing in floral designs, such as a mauve flowered shirt with white collar and cuffs. If they are daringly mod, they'll add a pink dotted tie. And even older men have accepted the long vents on their jackets.

EARLY RHUBARB PIE

Could my love for the folks who gave it to me sweeten the flavor of their rhubarb? Or is the first rhubarb pie filled from the clump naturally sweeter?

On a flying visit to Helen and George Pollock's farm I boldly asked for watercress from their spring-surung stream and for some of their new rhubarb. I knew I was more than welcome and gathered my own. George hovered to make sure I did not fall in the treacherous cold stream.

When I finally got back home I shared the crisp watercress with my relatives and made a pie from the rhubarb. It was unusually sweet and good. Could you rhubarb experts tell me if that was because it was the first of the season?

TUESDAY
Dinner Menu
by Mary
Moore

Braised Baby Beef Liver; Onion Rings; Parsleyed Carrots; Cole Slaw with Green Peppers; Orange Muffins (see Mon.); Fruit Compote; Coffee.

EARLY RHUBARB PIE

Pastry:

2 cups unsifted all-purpose flour (see note below)
1 teaspoon salt
2/3 cup shortening
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons cold water

Filling:

4 cups washed and cut early rhubarb
2/3 (or ¾) cup sugar
2 tablespoons minute tapioca
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
1 tablespoon sugar (for topping)
1 tablespoon milk (for topping)

(Note: For curiosity's sake I used some unbleached flour for this pie. It was given to me by one of the contestants from Kitchener in the Cherry Pie Contest in February. I thought it made exceptionally good pastry.)

To make the pastry cut the shortening and butter into the flour and salt until size of peas. Drizzle in cold water, tossing with a fork until you can pack the dough into a ball shape between your palms. Divide in half and roll out on generously floured board. Line deep 9" pie plate with it. Roll out second half, fold once and gash it along fold. In a bowl combine rhubarb cut in ½" lengths, 2/3 cup sugar, minute tapioca and nutmeg and turn into pastry-lined pie plate. Cover with gashed top crust, seal and flute edges. Mix together the 1 tablespoon sugar and milk and brush top crust all over with this glaze. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. 10 minutes then reduce heat and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. until top is pale gold and juice bubbles through gashes—about 35 to 40 minutes in all.

We served our rhubarb pie warm, with wedges of Cheddar cheese and it was perfect.

Ann Landers
Queries Show Pupils Told Nothing About Sex

ANN LANDERS punish Johnny if he tries to get me to talk to him about such filth."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We are two Ohio teachers whose students are between 10 and 12 years of age. The questions they ask about sex and marriage indicate that they are getting absolutely no information at home.

On occasion we have telephoned mothers and suggested that they discuss various aspects of puberty and the beginning of life with their children. We feel that home is the logical place to learn about these matters. Some mothers expressed shock and disgust that their children would be thinking about "such nasty things." One mother told me, "You can be sure I will not."

If parents refuse to discuss these matters with their children where are the youngsters supposed to learn? What can we do to help them? — TROUBLED.

DEAR TROUBLED: Fortunately, sex education is at long last being permitted in public schools — even in Chicago!

Ohio is one of the more enlightened states in this regard. I am ashamed to say Illinois has been among the most backward. I know of some Chicago teachers who heroically have given their students some decent sex education at the risk of getting fired.

Of course, home is the best place to learn about life and sex, but if kids can't get the answers at home, school is the second best place.

Teachers who are asked questions about sex and marriage should answer them frankly and honestly. And they should have the support of their principals and their board of education. They are doing the parents' job and should receive thanks — not criticism.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Periodically I receive chain letters. If it seems these letters run in streaks, I won't get one for months, then suddenly I'll receive five or six in one week. I have always considered chain letters a nuisance and have torn them up.

Two weeks ago our teen-age daughter received a chain letter which closed with these words: "If you keep this chain going you will have good luck. If you break this chain your luck will be very bad."

Gladys showed the letter to me and asked my advice. I told her to use her own judgment but I let her know that I always threw them out. Gladys decided to do the same.

Don't ask me why, but ever since that day, the poor girl has had one disappointment after another. She is convinced that the chain letter she destroyed is responsible for the jinx. Will you please say something in your column to set her straight? — NOT SUPERSTITIOUS.

DEAR NOT: Of course there is no relation between the chain letter and your daughter's run of bad luck, but it's much easier (and conveniently face-saving) to blame disappointments on a chain letter rather than to accept personal responsibility for failure. You probably can't sell this notion to Gladys now, but as time goes on and she becomes more rational and mature (hopefully), she will see evidence on the other side which will persuade her.

* * *

Confidential to BABOON LEGS: I sympathize with you and I agree with you. A 15-year-old girl should be allowed to "do something" as a matter of good grooming. Either a depilatory cream or shaving will not hurt you.

Belleville General Hospital Graduates Class of 31 Nurses

By RETA LAWRENCE

Three years of training have earned for each member of the Belleville General Hospital graduating class of nurses the right to wear, in the words of Edgar A. Guest, "a cap unlike those any bonnet gay, and a uniform costlier than any lady's gown."

Thirty-one dedicated young ladies received their diplomas at the graduation exercises held in Belleville Collegiate and Vocational School auditorium on Monday evening, May 30th.

With Mr. Alec Gordon at the organ, the procession entered the auditorium headed by student nurses and the teaching staff. The graduates, in spotless white, with arm bouquets of red roses, joined the dignitaries on stage for the ceremonies.

Rev. H. M. Davis of Bridge Street United Church delivered the invocation. Mr. A. M. Haig, Chairman of the Board of Governors presided.

The Nursing School Choir, under the directorship of Mrs. D. Reikly, offered two very appropriate numbers, "Climb Every Mountain," and "From This Day on I'll Walk With God."

BRING GREETINGS

Greetings to the graduating class were presented by His Worship Mayor J. R. Ellis, for the City of Belleville; Dr. A. N. Rota, President of the Medical Staff Associations, Mrs. W. Dallas, president of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary, Mr. S. J. Johnston, administrator of the hospital and Mrs. K. M. Plindall, director of nursing education, on behalf of their organizations.

Mr. Haig, in his remarks, said: "We are assembled to pay recognition and honor to the 1966 class of the School of Nursing Education. This is essentially their night. They have become members of the noblest of professions. We have enjoyed our association with them and appreciate their contribution to nursing service. May their life in nursing be long, fruitful and satisfying.

"This school of nursing started in 1893 and the first class graduated in 1895. A new concept is about to begin — the School of Regional Nursing Education, employing the facilities of neighboring hospitals. It will enjoy new educational facilities and student accommodation."

PROFESSOR SPEAKS

Warden C. Hall brought greetings from the County Council and introduced the speaker for the evening.

Sister Margaret Money, M. Sc. N., is Assistant Professor of Nursing Education at Queen's University. She is a graduate, with the degree of Master of Nursing Science from St. Louis University where she majored in guidance and counselling and also is at present working towards a doctorate in general education.

The theme of her address was "Know Thyself." "Commencement is synonymous with change," she began. "We live in a change. To live effectively is to change often. When historians describe the 1960's they will be forced to use the term 'collision in time' because this is a period of instant change. They will be forcibly merged with the future. It is a new and insecure experience to have a past and a future but no present. I think any person who chooses nursing as a vocation deserves a continuing accolade of praise.

"Genuine living does not happen by chance. It is not regulated by social custom or Divine Providence. It is governed by that inner control of human reason and human responsibility. Today you stand on the threshold of maturity and productivity so today you need to stand aside from yourself to think seriously about your individual identity, and your purpose for living in the light of the total perspective.

"When one meets a genuinely true person, consciously controlled from within the expanding process of change, one is drawn to such a person in loving, human communion and it is not difficult to be true — to be real — to be the person you are and are becoming. If we have time to stop worrying about what others think of us, and let our real selves shine through in our daily contact with other people, life would take on a new and exciting meaning. Your main purpose in life is to become yourself."

Mr. Haig thanked Sister Mooney for her address.

PRESENT DIPLOMAS

Diplomas were presented by Mrs. K. M. Plindall, Director of Nursing Education and Mrs. M. K. Barrett, Director of Nursing Services. Gold Medal winner was Miss Jane Baby, the Silver Medal was won by Miss Dianne Harrison; the medical-surgical award by Miss Joan Rannie; the obstetrical nursing award by Miss Rosanne Douglas; the pediatric award by Miss Isabel Latimer and the head nurse award by Miss Janet Kuzma.

Miss Betty Driver of Shannonville delivered the valedictory. Her address, in its entirety, appears elsewhere in this issue.

With the parents of the graduating class standing, Miss Janet Kuzma declared the year Book as follows:

"Dear Mother and Dad:

"I, your daughter, would like to dedicate this year book to you. May it symbolize my gratitude to you for the many sacrifices you have made for me in my chosen profession.

"I came to Belleville General Hospital School of Nursing unsure of what the future held for me. You helped me through the threshold of those first few months and gave me the confidence and encouragement to face life and death, suffering and happiness, experienced in my training. The high ideals of service to mankind, and the lessons and examples which you patiently and lovingly gave me, I practise in my daily life as a student nurse.

"On this graduation day I received my diploma. May I share this honor with you? May you watch with pride your daughter, a woman and nurse, and know that in her heart she pays tribute to you."

Following the graduation exercises a reception for invited guests, by the Board of Governors, was held in Education Hall.

Valedictory Address

Miss Betty Driver of Shannonville was valedictorian for the Belleville General Hospital graduating class of workers last night.

She said:

"At this time I want to thank my fellow-classmates for the privilege of allowing me to speak to you on behalf of them. It is indeed an honor.

"We have reached a crossroad in our lives and some of us it is the beginning of a completely new, educational experience and for others it is the end of their formal education. Even while we sit here in eager anticipation of the future, we find ourselves reminded of our happy years at Belleville General Hospital.

"Three years ago, when we first entered nursing, this evening was but a date in the future. Soon after we began, we gained many friends and have learned through the many new experiences endured before us.

"Belleville General has always offered us a great variety of activities which have proved to be very valuable to us. Not only in our own hospital, but in those we have visited have we gained a better understanding of the word "Brotherhood." From our experience in working with many different types of people we have learned to get along with others. When we look back over our three years of training, we have many fond memories. Who can forget the day we folded our first cap? We could only imagine anything so simple to do now, could be so complicated then. Everyone remembers the school dances and semi-formals at which both staff and students alike enjoyed themselves.

"Our three months' affiliation at the Ontario Hospital in Kingston has made a deep impression on our memories. However, throughout our nursing course, the classroom has been most important to us. We have received the education for which we sought admission and a training that will stand us in good stead throughout our lives.

HAVE OBLIGATION

"Now that our three years have come to an end, we have an obligation to ourselves, our parents, our school, our fellowman and our country. It is an obligation to make life's best by choosing from our accumulated store of knowledge those things which are good, helpful and worth preserving. All of this very naturally turns our thoughts to those who have played such an important part in our individual successes.

"On behalf of the members of this graduating class, I would like to extend our thanks to Mrs. Plindall for the excellent leadership that she has given us. How much has it meant to us, confused and bewildered as we have been at times, to know that in our teachers and doctors we would find interested listeners and counsellors, even though we have been difficult on many occasions. We owe them a debt of gratitude that can only be repaid over a long period of time. They may never realize their full and beneficial influence — we shall never forget their kindly and thoughtful advice.

"May I also extend our thanks to our housemothers. They provided for us a home away from home, and a shoulder to cry on when the future looked dim.

"Finally but perhaps, most important, we owe a great deal of thanks to our parents. When all the chips were down, they were there every time. How can we ever repay them? We thank them for the patience, understanding, and encouragement they have given us.

"At this time I would like to say a few words to those who will be taking our places in future years. Put all you can into your training years and your rewards will be great. It is our sincere wish that all the deeds, friendships and valuable experiences, which have been ours will in due course be yours.

FACE FUTURE

"Tonight, however all of this lies behind us as we face the future: a future which has many faces. We must now say goodbye to our institution that we have all learned to respect and love. We are just ready to reach for that goal toward which we have been striving so earnestly. I wonder if we really fully the responsibility that is ours. Our school has established for itself as an enviable reputation and ours is the responsibility to maintain that standard.

"Each of us will now attempt our chosen task in life. We must now get out into the middle of the stream of life and face the dangers, the hardships, and the uncertainties of being pushed around by the force of the water.

"In spite of this, we shall face the future with optimism, with courage, and with determination. Our graduation will undoubtedly take us far afield, but wherever we may be, we shall profit by the principles and precepts acquired during our association with Belleville General Hospital. Thank you and good night."

Club Activities

WHITE CANE CLUB

The White Cane Club held a business meeting at the Recreation Centre recently. President Vi Walls presided and welcomed the members and guests.

Mrs. Maude Rollins introduced a group of young people and their teacher, Mr. Clyde Van Allen. These girls and boys are pupils at the Provincial Conservatory of Music in Belleville. They provided guitar music and were thanked by Ted Rowe.

An invitation from the Friendship Club of Kingston was received. Many members are looking forward to this outing in June. Plans were discussed for the annual picnic to be held at Tweed Park on June 25th.

Three members of the Kinette Club presented bowling trophies to Twilla Littler and Earl Chapman for high scores. John Towper received the attendance award.

Helen Wardaugh thanked the girls for their valuable assistance in keeping score for the blind bowlers on Saturday afternoons.

LEGION STANDS FIRM

PELEE ISLAND, Ont. (CP)— The Canadian Legion is opposed to any move to change the date of Armistice Day celebrations, Gordo Wakefield, Ontario command president, told a legion meeting Monday. He said there is a move to have the traditional Nov. 11 date altered and the government is seriously considering doing away with the armistice celebrations altogether.

Actress Pecks at Typewriter To Produce a Best Seller

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Some of her friends laughed when actress Jacqueline Susann sat down at a typewriter three years ago and began to peck at it with one finger from each hand.

Jackie and the income tax collector are doing the smiling now. She came up with a million-dollar first novel.

"Dial" seller they finish cutting up the pie, you're lucky if you can keep $50,000 to $60,000," remarked the pretty brunette author ruefully.

"It's not as glorious as it sounds."

Her best-selling novel, Valley of the Dolls, has been assailed as "shocking" by some critics both because of its subject matter and the gamy quality of its prose.

It deals with entertainment celebrities who daily take up to 25 or more "dolls"—slang term for sleeping or pep pills—to stay atop the ladder of success.

HATES SYSTEM

"I don't hate show business," said Miss Susann, who is married to television producer Irving Mansfield, "but I hate the system—the frantic part of it.

"Some people actually take up to 150 pills a day just to keep going. They develop an unbelievable tolerance.

"They aren't like the ordinary neurotics addict who is trying to escape life's troubles.

"Sleeping pills, and wake-up pills, are the addiction of the overprivileged—the people who are trying to meet the pressures of success."

Her formula for writing a best-seller is quite simple. She put her typewriter in front of a blank wall and stayed there seven hours a day.

She wrote her first draft on yellow paper "without bothering to look up the spelling."

Then she wrote a second draft on blue paper.

Then she wrote a third draft on pink paper.

Then she wrote a fourth draft on white paper.

"On my fifth and final draft I looked up the spelling."

That's all there is to it.

Both of Jackie's working theories are still in excellent shape and she has written a 300-page draft on her second novel. It is on yellow paper and has a television background.

"I'll always write about the world I know," she promised.

WOMEN OF THE MOOSE

On Thursday night the Women of the Moose held their regular meeting when election of officers took place.

They are Nora Kaiser, Sr. Regent; Daisy Johnson Jr. Regent; Gladys Ritch, Chaplin; Clara Soames, treasurer, and Ruby Stapley recorder.

The Sr. Regent, Nell Seymaurgour, will take the Jr. Graduate Regents chair.

All co-workers going on trip are to be at the Moose hall on Friday, at 9 o'clock to get the bus.

A draw donated by Maria Noyes was won by Lillian Campbell.

Ida Lake presented Blanche Reynolds with a gift for making the most money with her dollar.

Lunch was served by Marie Noyes and her committee.

Producers

drew up a document expressing lack of confidence in senior management. It asks public affairs departments across Canada to refuse orders from anyone but immediate superiors. A further meeting was scheduled today.

Douglas Leiterman, present executive producer of Seven Days, said the CBC obviously does not plan to have the controversial program return in fact next season.

Mr. Leiterman reported that about 15 members of his staff had their contracts renewed two weeks ago for next season, but he had since learned that the renewals were only until September. In Ottawa, CBC President Alphonse Ouimet declined to confirm or deny that the CBC has refused to renew annual contracts for 10 of 15 program production employees.

"Obviously, management does not intend to have Seven Days return intact despite (Mr. Ouimet's) repeated assurances to the contrary," Mr. Leiterman said.

'BREAK AGREEMENT'

Today's statement from the Toronto producers said recent agreements by CBC management not to interfere in programs accepted through established channels had been broken in the Watson-LaPierre case.

"We therefore cannot accept management's present declaration that it is willing to abide by this agreement in future, but that it is unwilling to grant retroactivity in the case of Mr. Watson and Mr. LaPierre."

The statement said this agreement had been in force when the co-hosts were fired and should be respected by all concerned.

"There is no reason to assume that the present management is concerned in this case with either fair play or, a need to provide a minimal standard of decency and professional respect in its dealings with producers."

About 40 members of the Toronto association attended Monday night's meeting.

A Seven Days spokesman said the document drawn up by public affairs department employees was largely the work of persons not connected with Seven Days.

About 750 persons would be eligible to sign it in French and English production centres across Canada, including more than 100 public affairs producers.

Liberals

their majority was cut to four seats when they lost two elections to the Liberals last year.

The defeat was in Kings last resulted from the death last Wednesday of Liberal candidate William A. Acorn, who won the seat by 16 votes in a 1965 by-election. The other seat in the two-member riding was held by Liberal Daniel J. Macdonald, who won in 1965 by 48 votes.

Mr. Campbell could become the youngest man ever elected premier in Canada if the Liberals win one more seat July 11. He won personal re-election in Prince 5th. He was named Liberal leader last year after the resignation of former premier Alex W. Matheson, who did not run in this election.

The two party leaders shook hands and "joked" on television. Both promised to support "anything good for the island" proposed by either side.

Mr. Shaw suggested he and Mr Campbell join the forces of "young and old" in the legislature to promote a better island.

Asked later if this might mean a coalition, the premier said:

"I'm too independent for that."

TAKES SERIOUS VIEW

Mr. Campbell took a more serious view of the premier's coalition hint.

"If it would save another election it would be worthwhile exploring," he said.

The strong Liberals showing followed by less than seven months a Conservative sweep in the island's four Commons seats in the Nov. 8 federal election. The four P.E.I. MPs took an active part in the four-week campaign.

About 81 per cent of the 54,450 eligible voters turned out in sunny weather with temperatures in the high 60s and low 70s. Voting followed a quiet campaign lacking in major controversies.

It was the 26th provincial election here since P.E.I. joined Confederation in 1873 and it was historic in at least two ways. It was the first time official voters' lists were used and the first time all eligible voters were entitled to vote for both assemblymen and councillors.

Previously, only unofficial voters lists were compiled and only property owners and certain others were permitted to vote for councillors, although the latter held equal status in the house with assemblymen. A new Election Act abolished the "property vote" this year.

In the 2:45 a.m. EDT manoeuvre, Surveyor was ordered to roll and yaw slowly to the left, aiming it in the desired direction. A 30-second burst from three small rockets drove it forward along the new flight path.

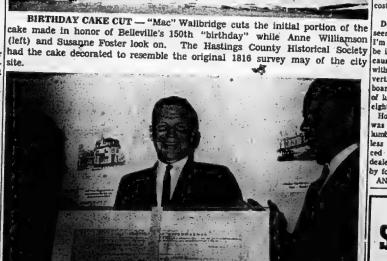
Officials said there was no indication so far that the steering manoeuvre was disturbed by any shift in the craft's centre of gravity, a possibility that arose when radioed data indicated an antenna boom may have extended fully after launch.

There was still a chance that a shift in the centre of gravity might cause the craft to tumble and crash when the descent-breaking rockets are ignited on the final approach to the moon.

If all goes well, however, Surveyor will radio across 220,000 miles of space pictures almost as sharp as those seen on home television screens, showing terrain details roughly as a pencil lead.

These pictures should "give scientists a better idea of whether the lunar surface is strong enough to support the weight of large manned landing craft.

RUSSIANS CUT COSTS



OTTAWA (CP) — The Soviet Union apparently has decided to cut its costs at Expo 67. According to its magazine Soviet Union Today, published by the Ottawa embassy, construction costs for its pavilion at the fair will be about $6,000,000 with the total bill running to about $8,000,000. This is about half the cost announced in January by Ivan Shpedko, Russian ambassador to Canada.

WITH A HUFF AND A PUFF! — The Hastings County Historical Society celebrated Belleville's 150th birthday with a "party" last night at Corby Public Library. A 4-foot long cake was especially made for the occasion and descendants of the settlers responsible for naming Belleville took part in blowing out the flames of 150 candles. From left to right, Doug and Anne Williamson and Susanne Foster perform the cake-blowing honours, while "Mac" Wallbridge uses an old-fashioned bellows to increase his extinguishing capacity.

Mr. Meltzer on Real Estate
"What's Your Problem"

BY BERNARD C. MELTZER

Dear Mr. Meltzer: We are two college seniors renting an apartment. In our commercial law class the professor explained that a landlord has no right to enter the leased premises of a tenant without permission.

Our landlord very often comes into our apartment when we are out. When we protested, and showed him our lecture notes, he laughed. He said that since he never went to college, his lecture notes state that he can come into our apartment, and he will continue to do so. Can our professor be wrong? — Two Students

ANSWER: As a general rule, a landlord has no right to enter a leased premises which is in exclusive occupation of the tenant (your apartment). Thus your lecture notes are right. However your professor should have explained that usually this is only part of the story.

I'm sure the landlord's lecture notes (the lease you signed) state otherwise. The store-bought lease you signed so lightly, without doubt gives the landlord the right to inspect the premises at his option (provided it is at a reasonable time). This is customary in apartment developments, unless the tenant insists on a modification of the clause.

I hope this incident has furthered your education — as individual may have rights, but if he carelessly signs them away, they are gone.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: Every time I shut off a faucet, I hear a bang similar to a junior explosion reverberates through the house. Also, although I keep replacing faucet washers almost every month, every faucet in the house constantly drips. Plumbers are always working on pipes with no appreciable result. What's the solution? — G. S. S.

ANSWER: Both the banging pipes and the constantly dripping faucets are due to the same cause. In some locations, the municipal water pressure in the mains may be very high — 100 pounds or more. House plumbing cannot take such pressures.

The solution is to install a pressure regulator valve in the water main where it enters the house. Setting the pressure at about 45 pounds will cure your problem, and, at the same time, is adequate for running the many fixtures without reducing water flow. The cost of a pressure regulator valve is about $25, and the installation will cost about the same.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: This may seem like a trivial question, but I'm sure many readers would be interested in your answer. It caused me hours of argument with a lumber dealer. The advertised price was 12 cents per board foot. A two by four piece of lumber should therefore cost eight cents per running foot.

However, the lumber I bought was 1¼ by 3¼. This piece of lumber represents 47 percent less material and should be priced accordingly. Why did the dealer insist that I pay for two by four lumber? — A. P.

ANSWER: Let me explain how your two by four piece of lumber got to be 1¼ by 3¼ instead of 2 by 4 inches. In the process of planing the four sides smooth, the dimensions were reduced to 1¾ inches by 3½ inches. When the lumber was dried, shrinkage reduced it to 1¼ by 3¼ inches. However, it is customary in lumber marketing to use the dimensions of the rough board as cut from the tree.

This technique is analogous to what has happened on our grocery shelves. We no longer find a small size package — it is now labeled economy, medium or family size.

Mr. Meltzer welcomes your letters and comments. Unfortunately he is unable to enter into personal correspondence with readers, but will attempt to answer as many letters as possible through his column.

Graham Hill Confirmed as "500" Winner

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Graham Hill of London was confirmed as winner of the 50th Indianapolis 500-mile race today in official standings released by timers and scorers.

The official standings were identical from top to bottom with unofficial results announced at the close of Monday's wreck-marred race.

The original unofficial announcement of Hill as the winner had been disputed by Jim Clark of Scotland.

HAS 30-40 NAMES

Mr. Nielsen said in the House he had "30 to 40" company names which should be investigated in connection with bankruptcies. He could not disclose them because his obligation was to keep the information channel open.

Davie Fulton (PC — Kamloops) also suggested leaving the RCMP under justice. He thought that rather than break up justice responsibilities and place them in other departments, the justice minister should have three deputies to help him carry the load.

Mr. Fulton, justice minister in the previous Conservative government, said a division of duties would increase the problem of co-ordination.

The House gave unanimous approval to the addition of immigration to the new manpower department.

Richard A. Bell (PC—Carleton), a former immigration minister, attacked the marriage of labor and immigration in manpower and said the result will be a department warring within itself."

By the end of Monday's sitting the House had approved new departments named federal and rural development, Indian affairs and northern development and registrar-general.

There were just a few clauses to go on the department of energy, mines and resources and Parliament will get back to that today. A new department, president of the treasury board, and other changes also remain for Commons scrutiny.

Muhammad Ali, Cassius Clay on the U.S. draft board records, is cavorting with the caliphs on Egypt's sunny strand accepting homage from thousands of doting Moslems and during the coffee breaks figuring how many American dollars constitute an English pound.

I understand he has not yet received the bundle from Britain — and won't until the various tax butchers have carved their chunks from John Bull's beating beef.

But that's not the theme of this piece.

Darkening the horizon of what Muhammad believes is the blue sunny skies of his championship, is the tip of a cloud that will likely be greeted with puffers of derision from the Black Muslim's camp.

If you look closely you will note the cloud bears a striking likeness to one Sonny Liston, one of the most controversial figures in ring history.

Yup, a new, rejuvenated, polished whiter-than-the-snow ex-champion who hills himself the "New Sonny Liston" is going agunning for the title he held until sordid circumstances sent him into near-oblivion.

The new Liston claims to have torn out the dark pages of that section of his history from the time he first won the title from Floyd Patterson.

The new resolutions include no more growling at newspapermen; no more bitterness about being picked on and no more thoughts of revenge.

Just amiability, clean living and thoughts about knocking Cassius Clay through the floor.

He is going after America's fighters one by one until he reaches the top. And when he gets there he hopes Clay will still be around, he says.

And what if he doesn't make it ,someone asked. "What if you die and don't go to heaven?" he asks. "Then I'm dead, that's all. But we don't talk about that. No one who think only good thoughts. We're positive thinkers."

But the thoughts of his two losses to Clay and the heavyweight crown still hover in the mental background. He is in the process of completing of metropolitan life and owns a new house near the 14th green of a hotel-casino golf course on the Las Vegas Strip.

Yesterday's boxing world and the ring ruler think, Liston still blames his first debacle at the hands of Clay on his former manager and the second to poor refereeing. (Quiet, Cass).

It says here that the new Liston wholesomeness and training kick is to guarantee there won't be a third such happening. He drinks milk, eats raw honey, swims a lot, hasn't nibbled at any quail and though he denies it his new trainer Paul Kurlytis says Sonny is a health food nut.

Liston runs four miles a day, bicycles a lot with most of the neighborhood kids — exercises his shoulders, swings an axe and dances to records. All that he says will make him a boxer instead of a fighter.

His trainer claims he has a stinging left speed and agility. "He's got no bad habits, he's in good company and he'll regain the title," says Mr. Kurlytis.

Liston is now in Europe on the first leg of the comeback trail. He fights Germany's heavyweight champion Gerhardt Zech on June 30th, the first bout since Clay floored him in Lewison,'Maine last year.

Lightfoots Defeat S. Warner

Les Hall slammed a ball right out of the Alemite Field in the bottom of the eighth inning last night to give Lightfoot Construction a 7-5 overtime victory over Stewart Warner.

The loss was Stewart Warner's first in Commercial League play while Lightfoots are now one and one.

Hall had a mate on base when he belted the ball over the right field fence to climax the hard-fought game. A hit batter, Smith's bunt single and an out at third base set up the situation.

The losers plated three in the top of the seventh to send it into extra innings after leading 2-0 in the first and trailing 3-2 going into the fifth inning. Walks and errors helped tie it in the seventh.

George Young was the winning pitcher, taking over from John French in the seventh. Young gave up one hit, fanned three and walked two. French allowed three hits, whirled three but suffered the loss.

Doug Ellis, perfect-game hurler the last time out, pitched seven-hit ball in defeat. He struck out seven and issued four free tickets.

Hall had a single and his winning homer for Lightfoots. Don Smith singled twice, John French tripled, Don Wood had a two-run single and Tim Cook had the other safety.

Pat Clancy had a double, Rod Turner, Chuck Rowbotham and John Trendall a single each for Stewart Warner.

Orlando Cepeda had the hottest bat in the National League Monday night.

Cepeda had a perfect night with a homer, two doubles and a single and provided all the offence Bob Gibson needed as St. Louis Cardinals' ace righthander throttled Houston Astros 3-1 on a three-hitter.

Cepeda's four hits gave him a string of seven over two games and raised his batting average to .330. The veteran first baseman, who came in a trade from San Francisco along with pitcher Ray Sadecki, drove in two runs and scored the other as the Cardinals won their third straight.

Sadecki, meanwhile, turned in his first victory for the Giants, beating Cincinnati Reds 8-4 on a five hitter. Pittsburgh Pirates swept a doubleheader from Chicago Cubs 3-2 and 5-3 with Roberto Clemente homering in each game, and Philadelphia Phillies split a pair with New York Mets, winning 7-2 and losing 3-1.

Maury Wills, meanwhile, led Los Angeles Dodgers' 10-6 victory over Atlanta Braves with a home run—the 10th of the season—and a double and stolen base in his first since Aug. 31, 1964.

STARTS THE ATTACK

Wills started a 16-hit Dodger attack that included six doubles and three hits apiece by Jeff Torborg and Tommy Davis.

Don Drysdale contributed a single and double to the Los Angeles assault and went all the way for his fourth victory. He gave up home runs to Felipe Torre, Mack Jones and Denis Menke.

Cepeda doubled home Lou Brock in the first inning and then belted a two-run first inning homer of the season and fifth in 18 games with St. Louis in the opener.

The big first baseman doubled again in the sixth and scored on Tim McCarver's single. Cepeda's eighth inning single completed his perfect night.

The four hits lumped Cepeda's average 24 points and moved him into fifth place among the National League's top ten hitters. He has hit .364 for the Cardinals since being traded by the Giants May 8.

Sadecki, who had a 22-29 career run average in his last three starts for San Francisco, evened his record at 3-3 with the first complete game for the Giants. He was supported by a 12-hit attack that included homers by Willie Mays and Tom Haller.

Clemente hammered a two-run homer in the seventh inning of the nightcap that sent the Pirates in front of the Cubs' starter. He had driven in Pittsburgh's first run of the game with a sacrifice fly in the first as the Pirates pecked away at an early 3-0 Cub lead.

Chicago starter Dan Kessinger compiled three errors in the first game, the last one permitting Clemente to score from second base with the winning run in the eighth inning. Clemente had homered in the sixth of the opener.

Four home runs helped Jim Bunning win his sixth straight game for Philadelphia in the opener against the Mets. Richie White, Johnny Callison, Bob Uecker and Richie Allen all connected for Philadelphia.

Jack Fisher buried six innings of sharp relief to gain the second victory for the Mets. He allowed one run on six hits, coming on after starter Dick Selma was hit by a pitch and forced to leave the game.

Bloomfield Defeats Madoc 6-2

MADOC — Failure to hold a 2-0 lead sent Madoc down to its third consecutive Belleville and District Softball League defeat here last night, 6-2 at the hands of Bloomfield.

Madoc took a 2-0 lead in the second with Bloomfield slipping back for three in the sixth, two in the eighth and another in the ninth. It was the club's second win in three starts.

Eldon Gray was the loser, giving way to Darryl Kramp in the sixth. They were tagged for a dozen hits, fanned three and walked eight. The winners left 14 runners stranded.

Every man in the Bloomfield batting lineup hit safely. Frank Forester, Warren Ostrander and Keith Stacey[got two safeties each. Keith MacDonald, Bob Weese, Ken DeMille,' Dave Lockwood, Eldon Carson and Jim Guernsey had the others.

Leafs Win Twin Bill, Horton Star

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

They've found a spot for Tony Horton.

Horton, who returned to the International League Toronto Maple Leafs about a month ago as a left fielder, couldn't judge a fly ball so manager Dick Williams moved him to first base.

Monday night he came through without an error and scored two runs, collected two hits, including a solo home run, and batted in three runs in six trips to the plate as the Leafs swept a doubleheader from Buffalo Bisons, 4-2 and 5-0.

Elsewhere, Rochester Red Wings edged Syracuse Chiefs 5-4, Richmond Braves defeated Toledo Mud Hens 5-3, and Columbus Jets downed Jacksonville Suns 5-4.

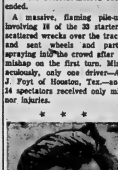
Graham Hill Unofficial '500' Winner

Disputed By Clark



By DALE BURGESS

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Official scorers reviewed the tapes of electric timing devices today in an attempt to determine the winner of the Indianapolis 500, a role unofficially granted London's mustachioed Graham Hill and disputed by Jim Clark of Scotland.

They were the first two finishers in the Memorial Day Classic Monday, and two of only seven drivers still on the track when the accident-marred race ended.

A massive, flaming pile-up involving 15 of the 33 starters acclaimed wrecks over the track and sent wheels and parts spraying into the crowd after a mishap on the first turn. Miraculously, only one driver—A. J. Foyt of Houston, Tex.—and 14 spectators received only minor injuries.

GRAHAM HILL

The 36-year-old Hill, making his first start in America's most prestigious auto race, was declared the winner after the track was cleared and the race restarted with the field trimmed to 22.

Clark's backers were quick to dispute it.

"It is impossible for Hill to be the winner," said Andrew Granatelli of Chicago, a part-owner of Clark's car. "We were a lap ahead of Scot Jackie Stewart and Hill was even farther behind. There's been an error."

Another Clark team member, Gene N. Spencer, a Midwest distributor of Lotus automobiles, also was quick to lodge a protest.

"I definitely believe there has been an error in the scoring," he said. "We know we won. We can't officially protest—until Tuesday, but if the results are posted and show Hill 500 miles ner, we will protest immediately.

"But we believe that a check of the timing and scoring tapes will show we won."

All else — aside from the enormous prestige — is about $300,000 in first prize money. The problem is over the number of laps completed.

The tradition - shrouded race was fouled up from the beginning, when No. 1 starter Mario Andretti barely had crossed the starting line in the flying start before Billy Foster of Victoria, only Canadian in the line-up, collided with Gordon Johncock of Hastings, Mich. Foster said somebody crowded him.

That set off a spectacular chain reaction pile-up which eliminated 11 cars and wiped out such strong contenders as Foyt, Don Branson, Champaign, Ill., and Dan Gurney of Costa Mesa, Calif.

The race had to be restarted because of an impassable track, delaying the show an hour and 34 minutes. The only other wreck-caused restart was two years ago after drivers Eddie Sachs and Dave MacDonald were killed in a flaming second-lap pile-up.

The numerically worst previous accident, the 30-car wreck on the first lap in 1958, left driver Pat O'Connor dead in a burning car.

European road racers in the field, Hill and Gurney in particular, criticized the bunched flying start which sets up chain reaction wrecks.

"We generally do not have these chain reaction type accidents on the Grand Prix circuit, where we begin from a standing start," said Hill, a rookie at Indianapolis but gobetter world road racing champion. The field crickety, strung out after a standing start.

Only 17 cars were left for the single file restart. Five others waited in the pits for minor repairs.

Of the 22 cars that finally got rolling, four others were eliminated by wrecks of drivers Johnny Boyd, Fresno, Calif.; Al Unser, Albuquerque, N.M., and a collision of George Snider, Fresno, and Chuck Hulse, Downey, Calif. None was hurt.

The 11 other holdovers went out with assorted mechanical troubles, including leaders Andretti, a broken valve; Lloyd Ruby, Wichita Falls, Tex., oil leak, and Stewart oil pressure failure.

Stewart almost added the Indianapolis 500 to his May 22 Monaco Grand Prix victory, leading the field by more than a lap at one time before his Lola-Ford failed with 25 miles to go.

Hill also drove an English-American hybrid Lola - Ford owned by John Mecom Jr. of Houston.

Ruby made the best U.S. showing. He took the lead from Clark three times in the first three - quarters of the race, twice when the hard - pressed Scot went into spins—both times without hitting anything—and once by outrunning Clark on the main stretch.

Jim McElreath, Arlington, Tex., finished third in a Gerhardt - Ford. Rookie Mel Kenyon of Davenport, Iowa, who lost most of his left hand in a racing accident last year, was awarded fifth place, highest for an Offenhauser - powered car, and lacked only one lap of finishing when the race was declared ended. Johncock was sixth.

With the yellow caution light on for 40 minutes of the race, compared with only 13 minutes in 1965, Hill's average speed of 144.317 m.p.h. was far off Clark's record 150.686 posted last year.

'The Age of Kennedy' Was Most Interesting Hour

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Most interesting hour of last weekend's big batch of television was the first part of NBC's two-part "White Paper" Sunday night called The Age of Kennedy.

It was broadcast on the 49th anniversary of the late president's birth, and one wishes it had been a more incisive "A Hummingbird of Camelot" I guess when John Fitzgerald Kennedy was progressing from a Harvard University graduate to the White House.

Next Sunday the program will deal with Kennedy's years in the White House, and perhaps at that time some of the bones ends will be tied up.

Obviously the producer of the program — who also was its writer—Al Wasserman, had on an enormous job in attempting to explain Kennedy's motivations.

What showed mostly, alas, was the results of Wasserman's research and the fact that television was the first part of the current millionaire's son who at 22 wrote a best-selling non-fiction book, Why England Slept, and who by sheer determination overcame a physical handicap to enlist in the navy during the Second World War.

Henry Fonda read excerpts from assorted Kennedy writings and speeches. But somehow the fragments — including some from an embarrassingly sugary interview with the young senator and his wife—never seemed to fall into any kind of a meaningful whole.

Denny McLain took another step toward becoming the American League's starting pitcher in the all-star game July by pitching his second one-hitter of the season as Detroit Tigers defeated Kansas City Athletics 5-2 Monday.

Dick Lanahe also pitched a one - hitter, in Chicago White Sox's 11-0 second-game victory over Boston Red Sox but he doesn't expect to join McLain on the all-star team.

Lanahe never had pitched a game like that before in the majors. In fact, it was the first shutout in his five-year career and his first complete game in nearly two years. And it came in his first start of the season.

McLain, on the other hand, is developing into one of the best pitchers in the majors.

A 16-game winner in his first full season in the majors last year, he is the winningest pitcher in the league, has won as many games as Sandy Koufax and is the early favorite for league-leader Juan Marichal.

ROOF DOUBLED

The only hit Kansas City managed against him was Phil Roof's two-out double in the fifth.

In other games, Chicago Cubs defeated Philadelphia Phillies 6-5 in 10 innings, California Angels swept Cleveland Indians 4-3 and 5-1, Baltimore Orioles defeated Minnesota Twins 5-1 before bowing 7-4 and Washington Senators defeated New York Yankees 2-1 after losing 4-2.

Lamabe was supported in his victory by Tommy Agee and Don Buford, who between them collected five hits, scored eight runs, drove in two and stole five bases. Lamabe's shutout was his third straight for the White Sox.

John Buskarit gained the second win of the opener, stopping Boston on five hits. Bill Skowron singled across the only run of the game in the seventh inning.

Roof's bit off McLain drove home the two runs he had walked—and tied the game 2-2. But Dick McAuliffe tripled with the bases loaded in the second and scored on Norm Cash's single.

HOMERS COUNTED BIG

Jim Fregosi's seventh-inning homer in the opener for California broke up a 3-3 deadlock while Bobby Knoop's two-run blast in the fourth inning of the nightcap put the Angels ahead to stay.

Dave Johnson rapped four hits in the first game, including a single that triggered Baltimore's three-run ninth inning, while Woody Held and Andy Etchebarren added homers to the Orioles' attack.

Minnesota won the nightcap behind Harmon Killebrew's pair of homers and Bernie Allen's tie - breaking, two-run blow in the eighth.

Bobby Richardson's double and a single by Elston Howard were the key blows in a three-run fifth inning rally that carried the Yankees past Washington in the opener.

Steve Barber came back for the second - game victory by pitching 1-1/3 in the eighth on a double by Bob Chance and Bob Saverine's single.

AT THE FARE — Marlon Brando as a contemporary southwestern sheriff in Sam Spiegel's production of "The Chase" protects prisoner Robert Redford from mob attack. Also starred in the spectacular drama are Jane Fonda, E. G. Marshall, Angie Dickinson, Janice Rule, Miriam Hopkins, Martha Hyer, Robert Duvall, Richard Bradford, Henry Hull, Diana Hyland and James Fox. The Columbia Pictures release is in Panavision and Technicolor. The big first run attraction opens Thursday at the Park Theatre for a week engagement. Complete shows are at 7.00 and 9.35 p.m.

West Berlin Night Life Out for Michael Caine

By BOB THOMAS

BERLIN (AP) — West Germans — and an English actor named Michael Caine — are banned from travel to East Berlin.

The West Germans are forbidden, except on certain holidays, because of the policies of the East German government. Intrepid newspaperwriters have decreed that Caine cannot live in the western side of the Berlin wall.

"It makes sense, I suppose," the actor comments. "The East Germans obviously know we are making a movie which will reflect ill against their government. They know everything."

"They probably have as many pictures of me as Paramount does. I've been up in Hof many times to be photographed from this side, and I'm sure the East Germans took their pictures too. So it might just be inviting trouble for me to go across." Caine is starring in the movie in Berlin, portraying the same Len Deighton spy that brought him fame in the Spereas File.

"I'm not the active type. The actor takes place at the wall, the film makers have built a replica a mile away from the wall itself."

The company has been toting there nightly, thus denying Caine access to the Berlin night life. It's just as well, he sighs.

"Berlin is a man's city; understand there are five men for every available woman. The reason is that West Germans can escape the draft by coming to Berlin.

"It is also an old people's city. The East German permits persons over 60 to come to West Berlin if they so choose. Thus the East German government escapes paying social security for the old folk.

"The Berlin film industry, which used to be thriving, has almost disappeared. The meeting business has likewise gone to Munich and Hamburg. So with all the heads abroad, it's just as well that I'm working here."

Mets Manager Gave Order

Hit Batter, Pitcher Told

NEW YORK (AP)—Manager Wes Westrum of New York Mets admitted Monday that he ordered pitcher Jack Fisher to hit Bob Buhl of Philadelphia Phillies in the fourth inning of the second game of a doubleheader. Mets won 3-1.

Buhl had clouted Mets' starter Dick Selma on the right elbow with a pitch the inning before, and the young right-hander was forced to leave the game. X-rays of the elbow were negative. Selma had hit Philadelphia's Rich Allen with a pitch in the top of the third.

"I gave a standing order to get the pitcher who threw the ball," Westrem said.

O'Connor Generals' Boss Man

OSHAWA (CP)—Ted O'Connor, 34-year-old native of Oshawa, Monday was named coach and general manager of Oshawa Generals of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

He replaces Wren Blair as manager and Bep Guidolin as coach.

Blair quit the Generals to become general manage of Minnesota North Stars, the Minneapolis franchise which is slated to start play in the National Hockey League in the 1967-68 season.

Guidolin resigned his post to take a job as a brewery representative in Timmins.

O'Connor played with Whitby Dunlops as a defenceman when they won the 1958 world hockey championship and in 1959 when they captured the Allan Cup, emblematic of Canadian senior hockey supremacy.

He also played with Tacoma of the Western International League, Hershey Bears of the American League and last season coached Oshawa's entry in the OHA eastern Junior B series.

Canadian Denies Blame

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—Billy Foster, of Victoria, B.C., was blamed by some drivers Monday for the crash that eliminated about one-third of the racing field on the first lap of the Memorial Day 500.

Foster, in an interview, said it was not his fault.

"Someone on my left moved to the outside, and I moved with him, to avoid his hitting me," Foster said. "As I moved over my right rear tire hit Gordon Johncock's front tire. That's what they tell me."

Foster said the first time he knew he was involved in a wreck was when he hit Johncock. He said he was travelling about 140 to 150 miles an hour at the time.

Foster indicated that he will make his third try to win at Indianapolis next year.

"My chances for winning were really good this year," he said. "My car was running well."

Bean-Ball War Flares At Shea's

NEW YORK (AP)—The beanball war has flared up at Shea Stadium only this time it's an elbow, hip and shoulder battle.

Dick Selma of New York Mets hit Richie Allen of Philadelphia Phillies on the shoulder with a pitch in the third inning of Monday's second game. When Selma came to bat in the third, Bob Buhl hit him on the right elbow, knocking him out of the game. The next time Buhl came up, relief pitcher Jack Fisher hit him in the hip.

The Phils won the opener 7-2 but the Mets came back to win the second game 3-1.

"When they take a pot shot at one of my boys, you have to protect your players," said Nor York manager Wes Westrum. "We have a standing order to get the pitcher, big-time ball. I'm not saying what they (Phils) were trying to do. I'm going to do what they did."

Over in the opposing clubhouse, manager Gene Mauch of the Phillies said:

"I have no idea if he (Selma) threw at Allen. I expected Fisher to throw at Buhl and so did he. Buhl was glad he got hit. He got down low. Fisher cried about it. I haven't thought anything of it. Two of our guys got hit and one of them is the unfortunate that he got hurt."

Fisher, who won the game in relief, said he figured what he did and he knew what was going to happen to him. "It's all part of the game," he said.

PLAN POLLUTION TALKS

WINNIPEG (CP)—A five-day conference on pollution expected to draw 1,000 delegates from across Canada will be held by the Canadian Council of Resource Ministers this fall, Mines Minister Stefan Fox of Manitoba announced Monday. Mr. Fox, council executive chairman, said the conference will be attended by government, university and industry representatives.

OTTAWA (CP)—Judy Dalilmore is the kind of fragile blonde that boys leap to open doors for because she looks as though she really couldn't manage by herself.

A demure 19, she's got a pink - and - white complexion and sweet, shy charm that would make a Southern belle strangle on her julep.

But the pert little star of the top young sprinters in Canada, She lifts nothing better than a book to a track meet and shooting for a Canadian record in the 50 yards indoors or the 100 or 300 yards outdoors.

Last year she won the award for Ottawa's outstanding athlete, that trophy joining her growing collection in the Dallimore basement playroom. She also has a drawer full of medals from track meets in Montreal, Toronto, Halifax and Vancouver.

"I used to worry about being a 'female athlete'," she admits," but now I feel it doesn't matter what people think as long as you enjoy what you're doing. Anyway, the uniforms are getting pretty cute — some of them look more like bathing suits."

RELAY TEAM WON

Girls outnumber boys in the Dallimore family, 3 to 2.

"I think that's because we had some pretty good girls— our relay team is the Canadian champion—and that attracted attention."

She started running at 16, after she'd done well in high school meets and a teacher encouraged her to go on. Now she practises two nights a week with the other club members in a hangar at the Ottawa Uplands Harriers. RCAF Uplands Station.

"It's like a circus with the shot put and discus and broad jump and running all going all at once."

Most other nights she and sister Barb, 17, go to the local high school and jog around the corridors for two hours "for stamina."

The rest of the family are strictly spectators but interested. Scot, 9, concentrates on hockey, but Judy says "he's my rotnest supporter." Mr. Dallimore is the girls' chauffeur and treasurer of the track club.

Travelling to track meets, such as the one in Vancouver, Judy's home - town until she was 14, is exciting, but "you never get to see much of the city when you're there for a meet. You have to rest, and relax."

EXPENSES MOUNT

Although travel expenses and hotel bills are often paid by the host club, expenses do add up, Judy says. "Track shoes are $25, for instance, and then there are things like sweat suits—doesn't that sound awful!"

There will be no expenses for the family if Judy goes to the British Empire Games in Jamaica in August, as she hopes to do. She doesn't know about the Olympics in Mexico City in 1968—"It's a long time from now and there are a lot of good people coming up."

Right now she's concentrating on her Grade 12 studies and planning to work part year, then go to the University of Ocotpo to qualify as a recreation director.

One thing Judy likes about track and field competition is "the fine people you get to know across the country; people like Bruce Kidd and Bill Crothers — they're well-educated, nice boys. That's the kind of figure I think young people should admire."

TO HOLD COURSES

TORONTO (CP)—Seven special summer courses are to be held to instruct elementary school mathematics teachers in the use of a new curriculum being prepared by the department of education. The curriculum, first use in Grades 1 to 6, seeks to eliminate the formal distinctions between arithmetic, geometry and algebra, and to encourage children to acquire mathematics for themselves rather than to memorize one approach.

Deep Anxiety for Jews In Russia

MONTREAL (CP) — Deep anxiety over the position of Jews in the Soviet Union was expressed at the National Leadership Conference on Jews in the Soviet Union meeting Saturday.

The 120 delegates to the meeting, organized by the Canadian Jewish Congress, passed six principal resolutions. These will be forwarded to the federal government in the form of appeals made impossible for the Jews there to propagate their culture, even though other religious and national groups are granted the privilege of schools, churches and institutions."

James Walker, the Liberal MP, said the Russian Jews were being subjected to "spiritual genocide. . . . It has been peals which the group hopes will be passed on to the Russian government.

Income Taxes for Most Will Increase June 1

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP) — Higher income taxes for all but people with low incomes become effective June 1, and the pinch will be felt in the first pay cheques of the new month.

The tax increase, announced by Finance Minister Sharp in his March 16 budget, restores for most taxpayers most—but not quite all—of the tax cut former finance minister Walter Gordon put into effect last July 1.

For the lower income group, there will be a further small tax cut.

The revenue department has distributed new tables to employers showing the amounts to be deducted from employees' pay cheques. Taxpayers who do not receive a regular income from salary or wages are required to make quarterly estimates of their annual income and pay the tax every three months, settling their final account with the tax collector at the end of the year.

In the case of a married man with two children eligible for family allowances and claiming no more than the minimum income exemptions allowed, the new deduction on a weekly income of $150 will be $18.75. Since last July it has been $17.45, but before Mr. Gordon's tax cut last year it was $19.10.

CUTS FOR SOME

For the same man on an income of $75 a week, the new tax tables effective June 1 call for weekly payroll tax deductions of $3.53 compared with the present deductions of $2.65 and $3.90 before last July's tax cut.

These are the rates applying in all provinces but Quebec, Manitoba and Saskatchewan. Quebec taxpayers pay a provincial tax directly to the provincial government in addition to the federal tax, but pay only 53 per cent of the basic federal tax.

In Manitoba and Saskatchewan, provincial taxes are levied at higher rates than in other provinces. These taxes are collected by the federal government and turned over to the provinces.

The four Atlantic provinces, Ontario, Alberta and British Columbia receive 34 per cent of the basic personal income taxes collected by the federal government. But in addition to the basic tax, everyone in all provinces pays an additional four-per-cent old age security tax, up to $120 a taxpayer.

Last July 1, Mr. Gordon made a 10-per-cent cut in the basic tax, but limited the amount of the reduction to $200 a year for each taxpayer.

IMPOSED LIMIT

Mr. Sharp replaced this with a 20-per-cent cut in the basic tax, but limited the amount to $30 a year. This has the effect of reducing the tax on low-income taxpayers, but restoring nearly all of Mr. Gordon's cut in the middle and upper incomes.

The tax deductions from pay cheques are calculated to include the old age security tax which, with parts of the sales and corporate income taxes, goes to pay old age pensions of $75 a month to everyone 74 and over.

The payroll deductions for income tax do not include deductions for the new Canada Pension Plan, which began last Jan. 1. These deductions amount to 1.8 per cent of all earnings between $600 and $5,000 a year and go to pay retirement pensions at age 65 at rates geared to income.

Introduction of the Canada Pension Plan meant a new payroll deduction for workers who had not previously been contributing to a pension plan or whose existing plan continued with the new government plan "stacked" on top. Many existing pension plans were integrated with the Canada Pension Plan meaning no increase in payroll deductions.

The new personal income tax bite starting June 1 is expected by economists here to have a major impact on the economy, coming on top of first payments May 31 of a new refundable corporation tax which Mr. Sharp also introduced in his budget speech to the Commons.

COMBAT INFLATION

Both measures are designed to skim off some of the demand pressures which are exerting an inflationary effect on the economy. The new refundable corporation tax is five per cent of cash profits, to be collected monthly for 18 months and then paid back to the corporations with five-per-cent interest during the following 18 to 36 months when, the economists hope, the pressures will be less.

When Mr. Gordon made his 10-per-cent personal income tax cut last year, with its $600-per-taxpayer limit, he said the additional amount of spending money this put in the taxpayers' pockets was needed to encourage spending and demand.

Mr. Sharp said this spring that this cut had served its purpose and the danger now was of overloading the economy. But people on low income needed more tax relief. So he devised the formula which restored most of the tax on middle and upper incomes while cutting taxes on the lower incomes.

The tax tables prepared by the revenue department, available to employers at all district taxation offices, specify deductions which have to be made from pay cheques for all workers, on hourly, daily, weekly, bi-weekly, semi-monthly, and monthly pay schedules.

They also include deductions to be made for those who, like Wachars, receive only 10 pay cheques a year.

The new tax rates are effective June 1. For workers paid at the end of the week beginning May 29, the new deduction tables are to be applied although part of the work-week comes under the existing tax rate. The few cents difference involved for two or three days' work will be recovered next spring when taxpayers make up their annual returns for 1966.
